BOND MARKET

New York, March 13.—French republic and municipal bonds moved up briskly in today's trading, which after an early display of strength turned dull. Reports that the Bank of France had concluded arrangements for a large American loan through J. P. Morgan & Company, which would serve as a basis for a constructive plan for French finances in addition to giving temporary financial assistance, stimulated trading in the government's obligations as well as in the francs, which rallied to around 4 1-4 cents.

Prices of railroad issues churned about considerably during the day. Norfolk & Western convertible 6's, after touching a new high price lost 1 1-4 points after it was announced that directors had failed to consider a lease to the Pennsylvania railroad. Seaboard issues and local traction liens were conspicuously strong.

The third postponement of action by Wilson and company stockholders on a new proposed stock issues, and reports that a compromise had been reached on a plan for readjustment of the company's capitalization caused a four point break in the first sixes. Other issues also were heavy.

Over-subscription of the local quota of the $400,000,000 treasury bill offering failed to help the U. S. government issues, which continued heavy.

CURB MARKET

New York, March 13.—Considerable irregularity developed in today's curb market, trading in which was relatively light.

Speculative interests again centered on the oil shares. Prairie Oil and Gas was the individual feature, jumping 6 1-2 points to 452 1-2 in response to another increase in crude prices and then falling back to 450 on profit taking. Standard Oil of Nebraska jumped 11 points to 285 on a small turnover. Net gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by Ohio Oil, Imperial of Canada, Cities Service and Borne & Scrymser. Cheesbrough old stock broke 6 1-2 points in further reflection of a new stock issue. Penn-Mex Fuel broke three points, while most of the Standard Oil shares yielded fractionally.

Strength of Lehigh Power securities, which advanced more than two points to 47 5-8 featured the industrial list. Radio stocks improved fractionally while Ward Baking Class B advanced nearly a point.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 13.—Pronounced setbacks in the value of grain resulted today from liquidating sales on the part of holders of wheat. Lowest prices in several weeks were reached in the wheat market and the closing was heavy at 2 3-8 to 2 3-4 a 2 7-8 net decline, May 1.06 3-4 a 7-8 to 1.07 7-8 and July 1.07 1-8 to 1.07 1-4, corn finished 7-8 a 1c to 1 1-4 c down, oats 7-8c to 1c off, and provisions showing 7c to 20c drop.

Predictions that the United States would have a very large carry over of wheat on hand July 1 next at the end of the crop year did a good deal to start liquidation. The government report indicating that supplies of wheat in all positions on March 1 were only 5,000,000 bushels less than last year, was construed as bearish. Increased offerings which developed found the market lacking any aggressive support from buyers and brought into play numerous standing orders to stop losses whenever declines went below limits that were named. Owing partly to pessimistic views in the outlook for export business this season, the market displayed but little rallying power. Bears contended that hope for higher prices must depend on serious crop damage, which at present seemed unlikely.

Corn showed rather stubborn resistance of selling pressure, but as a consequence of wheat weakness the bulls in corn were forced into a defensive position. It was said shipping instructions on corn orders from the south were being cancelled and sales of corn at Omaha to come here were reported. Oats were depressed by the fact that for the first time the available supply exceeds the total a year ago.

Provisions receded the grain and hogs.

JEWETT CITY

Wednesday morning ushered in wintry scene in this section. All night long the storm roared on. In several places about the borough whole trees had been blown down, and in many streets large limbs were broken off, after carrying both light and telephone wires with them to the highway. Measurement taken in several places estimate the snowfall at eight inches on the level.

Wednesday, for a half hour the current was turned over to the local system in the early forenoon, giving opportunity for a check up on the borough circuit, which was found to be O. K. after temporary repairs had been made.

The telephone company was the worst sufferer in point of damage; they had 27 lines out of order and a half dozen poles down. The telephone poles that were blown down also carry the borough's electric light wires. In these cases Superintendent Hiscox with his men, made emergency repairs so that if such was forthcoming, there should be no interruption locally. The telephone repair gang was unable to get around to the Jewett City jobs Wednesday.

More people wanted to try J. C. creamery fresh cream, for whipping. Edward Blanchard, distributer.—adv.

Young "Doc" Stephen Sweet has just received a handsome, southern coon dog, sent him direct from Tennessee, by a friend who lives in that state. The dog is of the famous Blue Tick breed, and is a registered thoroughbred. Notable among the accompanying pedigree is one record which certifies that his mother, having treed a coon, sat under the tree for 12 consecutive hours until her owner, who had heard her barking the night before, arrived and captured the quarry. It is said that already the coops in the big Stone Hill swamps are carrying extra lunches.

Many of the back country roads were all but impassable before the storm. Now the embargo is reported complete. Several social meetings in the outlying districts, including the chicken supper at the town hall in Pachaug have been given over for the present.

During the summer, one of the enjoyable automobile trips in this section is a ride to Pomfret. Last summer several local parties were there to marvel at the great apple orchards, and to be interested in the activities, incident to the careful picking and barrelling of thousands of bushels of Connecticut's fairest crop. Inquiries at that time at one orchard where many men were working brought the information that the yield of the entire acreage had been purchased by one man. Wednesday, some of the Jewett City people who were there had another view of "selected Pomfret apples"—a local dealer stocked up on russets and baldwins for the fancy price of $5 per barrel. To pay for handling, he must dispose of them at close to 60 cents a peck.

A farmer standing near, could but sigh, when he recalled, how, thirty years ago, he had delivered the finest russets, barrel and all, to Jewett City banks for $1 a barrel.

The local optimistic farmer is the one who said Wednesday, that the young blizzard was worth hundreds of dollars in Griswold's farming district as a "poor man's fertiliser."

Persons between 21 and 60 years must pay personal tax. Collector Maynard will be at Town Hall Saturday from 1-4 p. m. or any time at his home.—adv.

The members of the Baptist Ladies' Aid society are to meet at the home of Mrs. Francis Campbell on Friday afternoon.

A run on candles for the last two days has pretty well cleaned out the borough stock.

People rose on the streets with Masters Wednesday night, recalled the times when the late A. F. Brown and James Johnson never ventured out after nightfall without a lantern.

Some of the younger people in the town were enjoying the belief on Wednesday morning, that this blizzard was probably about as bad as the one in 1888, that the old timers were telling so much about. A few facts exploded Doubtless that know, [illegible]

LIBERTY HILL

James Young and a friend from Moosup were callers at The Oaks one evening recently.

Myrtice Young has been visiting relatives in North Sterling.

The marriage of George Nuttall and Nellie Coffey, which took place in Danielson Friday is of local interest as the bride is a sister of P. H. Coffey, farm foreman for A. E. Hall.

Francis Ducat is working for A. E. Hall.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Williams, George Guild of Danielson conducted the Sunday evening services.

Ernest Burton of Putnam was a visitor here Saturday.

Mrs. P. H. Coffey and Mrs. A. E. Hall spent Monday with relatives in Central Village.

Four new cases of smallpox were reported to the New Britain board of health today, making 21 cases in all at present.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain
How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

NEW LIQUID DISSOLVES TEETH STAINS

Whitens Dull Yellowish Teeth in 5 Minutes—New Safe Way

Never before has it been so easy to acquire clear flashing white teeth. For scientists have discovered a new harmless treatment which dissolves teeth stains instantly, giving dull, dingy teeth a charming whiteness and lustre.

This new treatment, called Bleachodent Combination, consists of a safe, rapid liquid which curdles or loosens the staining substances on the teeth—and a new kind of paste which gently removes the softened stains, and if used daily, prevents the formation of new stains. Bleachodent Combination does not affect the enamel as its mild ingredients are especially designed to act only on surface stains, not on enamel itself.

No matter how dark, stained or dingy your teeth may be you will be astonished at the results brought by the very first application of Bleachodent Combination. Tobacco and other stains disappear almost "while you wait." If you want sparkling, white, pearly teeth—the kind everyone admires—get Bleachodent Combination today. Money refunded if not delighted. Costs only a few cents at all good dealers, such as: G. G. Engler, H. E. Lereu, Andrew McLaughlin, Lee & Osgood.

BAD BREATH
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of study among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You [illegible]

TAFTVILLE

Daniel Bryon died suddenly at his rooms in the Ponemah House, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Byron had not been feeling well, and had decided to go to the Backus Hospital for treatment. The ambulance had been summoned by Mrs. Jessie McM. Blood but while Mr. Byron was getting ready, he fell to the floor and died. For the past several months he has been employed as a weaver in the No. 3 weaving department of the Ponemah mills. It could not be learned Wednesday, if he had any relatives in this vicinity.

Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A. held a conclave Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. This being a regular conclave of the order, Knights, Esquires and Pages attended. The regalia which has recently been ordered for the Castle has arrived and was in use for the first time Wednesday evening.

The road scraper of the State Highway Department was busy all morning Wednesday trying to keep Norwich avenue and the Occum road open. The Lisbon roads were in fairly good shape, although there were some big drifts per Newent, and the road, when it was finally broken through was wide enough only for one car. Several telephone lines were out of order, and people who tried to connect with others in distance cities had some trouble in putting their calls through.

Mrs. Ulmer Jewett was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams of North Third ave-

Hearing Restored Often In 24 Hours

Amazing Results Secured in One Day By Use of Vivex Formerly Known As Rattle Snake Oil.

Deafness and Head Noises need not be dreaded any longer since the discovery of a widely known physician. Now it is possible for some of the most obstinate cases of deafness to be relieved in a day's time by the application of a prescription formerly known as Rattle-snake Oil. This treatment is meeting with wide success all over the country.

Mr. D. Dey, a Nebraska resident, 67 years old, says, "I have used the treatment for only two weeks and my hearing is restored perfectly. The relief was almost instantaneous and now the head noises have disappeared. My catarrh, a case of many years standing, is improving wonderfully."

Mr. Ben Jackson, who lives in Indiana says, "Before I used Vivex I could hear nothing. After ten days I could hear my watch tick."

Angeline Johnson, a Mississippi resident had been stone deaf for eighteen years. She says, "Vivex has stopped by head noises and I can hear the train whistle 3 1-2 miles away."

Roy Fisher, Iowa man, says, "I hadn't heard a watch tick for eleven years—now I can lay my watch off the table and hear it plainly."

Mr. W. A. Lumpkin, of Oklahoma, says, "After being deaf 38 years, I used your treatment only a few days and hear fairly well."

Mr. Anthony Chapman, of Michigan, says, "The terrible head noises have stopped entirely and my hearing is practically back to normal.

Deaf Baby Now Hears.

Mrs. Ola Valentine, of Arkansas, says, "My little boy, now 5 years old, had been deaf since about 4 months of age. Now he hears very well and is learning to talk."

Mr. Mather Pelleys says, "My young son, deaf for years, has used Vivex for only three days and he hears almost as well as ever before."

Such amazing reports come from all over this country and Canada. The prescription which is known as Vivex, is mostly used at home and seems to work the magic in its rapidity on people of all ages.

So confident are we that Vivex will restore your hearing quickly, and to introduce this remarkable treatment to a number more sufferers, we will send a large 12 treatment for only $1 on ten days' free trial. If the results are not satisfactory the treatment costs nothing.

Send no money—just your name and address to the Dale Laboratories 1166 Keeney Station, Kansas City, Mo. and the treatment will be mailed at once. Use it according to the simple directions. If in ten or 12 days your hearing is restored, your head noises gone entirely, you feel that your money has been refunded a check quickly. This offer is made by a reliable company and we believe every sufferer should take advantage of it at once.

VERDICT OF $5,000 FOR DEATH OF MRS. ALEXANDER PLONA, WATERFORD

A verdict of $5,000 in the $10,000 suit against the Connecticut Co. for the death of Mrs. Alexander Plona of Waterford was returned Wednesday afternoon by the jury in the superior court at New London before Judge C. L. Avery. The jury had the case under consideration for about three quarters of an hour, once having sent in a request to the court room for thum tacks and a ruler with which it was supposed they desired to do some measuring on the plans that showed the locality of the accident.

Judge Avery was ready to deliver his charge to the jury Wednesday morning when court opened but was unable to do so as one of the jurors did not reach the court house until about noon, having been delayed by the bad traveling condition on account of the storm.

The jury was finally complete about noon and Judge Avery occupied an hour in giving his charges then allowing the twelve men to go out to lunch. They returned at 2 o'clock and brought in their verdict at 2:45.

It is expected that the attorney for the defendant trolley company will file a motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial.

The fatal accident to Mrs. Plona happened on the night of Nov. 19, 1922 when she was struck by a trolley car on the Lyme turnpike near her home in Waterford.

Following the Plona case, a jury was empanelled for the trial of the suit of Springfield Coach Works vs. Mary J. Rogers of New London.

$4,000 LOSS IN FIRE AT SAYBROOK POINT

Loss estimated at $6,000 was suffered at Saybrook Point Tuesday when a bungalow and a cottage were burned. Four other houses were threatened with destruction and two persons narrowly escaped death or serious injury.

The bungalow was owned by Walter Heresfield and the cottage of Mrs. Julia W. Keeney of West Hartford, summer residents.

The fire originated in the Heresfield bungalow. Mrs. Heresfield had filled the stove in her home with wood and went to a neighbor on an errand. During her absence the chimney caught fire.

Mr. Heresfield, who was in bed suffering from an injured knee, smelled the smoke and getting out of bed went up stairs, where he found the upper part of the building ablaze. He called Mrs. Heresfield on the telephone and then rushed down stairs to the aid of his invalid mother. He succeeded in getting her and himself out of the building just as the floor and ceiling overhead collapsed.

The alarm was spread by the Saybrook telephone exchange and a large number of residents responded. The Deep River fire department was summoned. By the time the alarm had been given and responded to, the Heresfield bungalow and the Keeney cottage to which the flames had communicated, were a mass of flames and efforts to save them were unsuccessful.

The Heresfield and Keeney houses were two of a group of six located close together and for a time, on account of the high wind which was blowing, it looked as though the other four houses would be destroyed, and the residents moved out their household goods.

When it became evident that the Heresfield and Keeney houses could not be saved, the bucket brigade and firemen of the Deep River fire department turned their efforts to saving the other four houses and succeeded.

THREE SCARLET FEVER CASES ARE REPORTED

Scarlet fever—Colchester, 2; New London, 1; North Stonington, 2; Norwich, 3; Stonington, 1; Waterford, 2; Ellington, 1; Eastford, 1; Danielson, 2; Putnam, 4; Thompson, 3; Woodstock, 1.

Measles — Somers, 1; Stafford Springs, 2; Brooklyn, 1; Willimantic, 2.

Whooping cough—Woodstock 1.

Purim Celebration.

Purim, a minor festival of the Jewish people, will be celebrated in home and synagogue, Wednesday evening, March 19, and by those who adhere to the older traditions on Thursday morning, March 20th. Of all the festivals on the calendar of the synagogue, Purim is the least religious in character. This is due to the nature of the story told in the Book of Esther, on which the feast of Purim is founded, and has led some scholars to advance the theory that Purim is not of Jewish origin, but adapted from pagan sources.

Whatever its origin, Purim has been held in high esteem by the Jewish people at all times and in all countries. Some Jewish writers have expressed the opinion that when all the prophetic and sacred writings of the Jews are forgotten, the Book of Esther will be remembered and the feast of Purim maintained.

nne, when a number of friends tendered her a miscellaneous shower. She received a number of useful and valuable gifts. Among those present were Mrs. Everett M. Pingree, Mrs. George W. Weller, Jr., Mrs Nell Winslayson, Miss Louise Herrmann, Miss Sophie Thoma, Miss Flossie M. Myer, Miss Ruth Kupky, Miss Elsie Heap and Miss Lydia R. Adams. Mrs Jewett, who was formerly Miss Ella E. Adams, was married to Mr. Jewett of Clark's Corners last December.

The Sacred Heart Dramatic Club held a rehearsal Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, for the romatic comedy in three acts entitled "The Bells of Shannon," which they are planning to present in the near future. The members of the club taking part are, Miss Margaret Hasler, Miss Kathryn Hasler, Miss Nora Murphy, William Caron, John Sullivan; John H. Murphy, James Hanlon, Thomas Corcoran and James Murphy. The committee in charge of the production is Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Nera Murphy, Miss Agnes M. Dougherty and Miss Kathryn Hasler.

The carcass of a full grown deer was recently sighted floating in the Shetucket river. It is believed that the animal fell through the ice and was drowned. The ice on the river is now well broken up and it is clear for some distance above the Ponemah dam.

Troop 4, Boy Scouts met Wednesday evening in their rooms in the basement of the Sacred Heart School building with Assistant Scoutmaster Joseph Waldron in charge. The regular meeting night of the troop has been changed from Monday to Wednesday evening.

Tuesday's storm did not keep Manager Murelle's All-Stars at home. They drove to Putnam in spite of the weather, to play in that city.

The bigger of the new pipe organs to be installed in the Taftville Congregational church has arrived and has been stored in the church basement.

Orrin Bolivert has resigned his position with the Ponemah company.

NEW LONDON DIVISION TROLLEYS DO NOT PAY

The New London division of the Connecticut Co., is not even paying operating expenses without consideration of deduction for depreciation, interest or taxes, according to exhibits entered by statisticians of the trolley company at the hearing on the seven trolley fare petitions, one of which is from New London before the public utilities commission at Hartford Tuesday. The Middletown division according to the same statistics, is in the same leaky boat as the New London division.

President Lucius S. Storrs of the Connecticut Co., stated that the lines in New London and vicinity and in Windham and Tolland counties are not paying any return.

Earlier in the day figures were presented by the Connecticut company by Accountant Thomas S. McCready showing the rate of income of the company before deduction of depreciation, interest or other fixed charge based on the commission's 1919 valuation of 2.65 per cent. Two of the divisions according to this table, namely Middletown and Meriden, showed a deficit in income before deduction of depreciation, etc., while the rate of income on other divisions was given as follows:

New London 0.85 per cent; Torrington 0.63; Norwal 1.60; Bridgeport 2.08; Waterbury 2.40; New Britain 2.20; New Haven 2.41; Stamford 2.83; Hartford 2.34.

Following more than six hours devoted to presentation of reasons and figures by the Connecticut Co., counsel, and officials opposing the increase in rates, the hearing was adjourned until April 14.

BALTIC MEN FINED ON LIQUOR SALE CHARGE

Found guilty of illegal sale of liquor, Ernest Niau and Filip Tuchain, keepers of an alleged near-beer saloon at 138 Main street, Baltic, were fined $200 each before Justice of the Peace Adams Tuesday following a raid by state policemen from the Groton barracks.

The said was made on Sunday. The saloon had been subject to scores of complaints according to the police, but the bulk of the business was done after church on the Sabbath.

State Policemen Fred T. Caron, Frank Swetkert, Robert H. Church, Henry Malbuisson and Charles W. Myatt were the raiding party. Upon entering the place they seized two quarts of whiskey, three quarts of gin and 50 gallons of alleged hard cider which were presented as evidence against them.

Niau and Tuchain paid their fines.

HELD TWO SUCCESSFUL WELL BABY CONFERENCES

Two successful well baby conferences were started in Danielson and Putnam last week, says the weekly bulletin issued by the state department of health. The people in both Putnam and Danielson have been keenly interested in the organization of these conferences. A splendid corps of workers was present in each place and all the doctors of the towns turned out to assist in making them a success.

The interest in child health is shown by the fact that such a large number of volunteers were ready to welcome the children who came, and introduced to the mothers the public health machinery which has been set up to show them the value of normal health for their children at all times.

The Danielson conference included children from East Brooklyn, also, whereas conference has been in operation since April, 1923. These mothers already familiar with a well baby conference, came not only to bring their children for their monthly examination, but to assist the new mothers and interpret when necessary. Thirteen of the East Brooklyn children returned for this conference. A total of 104 children was examined and 40 were found to have defects, the largest number of these being diseased tonsils and adenoids. Such defects were referred to their family physicians.

In Putnam, 111 children were examined. Fathers as well as mothers showed interest in this conference. One father came with two children, and another accompanied the mother with three children. Tonsils and adenoids were the prevailing defect, and 53 children out of this number had other defects of some kind. The mothers were urged to return at the next monthly conference.

TWO CONN. COLLEGE GIRLS TO MARRY NEW LONDONERS

The Junior class of Connecticut college is to have a reunion Saturday evening.

Among former members of the class are Miss Florence N. Apted of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Miss Margaret Cort of Mt. Pleasant, Pa. Miss Apted is engaged to Percival Woodruff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Woodruff, of New London, formerly of Norwich; while Miss Cort is the fiancee of Courtland Palmer, son of Mrs. Carlos Curtis Peck of Post Hill place. The Palmer-Cort wedding is set for April 5. Miss Cort has been visiting her fiance's parents for the past few days and only returned home Tuesday. Miss Apted has been in New London, visiting Mr. Woodruff's parents on Fremont street.

WILL GIVE PRUNING DEMONSTRATIONS IN COUNTY

There will be pruning demonstrations held by the New London County Farm Bureau on Tuesday, March 18, at the farms of E. J. Graham of Lebanon and A. W. Billibridge, of Scotland road, Norwich Town. These are the first of a series of eight which are to be held in the county.

On March 31 and April 1 and 2, there will be demonstrations in the towns of Sprague, Griswold, Ledyard, North Stonington, East Lyme and Groton. W. H. Darrow, fruit specialist of the Connecticut Agricultural college, will be present at these demonstrations to show how the pruning should be done. In some cases demonstrations will be given to show how grafting and planting should be done.

FATHER QUINN'S PEOPLE MAKE HIM FAREWELL GIFT

Today (Thursday) Rev. John Francis Xavier Quinn, for over nine years' pastor of St. John's church, Montville, leaves for his new parish, St. Michael's, Westerly.

Tuesday evening, Father Quinn's parishioners at Montville gave him a farewell reception, expressing appreciation of his devoted and faithful ministry among them, and presenting him a substantial purse.

His successor, Rev. James A. O'Meara, arrives today (Thursday) from St. Peter's church, New Haven, having been assigned by Bishop Nilan to the Montville pastorate.

BAPTIST WOMEN'S LEAGUE PLANS INFORMAL RECEPTION

On Friday afternoon from 3 o'clock until 5 the Women's league of the Central Baptist church will hold an informal reception in Bushnell chapel. ### EAST HAMPTON RESIDENTS ARE LONG LIVED

Practically 72 per cent. of the 48 persons of East Hampton dying during 1923 were over 50 years old, according to the vital statistics for 1923. Sixteen people, of whom Mrs. Brownell Watrous, 90 years old, who died August 6 was the oldest, passed the seventieth milestone when they died. Seven deaths were registered in January which is more than in any other month of that year. Fifty-five births, which is an increase of one over the total of 1922, and 33 marriages were recorded. During October there were six marriages which is just twice as many as there were in June.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Call at Uncle Lucky's

Now where were we when we last left off?
Did the Rabbitville Press give an inky cough
As the last edition went in to print?
I'll give you a guess and a little squint!

Dear me! There goes my typewriter again spouting poetry just like a long-haired poet. Maybe it wants a pink ribbon to tie up its bobbed hair!

But first let us find out what the were on the front porch stood the dear old gentleman rabbit.

little rabbit is doing. Maybe he's gone to have his picture taken with Uncle Dave Cory so that all the little rabbit boys and girls will laugh when they read the Rabbitville News.

Just then, all of a sudden, the dear, hospitable Uncle Lucky called up on the 'phone: "Bring Uncle Dave to my house. The sciatica in my little pinky toe won't let me go out doors."

So at once the little rabbit said goodbye to the kind dog editor and hopping into the old stage coach, took Uncle Dave to the old gentleman rabbit's house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and carrot street, Rabbitville.

All of a sudden the little rabbit shouted: "There's the Three-in One-Cent store!" And the next second, "There's Dr. Quack's House!" and in a minute or three, "There's the Policeman Dog!"

Sure enough, there stood the good old Bow-wow in his blue coat and helmet.

Pretty soon, not so very long, the Old Dog Stage Coach Driver drew in his Billy Goat Team at Uncle Lucky's front gate.

There on the front porch in spite of his rheumatic toe, stood the dear old gentleman rabbit bowing and smiling as his bunny nephew led Uncle Dave Cory up the little path.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Jack Rabbit Man," cried Uncle Lucky, lifting his old wedding stovepipe hat politely, and patting the cheek of his rabbit nephew, he led the way into his neat little parlor.

In a few minutes Little Miss Mousie peeped in and squeaked: "Supper's ready."

"I've bought you both something," said the little rabbit when supper was over and they were all once more in the little parlor. And opening his knapsack, he took out three lollypops. "The Big Brown Bear gave them to me. He has plenty more in his big cave in the Shady Forest.

"Maybe Uncle Dave would rather smoke," laughed the thoughtful old gentleman rabbit, opening a box of fine cabbage leaf cigars.

Just then the canary bird began to sing:

"Don't forget, you little rabbit
That it is a lovely habit
Always to be most polite
And 'phone you won't be home tonight
To your mother, that's the way
To keep her hair from turning gray.
Say you'll bring her chocolate creams
And wish her lovely happy dreams!"

It didn't take the little rabbit two seconds to call up, "One, two, three, Ring Happy-Bell, Bunny Meadow, Clover Dell." And his dear mother was so glad to hear from him that she sang all next day at her work.

MORE "DEALS" FIGURE IN THE DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION

Miss Roxie Stinson Related to Senate Committee Stories Confided to Her About "Deals" in which Smith and Attorney General Daugherty Were Engaged—Witness Also Said She Had Heard of Smith Having "Deals" with John T. King—"Deals" Included Prize Fight Films, Whiskey, Various Stocks and a Parole for a Federal Convict.

Washington, March 13. — More "deals" of a highly sensational nature—all represented as involving Attorney General Daugherty—were alleged today before the senate investigating committee.

Again, Miss Roxie Stinson, accompanied by bodyguards, divorced wife of the late Jess W. Smith of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, the attorney general's "bumper and friend," was the witness relating, with accompanying insinuation and inference, stories which she said Smith had confided to her about "deals," in which Smith and the attorney general were engaged.

These "deals," according to Miss Stinson's testimony, ran the gamut from oil to shirts and included prize fight films, whiskey, various stocks and a parole for a federal convict.

The most specific allegation, however, in Miss Stinson's testimony today, was that Smith had told her he was acting as a go-between for Attorney General Daugherty and certain motion pictures companies which were seeking to exhibit the pictures of the Carpentier-DeDempsey fight without incurring prosecution under the law which forbids transportation of such films in interstate commerce.

Smith told her, she testified, that the "deal," proposed that Daugherty would see to it that there was no prosecution and in return "We," (Daugherty and Smith), would receive $150,000.

"Whether that was consummated or not, I do not know," she said.

Miss Stinson testified she had heard of Smith having "deals" with John T. King, former republican national committeeman from Connecticut, but didn't know to what they related. King was a small beneficiary in Smith's original will.

From that Miss Stinson's testimony jumped to another "deal," which Smith, she said told her, was on between Daugherty and Colonel James J. Darden, said to be president of the Mutual Oil company. Darden was one of a number who were prominent in the Harding campaign when the late president came to office, but who disappeared from Washington. Darden's name also has figured in the Teapot Dome inquiry. The senate committee investigating that affair has been attempting for a month to serve a summons on him without avail.

Darden, according to Miss Stinson's testimony today, had been, according to Smith, "trying to get through some means, some way, through Washington, prior to this administration."

As the result of conferences at the mysterious "little green house in K street," in Washington, and at the "shack," near Washington Court House, which was owned jointly by Smith, Daugherty, and others, Smith and Daugherty each gave Darden $2,-000 for investment, according to the story which Miss Stinson said Smith related to her.

Then, according to the same story, the details of which she did not know, "They" dropped Darden with whom, she testified, "they had a deal in an oil proposition out west," Smith, she testified, had told her: "If this isn't a pipe dream it may probably make us a lot of money."

"What brought this about," said Miss Stinson, "was that Darden did not measure up."

"Measure up to what?" demanded Senator Ashurst.

"To them. They just dropped him."

The committee decided to add its efforts to the oil committee's, in the attempt to subpoena Darden.

From that point the testimony jumped to an alleged "deal," to get a parole for a "Mr. Solomon," a brother-in-law of Joe Weber, the actor.

Miss Stinson testified that she was in New York with Smith when they met Weber. Smith and the actor, she said, discussed the possibilities of getting a parole for Solomon. The conversation, she said was "about fixing it with Daugherty."

"Was there any reference to any money transaction in it?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"He (Smith) said," testified Miss Stinson, "he (Weber) is awfully cheap. He wants something for nothing. I don't know whether we will do anything for him or not."

The committee and spectators hadn't started to breathe again before the witness with a dramatic gesture focused her attention on M. S. Daugherty, the attorney general's brother, who was sitting in the audience, and recalled that she had warned him she intended to come to Washington and tell the truth.

"Isn't that so?" she demanded, hurling her question at Daugherty.

"Does the committee want me to answer that?" inquired Daugherty, but Senator Wheeler waived a gesture to the man indicating that he should remain silent and let the inquiry go on.

From that Miss Stinson's testimony turned to meeting Smith at Washington Court House, where he had just arrived from Washington with seventy-five one thousand dollar bills in a belt around his waist. Where he got it, he did not tell her, she said, and she couldn't fix the date.

"Did you ask him about them?"

"No. That was after I stopped wanting to know things."

"Where had Smith come from when he brought the money with him?"

"From Washington."

"He didn't bring it in a black satchel?" suggested Senator Ashurst.

The witness said Smith hadn't.

Then after taking to illustrate the devotion of Smith to Daugherty, how he had "acted like a puppy," when Daugherty first refused to come to his aide and finally did come to the rescue of Smith's operation for appendicitis [illegible] whiskey [illegible] Miss Stinson knew of any specific deals in whiskey in which Daugherty and Smith were engaged. She said she knew of no specific deals, knew "just generally," but added:

"They had plenty of liquor at their disposal."

Smith, she said, brought "large quantities of it," to Washington Court House for his own use; that in fact Daugherty had been with Smith when he arrived with suitcases full of it, and that Smith had given some to the attorney general, to herself, and to other friends.

"Why he brought it in a bag larger than this table," said the witness, indicating a small table before which she was seated.

"Just a week end supply," observed Senator Moses.

"What Smith had told her about whiskey, Miss Stinson said, related to the withdrawals of whiskey from warehouses on federal permits, but her information had not been very definite.

"No," she said, reflecting, "I don't remember of there being anything said about money for the permits."

The withdrawals were during the first days of the administration, and "they got afraid of it," she added: "He told me so."

GOVERNMENTAL REGULATION OF THE RADIO IS ADVOCATED

Washington, March 13.—Reasonable regulation of radio by the government was advocated today by David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, at the house merchant marine committee hearing on the White bill which would place control over transmitting stations in the hands of the secretary of commerce.

"There is need for regulating," said Mr. Sarnoff, "but the extent to which this regulation should go involves a delicate balance as between the benefits of private initiative, the evils of destructive competition and the weakening effects of too much paternalism. Somewhere along the line a common sense compromise probably will be found.

"In foreign countries the tendency has been toward licensing and taxing the owners of radio receiving sets. I am now and have been from the beginning opposed to any step back in this country against the freedom of radio. I believe, frankly, in the freedom of broadcasting and also in free speech from the broadcast studios."

REICHSTAG DISSOLVED; GERMANY AGAIN REPUBLIC

France Wins Battle to Protects its Currency

Hundreds of Congratulatory Messages Received by Morgan Firm, Praising Loan.

New York, March 13—Speculators in French francs, trapped by the unexpectedly large credit placed at the disposal of the Bank of France by American banks through J. P. Morgan and Company, rushed to protect themselves today, boosting the rate more than 50 points to above 4 1-2 cents, more than a cent over the recent record low level established last Saturday. Opening with an overnight gain of 15 points, the prices of a franc rose swiftly to 4.46, around which level it hovered until late in the day, when it was pushed as high as 4.55 cents.

The spectacular recovery in the currency was [illegible] authentic reports that the $100,000,000 loan to the Bank of France would bring acceptance by both France and Germany of the Dawes commission report.

All danger of a panic it was considered had been averted and the battle of France to protect its currency definitely won with the aid of what was described by bankers "almost unlimited" banking credit here.

While the French government today was understood to have distributed substantial buying orders among its banking connections it was not found necessary to support the market. Virtually ——— of the buying power was provided by the rush of short interests to cover and by commercial purchasing which had been deferred in anticipation of lower rates.

Hundreds of congratulatory messages poured into the Morgan firm today, praising the loan as a measure of first importance and one likely to bring about economic stability in Europe. While only a few large banks had been invited to participate in the credit.

Scores of applications were received from bankers in all sections of the country for a share in the loan. Some of these requests, it is understood, were complied with, forcing a reduction in the original allotments of the larger New York institutions.

One of the greatest benefits likely to accrue to France from the loan, it was suggested by international bankers, will be to place French finance and business squarely behind the government in its effort to balance the budget and enact tax reforms. French business interests, it was pointed out, would be reluctant to see gold leave the country, which would automatically reduce their potential credit.

While bankers believe that only a part of the $100,000,000 loan will be necessary to stabilize the franc, the establishment of so large a credit, carrying with it such powerful financial backing, it was felt, would have a salutary psychological effect.

Estimates of the short interest in the franc, which had grown to unprecedented proportions on the downward flight of the currency varied from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000. Bankers, however, declared it was impossible to determine the amount accurately. That it was uncommonly large was demonstrated by the heavy overnight accumulation of buying orders from London and the continent, representing a reversal of speculative sentiment, which alone were sufficient to run up the price of the franc.

Reports from Washington that the loan might be made the subject of congressional investigation created no alarm in the financial district. Bankers were unanimous in declaring that the credit arrangements were justified and beneficial.

Selling of sterling for the purpose of buying franc was a feature of today's market. The British demand rate, as a result, closed lower at $4.-29 1-2.

DELIRIOUS MAN JUMPED FROM THIRD STORY WINDOW

Meriden, March 13—Following the death at the Meriden Hospital this morning of Joseph Renaldi, 48, of Wallingford, it developed that yesterday morning the man, delirious from pneumonia, broke straps that bound him to his bed and in the temporary absence of his nurse, jumped from a third story window to the ground. Doctors could find no injury and after an examination of the body today, it was announced that Renaldi had died of pneumonia and that hte fall did not hasten his death. The case was reported to Coroner Eli Mix who said that no further investigation was necessary. Renaldi is survived by a widow and three children.

Naval Secretaryship Declined by Kenyon

Feels That He Does Not Possess Qualifications and Training for the Office.

Washington, March 13—(By the A. P.)—Justice William S. Kenyon, today declined appointment as secretary of the navy.

The final answer of Justice Kenyon was transmitted to President Coolidge late today after he had considered for two days an offer of the secretaryship, made vacant early this week by the retirement of Edwin Denby.

Chief Justice Curtis D. Wilbur, of the California supreme court, probably will be tendered the post.

Judge Kenyon issued this statement:

"A man in a judicial position acquires the habit of lookin- at all sides of a question before arriving at a conclusion. I am appreciative of the honor conferred and confidence shown in tendering me the position of secretary of the navy.

"It is difficult not to respond to a supposed call to duty from the president of the United States, especially a president of the type of Calvin Coolidge.

"I have not considered my personal preferences in the matter, as I would be willing to make any sacrifice to give real public service. I cannot however, escape the conclusion that I do not possess the qualifications or training for the office.

"Hence it seems very clear that I should go no further in its consideration. It would have been a pleasure and privilege to serve with President Coolidge, whom I esteem as one of the finest representatives of our real American life and one imbued in public life with the same high ideals of honesty and clean government as was Abraham Lincoln."

TO OFFER PORTFOLIO TO JUSTICE WILBUR OF CAL.

Washington, March 13—President Coolidge's tender of the navy secretaryship was declined today by Federal Judge William S. Kenyon, and the chief executive prepared to offer the portfolio to Chief Justice Curtis D. Wilbur, of the California supreme court.

Chief Justice Wilbur, although identified with the legal profession practically all of his life as Judge Kenyon as been, would in the opinion of the president, be able to adapt himself to the task of administering naval affairs because of his acquaintanceship with the navy resulting from his course at the naval academy from which he was graduated in 1888. He is understood to be the president's first choice for attorney general should that place be vacated by Harry M. Daugherty, and for that reason was not considered for the navy position.

Whether Chief Justice Wilbur will take the naval secretaryship is a question his friends here could not answer tonight, but it was recalled that he had declared several days ago in Los Angeles, that inasmuch as he was trained in the navy academy to service, his country he should have to accept if the opportunity was offered to serve in the cabinet.

DRILLING IN OIL RESERVE HALTED BY INJUNCTION

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 13.—(By The A. P.)—All drilling of the Mammoth Oil company on the Teapot Dome oil reserve halted and the operation of existing wells reduced to the minimum deemed "necessary to prevent loss or damage," under terms of a temporary injunction granted today by Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy at request of the United States government.

Judge Kennedy appointed Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, U. S. N., and A. E. Watts, vice president of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, joint receivers to take charge of the properties. They will sell oil from producing wells pending final settlement of the government's suit for annulment of the lease of the reserve to Harry F. Sinclair and the Mammoth Oil company.

The injunction and receivership were granted after a preliminary hearing which followed filing of the bill of equity in which the government alleges false representations in the transfer of the Teapot Dome reserve from the navy to the interior department, and charges fraud in execution of the lease to the Sinclair interests.

Besides the injunction and receivership the government asks a final decree cancelling leases and contracts, returning the properties to the government and enforcing accounting.

No date was set for further hearing on the request for a final decree. Opposin gattorneys took the stand that the involved nature of th eaction made it impossible to say when they would be prepared to continue. Judge Kennedy granted the defendants thirty days to file pleadings.

CARRIED TO SEA WHEN STEAMER SANTIAGO SANK

Washington, March 13.—The first and third officers and three men of the crew were carried away by the sea when the steamer Santiago sank sixty miles off Cape Hatteras, according to a wireless message received here from the steamer Cissy, which has survivors aboard.

The Cissy picked up a small boat loaded with refugees at Latitude 34.39 north; Longitude 75.51, west.

Heavy seas carried away the tarpaulin and hatches of the Santiago, causing her to list heavily to starboard and sea water put out fires in engine room placing the pumping system out of commission.

WRECKAGE ON NORTH SHORE OF NANTUCKET ISLAND

Nantucket, Mass., March 13.—The north shore of Nantucket Island was found today to be strewn with wreckage. A name plate picked up by the coast guard crew from Madaket station bore the name Wyoming. The water off shore was covered with floating wreckage. No bodies were found.

Coast guardsmen believed the wreck to be the six-master schooner Wyoming which sailed from New York March 1, for African ports. Late today efforts were being made to identify the ship. The Wyoming was a schooner of 3780 tons.

SEIZED ROYAL MAIL LINER IS HELD FOR $1,000,000 BOND

Bond is Demanded for Permission to Sail Next Saturday—Owners of the Orduna Have Complained to the State Department, Through the British Embassy, That the Bond Demanded is Unreasonably High—Two Members of the Crew Have Confessed Smuggling Liquor and Narcotics Into the United States.

New York, March 13.—The government which yesterday seized the Royal Mail liner Orduna, today demanded $1,000,000 bond for permitting her to sail next Saturday, ordered her officers to trial tomorrow on liquor and narcotics smuggling charges, and accepted pleas of guilty from two of the seven members of her crew.

The two who plead guilty were Ship's Storekeeper Charles Dawe and his first assistant, Harry Osman. They confessed to having participated in smuggling into the United States the liquor which, with quantities of narcotics, were confiscated by federal district attorneys and special customs agents in an early morning raid aboard the British ship at her pier yesterday.

Federal Judge Garvin remanded the two for sentence next Wednesday, saying he would then consider any disposition the prisoners might show in the meantime "to tell the whole truth and enable the government's attorneys to apprehend the men higher up."

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Clark later declared Dawe and Osman had made confessions which would facilitate his efforts to prosecute ship officials and confiscate the Orduna for violation of this country's laws governing the importation of narcotics and liquor and the evasion of legal revenues.

While the cables were hot this morning with messages of explanation and instruction flashed between representatives of the Royal Mail line here, in London and Washington, D. C., Mr. Clark appeared bright and early before Federal Judge A. N. Hand to file a libel suit against the Orduna and demand her confiscation.

He charged that the ship continuously had been a vehicle for smuggling liquors and narcotics, since national prohibition became effective on January 26, 1920; that her captain, Walter P. Warner, knowingly had signed false manifests and, with the consent of the Orduna's owners, failed to declare the contraband she carried; that the ship had smuggled into the port of New York upward of $100,000 worth of narcotics, therefore subjecting Captain Warner to forfeiture of $200,000 or more; that in three specific instances the Orduna discharged "within four leagues of the coast" cases of whisky that were not listed on her manifest or among ship stores; and that 50 cases of whisky as well as 700 bottles of beer which were not on the manifest were uncovered in the Wednesday morning raid which netted authorities $16,500 worth of narcotics and liquor.

Officials of the line appeared with counsel to protest the libel suit, declaring that "if there has been any violation of the laws of the United States on the Orduna it was without the knowledge of responsible ship's officers."

They were given until April 1 to file a formal answer to the government's suit. They did so within an hour, categorically denying all the charges contained in Mr. Clark's complaint.

The seizing officials had placed the value of the Orduna at $3,000,000 and announced they would demand security in that sum if the ship were permitted to sail for Hamburg on schedule time Saturday, but after a session in chambers with Judge Hand and Royal Mail line spokesmen, Mr. Clark agreed to accept a $1,000,000 bond as representing the present market value of the ship.

It subsequently was reported from Washington that the Orduna's owners had complained to the department of state, through the British embassy, that the $1,000,000 was "unreasonably high." However, local attorneys for the line announced tonight they would obtain the bond, although the premium probably would cost the Royal Mail line $10,000.

Dawe and Osman having pleaded guilty, Captain Warner and four of his crew who were arrested in yesterday's raid remain to stand trial before Judge Hand tomorrow. Local representatives of the Royal Mail line expressed a willingness to have the trials begin today, so they might be completed by Saturday, but prosecutors objected, saying they had been too busy with the libel suit to prepare the individual cases.

SENATE RATIFIES SEARCH AND SEIZURE TREATY

Washington, March 13—The treaty between the United States and Great Britain authorizing search and seizure of suspected liquor craft beyond the three mile limit was ratified today by the senate.

The vote, which [illegible] eight [illegible] two-thirds of an executive session, was signed unofficially to be 63 to 7.

The treaty has yet to be ratified by the British parliament, but action there is expected shortly.

Under its provisions craft suspected of carrying liquor may be pursued from the shore for purposes of search or seizure one hour's steaming distance of the suspected craft. In return British steamers entering American territorial waters may carry intoxicating liquors under seal for use on outward voyages.

NEW BONUS BILL TO BE SENT TO THE HOUSE

Washington, March 13.—The new soldier bonus bill was ordered sent to the house today by the ways and means committee and a plan was generally agreed upon by the committee to push the measure forward next week under a suspension of the rules which would permit a vote in one day and prevent amendments.

Three committee members opposed the bill—Representatives Mills, New York; Treadway, Massachusetts, and Tilson, Connecticut, all republicans—and Representative Oldfield, democrat, Arkansas, reserved the right to object on the floor to omission from the bill of an option for full cash payments.

The new measure, differing materially from the bill passed last session and vetoed by President Harding, limits the bonus to paid-up 20-year endowment life insurance policies, but provides cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50.

The same basis of adjusted compensation allowed in the old bill, $1 a day for home service, and $1.25 for overseas service, is provided. In figuring the face value of the policy, however, twenty-five per cent. is added to the adjusted service credit and also the interest on the total amount compounded annually at 4 per cent for twenty years.

Loans after the first two years would be allowed on the policies up to 90 per cent of the paid up value.

Revised estimates showed the maximum total cost of the measure would be $3,119,000,000, spread over a period of twenty years.

To provide for costs of the measure, a sinking fund of $110,000,000 for the first year is provided. This amount, Mr. Green said, would decrease annually until the payment in the 19th year would be $91,000,000.

CONGRESSIONAL BRIBERY INQUIRY IS UNDERWAY

Washington, March 13.—Grand jury investigation of criminal charges involving two members of congress was begun here today as a house committee, authorized to conduct a separate inquiry, was attempting to get its bearings and chart a course of procedure.

Two members of the committee, Assistant Attorneys General Seymour, Willebrandt, and Davis appeared before the jury to present evidence developed before the Chicago grand jury which investigation alleged Veteran's bureau frauds. With them was John W. H. Orth, special assistant who was in charge of the government's case in Chicago.

Ellis H. Mortimer, who offered testimony before the state veterans' committee several months ago and before the Chicago grand jury, was one of the witnesses called today. Late in the day adjournment was taken until tomorrow, when it was indicated Herman Schneller, of Newark, N. J., might appear as a witness.

Decision of Attorney General Daugherty to proceed with his department's investigation of the charges brought to light at Chicago was at variance with the announced intention of [illegible] when [illegible]

189 INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY THE HERRIN GRAND JURY

Herrin, Ills., March 13.—One hundred indictments were returned today by a grand jury which has been investigating conditions in Herrin. The jury's report made recommendations to bring about conditions that would avoid recurrence of riots in Williamson county.

Return of indictments today, follow a nine-day session of the special grand jury investigating the killing of Constable Cagle and the shooting of Deputy Sheriff John Layman, on the night of February 8.

The indictments include a charge of murder in the killing of Cagle, shooting with intent to kill in the case of Deputy Sheriff Layman, and various charges in connection with the firing on the Herrin hospital.

The shootings followed a clash between members of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-Klansmen which resulted in state troops being sent here, to assist in maintaining order.

Fifty-five of the counts are against S. Glenn Young, dry worker and paid leader of the Ku Klux Klan and of recent liquor raids conducted in the county, which, it is said, led to the clash between klan and anti-klan factions.

Among the charges against Young are assault with intent to murder, conspiracy, kidnapping and false imprisonment.

The grand jury report charged that S. Glenn Young, who is not a citizen of Williamson county, assumed to take over the government of the city of Herrin, by unlawfully deposing and imprisoning the mayor and other officials.

Others indicted are Sam Stearns, exalted cyclops of the Ku Klux Klan at Marion; Carl Neilson, exalted cyclops of the klan at Herrin, and John Ford, chief of police of the city of Herrin.

The town of Windham has been asked to pay half the cost of a new school, to replace the old Windham street school structure destroyed by fire five weeks ago. This announcement was made at a meeting of the town school committee in a report given by Committeeman Walter R. King, who, with Mayor Hermindas Dion, met with A. R. Meredith, commissioner of education, in regard to the proposed building. Mr. King assured the board that the state board of education would gladly cooperate with the town committee in erecting a school. The state board held a meeting March 6 and went carefully into the matter but action will be deferred until the state body is informed as to just how much room will be needed for the pupils of the district and for future demands. One man connected with the school in the first district is of the opinion that a twelve-room building will be needed. A school of such dimensions would cost a great deal of money, notwithstanding the fact that the state would carry its share of the burden.

An effort will be made to have Windham stand for onely one-third of the expense which was the arrangement by which the present Model school was built. Mr. King said that within a short time Mr. Meredith and a representative of the state board of education would confer with the school board and the board of selectmen on plans and cost of a building to meet the requirements of the district. When this matter is settled the work on the new structure will be started and rushed to completion.

At the school committee meeting, Truant Officer Jean B. Paulhus, reported that there had been seven cases of truancy during the past month. All were satisfactorily adjusted. School Physician Dr. W. F. S. Keating reported that the general condition of the pupils in the various schools showed a decided improvement during the last monthly period.

Secretary E. A. Case, superintendent of the public schools who attended the National Educators' convention at Chicago the week of February 16, gave a most interesting talk on the business of the convention. Chairman Dr. F. E. Guild presided at the committee session which was attended by seven of the nine members.

Resolutions have been adopted by the Willimantic Ministers' union with reference to the Johnson immigration bill, setting forth that the economic, social and political condition of the country demands some restriction as to the number and quality of immigrants received from the eastern continent, the members of the Willimantic Ministers' union of Willimantic and vicinity, representing a constituency of over 4,000 voters, favor restriction of immigration by a process of careful examination and selection by United States officials before vising the passport of any applicant for admission to this country, this examination to be made in the country where the applicant lives, only those who are mentally, morally and physically fitted to become loyal American citizens to receive passports to this country.

The third favors the immediate passage of House Bill No. 6540, known as the Johnson bill, with the elimination of the words in Sec. 12, line B, "No alien ineligible to citizenship shall be admitted," so that Japan may be placed on an equal footing with other nations in the matter of immigration, this law to be in operation from June 30, 1924, until such time as preparations may be made and a law executed based upon a purely selective basis.

It was voted that a copy of the resolutions be sent to the Connecticut congressman and senators. The resolution committee was Rev. W. C. Norris, Rev. Frederick F. Foshay and Rev. William Martin Brown.

A check for $7,852.50 is to be received by the town of Windham to cover the 1923 school enumeration grant. The amount is an increase over the figures last year. As told in The Bulletin Thursday, the state comptroller's office has forwarded checks to 128 out of the 173 districts in the state. A number of the checks have been held up pending corrections and changes in the information submitted by the various districts. The towns an amounts received in this section of the state are: Andover $191.31; Ashford $535.50; Bolton $284; Coventry $613.25; Eastford $857; Chaplin $245; Hebron $4,016.25; Lebanon $366.50; Columbia $431.50; Mansfield $1,597.50; Union $144; Willington $634.75; Windham $7,852.50; Woodstock $980.85.

The Goyer company, located at the intersection of Bank and Valley streets in the old Turner mill is one of the few concerns in this section which is not operating on a short time schedule. The concern manufactures electrical hardware and radio accessories and employes twenty men. A. E. Greene, manager, stated Thursday that orders had been received which would suffice to keep the plant in operation for several months on full time. The company is planning on extending its working room at an early date. The Goyer company has been located in this city about three years, coming from Hartford and taking over the unexpired Foster Stewart company lease, in October 1920. The company has several of its products on exhibition in various show windows along Main street and these are proving of considerable interest to passersby.

Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National guard, is now in the lead of the other companies of the regiment in the campaign for recruits and stands a fine chance of securing the cup to be awarded the company which enrolls the largest number of enlistments. This announcement was made following the annual federal and state inspection, held Wednesday evening in the state armory on Pleasant street. Major E. C. Byrd, commander of the first battalion made the address and asked the men to continue in their efforts to secure new enlistments. At present the company has eighty-three enlisted men and three commissioned officers.

The inspection was in charge of Captain Thomas W. Freeman, of the regular army and the members of the company acquitted themselves creditably and merited praise for their excelent execution of the movements and drills. Captain Freeman complimented Captain Joseph R. Morrison on the fine showing. First Lieutenant Ellison S. Smith and Second Lieutenant Edward A. Merrison assisted Captain Morrison in the work. The armory and equipment was lase inspected by gLieutenant Colonel Francis B. Shearer, of the Connecticut National guard, who was favorably impressed.

The funeral of Mrs. Nora Meriarty Crowley was held at the chapel of the St. Mary's Home for the Aged, West Hartford, with a requiem high mass, at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. Rev. Michael Lynch was the celebrant. The services were largely attended and there were beautiful floral pieces. The bearers were Dennis, Jeremiah and Timothy Crowley, and Daniel J. Hinchey of Norwich. The body was conveyed to this city and placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Bridget McLaughlin, 72, died at her home in Hampton Thursday morning. She is survived by her husband, Patrick McLaughlin, a daughter, Catherine, and two sons, Thomas and Patrick McLaughlin, Jr., of New York city.

San Jose council, No. 114, Knights of Columbus, plans its annual Easter Monday concert and ball, according to an announcement made by Grand Knight Gilbert P. Flynn. Edward R. Portelance is chairman of the committee and he is assisted by Arthur P. Bergeron, Francis J. Moriarty, Luke Herrin and Eugene Moriarty.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mrs. John Denston is suffering injuries received by falling down stairs at her home, last Tuesday. She received numerous bruises which confined her to her bed.

Mrs. George Siswick and son Dudley are visiting relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lane have moved to Noank.

Frederick Teal has resigned as superintendent of the Rhode Island Worsted mill and expects to leave soon for Pariance, Cal., where he will make his home with his son, Wilfred Teal. Mr. Teal has lived in Stafford Springs for several years and he has many friends here who regret to have him leave town.

Mrs. William McColloch is spending a month with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taft of Erie, Penn.

Miss Dorothy Tholen and Miss Edith Jenkins are spending a week with relatives in Stafford Hollow. They are students of Northfield seminary.

The Hospital Aid society is to meet at the John hospital for work Tuesday afternoon.

Places are nearing completion for the trip of the Stafford high school seniors to Washington, D. C. The class will leave here for the six days' trip March 28th.

Examinations for mail carriers in Stafford Springs will be held Saturday of this week and it is believed that mail delivery in the borough will begin about April 1st. It has not yet been definitely decided whether there will be one or two deliveries each day. Eight young men will take the examination Saturday.

Mrs. Hugh Ward is recovering from a serious operation at the New London hospital.

Olive Crawford Johnson and Reginald Graves, who have enlisted in the U. S. Navy, were ordered to report at Newport, R. I. Monday last.

BALTIC

At the last regular meeting of the Men's League of Baltic M. E. church arrangements were made to assist the church in their annual tea party. Brother Charles B. Barnes was elected general chairman. It was also decided to have the annual ladies' night the latter part of April. Owing to illness the pastor was unable to be present.

After seven weeks' illness, Rev. Chauncey Ruoff, pastor of the M. E. church, preached at the morning service last Sunday.

Mrs. John Heibel, who underwent an operation at Backus hospital last week, is resting comfortably and is gaining strength steadily.

Too many people talk in one direction and act in another.

HISTORICAL REVIEW OF THE J. C. LINCOLN CO.
Half a century ago, what is now known as the J. C. Lincoln Co. came into being when Mr. Lincoln opened a small furniture store on the second floor of the Hurley & Grant building on Main street. Gifted with those high qualities of cheerfulness, honesty and enterprise, Mr. Lincoln soon found that he was doing business under crowded conditions and he removed to the wooden structure which was later occupied by the old Bijou theatre and has since been destroyed by fire. The pressure of business again forced him to seek larger quarters and he removed into the extensive old Cushman building which he later purchased and is now the Lincoln block. The block is situated at the intersection of Main and Union streets and faces Lincoln Square, the nerve center of Willimantic's business activity.
Some seventeen years ago the entire stock of the Marshall Tilden furniture store was purchased and the Lincoln Co. again experienced an era of rapid growth. The J. C. Lincoln Co. was incoporated on April 14, 1914, the elder Lincoln taking into the firm his five children. A few years later Mr. Lincoln retired from active service and was succeeded in a managerial capacity by his son, Harold C. Lincoln under whose supervision the business continues to show a steady increase. The firm's business now occupies four floors of the Lincoln block and the concern deals in a complete line of house furnishings which include all the nationally advertised articles.
About five years ago the undertaking and embalming business conducted by the late Hiram H. Fenn at No. 62 Church street was purchased by the Lincoln Company and under the direction of H. C. Lincoln has become well established, it's activity covering a large area of Windham County.

RAPID FIRE GROWTH OF THE LARAMEE CO.
On May 18, 1907, the late John Trudeau and Pierre J. Laramee became partners and purchased the business and equipment of the Henry Howie meat concern which had been doing business in Willimantic for some 40 years, 25 of which were at the present location of the Laramee Co. at 32 North street. The new firm had been organized only about six months when Mr. Trudeau became ill and he disposed of his share of the stock and The Laramee Co. was then formed. The late Joseph A. Martin was elected president, Matilda Martin vice-president, Emma Laramee secretary and Pierre J. Laramee treasurer and manager. Upon the death of Joseph A. Martin some years later Emma Laramee was elected president and secretary.
In its infancy the firm disposed only of choice meats. Only two years later, 1909, the business was enlarged and the company ventured into the grocery field along with the meat market.
In 1917 the company's system of doing business was revolutionized and the soliciting teams were withdrawn from the road. Telephone orders are now given careful attention and promptly delivered.
A glance into The Laramee Co. store will convince the most scrupulous that the company abides in every way to its motto "Sanitation, Highest Quality and Right Prices." The equipment for meat cutting includes the most modern electrical machines. Expert employes handle the meats which are kept in a large refrigerator of the latest type. All lines of fancy, domestic and imported groceries along with a complete assortment of vegetables, etc., may be found at this store. P. J. Laramee, manager of the business, has had 21 years experience at cutting meat. He is well known in this part of the state, having represented this town in the state legislature for two terms and he is a member of the common council. He is also a member of the Willimantic Rotary Club.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Read ye here, owners of motor vehicles, a list of headlight lenses that the state motor vehicle department says in effect, will be unconstitutional after tomorrow, March 15. Being unconstitutional is an awful crime nowadays, so if you own a motor vehicle and try to drive it in the night season after March 16, you will be about as badly off as though someone had caught you violating the Eighteenth amendment—and that's the non plus ultra of crime, or something like that. It's safer to steal a state full of oil wells!

Hundreds of cars owned in this section of eastern Connecticut are now equipped with banned headlight lenses, and that all of these who read—if they read The Bulletin—and several people hereabouts do—may learn by running through the attached list whether their cars are rightly outfitted or whether they have got to dig down into the old bank roll—right at income tax time—and buy some new lenses, the list is printed.

Here is the list that the department of motor vehicles says will be void and illegal after Saturday:

Benser, Bi-Optic, Climbert (A), Conaphere Clear (B-Old), Conaphore Noviol (B-old), Controlite, Cor-Co-Lite-Reflector (A), Dillon (E), Flat-Lite-Reflector, Fractor, Green Moon, Legalite (Old), Macdonald Optical, McKee (D), McKee (M), McKee (L), National, North Star Glare Shield, Osgood, Pareb-O-Lite, Primolite (B), Raydex, Saferlite, Shaler Roadlighter, Sun Ray (Standard), Superfect, Superior Lens, Two-Way Light Distributors, Universal, Violet Ray.

Note A—If a type or model is specified, no other type or medel of that device is legal except the particular one designated.

Note B—The maximum candlepower of the bulb that is to be used with all these devices is 21.

Slowly but surely this immediate territory began to extricate itself with some definiteness, Thursday, from the tangle of wreckage of modern devices on which this generation so largely depends for its comfort and convenience in home life and business.

Clearing up the troubles created by the great storm of Tuesday and Wednesday was a prime consideration. It may be said that good progress was made. Trolley service was back to normal all along the local division, and happy were many who do not ordinarily patronize the road to avail themselves of its facilities for travel. Traffic was again moving between Danielson and Putnam over the state highway. The same applied to the highway route between Danielson and Putnam over the state highway. The same applied to the highway route between Danielson and Willimantic. No great trouble having been experienced at any time since the storm in traveling south to Norwich and points beyond—nor any great pleasure, either. Out on the Providence road a largely augmented crew of state highway workers, under the direction of Foreman Fred Warren, were engaged in breaking out that route to the Conn.-R. I. line at Little Rest. Cuts filled with snow hampered the quick execution of this work, and there was no getting through on this important trunk line up to late in the afternoon, when, it was known, the Connecticut road clearing crew was working east of South Killingly. Not a telephone wire leading into the territory was in service, so no close checkup could be kept on the work from this point. However, motor driven plows, which do such wonderful work, could not force their way through heavy drifts and the old time method of shoveling through such barriers was resorted to, slow though such a method is. But there was no choice in dealing with the situation.

By Thursday three crews of telephone linemen from New Haven and another from Hartford had come into the territory to aid the local and the Norwich crews in clearing up the damage caused to the Southern New England company's lines. First attention was given to restoring communication with towns from which Danielson had been cut off since Tuesday. Restoration of local service will follow. Hundreds of subscribers in the territory who have been cut off by breaks in the lines were in most instances patient, sensing what a great task confronted the company and its crews in getting even temporary connections working. Just north of Dayville poles are down for more than half a mile. Everywhere in the Danielson division are broken poles and wires. Big manufacturing concerns as well as individuals are without service. What is true in this territory also is true in the Moosup division. Marked progress may be expected today and tomorrow after the gains that were made in repair work by the line crews on Thursday, but all poles and wires will not be restored for many days, though all stations are back in service within a comparatively brief time.

The crews of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company also labored long and arduously on Thursday in the effort to restore their service. Like the telephone company, their lines were hard hit in this territory. The lighting company workers are contending with the problem of restoring broken poles and wires, and made good work in clearing up the wreckage that concerned them during Thursday.

Though the wind steadily blew out of the northwest during all of Thursday, the strong sun contributed to materially settling the snow and to making getting about easier.

Road crews of the town were among the units engaged Thursday in opening other than state highways to travel and clearing up other blockade conditions.

Though born in East Killingly, Thomas J. French, who is dead at his home in Putnam, lived the greater part of his life in the neighboring town. It is recalled that Mr. French at one time was a member of the board of selectmen of Putnam. Mrs. French was Miss Olive Jacques, a sister of George W. Jacques of East Killingly.

It dawned upon numbers of people here Thursday that they had not seen certain daily visitors to town since last Monday. This is charged to the storm, these people living in outlying districts being snowbound.

State Commander E. R. Armstrong of the American Legion, expressed himself Thursday morning as well pleased with the number of former service men who came to hear his address Wednesday evening and with their enthusiasm over subjects discussed.

All marooned automobiles had been released from where they had stalled in snow banks on state highways hereabouts by Thursday. Several parties who had preferred to remain here since Tuesday rather than face the traveling conditions also got away in their cars for their destinations on Thursday.

Engineers, representing the state highway department will make an examination of the bridge that collapsed at Osseo, Wednesday afternoon, allowing two trucks of the department to go into the river and causing the death of Clarence Gates of Moosup. State Highway Commissioner John Macdonald visited the bridge Wednesday evening.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, of Norwich, will be here next Tuesday from 10 to 12 o'clock, noon, to conduct a clinic at the health station in the town hall.

The promise of an 18 mill tax for Killingly, instead of the 20 1-2 mill rate in force last year is pleasing to about every taxpayer.

Failure to clear some crossing points for pedestrians in the borough brought a series of protests during the thawing hours of Thursday.

Walter Andersen gave a talk on Radio Thursday evening at a meeting of the Westfield club.

PUTNAM

An invitation has been sent by Supt. Ralph E. Jenkins of the schools of Putnam to U. S. Senator James E. Reed, of Missouri, to give the address at the commencement exercises of the senior class of Putnam High school in the Bradley theater here next June. Rated an orator of exceptional merit and particularly conspicuous in the public eye at the present time as a democratic candidate for president, the hope was expressed by school officials here that Senator Reed may find it possible to so arrange his affairs as to accept the invitation.

Putnam Chapter, R. A. M., held a meeting at the Masonic temple on Thursday evening. The R. A. degree was conferred and a visitation from grand chapter officers—F. Ward Kuin of Danbury and E. L. Barbie featured the meeting. A fried chicken supper was served.

The state highways between this city and Worcester were again passable for motor vehicles Thursday, though making a trip through was an experience. Hyde Smith of the Bradley theatre came through in his car, the trip from Worcester to Putnam occupying two hours and ten minutes.

A list of uncontested divorce cases awaits the attention of the superior court when a short calendar session comes in here today (Friday) with Judge George E. Hinman of Willimantic presiding.

Mrs. John Jarvis, who has been at the Day Kimball hospital, will not undergo a surgical operation, her condition having so improved by Thursday that it was decided she could return to her home.

Antonio Vandale and Theodore Lussier, recent graduates from the State Trade school, Putnam, have taken positions with the Underwood Typewriter company, Hartford. There are a number of Putnam Trade School graduates employed by this firm. Expression of opinion by the officers of the company would indicate that these boys are giving satisfaction.

The kind of educational preparation determines in a large measure the quality of performance. It is on the basis of this thought that the state trade school attempts to duplicate as nearly as possible actual trade conditions, developing responsibility in the student by requiring definite treatment of each unit of instruction. Items of instruction in the machine department at the present time include designing and building one winch for automobile wrecker truck, re-cutting spiral timing gears for automobile, building of two 10 inch square ram arbor presses, making six 3-inch worms and wheels, this job includes the making of tools for same.

The textile department is completing an order for 3000 pounds of 10s warp yarn. When this order is completed the department will change over to cloth manufacture as it is considered a better type of experience having greater variety and more instruction in the work.

Carpentry students have recently completed installing inside finish and the building of two front stairways, this together with considerable cabinet work, inside repair jobs, math. and drawing constitutes instruction in this department at the present time.

The electrical department is carrying a large enrollment and it is anticipated that additional space will be required for this department, another year. A new set of switch board plugs are being made by the electrical boys, the different parts being made in the machine and carpentry departments and brought together in the electrical department for assembling. They will be used as permanent equipment for the department.

In the drafting department the machine students are busy on calculations and drawings for work to be done in the machine shop. A special shield for open sight display has been designed by the drafting students and this will be erected as an attractive illuminated sign in front of the building.

Boys recently entering the school are: Wilfred Park, carpentry department; Claude King, electrical department; Ernest Bousquet, machine department; Ora Lapointe, building estimating.

Boys to graduate at an early date are Ernest Adams, from the carpentry department and Willie Smith from the machine department.

COLCHESTER

There was large attendance at the annual meeting of Donald A. Bigelow Post, No. 54, American Legion, held in New Park hall, March 1. Attorney George Cutler was elected commander; George Bosan, first vice commander; George Case, second vice commander; Frances Shea, adjutant, and financial officer. After the business meeting the auxiliary unit joined the members of the legion and discussed matters of importance to both organizations. Attorney George Cutler of Hartford and Edward L. Kelly of Bridgeport spoke on Adjusted Compensation. Mrs. Flora Phelps, president of the auxiliary unit, told of the work accomplished by the Colchester unit during the past year. At Christmas the unit sent a package containing candy, cigars and cigarettes to the forty-six ex-service men, who are receiving treatment at the state hospital in Norwich. The officials of the hospital sent a letter of thanks to the secretary, which was read. Each inmate of the town farm and a number of poor children, whose names reached the members, were also given a Christmas package. Plans for a play to be given some time soon were discussed. From the cast of characters it is very evident that it will be a great success. A social hour followed with dancing and vocal selections. Later there were refreshments.

State Commander Armstrong was in town Tuesday in the interests of the Legion Post. He is planning on visiting the post some time during April when he will address all the ex-service men.

Leonard, Siebert of East Hampton was here Wednesday.

Benjamin Maiobes has purchased the Tozar place, on Broadway and is moving in.

Superintendent Kramer and men were out Wednesday with the snow plows clearing the state roads.

Harold Webster, while hewing ties Monday, drove an axe into his right foot, inflicting a two-inch cut.

GOSHEN

Arthur Lathrop of Hartford was home over the week end.

Owing to the severe storm that reached the limit of a blizzard, Tuesday the Farm Bureau institute was omitted.

A local radio fan who has a small one-tube receiving set thinking he would try an experiment, was quite surprised to get good results after connecting his lead in wire to a long stretch of barbed wire fence. He was also able to listen in by using a tin can out on the wood pile for a substitute outside antenna.

The welcome sound of robins was heard Saturday. A flock of them also was noted on a prospecting trip here Monday. A lone woodchuk was seen and captured here last week.

The northeast snow storm of Tuesday and Wednesday made some drifts that had to be shoveled out though it was rather a mind reminder of the blizzard on the same dates 36 years ago, the memory of which will never be forgotten.

The largest white or gray birch tree hereabouts was cut recently on Maple Hill. The tree girthed a little over four feet at the butt and was large enough for a saw log and railroad ties.

EAST HADDAM

James H. Bryan and son of New York are guests of Arthur J. Stillman.

Aren Erickson, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Hartford hospital two weeks ago, has returned home.

W. C. Parks has purchased the place formerly owned by John James.

Miss Elizabeth Peck of Hartford was a recent visitor at the home of her mother, Mrs. Henry Peck.

Mrs. Margaret Hopkins has returned from spending a week in New York.

Mrs. Marie W. Kars, who has been in Copenhagen, Denmark, for a number of years, will sail for this country on steamer Stavangerjord March 19th, and will take up her residence in her brick house in this place.

Raymond Ventres and family were recent Middletown visitors.

STAFFORDVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Clark and three children of Ellington were guests of Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Etta Dunham the first of last week.

Mrs. John Rishton visited her daughter Mrs. Lila Tallman in Hartford last week.

A beautiful individual communion set was given the Methodist church recently by Mrs. William Duncan of Agawam, Mass., a member of this church and former resident of this place. The church people gave her a vote of thanks for the handsome gift.

John Rishton is the new superintendent of the Fabyan Woolen company's mill to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Donlon.

Mrs. Richard Avery, Mrs. Thomas Heathcote and daughter of Springfield, Mass., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Siswick over Sunday.

THREW YOUNG DAUGHTER FROM BURNING BUILDING

Chelsea, Mass., March 13. — Mrs. Rosie Rosemus threw her five year old daughter, Jennie, from a third floor window of a burning four story brick apartment house at Williams and Pembroke streets, today and then jumped after her. Both were taken to a hospital, where it was said that the deep snow had prevented any serious injury to either, although they were suffering from inhalation of smoke.

COLLAPSING BRIDGES.

Fire records show that there is a certain amount of destruction every day. There is a certain amount of business property, a certain number of dwellings, barns, schoolhouses and churches burned on the average every day.

Possibly there are records which show what the daily average of collapsed bridges is throughout the country, but if there is it seems likely that it will be found that the average has increased in the last decade, when the bridges like the highways are being called upon to stand much greater loads than ever before.

That this condition prevails is indicated by the way in which bridges are posted at the present time against being used for the transportation of loads in excess of fixed amounts. Just how safe some of them are even at the maximum of the restrictions is uncertain. The collapse of the bridge over the Moosup river at Oneco and the collapse of the bridge over the river at Versailles within a year or two make it evident that either the bridges were being made to carry a greater weight than was authorized, or else they were in a much weaker condition than had been supposed.

Such deplorable instances not only show the wisdom of restricting the loads on such structures, but they emphasize the need in these days when so much heavy transportation is being done over the highways of having periodical inspections, and tests of all such structures, quite the same as there is a regular inspection of boilers, in order to protect those who use them.

The collapse at Oneco should result in an investigation to determine whether the load was looking than the bridge was intended to carry, or whether it was in a condition that did not warrant so sending onto it of a load as heavy as the posted maximum. It would be only natural if it should result in a careful inspection of many of the other bridges in the state to determine their deterioration and present day fitness.

NEW HAMPSHIRE AND MOSES.

United States Senator Moses of New Hampshire desired to be a delegate from that state to the national republican convention in Cleveland in June. He was one of eight candidates, seven of whom were to be selected in the primary and he was the one to get the least number of votes and therefore failed to get the coveted honor.

Senator Moses had been a strong supporter of Hiram Johnson, but he had thrown the Californian overboard and announced that he would support the candidacy of Calvin Coolidge. Even though he had so declared he refused to be pledged to vote for Lowden. On that point he was firm, and on that very same point the people of New Hampshire were true. Their verdict is that if Moses would not be pledged, he would not represent the New Hampshire republicans, who desired it to be known that they were for Coolidge, first, last and all the time.

Now the senator makes the statement that "naturally I am sorry that I cannot vote for Mr. Coolidge in June as well as in November, but the main thing demonstrated by our primary is that New Hampshire is for Coolidge."

It was a clear case of whether Moses was going to Cleveland to represent himself or to represent the republicans of New Hampshire. There are times when an unpledged delegation is preferable but this year New Hampshire has made up its mind. It wanted no misunderstanding. It desired that there should be no misinterpretation of its position. It wants Coolidge and it was not willing to send even one of its senators unless it knew what he would do. It wanted representation in keeping with its sentiment and it is to have it. It preferred to deny its senator the chance to go as a delegate-at-large rather than to have any uncertainty about its position.

There is no question but what New Hampshire is for Coolidge," but will Senator Moses, who has displayed rather an independent attitude at times in Washington, gather any other meaning from the action of the republicans of New Hampshire? It is not a bad idea to get a message from headquarters in a while.

STOPPING THE WASTE.

An order has been issued by the Ford Motor company to all of its branches to save all wood coming in and to use precautions to see that no board is broken unnecessarily.

This doesn't mean that the Ford plants are to use wood for heat, or for the operation of the Ford railroad, but it is noting taken as the result of the recognition of the fact that it extends of wood will be saved from the firewood pile each week and be utilized over and over again. For boxes and crates. It is a move to end a waste that has been going on for a long time and that should be stopped. When the Ford company heard that of lumber each week it means nearly 5,000,000 board feet a year. This doesn't approximate the requirements of the company but it is recognized by one of the country's big industries that is is worth saving.

Such a conservation move is in keeping with the demands that are being made in behalf of the lumber supply of the company. The Ford plants in salvaging 60 per cent of the wood that the kiln heretofore declared useless has simply come to a recognition of the situation somewhat in advance of others. It sees the folly of continuing to throw material away at the same time that it is being pointed out that a serious shortage is being faced. Quite the same as it is necessary now to begin to provide for new forests, it is also important that needless waste should be checked.

It is far preferable that serviceable material should be used over again, that crates should not be smashed up just because they have been used once and new material be employed for constructing other crates the same day with that attention should be given to stopping up the many little leaks that do so much to pile up the costs of doing business and the price of goods.

The Ford example of conservation is not the first one. It is, however, a conspicuous instance of the recognition of an important principle.

THE FRANC GOING BACK.

The French franc has been down. It has taken a turn upward which indicates that the rise will continue, and it is the expected consequence of the loan than has been obtained in this country.

France has been going through some trying times. In fact it may be said that it was never out of them from the opening of the war until the present. Much is expected from the Dawes committee and its report, but just now there is need of getting relief for the economic situation.

With a new understanding between the French and British government, with new taxation resorted to in order to meet the needs of the country and with the committee of experts indicating that a new agreement will be reached upon the reparation problem, the loan that has been obtained in this country for France will help materially to improve the situation.

All that seemed to be necessary was to have it become known that German influence was back of the effort to drive down the franc, and France had no trouble in going out and getting the necessary credit to offset the effects of the blow at her economic structure. It has been struggling against great odds to prevent certain schemes from being carried out. Possibly it is not entirely out of the woods but the fact that the franc has stopped its downward movement and turned upward is certainly most significant, and no doubt the beginning of the relief for which Premier Poincare has been struggling.

It doesn't end the franc situation but every move in that direction lends encouragement and strength.

TURNING DOWN THE PUBLIC.

The response from congress to the message of President Coolidge asking for the reduction of federal income taxes immediately, by making effective the provision for the cutting of the 1925 income taxes by 25 per cent this year, does not impress the country.

Here was an opportunity to do something for public welfare. There had been agreement upon the wisdom of such a move by the action of the house, and there appears to be no opposition to eventually doing this very thing at some future time in the senate but the effort to get it done now meets with the surprising reply that it cannot be done.

The country isn't going to misjudge the meaning of this response. It isn't going to disregard the opportunity that is being turned down to do something for the taxpayers of the country, and do it immediately. It is fully conscious of the effort that the president has put forth and it understands the political reasons that make it impossible for congress to act, or for the leaders to get action in the short time specified.

It has been made clear that it is the legislative branch of the government that has failed, that it is not ready to follow the chief executive who is the one who is really looking out for the welfare of the country. Such efforts to embarrass can be expected to have their reflections, and though it may be intended it will not be the president who will suffer therefrom. Even the democrats have failed to grasp the chance to show the taxpayers that they are ready to do what they claim and what they have been advocating, and do it now.

PARTICULAR PRESENT

"What shall I get with the $10 that Great-Uncle Clambake sent me for my birthday?" demanded the pretty girl of her family. "Every time I think hard for fifteen minutes and remember something I want awfully much it is always more than $10 and when I think of anything which does cost $10 it isn't anything that I want, and I've got to get something quick because he asked me to write and tell him about it. And if I don't write and tell him he'll never send me another $10 to spend riotously—but how can I spend it if I don't know what to buy?"

"You'd worry if you dug up diamonds in your powder box," growled her handsome brother who wasn't popular with Great-Uncle Clambake and never had $10 sent him.

"You might get some shoes," her mother suggested. "Every few minutes I hear you saying that your satin shoes are a sight and you just might have some new ones!"

"But they cost twelve-fifty instead of ten," said the pretty girl. "And anyhow the shoes I have are holding out very well just now.

"My goodness, I wish he'd sent me something instead of the money and then I wouldn't have all this worry," she continued. "Probably it would have been something I didn't like, but I could have put it on a top shelf and forgotten it in five minutes, whereas this is taking up all my time. Whenever I go downtown I look into all the windows but I never seem to see anything ticketed $10. There was a lawn mower for $10 the place but I haven't a bit of use for a lawnmower and I am sure Great-Uncle Clambake would think I was spending his gift thoughtlessly and foolishly if I had written him that I had purchased one.

"All the while I was lunching with Otis Alspice yesterday at a very fashionable place I got no real good from the party because I was so engaged in trying to think of something to buy for $10 that I wanted very much. They simply is no telling what Otis might have been saying to me or what I missed because I could not center my attention on him. I shall always wonder if my chances for becoming Mrs. Alspice came and flitted away through my own carelessness.

"Ten dollars bestowed upon one is so much formidable than $10 that's just $10. The person who makes you the gift says cheerily that now you are to run right along and indulge in some little extravagance you thought you couldn't afford and then he seems around waiting to enjoy your pleasure—and you feel so sort of obligated to find something that will make you step your hands and cry goody-goody."

"If you are aiming to impress Clambake with your economy," said her father, "you can buy a hne box of cigars for $10. I am about out. What a girl," Clambake would say enthusiastically, "always thinking of others!"

"I think that would be just mean!" declared the pretty girl with great feeling. "After he has sent me the money and gone is all that trouble and everything! Why, if I did what you suggest it would look as though I didn't care at all about his gift, and I wouldn't hurt his feelings for the world. I think it is up to me to act as looking."

"I am gratified to discover that you have these highly commendable sentiments," the father of the pretty girl advised her. "They do you credit. Most girls nowadays look upon money as something to spend to suit themselves with no regard for the person who earned it or gave it and I am sure you can select something which will both delight yourself and please Great-Uncle Clambake if you look hard enough."

"Oh, I've looked and looked," the pretty girl told him plaintively, shaking her head. "And I'm just discouraged. You've no idea how hard it is!"

"Haven't you seen a single thing you want?" asked her parent in surprise.

The pretty girl came over and sat upon the arm of his chair and smiled beguilingly "Yes," she confessed. "It was perfectly darling and nobody I knew had one at all as good-looking and I would wear it all my life—one of those new bracelets—only it was $12.50. It's the only thing on earth I want and I do so hate to disappoint Great-Uncle Clambake, after he's been so good and kind—"

"You win," said the father of the pretty girl, drawing out his checkbook with a sigh. "And I hope the kind old gentleman doesn't take it into his head to send you $40 next time! Golly!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor: I am inclosing some articles on gossip which I would like to see published.

MRS. H. M. S.

Norwich, March 14, 1924.

Cure for Scandal—Take of "Good Nature" one ounce; of an herb called by the Indians, "Mind Your Own business," one ounce; mix this with a little "charity for others," and two or three sprigs of "keep your tongue between youth teeth," simmer them together in a vessel called "circumspection," for a short time, and it will be fit for use.

Application—The symptoms are a violent itching in the tongue and roof of the mouth, which invariably takes place when you are in company with a species of animals called gossips. When you feel a fit of the disorder coming on, take a teaspoonful of the mixture; hold it in your mouth, which you will keep closely shut till you get home, and you will find a complete cure. Should you apprehend a relapse, keep a small bottleful about you, and on the slightest symptom repeat the dose.

"One of the most destructive evils in this world is slanderous talk. It breaks human hearts and ruins reputations with a ruthlessness known of all other evils.

"Slander resembles a double-edged sword—it cuts going and coming. It not only undermines the one slandered, but it comes back like a boomerang and gnaws at the reputation of the slanderer as well. The slander hound becomes accustomed to seeing only the petty sides of others. Little by little he bathes his own soul in the foulness of his own thoughts and words until he cannot see the beauty in anything or anyone.

His measures everything by his own perverted standard. Take notice of those who slander or engage in any sort of suggestive evil speaking about others and you will see, as clearly as you can see the sun on a bright day, that their words are but a confession of their own heart secrets. The faults which we find in our neighbors most readily are usually but a reflection of our own weaknesses."—Napoleon Hill's Magazine Sept. 21.

"In this strife-ridden, grief-stricken world as she stands today, when so many are devoting their efforts to trying to tear somebody or something down, and to getting man against man, nation against nation, race against race and creed against creed, and rekindling the fires of hate and prejudice and ignorance of the dark ages, it seems to me, brother, that the greatest work any man could engage in is that of planting constructive thoughts where destructive ones grew before."—Napoleon Hill's Magazine Jan. '22.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Most Rev. George W. Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, who has sailed for Rome to receive the red hat of the cardinate, has had an interesting career as priest, bishop and archbishop. He is a native of New York City and for several years before his promotion to the archdiocese of Chicago was auxiliary bishop of Brooklyn under the late Bishop McDonnell. Archbishop Mundelein is still under fifty years of age and when he takes his seat in the Sacred College of Cardinals he will be the youngest member of that august body. His latest promotion has created no surprise in church circles, as he is known to be held in high favor at the Vatican, where his work in Chicago is highly thought of. He recently obtained for Chicago the honor of holding there the International Eucharistic Congress of 1926. This will be the first time a Eucharistic Congress has been held in the United States, although one was convened at Montreal in 1910.

Oil fuel for ships means a big saving; a 5,000-ton steamer can be oil costs less than a quarter the cost of a 3,000-ton vessel burning coal over the same mileage.

WANDERLUST

Beyond the East the sunrise, beyond the West the sea,
And East and West the wanderlust that will not let me be;
It works in me like madness, dear, to bid me say good-by!
For the seas call and the stars call, and oh, the call of the sky!

I know not where the white road runs, nor what the blue hills are,
But man can have the sun for friend, and for his guide a star;
And there's no end of voyaging when once the voice is heard,
For the river calls and the road calls, and oh, the call of a bird!

Yonder the long horizon lies, and there by night and day
The old ships draw to home again, the young ships sail away;
And come I may, but go I must, and if men ask you why,
You may put the blame on the stars and the sun and the white road and the sky!

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

FUNDY

Harnessing water power has meant in the past making rain water "stand and deliver" its energy while it was hurrying from high ground back to the sea. But there has been much talk in recent years of imprisoning tide water that has ventured far up inlets and exacting an energy toll from it before it flows back seaward. The famous Bay of Fundy, one of the tide record-holders, known to every geography student, which is the object of the latest suggestions along this line, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Because it has a short, distinctive name and an extraordinary reputation, Fundy is probably better known by name at least than any other bay in the world," says the Bulletin.

"Twice every day a tremendous quantity of ocean water swishes up this 140 mile bay reaching depths of 30, 40, and 50 feet toward the head. Then it turns rather quickly and rushes out again. The thing has gripped the imaginations of generations of juvenile geography students and has stamped 'Fundy' into their memories. Now it is taking a delayed grip on technical imaginations, and engineers are wondering why these thousands of tons of rushing water cannot be made to turn power wheels.

"One big factor in Fundy's superlatives can be seen from a map. The inlet has a funnel-shaped opening into which the ocean tide is 'wedged.' But a more important factor is not apparent from maps. The bottom of the bay is a huge inclined plane, which, starting at a depth of over 400 feet at the mouth slopes up with remarkable regularity at a rate of about 4 feet a mile to the head of the bay 140 miles away. The thrushing water, then, is not only squeezed from the sides by the narrowing channel but is 'squeezed upward,' so to speak, by the gently sloping bottom and as long as the push comes from behind it continues to pile up in the upper bay. When the ocean tide subsides and the momentum of the inflow is exhausted the piled up water simply runs down hill again.

"The high waters of Fundy are in some ways disconcerting. Wharves for some of the little ports near the bay's head must be perched on piles 60 feet high. When the tide flows outward many of the settlements are left behind two or three miles of mud flats.

"The most ambitious scheme for harnessing Fundy's great tides proposes to throw huge dams across the mouth of the inlet which is there 48 miles wide. This would entail international cooperation, for the western portal of Fundy's door is territory of the United States, the northeastern state of Maine. Such a dam too would impound water in Passamaquoddy Bay and the St. Croix River through which the international boundary runs. The plan has been opposed because it would set up a barrier to commerce into and from Eastport, Maine, and numerous other communities in Maine, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

"The head of the Bay of Fundy is separated from the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the north by a neck of land only 15 miles wide. At high tide sea level is 30 feet lower on the northern side of this neck. One of the many suggestions for harnessing the bay's tides, the practicability of which is not apparent, looks to the building of a dam up in the inlet to capture the successive tidal flows, and the cutting of a 'mill race' to the north along which power could be generated continually from the tidal reservoir.

"Fundy has a significance aside from its tides. Champlain, the famous French explorer of the New World, helped to establish on its shore in 1604 Port Royal, now Annapolis, the first permanent French settlement in America. In 1613 English settlers from Virginia, taking a hand in the Franco-British struggle, attacked Port Royal and almost totally destroyed it. The Annapolis Valley today is described as 'the garden spot of Nova Scotia.'"

Stories That Recall Others

Mixed Figures.

Bob's aunt had recently married a man named Whitlatch, so the new uncle had been the all absorbing topic of conversation in the family circle. One day, at the dinner table Bob was struggling with an obdurate piece of steak. Having in mind the time honored comparison to what leather, which he had heard from parental lips, he said: "Daddy, this meat's as tough as Whitlatch!"

Johnny Was There

A young teacher was conducting her class in arithmetic. The subject for the day was substraction.

"If you go to the grocery," she said giving an example, "and see that they have large oranges for 15 cents a dozen and smaller ones for 15 cents a dozen, how would you find the differences in price?"

Johnny, with proverbial promptness, begged to answer. She nodded permission to speak.

"Ask the clerk," was his inspired reply.

Herds of cattle in the United States total about 66,000,00 animals.

MRS. F. H. MERRILL SING OVER RADIO

Friends of Mrs. Frank H. Merrill, formerly of this city, who listened in on radio station WEAF, New York, Thursday night between 7 and 7:30, were delighted to hear her voice very distinctly in the solo part with a quartette.

The test was made at the home of Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton, whose radio set is one of the best in the city.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Harold Shearer of New York, and Russell Welles of Albany, were guests recently of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip T. Welles.

Mrs. Frederick S. Camp has returned, after passing the winter in California with her son, Talcott H. Camp, and visiting for the past six weeks with her granddaughter, Miss Emily B. Camp, at Samarkan Manor, near Pinehurst, N. C.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percival W. Chapman, 55 McKinley Avenue, Wednesday afternoon and evening the sixteenth birthday of their daughter, Rosamond Chapman, was celebrated. Her guests were Misses Catherine Brown, Elizabeth McCord and Elizabeth Collins. In the afternoon, Miss Chapman entertained at a theatre party, followed by a supper at 6 o'clock at her home. A birthday cake was cut by the hostess. In the evening rook jang was played.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. E. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Piles remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

POOR EYESIGHT

Is a drain upon your nerves, your health, and your disposition.

Why suffer when the remedy lies in correctly fitted glasses?

OBITUARY.

George H. Betting.

On Thursday afternoon, March 13, the useful life of George H. Betting came to a close at his home at Poquetanuck. He was born at Hesse-Castle, Germany, on June 22, 1854, the son of the late John G. Betting and Margaret Martin Betting and came to this country with his parents when one year of age. After living in New York city one year, the family came to Poquetanuck and that has been his home ever since. When a young man he entered the woolen business and was employed by Hall Bros., and by B. Lucas & Co. at Poquetanuck. For 58 years previous to 1913 he was an overseer at the Lucas mill, his services there terminating when the mill burned in 1912. For the past few years he has been watchman at the local store of The Plaut-Caddick company.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Charles A. Betting of this city, and a brother, Henry M. Betting of Poquetanuck. He was faithful to all responsibilities and always tried to do what was right. His chief interest was his home and it can be truly said that he was a good husband and father. He was a lover of horses and will be kindly remembered by the older horsemen of this city. In his death the community loses a good citizen who will be missed by a large number of admiring friends.

Joseph Reynolds

After a short illness the life of Joseph Reynolds came to a close Thursday morning at his home in Glen Falls, N. Y. Mr. Reynolds was born in Greeneville 44 years ago, the son of John and Catherine Cummings Reynolds, and made his home in this city until four years ago.

In 1920 he was united in marriage with Anna Lynch of Glen Falls, the wedding taking place there.

Besides his wife he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. James McNally of Norwich, Mrs. John Toomey and Mrs. Dennis J. Flan of Brooklyn, also by two brothers, Patrick and Thomas Reynolds of Norwich.

Burial is to be in Glen Falls.

WOMAN GOES TO JAIL ON LIQUOR SALE CHARGE

Joseph Marcio and wife, Raffaela Marcio of Boswell avenue, were presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Thursday morning charged with sale of intoxicating liquors. Sufficient evidence was presented to find the couple guilty of the charge and Judge Libby imposed a fine of $200 and costs, amounting in all to $206.71, on each, also giving Marcio a 30 days jail sentence, suspended for a year. Mrs. Marcio who made the actual sale, according to the evidence that the police had, was given a 10 days jail sentence and went to jail to serve her time. The husband paid both fines.

Stephen Lucas charged with drunkenness was fined $10 and costs amounting in all to $19.85. He paid this bill but before leaving court was again arrested charged with non support. Judge Libby ordered him to serve 30 days in jail or furnish a bond of $500 to pay his wife $20 a week for six months. His father furnished the bond and he was allowed to go free.

PARKER STILL LEADING IN PINOCHLE RACE

DEEPER CHANNEL FOR THAMES IS HANGING IN THE BALANCE

Representatives of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce conferred with Major V. L. Peterson of the war department in Providence Wednesday regarding the deepening of the Thames River channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich. The outlook for a successful issue of this project is none too rosy. The necessity for the project was put from every angle of consideration for the beneficial advantages to this community and Eastern Connecticut.

It is understood that the attitude of war department heads is that Norwich and its surrounding sections has not yet succeeded in convincing them that there is enough river commerce now, or promise for the future, to make this expenditure advisable.

The effort of the Chamber of Commerce is to keep the river navigable for modern vessels so that the future growth and welfare of Norwich will not become imperilled. Take away the water borne traffic with railroad traffic and Norwich becomes rated as an inland city. This means increased freight rates and increased rates affect manufacturers, merchants, professional men and householders.

Lack of water transportation will tend to stultify the future industrial growth as well as the general welfare of eastern Connecticut and Norwich in particular. It will mean the abandonment of a privilege the like to which other cities have labored with might and main to attain or retain. Houston, Texas, fifty miles from the coast, today is a seaport through the development of a creek running from that city to the Gulf of Mexico. Los Angeles, California, twenty miles from the coast is today a seaport through the perseverance and foresight of her citizens.

The development of the Thames River needs the strong active support of all classes of citizens in this section. This is an industrial section. The success of its industries is the success of all. The growth of its industries is growth for all. We have a navigable river the like of which other communities would foster and develop to the fullest extent and the question is asked, why not Norwich?

Those present at the conference with Major Peterson were, President H. M. Leron of the chamber, H. M. Fraser representing the Thames River Line, H. F. Dawley, C. W. Taggart, F. B. Ricketson, Lucius Briggs, F. Browning of the Uncas Paperboard Co., and secretary John J. O'Rourke of the chamber of commerce.

END CAME SUDDENLY TO ROBERT C. JOHNSON

The many friends of Robert Colt Johnson, were shocked Thursday evening to learn of his death, which occurred at the Backus hospital from heart trouble shortly after 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Johnson had been at Jewett City during the day at his usual employment at the Aspinook company and had apparently been in his usual health. With his brother Philip, who resides at Norwich Town, he returned here by automobile at the close of the business day. When they arrived at Huntington place to turn down to their father's garage, Mr. Johnson remarked that he felt a little cold and would walk home. He arrived at his new home on Broad street near Cedar street and found a salesman awaiting him there.

Upon seeing the salesman of whose call his wife had told him, Mr. Johnson drove his automobile into the garage at the house. When his return from there was delayed, it was found that he had been seized with a fainting spell from heart trouble in the garage and medical aid was at once secured. Mr. Johnson was at once rushed to the hospital where his death occurred about half an hour later.

Mr. Johnson was born in Norwich, June 13, 1866, the son of Oliver L. and Fannie Chester Johnson. His early education was in the grammar schools of Norwich and after graduating in the class of 1885 at the Norwich Free Academy, he attended Yale college, graduating in 1889. Following his college course he spent some time in travel abroad and immediately upon his return entered the Aspinook bleachery at Jewett City, which for so many years has been under the capable management of his father, Oliver L. Johnson of this city.

On April 27, 1920, Mr. Johnson was united in marriage with Miss Frances Leonard of Willimantic. They took up their residence here in the Huntington apartments on Broadway, which they occupied until about two weeks ago, when they moved into their newly erected home on Broad street.

Mr. Johnson was a young man with particularly promising prospects. He at all times led a consistent Christian life and had devoted much of his spare time to church and welfare work. He was a devoted member of Park Congregational church of which he was clerk at the time of his death, and was a former assistant superintendent of the Sunday school.

While at the Academy he was a member of the Kappa, Kappa, Kappa fraternity, and he belonged to the Arcanum club, the Norwich Golf club, the Base Clef, and was treasurer of the Norwich Music association.

At the time of his death, Mr. Johnson was assistant treasurer and a director of the Aspinook company. In his death Norwich loses a young man whose life promised much of value to the communities in which he had associations.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Leonard Babcock Johnson; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson of Union street, and two brothers, O. Chester Johnson of Plainfield, N. J., and Philip A. Johnson of Norwich Town.

His father and mother who have been spending some time in the south had the sad news of their son's death conveyed to them Thursday evening and Mr. Johnson is expected to reach here today.

TRUCKS IN BRIDGE WRECK NOT CHAINED

Hugh Fleck, foreman in the Sterling, Plainfield and Moosup division of the state highway department, made the statement Thursday that the two trucks which went through the bridge at Oneco, when the bridge toppled over sideways, were not chained together, but one had been helping the other by pushing it through the snow drifts when more power was required.

The heavier truck with the snow plow on it was about to pass off the bridge and the lighter truck which was following was waiting at the other end. Its front wheels were on the bridge so that when the span crumpled and slid sideways, the light truck was drawn down with the bridge.

Clarence Gates was pinned under the light truck and was drowned but when his body was taken out it showed no marks of injury, according to Mr. Fleck. Four men were hurt, but not seriously, although they will be laid up. They were with the trucks to help with the snow work when needed.

Gates, who lived in Moosup, leaves a mother and a sister.

NEED MORE MONEY FOR COLLEGE BUILDINGS

At a meeting of the board of control in Hartford Thursday, Dr. Charles L. Beach, president of the Connecticut Agricultural College, at Storrs, asked for advice as to what should be done in the matter of erecting buildings at the college for which the legislature appropriated $35,000. It is believed by the college authorities that this amount will not be sufficient to meet the expenses of construction. The difficulty could be remedied by taking from another appropriation a sum large enough to meet the deficiency.

Dr. Beach explained the situation to the board and took action accordingly.

CHIMNEY CRASHED DOWN AT LAFAYETTE ST. FACTORY

At the plant of the J. C. Turner Lumber company, formerly Porter & Shop, on Lafayette street, a carpenter has been at work rebuilding two of the large doors at the northerly side of the building, which were smashed when the immense chimney blew down, about midnight, during the gale, Tuesday night. This part of the plant is used as a garage having four large doors, two of which were badly damaged.

The chimney which was 75 or more feet in height, crumpled into a mass of brick which has been estimated as several tons, having smashed through the roof, breaking through two floors and demolishing that section of the plant.

At the time the chimney gave way, there was a terrific noise as it tore its way through the floorings.

It was a miraculous escape for the night watchman who less than five minutes previous had made the rounds for that hour to wind the clocks.

FEBRUARY HAD FEWER APPLICANTS FOR EMPLOYMENT

Considerable falling off in the number of applicants supplied with employment was noted in the February report of the state labor bureau showing results of operation of the five free employment bureaus. There were 97.5 per cent. of applicants supplied with employment during the month against 76 per cent. during January.

Of the total number applying 80.9 per cent. were furnished with employment as against 19.6 per cent. during January.

The total applications for employment in February was 3037; applications for help 3622 and situations secured 2215, divided among the bureaus in this order respectively as follows:

Hartford 741,076,555; New Haven 555,548,473; Bridgeport 709,879,542; Waterbury 969,774,667; Norwich 78,-90,73.

Gave Instructive Lecture

Professor M. A. ### Concluding Quarterly Conference

Rev. William H. Bath of Norwich, superintendent of the Norwich district of the New England Methodist conference, is finishing up his circuit of the fourth quarterly conference of the churches in his district. This is to be done before the annual conference scheduled for March 16 to 21.

Christened at Voluntown Church

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Church, formerly Mabel McGuigan of Voluntown, who was born in Voluntown on March 7th was christened Arline May last Sunday at St. Thomas' church by Rev. L. Faradis. The sponsors were Mrs. Hazel Hall of Voluntown and Francis McGuigan of Springfield, Mass.

Loyal Circle Food Sale

A food sale was held in the Boston store Thursday from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. by Loyal Circle King's Daughters. The attractive home-made food that was for sale drew a ready patronage and a good sum was realized.

How The Apostles Died.

All of the apostles were insulted by the enemies of their Master. They were called to seal their doctrines with their own blood, and nobly did they bear the trial. Schumacher says:

St. Matthew suffered martyrdom by being slain with a sword, at a distant city of Ethiopia.

St. Mark expired at Alexandria, after having been cruelly dragged through the streets of that city.

St. Luke was hanged upon an olive tree in the classic land of Greece.

St. John was put in a caldron of boiling oil, but escaped death in a miraculous manner, and was, afterward branded at Patmos.

St. Peter was crucified at Rome, with his head downward.

St. James the Greater was beheaded at Jerusalem.

St. James the Less was thrown from a lofty pinnacle of the temple, and then beaten to death with a fuller's club.

St. Bartholomew was flayed alive.

St. Andrew was bound to a cross whence he preached to his persecutors until he died.

St. Thomas was run through the body with a lance at Coromandel, in the East Indies.

St. Jude was shot to death with arrows.

St. Matthias was first stoned and then beheaded.

St. Barnabas of the Gentiles was stoned to death at Salonica.

St. Paul, after various tortures and persecutions, was at length beheaded at Rome, by the Emperor Nero.

Such was the fate of the apostles according to traditional statements.—Christian Evangelist.

SWITCHMAN'S SHANTY AT YANTIC CROSSING BURNED

The switchman's shanty at the Yantic crossing of the Central Vermont railroad was burned to the ground about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, the fire having started from an unknown cause.

Albert Hill, watchman at the Easton Woolen mill, about half a mile away, discovered the fire as he was making his 1 o'clock round in the mill and telephoned to Miss Bindermann, the night telephone operator at the Norwich exchange, who notified the Yantic fire engine company.

The Yantic firemen used a quantity of chemical on the blaze, but the fire was under too great headway by the time they arrived to make it possible to save the small building.

MOTION TO SET ASIDE VERDICT IN PLONA

A motion to set aside the verdict of $9,000 granted by a jury in superior court at New London Wednesday to Alexander Plona, of Waterford, executor of the estate of his wife, Cora Plona, who died on Nov. 19, 1922, after being struck by a trolley car on the Lyme turnpike, was the basis of the week's trial in the superior court here. Plona is represented by Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey, and Attorney George E. Beckwith appeared for the defendant company.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must be Done and Done Darn Quick, Too.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now, for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on heels of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 60 cents a box. Ask Lee & Osgood Co., or any live pharmacist anywhere.

RICE IS ELECTED CAPT. OF BULKELEY BASEBALL TEAM, 1923 STATE CHAMPS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13.—With the opening game of the Bulkeley High school baseball season but a month away, members of last year's team, with the exception of two, met in the auditorium this noon for the purpose of electing a player to captain this year's team. Out of the eight remaining letter men that were eligible for the captaincy, Walter Rice, a member of the junior class, was elected to that important position.

The captaincy was decided by elimination balloting. Two ballots were required before a selection of a man to lead this year's Bulkeley nine was made. In the first ballot, Rice and Daniels received five and three votes each, respectively, Harold Hutchinson, regular third baseman last season, was eliminated in the initial ballot. In the second and last ballot, Rice, by receiving five votes to Daniels' three was elected captain. Both Rice and Daniels showed good sportsmanship by voting for each other.

The following men cast a vote: George Sheflott, Joseph Gaetano, Walter J. Barry, Walter Rice, Tillisen Daniels, Edward Mansfield, Harold Hutchinson and Joseph Parisi.

With the election of Walter Rice as captain of the Bulkeley baseball team another propitious season in games won is expected. For the past two seasons, Bulkeley has won the championship of the state in baseball, and prospects point towards another championship team. Eight veterans will be available for this year's team. By honoring Walter Rice with the baseball captaincy, the Bulkeley players picked a player that will more than fill the shoes vacated by Bernard Peck upon his graduation from the Bulkeley ranks last season.

For the past three years, Rice has been a prominent figure in the three major sports at Bulkeley, namely football, baseball and basketball. Since his matriculation Rice was a valuable addition to the Orange and Black athletic teams, being one of the outstanding performers in the games that he engaged in. This is considered a most unusual record for any high school athlete.

In baseball, Rice played in left field. His presence in that territory cut off many base hits for the opposing teams. As a hitter, Rice was lead-off man, while hitting in that position his percentage for the entire season was .529. In hitting for a little better than the half-hundred mark, Rice as well as the other members of the Bulkeley team, faced some of the best high school pitchers in the state. There was not a single contest in which Rice did not hit safely at least once, and in one game against Morgan High, he connected with the ball safely six times, including a home run.

In football, Rice proved to be one of the most versatile athletes in the state. His playing on the gridiron stamped him as one of the best backs turned out at Bulkeley. After the Bulkeley football team wound up its activities, Rice received a visit from the football coach from Phillips Andover Prep school to enter that institution next fall. However, it is expected that Rice will finish his schooling at Bulkeley.

In basketball he also played a strong game at guard.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE CLOSES SEASON ON SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13.—The Industrial league will be a thing of the past after Saturday night, when the last games for this league will be played on the Y. M. C. A. gym floor. Two exceptionally good games are in order for the Whaling city basketball enthusiasts. The first contest will see the Connecticut Power five and the Palmers Brothers quintet opposing each other. The biggest game of the year will be held when the league-leading New London Ship and Engine quintet opposes its most bitter rival, J. N. Lapointe.

Both the Connecticut Power and the Palmer Brothers will give the best that is in them to win the last game of the "Dusty" league. Both teams hold a victory over the other in the games played during the first and second rounds. Although the quilt makers have little chance to climb out of last place in the standing, they can go into a tie for third place if they are successful in returning victorious. A victory for the Power representatives on the other hand will give that team a chance to go into a tie for second place with the J. N. Lapointe five if that team is defeated by the Ship and Engine. So we see that the final standing of the "Dusty" league will be considerably altered no matter what the outcome of Saturday's games will be.

Before putting up their basketball uniforms until next season, the Lapointe players will attempt to gain at least one victory over the Ship and Engine five. The tool makers have already been defeated twice by this team and another defeat seems inevitable judging from the past performances of both these teams. Lately the Lapointes have gotten together a powerful combination and it would not be surprising to see this team win out. The Ship and Engine team has won 12 consecutive victories in this league and would like to go through the season without a defeat.

INTERESTING VOLLEYBALL GAMES AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 13—Four games are on the card to be played in the Business and Professional Men's volleyball league Friday night. The first double header will see the Harbour Club playing opposite the Manufacturers on Court No. 1, on Court No. 2 at 6.15 the Merchants and the Thames club will fight hard to win the entire three sets. In the second double bill, The Bankers will play the Insurance Men on court No. 1 and on Court No. 2 the battle of clubs will be on. Not the jack of clubs and the queen of clubs that we find in a deck of cards, but the Lions Club and the Elks club.

The Manufacturers sextet is the dark horse of this league. Recently this team upset all the dope and took a fall out of the Insurance Men putting that team out of the running for first place. So naturally this team is favored to take a fall out of the Harbour Club.

In the Merchants-Thames club game the latter team should have an easy time taking all three sets. The Merchants have yet to win a game and it is unlikely that this team will begin now.

The Bankers may take one set from the Insurance Men but "it is probable that this will be all. The Insurance Men have a well balanced team and is one of the strongest in the league. The battle of Clubs—Lions and Elks is expected to turn out to be the battle of the century. Both teams have a large following and a small crowd made up of rooters from both clubs are expected to be on hand to root for their favorite team.

MORAN'S DEATH SERIOUS LOSS TO CINCINNATI

New York, March 13—The death of Pat Moran, "miracle manager" of the Cincinnati club, is unlikely to jeopardize the pennant prospects of the Reds, in the opinion of John A. Heydler, president of the National league. Mr. Heydler expressed this view today before departing on a two weeks' tour of the six National league camps in Florida, a trip that will mark his first extended inspection of spring training quarters since he became head of the senior circuit.

"It is difficult to make any forecast of the league prospects now," Mr. Heydler pointed out, "particularly as I am not familiar with what new material the various clubs are developing. I know the death of Moran came as a hard blow to Cincinnati fandom, which has high hopes for a pennant this year. It will be hard to say just how important its effects will be; much will depend on how Moran's successor rallies his forces.

"It must be remembered, however, that the Reds are a veteran outfit for the most part, seasoned players, who can be depended upon. Given this inherent strength, I would expect the team to show at its best, anyway. And, of course, there is the possibility that the loss of its leader might inspire the club to even greater heights."

TAFTVILLE CELTICS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM BANTAMS

In a fast game of basket ball played on the Baltic Gym surface Wednesday evening the Taftville Celtics nosed out the Baltic Bantams by the score of 27 to 26 in one of the best played games of the season. In the first half the score was tied 16 to 16 and in the second half it was anybody's game. With two minutes to go with the Celtics 1 point in the lead, the Bantams let loose and were putting the ball all around the basket but could not score. The game ended with the Celtics winners. The feature of the game was the playing of Lemieux for the Celtics, who scored 7 baskets, and Robitzr for the Bantams with 6 baskets. The summary

BERLENBACH HAS TOUGH FIGHT ON HANDS TONIGHT

New York, March 13—Paul Berlenbach, New York knockout sensation, faces the most important test of his brief but spectacular career tomorrow night when he opposes Jack Delaney, clever, Bridgeport, Conn., middleweight, in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden.

Because of his rapid rise to pugilistic stardom and the devastating punch he has shown in either hand, Berlenbach is a favorite to win and increase his knockout string, now at 23 straight. But Delaney is not lacking in support. If the bout goes the limit, Delaney, because of his experience and superior boxing ability, is favored to gain the decision.

The outcome will be of particular interest because both men have a battle with Harry Greb, middleweight champion, in prospect in the event of a victory. Berlenbach also is being pointed for a campaign in light heavyweight ranks and expects to make a bid for both 164 and 175-pound titles.

Berlenbach and Delaney will weigh close to 165 pounds each.

AMERICAN WOMEN'S HOCKEY TEAM WINS ITS ONLY GAME

Paris, March 13—The American woman's hockey team were saved from a complete whitewash on its European trip by winning its last game today from a picked Paris team 7 to 4. With this one victory the Americans will sail for home on the President Harding, March 15, having been in England and France since early in January.

The American players did not have as easy a time in winning today, as the score indicates. The teams were tied at two-all at the end of the first half, and again at four-all ten minutes before the final whistle. In the last few minutes, however, the Americans started to play rings around their lining opponents and shot three goals in rapid succession.

The Misses Batty (Sally) and Walker scored most of the points for the Americans.

HOCKEY TITLE TO BE DECIDED AT BOSTON

Boston, March 13—Manager George V. Brown of the Boston arena announced tonight that three of the five games to determine the championship of the United States amateur ice hockey league would be played in this city on March 14, 15 and 18. The second two will be played in the city that wins the western group title.

Manager Brown and Secretary Ray D. Schooley, of the league will confer with Tex Richard in New York next Monday regarding the scheduling of an amateur hockey team in Madison Square Garden next season.

ZBYSZKO TO LEAVE MAT FOR OPERATIC CAREER

New York, March 13—Wladek Zbyszko, Polish contender for the heavyweight wrestling title, has decided to forsake the mat in the near future for an operatic career, according to his friends.

Zbyszko, it is said, feels he has yearned to develop his voice and go on the stage. His godfather was Ignace Paderewski, noted pianist; he was a close friend of the late Enrico Caruso and has many intimate souvenirs of the days of grand opera.

TWO KNOCKOUTS AND DRAW FEATURE BOXING BOUTS AT DANIELSON CASINO

Danielson, March 13.—Francis Rossi of Brockton again demonstrated, at the Casino arena here tonight, that he is one of the climbers worth watching in the lightweight division. He put away Eddie Herman of New York in the middle of the second round of what was scheduled for a ten-round go. Rossi's cool, calculating attack had Herman worried from the first and although the New York boy put up a game and aggressive battle he was no match for Rossi who felled him in the second round for a count of nine. Herman gamely struggled to his feet and promptly mixed things up in a desperate effort to stay but Rossi with another of his measured swings put Herman down for the final count.

The semi-final between Young Sawyer of Boston and Buddy Reklaw of Lynn came to an abrupt ending in the fifth round when Referee Jigger McCarthy of New Haven ordered both boxers out of the ring because he was dissatisfied with the manner in which they were working.

In the first preliminary, Young Coulon of Taftville lost a decision to Young Peshaco of Norwich. Peshaco had all the better of the first three rounds of a four round go but in the last round Coulon knocked him down with a swing to the jaw for a count of nine and had him covering up during the remainder of that round which was the last.

In the other preliminary, Jack Breault of Putnam won over Eddie Owens of Boston in the second round of a bout scheduled to go six rounds. Owens' seconds throwing the sponge into the ring just before the opening of the third round. Boxing Commissioner Frank Murphy of Hartford announced that Harry Wills was to train in Connecticut for a boxing match to be held in Hartford next month and will likely be seen at the Casino arena in an exhibition match within the next few weeks.

BOSTON WHIRLWINDS PLAY AT PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

Another thriller is promised the basketball fans when the Boston Whirlwinds clash with the Plainfield team of the Community house tonight. The fans who witnessed the game between these two teams in their initial contest last week, one that will long be remembered as one of the fastest and cleanest ever staged on any court in this section of the state, began clamoring for another contest between these two teams. Arrangements were finally completed whereby exactly the same two teams will face each other in tonight's battle.

The Whirlwinds will use Nate Hurwitz, formerly of Hartford, now living in Boston, at left forward. This is the player that won the previous contest for the Boston team in the last fifteen seconds of play with a spectacular back-hand shot from the corner of the court. Jack Curtin and Capt. "Fiddo" Morley, both graduates of Boston college, and who played together on the college team for three years, will play right forward and left guard, respectively. Lee Martin, formerly of Newport, but now of Boston, positively the best center in New England, and one of the best in the country, will play center. Earl Neal of Bangor, Maine, one of the best guards obtainable and when playing against Sherman of the Celtics he outscored him four to one, will play left guard.

Plainfield will have Joe Reilly and Tom Berry of Worcester, who was selected on the all American basketball team last year as forward, Jackson and Murphy, two more Worcester boys who displayed a wonderful defense in last week's game, holding both Boston forwards scoreless, will act in the same capacity. Harry Mills will play center.

In the preliminary game the Waldies will tackle the Baltic Bantams, one of the fastest amateur teams in this part of the state.

TOURNAMENT AT YALE CREATING LITTLE INTEREST

Milan, France, March 13—The absence of American tennis stars stops is preventing the international indoor tennis tournament, now in progress from assuming as much importance as the case of players assisted is evidenced, as the Wimbledon tournament it is continuing, by the many of the so-called world's championships held in Europe in recent years, and also marks the non-appearance of international competition of Norman Brookes, the Australian player, after an absence of seven years.

Baron Morpurgo and Count Balbi of Italy; Gordon Lower, J. M. Hillyard and Leighton Crawford, England; Nicholas Mishu, Rumania, and C. F. Aaschlimann, Switzerland, are other prominent players who have passed safely beyond the third round.

Count Salm-Hoogstraten, sent in his entry for the tournament, but finding himself short of his best tennis form, decided to scratch. With the countess, formerly Miss Millicent Rogers, of New York, he is an interested spectator.

PRINCETON AND DARTMOUTH GAME AT NEW HAVEN

New York, March 13—The playoff of the protested game between Princeton and Dartmouth will be staged in the Yale University gymnasium in New Haven, Conn., March 15, instead of at Hanover, N. H., as was previously decided by the executive committee of the Intercollegiate basketball league. This was announced today by Ellwood W. Kemp, Jr., secretary of the league. The game was shifted at the request of Dartmouth because its home court will be unavailable.

Tom Thorp, Columbia, will referee and Ward Brennan, New York Aggies, will umpire the contest.

In the event that Princeton and Cornell end the season in a tie, which will result if the Tigers defeat Cornell next Saturday and Dartmouth on Tuesday, representatives of the two colleges will toss a coin to decide the place for the play-off game.

CANADIAN HOCKEY CHAMP TO TOUR THE U. S.

Montreal, March 13—Manager Lee Dandurand, of the Canadien champions of the National Hockey league, said today his team would leave shortly for a tour of the United States if an agreement was not soon reached for a play-off for the dominion championship with western Canada.

"I have received several offers to play games in the United States," he said. "Our opponents would be an all-star aggregation of the hockey league players."

90. WILLINGTON Y FIVE CHALLENGES LOCAL Y TEAM

The Y. M. C. A. five of South Willington disputes the right of the local Y team to claim the amateur title of the eastern part of the state and would like to arrange a game with the local team. They want the game to be played strictly according to amateur rules and feel confident of being able to beat the local boys. Arrangements can be made by writing G. H. Hall at South Willington.

A Challenge to Wanderers.

Red Eurelle's All Stars of Taftville would like to arrange a game with the Baltic Wanderers for some night next week, the game to be played at Baltic. For final arrangements call 1073-2 between six and seven o'clock this evening. The All Stars are Tom and George Coleman, Bob Cardin, Ed Lemieux and two Norwich players.

Syracuse Scores Win.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 13. — Syracuse defeated University of Minnesota, 2,907 to 2,815 in a telegraphic match in the Intercollegiate Bowling league, according to scores received here today from Minnesota.

Syracuse is leading the league with five victories and no defeats.

Bernhard College Wins

Kansas City, Mo., March 13.—Lawrence college, Caledonia, Ill., defeated the University club of Brooklyn, N. Y., 45 to 39 in the National A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight. Elimination of the University club leaves the east without representation in the tournament.

Shannon Elected Captain

Worcester, Mass., March 13.—Francis Shannon of Hollis, Long Island, was tonight elected captain of the Holy Cross basketball team for next season. Shannon, who is center on the team, is a junior.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE

You will see Dustin Farnum in the role of a woman tamer in his latest William Fox production, The Buster, which comes to the Breed theatre today and Saturday.

It is a novel and fascinating part, and the robust movie idol acquits himself in a fashion that will thrill the most blase of picturegoers. The Buster tells the story of the rough, handsome Westerner, who is called upon to tame a beautiful, but temperamental society belle from New York. How he tackles the most difficult of tasks and how he succeeds, goes to the making of an interesting picture.

The direction of the photoplay was in the hands of Olin Campbell, and the adaptation of the story by William Patterson White was made by Jack Strumwasser. The photography reproduces many picturesque nature "sets" that were "shot" in the American Rockies.

The director has artistically brought to the fore the infectious smile, the splendid physique, and the manly robustness of Farnum, and wrought them all into the Western tale. Romance and action are the keynotes of the theme.

In the support of the Fox star are Doris Pawn, Francis McDonald, Gilbert Holmes and Lucille Hutton.

The Way of a Man, the serial sensation of the century, the Pathe news and a sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Continuous show Saturday 1:30 to 10:15 P. M.

BREED THEATRE

Vesuvius Eruption in The White Sister

It isn't often you can get a volcano to work when you want it to, but Henry King, the director of The White Sister, starring Lillian Gish which will be shown at the Breed theatre starting Sunday was able to photograph a violent eruption of Mt. Vesuvius just in time for the final scenes of the F. Marion Crawford story, which calls for exactly the kind of an explosion that happened.

When the picture comes to the Breed theatre film audiences will get an extra thrill out of knowing that the exploding crater and the lava are real, and that Miss Gish, Mr. King and the rest of the company were right on the spot.

The White Sister is a Henry King production for Inspiration Pictures, Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and is released through Metro. Ronald Colman, a well-known leading man on the stage, makes his first screen appearance opposite Miss Gish. Others in the cast include Gail Kane, J. Barney Sherry, Charles Lane, and Madame Juliette La Violette.

TUBRIDY-WELDON FASHION SHOW IN WILLIMANTIC

"Boy, page the mess." What for? Why for the big live model fashion shows at the Tubridy-Weldon store in Willimantic this (Friday) evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. Fashion shows conducted in Willimantic by the Tubridy-Weldon Co., this season have proven to be a most successful innovation. The first display of this nature staged by the firm last Nov. was attended by over 700 women who crowded the establishment and sidewalks in front of the show windows.

The interest of the gentlemen in this vicinity was aroused last month when a corset show was held and a conspicuous sign bearing the rather disconsolate announcement "No Men Allowed" was placed over the entrance. The store was also crowded with women on this occasion. This evening the women are privileged to be escorted by husbands and gentlemen friends and in anticipation of a capacity audience all are advised to arrive early in order to secure seats.

A bevy of pretty live models from New York city will promenade down the aisles and on the platform, displaying dresses, gowns, suits, coats, hats, furs, beads, bags, and the latest fashionable novelties in women's attire, ranging in size from 14 to 44. The New York models will also display garments and trimmings on the floor all day Friday and tomorrow (Saturday) for the benefit of customers who are unable to attend the show.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

AT THE PALACE.

One of the best bills since the opening of the Palace theater is shown there for the last half of the week and was greeted by large houses on Thursday afternoon and evening. The bill is well balanced and every act is a real honest-to-goodness sure-fire hit.

The headline act is The Merryland Revue presented by three men and one young woman who are seen in a number of novelty dances and heard in a number of catchy melodies. The young woman is an exceptionally fine tap-dancer. In fact, one of the best that has ever been seen on the local stage. The whole act is one that pleases even the most critical.

Laura Ordway scores a decided hit with her auburn-headed partner in what is a real comedy act from curtain to curtain. Her personality is charming and the way she puts across her comedy lines is distinctly original. Anyone who sees this act and does not laugh certainly has a chronic case of grouchiness, of which only the grim reaper will relieve them.

The Great Artemas and Co. present a comedy mystery act that is different from the general line of hokum act. Artemas is a clever sleight of hand artist and with the aid of his company introduces some good comedy. His cabinet gives him ample opportunity to introduce some comedy situations.

Boland and Kelly, two singing boys with exceptionally good voices, which blend in pleasing harmony, score heavily in their song numbers.

Frankie Hamilton also scores well with the audience in his monologue act and with his songs.

STRAND THEATRE

The management turns with great pride to the fact that the Strand Theatre is the possessor of the franchise for B. F. Keith vaudeville for Norwich, which assures the Norwich theatregoers a class of vaudeville that cannot be duplicated by any other booking exchange. Years of faithful effort has made the Keith name a household word. This is the kind of vaudeville the local theatregoers get when they go to the Strand.

The vaudeville at the Strand bears out this fact all the more for it is truly a great show you'll see the last half of this week.

Topping the program is Vivian Cauby's Revue with Dorothy Argo and her pals. Such an act has never before been presented in Norwich. Words are inadequate to describe it.

Joe Worth and Rudy Wilking, the boys from Dixie are better than any Hawkfarm comedians seen heretofore.

Russell and Hayes in "Let's Sing" combine a great comedy and singing offering.

Steven McNally and Xavier De Wolfe in "Making Good" live up to their title. Comedy patter, song and dance make up this fine offering.

Sigrun Herbert and Barbara Newman, late of musical comedy in "Laughladers" are appropriately named.

We cannot urge you too strongly to see this great show for it is the best one of the season.

The rehearsals which Mr. Dunlavey speaks of in his telegram were held at the Boston Opera house on Thursday with the full lighting effects and every piece of scenery in place. Members of the faculty, together with a number of dramatic critics, were present during the rehearsals and from the tone of Mr. Dunlavey's telegram the production was all that was anticipated.

JOSEPH FOLEY, 4, NEW LONDON, KILLED BY NORWICH-BOUND TROLLEY CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 14.—Joseph Foley, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Foley of 425 Williams street, was struck and almost instantly killed by a Norwich-bound trolley car of the Connecticut company on Williams street, at 4:57 o'clock this afternoon. The child was terribly crushed about the head and the body was wedged beneath the forward truck of the car that wreckers had to extricate the body.

The car was in charge of Motorman Arthur Prodell of 118 Smith avenue, Norwich and Conductor Albert Vetter, of 35 Franklin street, Norwich.

Coroner Jeremiah Desmond of Norwich was notified of the fatality and he ordered an investigation warning Prodell and Vetter, together with two witnesses to report at the police station Friday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

So far as could be determined no responsibility for the killing of the child is attached to Motorman Prodell. Medical Examiner Harold H. Meyer stating this evening that his investigation made it apparent that Prodell brought the car to a stop about a length from where the child was struck.

The father of the child is a former member of the New London police force.

The trolley car, No. 205, one of the big double-truck type, left State st. for Norwich at 4:55 o'clock. When the car reached a point in front of the Hupmobile auto station on Williams street, several children were playing on the west sidewalk. As the trolley car gathered speed the Foley boy who was one of the youngsters, ran to the highway and headed for the opposite side of the street. Frozen saw the child and shut off his power and almost at the same time the boy stumbled and fell, his head lurching on the tracks. As the child neared the car, Prodell applied his brakes, but his act was too late as the child went sprawling directly in front of the car. The brake beam of the car caught the little fellow on the skull and dragged him about 40 feet before the car came to a stop and the dazed head was crushed by a pully.

Two wrecking cars were summoned from the New London barn and with their arrival the car was jacked up and the body of the boy was removed. During the progress of the wreckers the father of the child arrived and was overwhelmed with grief.

Medical Examiner Meyer arrived shortly after the fatality occurred and after conducting an investigation ordered the body removed to an undertaking establishment.

The accident interrupted trolley service between New London and Norwich and not until an hour afterwards was traffic restored to anything like normal.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary N. Crandall was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 316 Eastern Point road, Groton. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Allenton, R. I.

Three more automobiles were stolen from New Haven last night, one of the machines being a Hudson speedster. The New London police were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen cars, but no trace of them was found here.

Mrs. Margaret A. Bushnell, 82, of Essex, died this morning at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, where she had been under treatment several months. Mrs. Bushnell suffered a fall at her home last summer and since that time her health had been impaired.

Representatives of the board of school visitors for all those who are desirous of having the city erect a junior high school building, here at a cost of a half million dollars, visited the school building of the city today to ascertain the enrollment of pupils, to learn the seating capacity of the school rooms and to get the space in cubic feet and inches which each pupil is supposed to have, that a report may be made to the parent committee next week. This is in line with the presentation of arguments that it is hoped will influence the people when they go to the polls, on the 7th of April, to vote for or against the erection of the building. The opposition to the junior high school plan has not as yet manifested any great activity but the claim is that they are just waiting till the last few days of the campaign that what they do will be of the sort that will get them votes. There is no doubt that no subject has interested the people more of late than has the proposal to erect this building.

There was a very large number attending amusements in this city this evening. There was a concert at the Baptist church by the Lotus Quartette, bell ringers were at the Methodist church, three motion picture houses were open for the public and a vaudeville company was at the Capitol. Of course all these entertainments did not have as many in the audience as if the season were not Lent, but in the aggregate the number of amusement seekers was very large. The Elks had a meeting and there were other gatherings in society halls about the city.

No steps have yet been taken by Meyer Hollandersky toward reestablishing the building he owned and which was badly damaged by fire about three weeks ago. The city council persists in withholding the necessary permission to build, Mr. Hollandersky has been compelled to go south for the benefit he will obtain for a throat affection by a short stay in a warmer climate and there the matter hangs.

This section has had all the winter weather in March this year.

The police believe that when they started prosecution of youths in East New London for sending in fire alarms they broke up the gang had stopped a nuisance and annoyance. As there have been no alarms sounded since the arrests were made the conclusion of the police seem to be correct.

Tony Rassi and his wife had trouble a few weeks ago and then the former was arrested and appeared in court, but he did not go to trial for his offense of striking the woman. Instead the case was continued until today, when the court called it as the pair are living happily now and are likely to continue in that desirable relation.

All the automobile dealers in this city anticipate that there will be a greater number of automobiles in use the coming summer than ever in service in the United States. That early the number of machines in use is very large and the indications are that the number will be largely increased.

At the regular March meeting of New London Forest of Tall Cedars, held last night in Lyric hall, Grand Tall Cedar Howard A. Edgecomb and Scribe Robert H. Byles were elected delegates to the session of the supreme council, at Camden, N. J., April 22, 23 and 24. H. P. White and Herman Staab were chosen alternates.

Mrs. William R. Nott is recovering from a severe attack of grippe at her home on Connecticut avenue.

Postmaster Walter M. Slocum and son, Richard, have returned to their home on Mountain avenue after several days' visit in Washington.

Miss Mary J. Nelson is spending a few days in Boston.

Ruth, the two-year-old daughter of Frederick and the late Irene Donlevi, of Providence, died this morning at House Memorial hospital. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 13 Washington street, Richard W. Mansfield, superintendent of the B. P. Learned Mission, officiating. The body was forwarded to Providence where the burial will take place tomorrow. The child, who had been residing with Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Methodist street, had been ill but a few days with pneumonia.

Mrs. Alice J. Howard, of 25 Starr street, widow of John T. Howard, died last night at Lawrence hospital, where she had been under treatment about a week. Mrs. Howard was the mother of Police Sergeant Frank Howard and was of advanced years. Besides her son, Mrs. Howard is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank Hart, of New London.

Mrs. Adelia Kelley Lusk, widow of William F. Lusk, died last night at her residence, 21 Bliss man street. Mrs. Lusk was a charter member of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Aldrina Lusk, and by three nephews, Stephen J., William D., and Edward J. McMullen, all of New London.

It is evident that New London will be treated to its share of test performances next summer for already two circuses have signified intentions of showing here. The first will be the Sells-Floto shows, which will exhibit in May. The other is the combined shows of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey.

Samuel H. Palmer has sold a house and lot on Raymond street to Annie Baxter.

John M. Bookstaver has sold to Laury Quintiliani a house and lot on Squire street.

William H. Morris has sold a house and lot on Manwaring street to Katherine Scripelatti.

Myran H. Kazanjian has sold to Mary J. Rhodes a house and lot at 26 Broad street.

Chester Bergin of Pequonoc Bridge, Charles Tefft of the Connecticut College for Women, Miss Josephine Ramistella of Jefferson avenue, and Mrs. Harry Austin of Montauk avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOW OATS EARLY FOR MAXIMUM YIELDS

The first essentials for the production of oats is early seeding. In most sections oats should be sown as early as it is possible to get on the land to prepare a seed bed. This crop develops best in cool weather and frequently is injured by a few hot days during the ripening period. For this reason early seeding is practically always advisable, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

The date of seeding largely depends on the locality and season. In the corn belt the best time usually is during the latter part of March or early April. In the more northern sections seeding usually is not possible until late April. In backward and unfavorable seasons seeding may have to be delayed until early May.

Where corn, potatoes, or other cultivated crops the land should not be plowed as a rule, but should be disked and harrowed sufficiently to make a loose, friable seed bed about 3 inches deep. Spring plowing usually results in a less satisfactory seed bed, as there is not sufficient time for the soil to become well settled before seeding. Further, spring plowing is more expensive, and thus adds to the cost of production.

It always is good practice to sow the best seed obtainable. Usually home-grown seed of a standard variety is better than seed brought in from a distance and therefore of uncertain adaptability. All seed should be cleaned and graded, and then tested for smut.

Seeding with the grain drill requires less than broadcasting, insures a more even distribution of the seed in space and in depth and, as a rule, gives a quicker germination and a more uniform stand. Satisfactory yields usually follow, under the usual humid conditions, particularly in the corn belt, where a good seed bed is prepared, the usual rate of seeding is from 6 to 10 pecks. In the dry-land sections, 4 to 6 pecks usually produce the most satisfactory results.

In a survey of oat varieties made by the Department of Agriculture a few years ago it was shown that a large part—over 40 per cent—of the commercial varieties of that date were unimproved varieties of "just oats." In the intervening number of years many improved varieties of the type have been developed, however, there is every reason why greater than it previously is planted or adapted varieties. The thought is prevalent that any variety of oats under favorable conditions will produce as high yields as an improved, well-adapted variety, but this is not borne out by the facts.

For the northeastern states such varieties as Columbian, Lincoln, Silvermine, and Swedish Select usually produce the best satisfactory yields. In the corn belt such varieties are Lincoln and the Silvermine and Swedish types are the most suitable.

NEED FOR SPECIALIZATION IN POULTRY BUSINESS

A broad field for specialization by farmers in producing table poultry of prime quality is felt to exist by the United States department of agriculture. Most poultry, says the department, is shipped alive by producers because producers are not skilled in dressing and are not equipped to handle and ship the dressed poultry in good condition over long distances.

Shippers of dressed poultry will find it profitable as a rule to fatten the birds for a period of 10 to 14 days before killing, the department says. Requirements of the market to which the poultry are sent should determine whether the birds should be scalded or dry picked, and also the style of dressing. It is extremely important that the birds be well bled and thoroughly chilled immediately after slaughter, to remove all body heat.

Failure to chill properly is often responsible for spoilage. In warm weather dressed poultry should be shipped packed in ice to prevent spoilage in transit. Grading for quality, uniformity, and size is desirable. Shipping of poor quality birds in separate packages is also desirable when the quantity to be shipped is sufficiently large to make this step practicable, the department says.

It probably will not pay to fatten poultry that is in fairly good condition of flesh, before shipping them alive, because the shrinkage in weight of specially fattened poultry is likely to be heavy during the journey to market, the department points out. But if the poultry is very thin it will probably pay to fatten the birds for a few days or a week.

In shipping alive, producers are urged to grade the birds by age and kind and so far as practicable to ship the different classes in separate crops, especially during hot weather, causes heavy loss. Feed should be withheld from the poultry a sufficient length of time before shipping, to insure arrival of the birds on the market with empty crops.

In shipping either live or dressed poultry, the department emphasizes the importance of determining the best days of the week for poultry on the market selected, and the planning of shipments to arrive on those days. Care should always be taken that crops or containers in which poultry is shipped are plainly marked with the name and address of both the receiver and shipper.

WHAT SEED TO SOW IN HOTBED

Plants that must be sown early to gain the full benefit of their crop-producing capacity should be sown in the hotbed in March in the Middle states. In the Northern states it is better to wait until the middle of the month and in the more southerly sections February is the usual time.

Plants to be sown are tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, lettuce to be transplanted, particularly the heading varieties, onions for "Bermuda" types, cabbages, cauliflowers, celery, brussels sprouts, parsley, cucumbers and melons. There are two methods of using hotbeds, dependent upon the plants. One is to sow directly in the earth and the other to sow in flats, shallow boxes or pots and set them in the hotbed. The last method is best for the cucumbers and melons and their tribe as they can be lifted and transplanted with the least difficulty in this manner. In general it is best to sow directly in the soil. The rows should be six inches apart for the more robust-growing plants such as tomatoes and three inches for seedling onions.

Flower seeds that should be sown in the hotbed for early bloom are ageratum, asters, celosias, dahlias from seed, coleus, heliotrope, castor beans, lobelias for edging, marigolds, pansies, petunias, salvias, salpiglossis, schizanthus, ten weeks' stock, snapdragons, verbenas, zinnias and marigolds.

Sow the seed thinly unless there is ample room for transplanting before it is time to set them in the open ground. Otherwise the rows will need thinning as the plants increase in size. Seeds of large size plants such as castor beans, zinnias and dahlias may be spaced readily so that they can grow undisturbed until ready to remove to permanent quarters.

FARMERS FACE DIFFICULTY KEEPING STANDS OF CLOVER

The most serious problem at present confronting the American farmer in many of the clover sections is the increasing difficulty of successfully maintaining stands of clover, says the United States department of agriculture. With continuous cropping and the consequent reduction of the humus and plant food in the soil the difficulty of growing red clover is greatly increased. This condition must be met and solved, since the loss of clover or its equivalent from the rotation leads rapidly to a run-down farm and unprofitable crop yields.

Suggestions for red clover culture based on many years of observation study, and experimental work are presented in the new Farmers' Bulletin 1389, Red Clover Culture, just issued by the United States department of agriculture. The method adopted in any locality for growing clover, says the bulletin, must depend on the rotations followed and the labor and weather conditions in each place. It may be emphasized, however, that to get a good stand the clover must have a fair chance. As usually seeded, too little attention is paid to the weakness of the young clover plant and its needs. In the clover belt clover is important enough to warrant special care in preparing the seeding method best suited to the special soil and to the other conditions prevailing.

Clover must have lime, phosphoric acid and potash, and if the soil is poor in any of these it must be supplied before clover can be expected to do well. A deep well-drained soil is desirable, as on a poorly drained soil red clover will not thrive; better sow alsike clover on such soils if the drainage can not be improved to a suitable state for red clover. The question of lime and fertilizers are largely local ones. The soils in the clover belt vary widely, and the various fields on the same farm may need different treatments. The most suitable treatment for each farm or field is best determined by test, and this can be made without a great deal of trouble. A diagram in the bulletin illustrates how this is done by treating a series of experimental plats with the various fertilizers.

A series of plats, 8 in number is laid out in the field to be tested on land as nearly representative of the entire field as is possible to determine from observation beforehand. The first plat is left untreated for a check as is also the last one in the row. Lime alone is put on the second, lime and phosphate on the third, lime and manure on the fourth, manure alone on the fifth, manure and phosphate on the sixth, and phosphate on the seventh. The eighth plat is left untreated for a check.

This arrangement allows the application of all the lime and all the manure to one continous area. The phosphate is the easiest to apply. Potash plats can be inserted if desired, but over most of the clover area scarcity of phosphate is much more common than scarcity of potash, and by following the outline presented the farmer is likely to find which fertilizer is best to use. A ton of ground limestone and 250 to 300 pounds of 16 per cent acid phosphate per acre is suggested unless the land is known to be very poor in lime, when 2 tons of limestone may be applied.

People of Tasmania.

They are 79.2 per cent native Tasmanians, 11.5 natives of the United Kingdom and 7.3 natives of other Australasian colonies. There are 600 or 700 colored aliens and about 250 half-caste aboriginals.

During the last ten years the raisin crop of California has been increased from 70,000 to 200,000 tons.

WESTERLY

The Westerly High school senior class presented for its class play, in the high school auditorium, Thursday night, Monsieur Beaucaire, a drama from Booth Tarkington's novel of that name. The play centers around a young Frenchman who has come to England in the guise of the French ambassador's barber. Through a clever scheme of his own he forces the Duke of Winteret to introduce him in society, threatening to expose the nobleman as a card cheat, if he refuses. At Lady Malbourne's ball he meets the beautiful Lady Mary Carlysle, with whom he is much in love. The atmosphere of the drama takes one back to the early days of the 18th century, to the period of lace, buckles and powdered wigs, of stately minuets and daring sword play.

The cast follows:

Monsieur Beaucaire, Theodora Whitford; Duke of Winteret, Frederick Agard; Mr. Molyneux, Clarence Gray; Harry Rachel, Edward Clarke; Capt. Badger, Harvey Meikle; Beau Nash, Milton Saunders; Lord Townbrake, Herbert Sisson; Mr. Bantison, Edward Smith; Sir Hugh Guilford, William Murray; Henri De Mirepoix, Dominic Gascarello; Francis, Tony Matarese; Winton, Charles Barber; servant to Beau Nash, George Sprague; Lady Mary Carlysle, Doris Hope; Lady Malbourne, Viola Litman; Lady Clarise, Augusta Stanton; Lady Rollerton, Dorothy Sullivan; Lady Bering-Gould, Flora Gardion; Estelle, Grace Hilton; Marie, Gertrude Kenyon.

The high school hall was crowded and many were disappointed in not being able to witness the first night production.

Appearing before Judge William A. Wilcox in Stonington town court, Thursday morning, was John Oddo, alias, who was taken into custody in Springfield, Mass., and turned over to Connecticut state police, who brought him back to Groton. Oddo, small in stature, with thick black hair, was brought into court by Police Officer Robert McWilliams, and presented on two counts in a warrant made out by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna, of Pawcatuck. The writ charged that Oddo did steal and take away from the residence of Maud M. Johns, at Lord's Point, on Aug. 1, 1923, a gold watch and other valuables to the amount of $25; and while in the lockup in Mystic, in the town of Stonington, for a felony, made his escape.

Oddo gave his age as under 7, Dr. James H. Weeks of Stonington was named as guardian ad litem by Judge Wilcox. Dr. Weeks and Officer McWilliams retired from the court room for a few minutes and Attorney McKenna was called into the conference. On their return Dr. Weeks entered a plea of guilty for the prisoner and waived the reading of the complaint. The prosecuting attorney said that the prisoner was 18 or 19 years of age, lived in New York had had no father or mother since he was seven years of age and had been brought up by a married sister. He requested that probable cause be found and a substantial bond required.

Judge Wilcox found probable cause and required a bond of $1,000, which was not produced and the mittimus was issued for his commitment to New London county jail at New London, to await appearance in the superior court the first Tuesday in May. Present beside witnesses in court was State Policeman Henry Oddo was taken to New London by Officer McWilliams.

LEONARD BRIDGE

Mrs. David Walsh received a card Monday from her cousin, Mrs. Wallace Cady, of Chillicothe, Missouri, telling of the death of her father, William E. Loomis, 70, at Mendoville, Mo., Thursday, March 6. Mr. Loomis was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anson Loomis and spent his early days in this place. March 13, 1873, he was united in marriage with Miss Hattie Kneeland, a sister of the late Judge Albert G. Kneeland. Her death occurred a few months ago. About two years after their marriage they went to Missouri to reside. Since the death of his wife, Mr. Loomis had resided with his elder daughter, Mrs. Wallace Cady. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wallace Cady of Chillicothe, Mo., and Mrs. Frank B. Alderson of Kansas City, Mo., and a son, Albert Loomis, also several grandchildren. Another son, Arthur Loomis, died several years ago. Mr. Loomis is an uncle of Mrs. David Walsh of this place.

Invents World's Greatest Submarine

Prof. Oswald Flamm, a German submersion specialist, who has invented a submarine cruiser of more than 7,000 tons. A big successful model exists. It has been learned that the British, French and Italian Governments are interested in this invention. Prof. Flamm occupies the chair of Theory and Construction of Ships in Charlottenburg Technische Hochschule, and he has developed the submersion principle for the construction of a submarine mine layer capable of laying 1000 mines whereby it could block any port. The new giant submarine can submerge or travel under water without fear of the lack of stability.

Try This Way To Get Relief From Head Colds

Nothing to Swallow—You Just Melt a Little in a Spoon and Breathe in the Healing Vapors.

To stop a head cold, try this simple direct method. Melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the quickening Vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc. Also put a little up each nostril and sniff well back.

Another method is to heat a little Vicks in a teaspoonful of Vicks and inhale the vapors that way. As fast as the vapors lose their strength, throw out the used Vicks and add fresh.

Mothers prefer Vicks for their children because it is so much internal dosing. It acts outward with prompt safety on the throat and chest.

VERY FEW THINGS WHICH WE REALLY "KNOW"

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

They were talking the uniforms over in the bank-room of the store, one day, when Neighbor Waterhouse remarked:

"Whether it's so or not, eh?" put in Uncle Ike, a little sarcastically.

Neighbor Waterhouse glared a moment and started to say something. Then he stopped, mulled over it, opened his mouth again, shut it with a snap, turned half aside and looked inquiringly at Uncle Ike. The latter wore a faint but very bland smile. Neighbor Waterhouse seemed to sense that there was something behind it. However, for he closed his lips again and didn't open them for full ten minutes. Which was a record for him.

It was perfectly evident from his demeanor that he didn't like Uncle Ike's retort. The trouble was that, every reply which occurred to him simply gave Uncle Ike a new opening into which to thrust a keener point of irony. So he retired into silence till the dormitory talk had swung into some other channel.

We've all of us muttered to ourselves over Josh Billings' famous aphorism that it is better not to know much than to know so much that isn't so. But there are a whole lot of us who cannot or will not take that hunk of wisdom into our own lives. Especially a lot of us old farmers.

I don't think that there is quite so much of it in the younger generation. However, that's a debatable question. Some of the youngsters are surely pretty well fed up with acquired or administered information, which they seem to regard as plenarily inspired, and which they are not hesitant about emitting with downright vigor and emphasis upon occasion. They're quite as sure that they "know" what some professor has told them, or some newspaper writer has written for them, as any old Bayseed is that he "knows" this, that or the other from experience. They're apt to be rather more offensive in their dogmatism than older chaps, too. If you've had meetings with any of 'em and feel inclined to dispute my opinion that they are a bottle scarcer than grizzle-haired know-it-alls, I'll not challenge you.

There are a lot in both camps. We'll put it that way. And, if you're in a measly reasonable mood this morning I hope you'll still further agree with me that there are too many in both.

Now, I'm carefully avoiding all reference to theological or political dogmatism. My head is conveniently on my shoulders, at present. I do not want to have it taken smack off by some enraged modernist or fundamentalist or democrat or republican. Please don't forget, when I talk dogmatism, that I'm talking about agricultural, horticultural, agronomical, floricultural, barn-yard-cultural dogmatism, and that I have no reference, expressed or implied, to any one's theological or political assumptions or opinions.

I simply want to set forth and maintain the thesis that, as farmers, there are very few things which we really "know," as distinguished from things we assume or believe. To set forth that, and it's corollary that we have no moral right to assert that the things we happen to think are so really are so.

For instance, I've just been reading an account of the history of our common vegetables and grains. It was quite interesting and, as I felt, informative. I was filing away in my memory various items for future use when I chanced upon a paragraph about Golden Bantam sweet corn which, the writer went on to say "is the finest flavored corn that can be grown."

Flat-footed, just like that. No hesitation about it. "The finest flavored corn that can be grown." No hedging about that statement. No qualification, like "to my taste," or "according to many," or "judged by market demand," or anything of the sort. Just a straight-from-the-shoulder affirmation that Golden Bantam "is the finest flavored corn."

The man who wrote that knew packed sweet corn to consumers. He and his family and the few with whom he has swapped confessions evidently like Golden Bantam. They think it the best ever. That settles it, to his mind. What they think is so. And he puts it down on the black types on white paper, and accordingly goes on to tell some more things.

But, in the meantime, this particular reader has laid down that particular paper and is saying to himself, "H'm. I wonder how many of his other statements are facts and how many are like this one, just assertions of his own opinion? And that's the last I read of that article. The writer's dogmatic assertion of one more opinion as fact cast suspicion on all his other statements. They might all be as baseless as this.

Not but that Golden Bantam is a good corn. Not but that there are very many who prefer it to all other sorts. Not but that I like it, myself. But there are several varieties which seem to me of finer flavor. Moreover, in my peddling days I used to find that a considerable percentage of my customers preferred other varieties. I never figured it up to determine the ratio, but I should say roughly guessing, that fully one-third took a white sweet corn of some sort in preference when they had their choice. My own opinion is that there are at least two kinds of colored corn which are better than Bantam, and that no one of the lot is comparable in flavor, sweetness, tenderness, size or appearance to the old standby of our fathers, Stowell's Evergreen. So many of my customers shared that feeling that I used regularly to plant as much Evergreen as of all other varieties combined to meet the wider demand.

For whether fashions do change, there was a discussion in one widely circulated farm paper about the use of ashes as fertilizer for strawberries. Some beginner had asked about them and various old hands kindly took it on themselves to answer. Before it was finished the editors themselves mixed in. The prevailing sentiment of all whose comments were published was that ashes were sure death to strawberry plants. One mid-west grower made this assertion, in almost so many words. Others concurred, more or less dogmatically.

It happened that I was then enjoying the very best strawberry bed I had ever possessed, which had been fertilized almost solely with wood ashes from the kitchen stove and the "chunk-burner." It also happened that I had two neighbors, growing the same strain on similar land, who, also, depended mainly on wood ashes to keep their beds up, and who, like me, were having exceptionally good luck with the berries.

Don't you see that I might have felt justified in writing a dashing indorsement of ashes? That I had cause for being just as emphatic in the assertion that they were the best fertilizer for strawberries as the other fellow was in his assertion that they were "sure death."

As a matter of fact, neither one of us had the slightest ground for such opinionated dogmatism. It was perfectly evident, from the trend of the discussion, that there are soils and circumstances which make the use of wood ashes detrimental to the growth of strawberry plants. It was equally evident, from the experience of myself and my neighbors, that there are soils and circumstances which make the resort to wood ashes highly beneficial. The truth seems to be, so far as an impartial judgment can specify it, that it's all a matter of local soil or climatic conditions; that what is wise for Podunk Hollow may be foolish on Cranberry Flats; that the berry-grower of New England has no commission to instruct the berry-grower of Ohio. And vice versa.

The unfortunate tendency of human nature is to generalize from too few particulars. That is, to adopt as a general truth the teachings of some special experience. In figurative language, to assume that summer's come when one swallow appears.

It's not only so with individual farmers in their private conversations. It's so with farm journals and farm papers. They take one or two or half-a-dozen cases and form them deduce what they set forth as a law to govern the eleven million cases of all the farmers in the United States.

Some farmer, inspired by a "hunch" of some sort, tries out a new method of raising potatoes or fattening pigs or feeding bees. It works fine. He raises a prize-taking field of spuds, or a banner crop of oats, or gets a record-breaking out-put of winter eggs. Whereupon he rushes into print with a statement of how he did it and a flat-footed demand that all other farmers, everywhere, do as he did and attain like triumphs.

Or some farmer, following old traditional lines, happens to have a smashing yield of corn. Whereupon the farm papers send reporters down to find out his system, to analyze the exceptional results and to set it forth with superlative adjectives and carefully posed pictures as a model for all other farmers to imitate.

—It's poor business, brethren. The great Newton, who made the most tremendous discoveries in science which had been known up to his day, aptly described himself as one who had merely picked up a few pebbles from the shore of a limitless ocean of mystery. We farmers seldom measure up with Newton. We would do much better, at least we would show much better taste, if we would imitate his modesty.

There's a verse which I came upon, forty years ago, which still clings to my memory, like a burdock burr to a dog's tail:

"What mortals think they know of God
A thousand tomes rehearse!
What mortals do not know of God
Fills all the universe!"

Even that material nature, which is just one of God's garments, is largely a mystery to all of us. Even that small area of nature which we farmers live with and under is yet chiefly mapped as "Unknown Territory." The chief excursions we make into the edges of the Great Shadow do not justify us in claiming any exact knowledge of the untraversed regions beyond.

It is, indeed, not only our privilege but our duty to make public any glimpses we may attain into that unknown field. But we do not know what lies beyond or perhaps on both sides of the little sector we may have dimly visioned. Our discoveries, later united with and checked up by other discoveries of other explorers may, eventually, result in the pushing forward of knowledge a fraction of an inch into that Dark Continent of looming mystery.

But is it neither admirable, nor is it wise,—it is not even tolerable that any of us should set up either his opinions or his actual findings in his own experience, as "the Truth about Farming."

What seems true, today, may tomorrow be proved merely an illusion. What today looks like a solidly grounded fact may tomorrow, in a fuller light show up as a fog-bank of unfounded surmise.

Each one of us may, in truth each one must use his particular tallow dip or pine torch to light his own way as best it will. But he has neither warrant nor excuse for trying to palm it off on his neighbors as the sun of absolute truth.

For in practical farming the farmer who actually knows most is the one who has advanced to that point where he knows that he doesn't know much of anything. He guesses and he reasons and he deduces and he tries out and he sticks to what he finds the best,—till something better develops.

But he never says, "I know." For he knows that he doesn't. That is his one and only certainty.

THE FARMER.

GALES FERRY

The annual meeting of the Village Improvement Association was held on Monday evening in the Country Club house, the president, D. M. Pavey, presiding. Walter M. Buckingham, treasurer, acted as secretary in the absence of Secretary Nelson Parker. Miss Laura A. Perkins reported progress in the cleanup work by the junior department. Mr. Buckingham read a letter from Rev. W. D. Woodward, reporting an interview with Mr. Baldelli, proprietor of the New London-Norwich bus line, in regard to a proposed shelter for waiting patrons at Gales Ferry. Mr. Buckingham stated that three new street lights are to be installed, one on the main street of the village, one diagonally opposite and above the residence of Noyes H. Allyn, another at the continuation of the street, at Wood Lawn farm, the residence of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, the third at the home of Walter Clark on Library Lane. It was voted to renew subscription to the American Forestry Magazine. On motion made by Miss Caroline B. Freeman, a drive for new members was voted. Miss Freeman was made chairman of this committee, and Miss Perkins assistant in the work. Mr. Buckingham gave his annual report as treasurer which was approved. The nominating committee, Miss Adelina Povey, Mrs. Mary C. Watrous and Everett Noyes presented the proposed list of officers which follows: President, Rev. Allen B. Bush; vice president, Chesell S. Hurlbutt; secretary, Mrs. Everett Noyes; treasurer, Walter M. Buckingham.

Tellers appointed by the chair for the voting were Rev. W. D. Woodward and Everett Noyes. The result was a unanimous election.

The storm, which began here with lowery weather on Monday became a heavy gale, alternating with rain and snow Tuesday, and continued through the night. At midnight two telephone poles along the village street-line, of the Matheweson property were blown over, carrying the electric light and telephone wires. The high board fence on the north side of the overhead New Haven railroad bridge, as one enters the place, was blown off and wrecked. Nathan A. Gibby auxiliary yawl, May, had the block-ing blown out and the yawl barbaged some rigs at her winter quarters. By 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon help from the Southern New England Telephone company, Norwich, had the village rehabilled with the outside world, and men from the Eastern Connecticut Power company had their lines adjusted, and electricity turned on, at 5 o'clock that afternoon.

The March meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held at the home of Mrs. Nelson Parker on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. W. D. Woodward, presiding. The meeting opened with singing Nearer, My God, to Thee, Rev. W. D. Woodward at the piano. The devotions were led by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, who read on the topic, The Ideal City, Rev. Mr. Woodward offered prayer. The secretary, Mrs. Fanny A. Matthews, read the report. A poem, A Parent's Prayer, was read by Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt. Mrs. Parker conducted the missionary entertainment. A part of the last chapter in the study book, The Child and America's Future, was read in paragraphs by the members. In consultation Mrs. Parker's daughter, Margaret, sang A southern negro song, Sleep, Honey, Sleep, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt being at the piano. After adjournment Mrs. Parker entertained the members at dinner.

William L. Chapman, president of the Ellis-Chapman Co., Inc., of New York, was the guest of his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Culver, of the Submarine base, over Wednesday night, while en route from a business trip to Boston. Mr. Chapman in his boyhood spent many summer vacations at Gales Ferry. He was the fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Homain A. Chapman, who were former residents here, but located in Middletown, Conn., both having died there some years ago.

A St. Patrick's day Epworth League social was held in the vestry of the M. E. church, Wednesday evening, Mrs. Nelson Parker being chairman. The decorations were festoons of ribbons of green and white crepe paper, with branches of laurel, arranged very effectively. Shamrocks were worn as favors. Mrs. Parker had arranged the following program, which she announced: Songs: When You and I Were Young, Maggie, Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms, Miss Jennie G. Perkins being at the piano; duet, I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls, Mrs. D. C. Perkins and Miss Gertrude Allen; reading, The Origin of the Harp, Peter Hedman; selection by a quartette, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Miss Jennie G. Perkins, Rev. W. D. Woodward, D. C. Perkins; recitation, Barbara Frietchie, Rev. Mr. Woodward; song, Wearing of the Green, a group of girls; solo, Mother Machree, C. M. Culver; reading, Uncle Remus Story of The Tar Baby, Dudley C. Perkins; duet, The Enchanted Isle, Mrs. D. C. Perkins, Miss Gertrude Allen. Games played were Kissing the Blarney Stone, potato relay race, lolly pop and others, concluding with a green auction, when the articles purchased by the women and men were matched up and they were partners for refreshments, which were sandwiches, cake and tea. This auction, with Nelson Parker, auctioneer, caused much merriment. The affair was well attended.

Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham attended the Palace theatre, Norwich, Monday evening, to hear the San Carlo Grand Opera company.

Rev. Frank L. Moore, D. D., of New York city, a secretary of the Congregational Missionary society, was a week-end guest, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Allen B. Bush. Rev. Mr. Moore was a co-worker with Rev. Mr. Bush in Colorado, some years ago.

Select the style you prefer but be sure it is a Victrola

That Victrola Instruments and Victor Records are the world's finest products of their kind is universally admitted. Such things don't just happen—they are achieved. In our case contributing factors are more than twenty-five years of effort concentrated on a single purpose, enthusiastic cooperation of the greatest artists and unequalled facilities for complete manufacture in the largest plant ever devoted to the production of one musical product.

Victrola Instruments are better—Victor Records are better—used together they are beyond comparison.

There is but one Victrola and that is made by the Victor Company—look for these Victor trade-marks

| | | | DOUBLE-FACED Number | List Price |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| The Bard of ArmaghWould God I Were the Tender Apple Blossom | John McCormackJohn McCormack | | 963 | $1.50 |

McCormack has never sung anything—perhaps there never will be—with a purer, lighter voice. McCormack and Victor Records look at their best.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Etude in A MinorEtude de Concert (in F Minor) | Ignace Jan PaderewskiIgnace Jan Paderewski | | 6433 | 2.00 |

Chopin, Liszt, Paderewski—three great names of piano music on one record. Four great master—include Victor. These records are masterpieces in the art of recording.

Melodious Instrumental

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Come Back to ErinBelieve Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms | Alberto SalviAlberto Salvi | | 45391 | 1.00 |

Two Irish melodies by this great master of the harp. Years will not exhaust their charm, nor the beauty of this record.

Light Vocal Selections

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| A Rosebud's LullabyRounded Up in Glory | Royal DadmunRoyal Dadmun | | 45367 | 1.00 |

Two baritone songs taking inspiration from Western cowboy life, the second being a favorite with cowboy evangelists—and this record will likely leave one of your favorites.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Call Me Back AgainNocturne Mauresque | Peerless QuartetPeerless Quartet | | 18228 | .75 |

Heavenward for quartet voices with the orchestra. Irish melody in one, and Irish more in the reverberation of the other. Just issued in time for St. Patrick's Day!

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Daddy's Wonderful PalDays of Yesterday | Henry BurrElliott Shaw | | 18268 | .75 |

Songs of sentiment in the popular manner, one for young and for fathers. Hard to tell which side of this record you'll like the better.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| It Looks Like RainCarolinian' Gal | Wendell HallWendell Hall | | 18270 | .75 |

Though Wendell Hall once sang "It ain't gonna rain no mo'," he now sings "It looks like rain." If you have the first record you'll also want this one.

|---|---|---|---|---|
| Why Did I Kiss That Girl?—Fox TrotCalifornia, Here I Come—Fox Trot | Paul Whiteman and His Orch.Paul Whiteman and His Orch. | | 19267 | .75 |

Two excellent fox trots. You know Whiteman's playing and Victor recording—nothing more need be said.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Whistlin' My Blues Away—Fox TrotI've Got a Cross-Eyed Papa—Fox Trot | The VirginiansThe Virginians | | 19269 | .75 |

Lovely four numbers. The Virginians evidently tired to their recording dancers with just this record in their things.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| My Partner's Fancy—Medley of Irish ReelsThe Irish on the Green—Medley of Irish Jigs | John J. KimmelPatrick J. Touhey | | 19271 | .75 |

St. Patrick's Day dances by two masters of their respective instruments—Kimmel on the accordion, Touhey on the Irish (and all kinds) bagpipes. Good melody—and good dancing.

ROOSEVELT TESTIFIES IN OIL PROBE

Washington, March 13.—Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy, came under fire again today before the oil committee.

His order sending a detachment of marines to Teapot Dome to clear it of "trespassers," in the summer of 1922, four months after the reserve had been leased to Harry F. Sinclair, was characterized by Senator Walsh, of Montana, as an "outrageous use of the military powers."

Secretary Roosevelt, also was asked about the circumstances under which he requested Sinclair to give employment to his brother, Archie, whose startling story to the oil committee led to the most sensational disclosures of the long investigation. He explained that when Archie returned from the war in 1919 he was seeking a place and that he either saw or telephoned Sinclair, asking that he employ Archie.

"What was his salary?" asked Senator Dill, democrat, Washington.

"Ten thousand dollars a year at the start," said Secretary Roosevelt. "I think that was increased to $15,000 later on."

Secretary Roosevelt told the committee that his order for the marines to clear Teapot Dome had been issued at the request of Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, under what he understood was an agreement between Fall and President Harding.

This brought from Senator Walsh the charge that Fall and Sinclair wanted the marines used because if they resorted to civil action the validity of the Sinclair-Fall lease would come under review by a court and they did not want that to happen.

"The thing in my mind then was the protection of naval property," Secretary Roosevelt said in explaining why he ordered the marine detachment under Captain George K. Shuler to Wyming. He confirmed this by a reference to an entry in his diary made on the day the order was issued, July 20, 1922.

Senator Walsh in several statements, to "the gentlemen of the committee," declared the property had passed out of the possession of the navy department to Sinclair, and that in any event resort should have been had to the courts from which he said speedy relief could have been had.

Senator Bursum, republican, New Mexico, sought to develop whether there had been a precedent for such use of the marines, but Secretary Roosevelt said officials of the department had been unable to find one in the navy records.

JEWETT CITY

Rowland R. Barber's home in Lisbon caught fire Thursday forenoon, but was saved from destruction by prompt and efficient work, with the only water supply available, which was drawn from a nearby well.

The blaze started in the chimney and was communicated to a clothes closet in Miss Barber's room, through a stovepipe hole. Telephone calls to the borough and to near neighbors, brought Paul Geist and his son Bob, who with Duncan McKay arrived just in time. Mr. Barber and his daughter were drawing water from the well, but Rudolph Ericson on a ladder, had to lose valuable time in coming to the ground for every re-filled pail. With the aid of the reinforcements the blazing closet and clothes were soon under control, and the historic farmhouse, one of the landmarks of Lisbon, was saved from destruction. Chief Thomas Wakely and W. F. Finn Jr., with extinguishers from the engine house, made a record run by automobile, but even as they arrived, the last of the blaze was conquered. Miss Barber lost all her clothes, except those in which she stood. The damage, insured, may be covered by $200. The men who were there, declare, that Miss Barber faced the fight with the action and courage of the best of them.

Wednesday evening Lecturer Rev. J. J. Tyler, grand knight, and William Duggan and Louis Masse, of the local council of the K. of C., were guests of St. John's council in Plainfield at the regular meeting of the council. The meeting was followed by a luncheon and social hour. Father Tyler was the speaker of the evening and addressed the assemblage on matters pertaining to Columbianism.

A small boy was seen Thursday afternoon on top of a shed in the upper part of the town, flying a diminutive kite, made of red paper stretched over two sections of barrel hoop, with an exceedingly long tail. Every time the draft of air slacked off a bit, the tail would bring the kite to the ground. Not so long ago, every spring kite flying in the borough was a great pastime, and later it became a matter of science. The late E. M. Swift, used to interest the boys in his upper grades in Saturday kite flying, and he made some famous fliers, that would mount to a great height, but they all carried tails. It remained for the late A. A. Young, to introduce perfect and put into the air, the first tailless kite ever seen in Jewett City. From plans secured through the hydrographical department, he built a kite that was six feet tall, with no tail.

So equally arranged was the construction of the balance, as touching the point of draft from the string, that one April day it rose straight up, in a light air, over 2,000 feet, and hung motionless, far above the Congregational church spire, for hours. Charles Edw. Prior, Jr., then a Jewett City boy, made several fine tailless kites, three of which he flew tandem, from the Hartford reservoir, with astonishing results.

Persons between 21 and 60 years must pay personal tax. Collector Chas. Maynard will be at Town Hall Sat., from 1:45 p. m. or any time at 31 Green Ave.—adv.

The meeting of the missionary society of the Congregational church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Alex McNicol. It was arranged as a Japanese tea, and the members were most becomingly dressed in gay Japanese kimonos, wearing hair ornaments of fans and other fancies. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, and butterflies and Japanese novelties. Two little Japanese maids in pretty frocks and carrying parasols were Edith Mann and Charlotte Albertine, who greeted the members at the door and showed them to the rooms. The president, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, presided and conducted a Lenten devotional service. During this service Mrs. John Whalley read the Scripture and Miss M. A. Burdick read The Significance of the Lenten season. After the secretary's report, the Japanese maids distributed the manual, The Fellowship of Prayer, prepared for the Lenten season; the Lenten offering envelopes were also given to the members to be handed in at Easter. It was decided to have a special meeting for an examination on the chapters already studied in the Japan study book. A sale will be held soon, the proceeds to go toward the society's appropriation. The reading of the third chapter of The Leaven in Japan was by Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. She also gave a map exercise, pointing out the different Congregational mission stations, Mrs. Carle Munn giving the names of the missionaries who are at these places. Mrs. Hiscox gave statistics from the Year Book, touching these schools. Mrs. C. D. Wolf read a short article on Japan. Edith Munn sang a Jap Doll, while she was seated on a table holding a fan, and Charlotte Albertine sang a Japanese May. Then the members, true to Japanese custom, sat upon the floor, and sipped tea and ate fancy wafers. Nineteen were present and enjoyed and profited by the programme.

Friends of J. E. Phillips were interested to learn of the death of his aged aunt, Mrs. Hannah Matteson in Hope Valley. He visited her ten days ago, when she was 101 years of age.

JIU JITSU TO BE TAUGHT NEW YORK POLICEWOMEN

New York, March 13.—A little of the orient will be a match for a lot of the rector of the women's precinct, said occident, Mrs. Mary E. Hamilton, today in announcing that the policewomen of her masher squad are to be taught the Japanese wrestling system, jiu jitsu. Aided by a thorough knowledge of jiu kitsu, Mrs. Hamilton said the slightest of her policewomen would be able "to throw a 200 pound man over her shoulder like a sack of meal."

At present Mrs. Hamilton has a force of 70 policewomen and 30 patrolwomen, but says she will ask to have the number expanded to 1,000.

That Hang-on Cough Must Go

Make It Yourself In Two Minutes

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of all for the Cough that Sticks.

The coughing season is on and every home should have a supply of the best cough remedy to be had, and as you can make this supremely excellent cough mixture yourself why pay high prices for the common kind.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength) — to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint —that's all there is to it.

Then when any member of the family starts coughing or catches cold in chest or head, or has acute catarrh, you are prepared as you should be.

And the children love to take it.

With speed almost beyond belief this home made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a subsiance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice, and blessed relief comes at once.

And you should also bear in mind that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Giving Imitations

Now let me see. What did Little Jack Rabbit do the next day. Well, the first thing after breakfast he took Uncle Dave Cory over to the Shady Forest to see the Squirrel Brothers. You see, he also thought that Squirrel Nutcracker and his family, who lived in the Old Chestnut Tree in the Shady Forest would be interested to hear about squirrels. But, more than anything, of course, to see the man who writes the daily Little Jack Rabbit stories.

"Maybe they'll come to Pumpkin Hall to hear you tell your stories," he said to Uncle Dave.

Well, I guess he was right, for no sooner did they hear about it than all the squirrels promised to be there.

"Now isn't that nice," he said, "let's tell the farmyard folk," and away he hopped, as fast as Uncle Dave could walk.

"Bow wow," went Old Sic'em, the Farmer's Dog. "I'll come if the Kind Farmer unlocks my chain!"

"Will you come, too?" asked the bunny boy, as Cocky Doodles looked out of the henhouse.

"May I bring Henny Jenny?" asked the little rooster.

"Of course. And ask Goosey Lucy, Turkey Tim and Ducky Waddles," answered the little rabbit hopping over to the old shed.

"Won't you come to hear Uncle Dave talk to the rabbit children?" he asked Mrs. Cow. "He knows all about animals." "To be sure," laughed the nice lady cow with a smile and a moo.

"When is it to be?" asked Betsy, the old Gray hare, as Little Jack Rabbit handed her an invitation printed on a lovely pink and yellow card. Where he got it I don't know unless Uncle Dave gave it to him.

"Tomorrow afternoon," answered the little rabbit.

"Maybe they won't let me in," sighed the Circus Elephant when the little rabbit stopped at his seat in the Shady Forest.

"Will you promise to be good and help your father mow the weed?" inquired the little rabbit.

"Sure I will," replied the big Elephant, winking at Uncle Dave.

"Now let's call on the Cottontails," and off went the little rabbit. Of course his bunny cousins were delighted and promised to come even if they had to get up before breakfast!

"We'll be there to have a look.
Maybe we will buy a book.
We'll be glad to hear a story
By our Uncle David Cory.

Every night the Bunny News
Is the paper that we choose.
We don't know just what to do
Till we've read his story through."

NORWICH PARTY EXPERIENCE STORM IN MEDITERRANEAN

Rutherford C. Plaut, who has reached Italy in his tour around the world accompanied by Julius W. Cadden and the Misses Cadden, does not subscribe the sentiment that to see Naples is the consummation of all earthly delights. In a letter to a Norwich friend he writes of some of his Italian experiences as follows.

February 19th

My dear Ed:

Someone, somewhere at sometime, said "See Naples and die." Just what was meant by those words, I do not seem to grasp. If, from the filth and dirt one is forced to pass through enroute from a steamer to the railroad station, I could readily see what the quotation meant. We were pitched from Monaco to Naples—not all one pitch, though. We certainly would have liked that better. It was just like one of those days, Ed, that we run up against in summer in Fishers Island sound, when you say "Let's make for home." A gale came up out of the north, and, notwithstanding the great ship that the Empress of Canada is, we stood alternately on our head and fore feet all the way over, while the roar and howl of the wind was appalling. We changed our minds about the placid, dreamy disposition of the Mediterranean. The storm cleared up soon, however. On the way down the Italian Coast to Naples, we passed in sight of Corsica, but not near enough to gain a satisfactory view. However, there are several islands of sufficient interest historically to warrant mention. There was Elba, imposing and mountainous, famous as the birthplace of your friend Napoleon. History says that Napoleon left Elba February 26, 1815, landed at Cannes and made a triumphal entry into Paris. He then started his campaign of the "Hundred Days", ending with his defeat at Waterloo. About 20 miles further South is the rock of Monte Cristo. In no part of Italy, and it is said nowhere else in the world, is the natural scenery more delightful than in and around the Bay of Naples. Directly ahead is Vesuvius, with its ever present column of steam. The first impression we received of Naples was the older or lower town, and it was quite unattractive, owing to the crowded condition. The street life is most picturesque and furnishes some of the Neapolitan atmosphere, which is made so much by artists. The narrow streets are lined with dirty looking tenements. Each is equipped with a basket to the street and purchase the wares that they may need from a street Vender and hoist away, and there they are. It seemed that everybody was doing their family washing. They dry their clothes by hanging them on a line that extends across the street, and there was a solid mass of white banners flying.

We visited the Royal Palace,—at least Carrie, Minnye and myself did, and we thought it the handsomest and most wonderfully furnished and decorated palace that it had been our good fortune to see. The Palace extends over a distance of nearly 600 feet and it has three stories. Opposite the Palace is the Church of San Francesco di Paola, its high altar richly inlaid with jasper and lapis lazuli. This is where the funeral services of Caruso were held. Of the three hundred churches in Naples, the chief is the Cathedral of San Gennaro or Saint St. Januarius. St. Januarius was born in 272 near Naples and became bishop of the city in 303. When he was beheaded in 305, two small vials of his blood were retained and afterwards presented to the Bishop of Naples, who brought the body to the city during the reign of Constantine. It is said that on this occasion the blood liquified, and that on many occasions since that time, the vials have lent protection to the city when threatened from eruptions of Vesuvius or from the spread of plague.

Naples has one of the largest Opera houses in Italy, the San Carlo Theatre. It adjoins the Royal Palace. Most of the famous operas of Donizetti, Rossini and Bellini had their premieres here. Cadden went to the Opera and saw Cavelliere Rusticana. He enjoyed it very much. The rest of us were all too tired, having visited the buried city of Pompeii during the day. Just opposite the theatre is the famous Galleria Umberto Primo, an arcaded structure of huge size built in 1887. The building contains many shops, cafe, restaurants, etc., and is the popular gathering place for the people in the evening—when the hum of animated conversation, confined by the arched roof, grows into a deafening roar. The Natural Museum of Naples offers a collection of relics from Herculaneum and Pompeii, but Cadden was delegated to visit this place, so look to him for a description of it.

We took a train from Naples to Pompeii. Our instructions were to be aboard at 8.15 a. m. and we all were, but the train did not move until 10 a. m. The distance is 13 miles and it took one hour by railroad. Pompeii was a Roman seaside resort and it must have been some bird of a place. At the time of the destruction, the population was 35,000. Excavation has uncovered two thirds of the city, but progress is slow, and is made only as funds are available. The city was partially destroyed by an earthquake in A. D. 63 and completely so on August 24 A. D. 79. The first sign was a dense shower of ashes which covered the city to a depth of three feet. In this instance, the inhabitants escaped, many of them returning in a quiet interval of the eruption, probably to recover their valuables, etc. In 1748 a peasant, while digging a well, came upon several statues, bronze vessels and some utensils. The find excited the interest of King Charles III of Naples, and in 1755, after making some progress in excavating the city, the amphitheatre was uncovered. Since that time, excavation work has been carried on systematically, but it will be years before the entire city will be uncovered. Just within the walls is the Pompeiian Museum, containing many of the recent finds. Practically everything connected with the daily life of the people is represented in the many objects exhibited there. Statues, bronzes, furniture, tableware, kitchen utensils, toilet articles, jewelry, and even bread and grain have been found. Most interesting, but also gruesome, are the casts of victims. In many cases, it is possible owing to the solidity of the skeleton, to make a perfect plaster cast, which reproduces in detail the figure of the person. The casts show that death was not easy, the arms and legs being drawn up and the fingers clenched, as if in agony, and in some cases the garments are thrown over the head as if to shut out the poisonous gases. There is also a body of a dog, crouched and snarling. The buildings are small as a rule, but substantially paved with lave blocks. Many of the streets were lined with shops and on the walls have been found political announcements, much like our campaign slogans of today. The houses were evidently two stories in height, but the second story has been destroyed by the shower of hot pumice and stones. All of them follow a general plan of construction. On the side of the entrance was a small chamber for the porter, and just within was the central court, having a fountain or reservoir for storing the rain water. Surrounding this court were the different apartments, the chief of which was the public room. The room where people were received on business was in the rear. The large inner court, usually surrounded by columns, had opening from it the private family rooms, including the dining room, kitchen and sleeping rooms. Everywhere in these houses is found elaborate wall decoration in bright colors the predominating color being that peculiar red now called "Pompeiian". Many beautiful specimens of mural art remain and the best are carefully preserved for public view. The Forum, or great public square of Pompeii, is 515 feet long and 167 feet wide. The amphitheatre, near the edge of the city, will seat 20,000 spectators. The public bath houses were admirably suited for all sorts of bathing. There were separate apartments for men and women, dressing rooms and lockers and some of the rooms were fitted with hollow walls, which, by means of fires below, were kept at high temperature, much in the manner of Jim Dawson's Turkish Baths. Among the many elegant residences is the house of Vellius, ornamented with bright frescoes and paintings and having a central court filled with growing plants and many fine bits of statuary. Then there is the big house of the Tragic Poet, so-called from a representation of a reading poet. On the doorstep is an inscription "Beware of the Dog." The house of the surgeon, thought to be the oldest in Pompeii, is built of great limestone blocks. Many surgical instruments were found in it. On another house a sign said "Welcome." We lunched there in true Neapolitan style and had a regular Italian dinner with chianti wine and a Neapolitan Trio sang all the favorite songs in an admirable manner. We visited Caruso's Tomb, which is being built in the cemetery, about a half hour's auto ride from Naples. His body now lies temporarily in the tomb of his son's father-in-law, named Caruso. A young handsome Italian girl, whose father is sexton of the cemetery, with key in hand opened the tomb and we entered. There was Caruso's casket surrounded by candles. We then saw the tomb which is under construction for the reception of the body of the once great artist. A place has been selected for the tomb which is next to the final resting place of his best friend.

Returning from the cemetery we encountered a carnival parade, which was a revelation to us.

About two o'clock today, the Empress of Canada crossed the course of the Baltic, cruising the Mediterranean a little ahead of her on her way from Algiers to Athens. The Cythia and Lapland, on like cruises, were in the Naples Harbor. The Lapland departed just ahead of us for New York and the Scythia, which we met at Madeira and Gibraltar, arrived one half an hour before we sailed. The Conte Verde, the Italian liner which occupied the same wharf with us at Naples, sailed for New York with the March quota of Italian immigrants. They set out for the land of opportunity with light hearts and a gay song on their lips.

Last night at eleven o'clock, Cadden woke me up to see Strombole, the volcano lighthouse of the Mediterranean, flash the fiery signal. It has displayed nightly for more than 2,000 years. Three hours after sighting Strombole the Empress of Canada passed thru the treacherous straits of Messina, formed by the toe of the boot-like peninsula of Italy and Mt. Aetna on the island of Sicily.

In the moonlight, the mainland sprinkled with numerous lights of towns and villas, and finally with those of Reggio, and the shores of Sicily, from whence sparkled the lights of Messina, which was wholly destroyed and 96,000 of its inhabitants killed in the earthquake of 1908, could be discerned easily. On the top is the rock of Scylla, the swirling eddies about which form the roaring, all-devouring sea monster immortalized by Homer.

The restaurant that we dined at in Naples would have just suited you. I am getting so that I can juggle spaghetti as well as a native.

We are leaving Italy and on the 20th we will arrive at Port Said, Egypt Here we will leave our boat for the first time to sleep ashore for five nights in Cairo.

Give my love to your folks, including your sisters in Taftville, and don't forget to send this letter or a copy to my sister.

I received the Bulletins in Naples but no mail from Norwich.

Regards to all.

You Can Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the inflamed, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments have failed.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, March 14.—For the first time in nearly a month, stock prices today duplicated a definite upward trend although trading was still on a somewhat restricted scale.

Several factors contributed to the marked improvement in speculative sentiment including the overnight announcement that American bankers had placed a credit of not less than $100,000,000 to the account of the Bank of France in order to assist the French government in stabilizing its currency, the inauguration of dividends on Southern railway common stock, easier money rates and a continuation of favorable trade reports. Transactions in Southern railway common exceeded 100,000 shares and comprised more than one-eighth of the day's total sales, the stock climbing nearly four points to 55, a new high record for all time. It closed a point below the top figure. Other railroad shares advanced in sympathy, notably Wabash preferred A, Frisco preferred, St. Louis Southwestern and Lackawanna, all of which closed a point or so higher.

Standard Industrials such as United States Steel common, Baldwin, American Can and Studebaker, which have been moving within extremely narrow limits were accorded good buying support and closed at net gains of 1 to 1 1-2 points.

Considerable attention also was paid to the high priced specialties. Fisher Body jumped 5 1-2 points to 215, a new 1924 high, while Woolworth established a new maximum for all time at 382 3-4 and then dropped back to 380, where it was up 1 3-4 on the day. General Electric closed nearly 7 points higher at 218 3-4; Dupont advanced nearly 3 points to 128 7-8, closing slightly below the top, and United Fruit moved up three points to 194.

Bear traders made an unsuccessful attempt to depress the general list by distributing substantial selling orders among the standard industrials to be executed on the announcement of the Southern railway dividend. These were well absorbed, however, and operations on the short side in these issues were quickly abandoned.

Sales of raw silk at a new low price for the year due in part to the weakness of Japanese exchange, had a depressing effect on the so-called silk shares, Mallinson common and preferred and Julius Kayser each dropped a point or more. Sugar shares improved in sympathy with the more active market for the raw product. Impressive strength also was shown by Colirado Fuel, International Harvester, Corn Products, National Dairy Products and the New York Lock issues, all up 1 1-2 points or more.

Wall street interpreted the granting of the French loan to mean that official assurance had been received that the Dawes reparation report would be acceptable to both France and Germany. Indications that huge sums are available here for investment and commercial purposes were seen in the widespread inquiries by banks for participation in the French credit, applications for which were materially scaled down.

Call money held at four per cent. all day, some 'outside loans' being reported below that figure. Time money and commercial paper markets continue quiet with no connection in rates.

The sharp recovery in the French franc, based on the French loan and the sharp contraction in note circulation featured the foreign exchange market. With the exception of Japanese yen, which again reacted sharply, most of the other rates showed moderate improvement.

After advancing more than three points the first sixty recital two, while the 7 1-2s showed a net loss of 3 1-2 points for the day.

Inauguration of dividends on the Southern railway common stock stimulated trading in the company's bond issues, all of which gained on the news. The majority of standard railroad issues improved, and Punta Alegre sugar 7s in crossing 120 reached new high territory.

Prospective new financing includes an $18,500,000 Public Service of New Jersey issue, about $12,000,000 Chile Copper debentures and $10,000,000 Continental Motors obligations.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 13.—Subjected to conflicting influences, bond prices today developed an irregular trend, with the strength of foreign and high grade railroad bonds offset by general heaviness in the rest of the list.

Substantial gains in the prices of French republic and municipal issues reflected the beneficial effects of the $100,000,000 credit established here for the Bank of France. Although the advance of the bonds was not as striking as that of the French franc, which sold a full cent above its record low level, there was lively trading activity in the government's obligations. The fact that the loan is more than a temporary financial measure was favorably regarded in bond circles.

Uneasiness over prospective changes in Wilson and company's financing plans caused conflicting movements in the prices of the company's bonds.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 13.—Trading in curb securities broadened somewhat today and prices moved irregularly higher.

Principal fluctuations took place in the oil group. Borne and Scrymser jumped ¾ points to $64; Standard Oil of Ohio moved up four to 327; Standard Oil of Nebraska, climbed 3 to 242 and Gulf of Pennsylvania one. Prairie Oil and Gas broke from 249 to 244, closing at 245 1-2 for a net loss of 4 1-2 points. Most of the other changes were fractional.

Several strong spots developed in the industrial group, notably Lehigh Power securities which added two more points to its recent gain, touching 4y 3-4, a new top, and closing slightly below that figure. Dubilier and Hazeltine Radios also touched new tops while Ford Motors of Canada jumped five points to 470. Kresge department stores also was strong on belated reflection of the recent advance in the old stock.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 13. — Wheat today fell to the lowest prices since August 7 last, but rallied somewhat when word came that two million bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought for shipment to Europe. Abandonment of belief in a shortage of domestic supplies east of the Rockies was a leading bearish factor. Wheat closed unsettled, 1-2 to 7-8c, net lower, May 140 and July 106 5-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c off, oats varying from 3-8c decline to 1-4c advance, and provisions two cents to 20c down.

Liquidating sales on the part of holders of wheat outweighed every other consideration in the market during the first half of the day. Evidence was at hand in this connection that disappointment was keen over government reports failing to sustain the domestic shortage theory which for months has been one of the big props of the bull side of the market. As a result no adequate support for prices developed until May delivery had touched as low as $1.05, a level within 1 5-8c of the season's bottom figures, and 7c under last week's high point. In addition to the large purchases of Canadian wheat for Europe, a little export business was done here, the first in some time. Crop complaints from states east of the Mississippi were also noted, but for at least the time being were treated as of only passing moment.

Vigorous buying rallied corn and oats from moderate declines in sympathy with wheat. Arrivals of corn were meager and reports of delay to oats seeding were current. Traders virtually ignored talk of substituting rye for corn, though rye today was selling here at the lowest price yet this season.

Packers selling weakened the provision market.

WOMAN IN STATE HOSPITAL INTERESTED IN ESTATE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 13.—Chief of Police Allan MacArthur received a letter this morning from Hubbard & Hubbard, attorneys of Louisville, Ky., asking for information regarding William Rice who, when last heard of, was employed in a clerical position in this city and who 13 or 14 years ago married Sarah Etta Bates of Bacchel, Jefferson County, Kentucky. "We have wife's father has died, there is an ex-wife's father has died, there is an estate to be settled," was the information received from the western state.

Chief MacArthur has turned over the letter to Judge Otto B. Robinson of the Windham Probate Court and the required information is being collected for the Louisville attorneys.

William C. Rice died in South Windham, October 18, 1914, leaving his wife and five children, four by his first wife and one by his second.

His second wife was Sara Etta Bates [illegible] of Kentucky, who married Rice early in 1910 through a matrimonial agency, according to residents of South Windham. This woman was committed to the Norwich State hospital for the insane, June 7, 1911, shortly after the birth of a child and is still a patient there, according to the records of the selectmen of the town of Windham. Two children of the family are at the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital. Irene born in 1907 and committed in 1914 and Curtis H., committed November 1, 1911. The latter is a child by the second Mrs. Rice.

Mrs Robert J. Young of Norwich was a visitor in town Thursday.

All attempts to locate relatives of Daniel Byron have failed. Mr. Bryon died suddenly at his room in the Ponemah House Wednesday afternoon while waiting for an ambulance that was to convey him to the Backus hospital.

WHAT IS THE USE OF LIVING?

What is the use of living when a woman gets up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed at night with headache, backache, dragging-down pains, nervous, irritable and despondent? These are all symptoms of ailments peculiar to her sex which makes life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a good old-fashioned remedy made from roots and herbs. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and for fifty years has been restoring women to health and strength and the joys of living.

SHORE LINE TROLLEY OPERATION IS CONTINUING AT A DEFICIT

Operation of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co., is continuing at a deficit, according to the report made by Receiver Robert W. Perkins for the month of January in which an operating deficit of $1,349.65 is shown. Passenger fare receipts in the month were only $457.66 more than the payroll account.

Receiver Perkins filed his report at the office of the clerk of the superior court, which shows that the total operating deficit has now reached $58,103.50. Of this amount $52,227.01 was accumulated from the receivership date Oct. 1, 1919 to Dec. 31, 1920, and the rest has been added since, although there was an operating gain of $7,634.33 in 1922. The next year this was turned around to an operating loss of $7,085.95, and in 1921 there was an operating loss of $4,635.75.

The cash report of receipts and disbursements for January is as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Cash on hand Jan. 1, 1924 | | $36,454.15 |
| Cash receipts in January— | | |
| Passenger revenue | $1,945.95 | |
| Accts. Receivable | 5,510.39 | |
| Miscellaneous | 61.55 | 7,517.89 |

MIDDLETOWN RECTOR IS LENTEN SERVICE PREACHER

Put on the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the evil one, wrote St. Paul to the Ephesians, said Rev. F. F. German, D. D., rector of Holy Trinity church, Middletown, speaking Thursday evening at the first united lenten service of Trinity Episcopal church and Christ church, at the last named church.

Is this true, asked Rev. Mr. Graham. We know St. Paul to be a man of education, a man of action, a man of practical nature, one who did things; is it true that St. Paul found sufficient defense by use of the shield he recommends, that of faith.

We know that the shield of faith did not protect St. Paul against failure, for in spite of his prayers he met with many lamentable failures, just as we who plan and work awaken to find some day that those we have aided have gone back to ways of evil.

Whatever St. Paul meant by faith, it did not protect him from failure. No, it did not protect him against failure but it did protect him from pessimism, so often born of failure.

Did it protect St. Paul from injury? Again the answer is no, for St. Paul was often injured, many times unjustly but it did protect him from that spirit of revenge, that spirit that we feel when injured, and which often works to injure our homes and the good name of the church. Never in the life of St. Paul did we find the spirit of revenge, the shield of faith prevented this.

Did the shield of faith prevent St. Paul from suffering pain? St. Paul suffered great pain, pain of mind, devotion and of body. Whatever he meant by shield it failed to save him from pain; but, it did save him from murmuring; that spirit of complaint.

Never in St. Paul did we see that spirit which pities itself, that makes one a burden, a nuisance to those about him, making them go out of their way to humor and pity.

Neither did the shield save him from success, for St. Paul had many wonderful successes and victories. But we never find St. Paul guilty of pride, conceit or vanity, his shield saved him this. How often are we cruel when success comes. The woman who has arrived is often times brutal in that hour, brutal with the look in her eyes, the poise of her head, brutal to those she once did know. In a man we find the same trait when the hour of success arrives.

I offer these suggestions to you for the shield of St. Paul because by applying it when failure comes, pessimism does not; when pain is felt, there is no complaint; injury does not lead to revenge and success does not lead to pride, conceit and cruelty.

St. Paul faced the great issues of life and in life there are but two ways of living. The first way is that which says life is but materialism, it doesn't come from, or go anywhere. This philosophy sends into the world a man self-centered, without feeling, simply a machine here, for now with nowhere to go when the end comes.

The second way is that of Jesus who said All this life pulsing in my body is one with the tiniest flower to the great constellations in the heavens. That kind of life has a meaning; it teaches the great brotherhood of man. Life is not meaningless, our efforts not in vain. At this stage we are on the edge of a new life, being born again, man becomes then, what God made him, for eternal life is there, an intelligent life.

But they say we can't prove it. Jesus risked his all on that side of life and his adventure showed a magnificent character developed in a man that the eyes of the world might see life as it can be made to be.

A passion for that type of life, the life of Jesus protected us against failure, pain, injury and the pride, conceit and brutalities that sometimes follow success. We know that He in whom we have committed ourselves will never go back on us.

It wasn't the touching of the garment worn by Christ that healed the woman; it was the daring to believe that healed her. People said who is this that is among us, do not we know his father and mother, his sisters and brothers, even his trade? Yes, they knew all this but they did not know how His life was linked up with God-the source of all life.

Learn how to live, study the teaching of Jesus then take them into your schools, business, into all life. Be like St. Paul, wear that shield of faith which protects you from all these things, which spoil your life, that lead you to pessimism, revenge, complaint and lastly to pride, conceit and cruelty.

The next Thursday evening service will be held at Trinity Episcopal church on March 27th when Rev. John H. Deming, rector of St. George's church, Newport, R. I., will preach.

SATURDAY LAST DAY TO FILE INCOME TAX RETURNS

Saturday will be the final day for the filing of income tax returns and today (Friday) and Saturday will be without doubt, unusually busy days for the local office of the revenue bureau in the county court house.

Upwards of 31,000 income tax returns or about half the number expected had been received at the Hartford office up to Thursday. According to officials at the bureau each mail is bringing in thousands of returns.

RENEWING ITS WORK ON ANTI-POLLUTION LEGISLATION

The Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, through a special committee, has again taken up its study of the pollution of streams and tidal waters of this state with a view to drafting a bill for introduction into the next session of the general assembly which will have the support of all parties directly and indirectly affected by the passage of such legislation. The chamber's committee is taking as a basis for its work the anti-pollution bill which was vetoed by Governor Templeton following the closing days of the last session of the legislature, with a view to perfecting it to meet with the approval of the parties interested in solving this problem.

The state chamber's committee, whose chairman is George E. Beers, an attorney-at-law and formerly compensation commissioner for the Third congressional district, has already held two meetings at the executive offices in this city. The other members of the committee are: John Buckley of Hartford; Howell Cheney, Cheney Brothers, South Manchester; Waldo E. Clarke of New London; Dr. William H. Coon, board of health, Bridgeport; Edward F. Hall, Landers, Frary & Clark, New Britain; Dr. T. J. Kilmartin, department of health, Waterbury; H. L. Lewis, H. J. Lewis Oyster Co., Bridgeport; William K. Mollan of Bridgeport; W. H. Raye, president Producers Sales Co., South Norwalk; and Frank Wilcox, president, Frank Wilcox Co. of New Haven.

The Connecticut Chamber of Commerce first took up its study of pollution in 1921 at the request of the manufacturers and oyster men who are most concerned with this subject. Previous to that time there was little disposition on the part of the various interests to get together. Since 1921 the chamber has drafted and caused to be introduced into the 1921 and 1923 sessions of the legislature two separate bills. Each of these bills failed to meet with the approval of the legislative committee which considered them and were so amended and changed as to render them unsatisfactory to either one interest or the other.

In the larger cities of the state a great many of the manufacturing plants empty their waste into city sewers, but in the smaller communities where no sewerage system is available the manufacturer empties his waste directly into a stream. The contention of the proponents is that to exclude from the provisions of any bill a proviso to cause municipalities to purify its sewage of factory waste as manufacturers would have to do, discriminates sharply against the country manufacturer.

On the other hand, the opponents of any anti-pollution legislation which would force municipalities to take steps to keep its sanitary sewage from being polluted, contend that the existing state laws, under the direction of the state board of health, give the department of the state government power to order municipalities to do just what the proponents want to make specific in the bill. So there you are.

It is interesting at this time to recall what Governor Templeton said in his veto of the bill reported as a substitute to the bill recommended and sponsored by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, which included municipalities. Referring to this phase of the pollution question he says: "Affirmatively, the substitute bill in its present form discriminates sharply against what may be termed the country manufacturers. Most city factories do not pass their waste directly into streams of the state but empty it into city sewers, from which it finds its way into the streams mixed with the miscellaneous sewage of the city. This substitute bill covers only direct drainage and omits the city sewers, which were covered by the original bill. This works a hardship on the country factories, and is an inequality. It means that a cotton factory situated in Hartford or New Haven may freely let its waste flow into the city sewers and so ultimately into the Connecticut river or New Haven harbor, while a cotton factory employing the same number of people located, let us say, in Manchester or Berlin, and which has no city sewerage system available, may be forced by this bill to go to hundreds of thousands of dollars of expense. Thus the country cotton factory is directly handicapped in competition with the city cotton factory. Indeed, the country factory might have to operate at a loss and ultimately shut down entirely, while the city factory would remain unhampered."

It is likely that the state chamber's pollution committee when they have drafted a bill in final form will hold public hearings in the large cities of the state with a view to hearing arguments in favor or opposed to the particular features of the proposed bill. In this way it is hoped to introduce into the next session of the general assembly a bill that will receive the endorsement of the various interests.

The chamber's committee has also considered anti-pollution legislation pending in congress and today the committee communicated to the Connecticut senators and representatives in Washington its endorsement of all federal legislation that will be helpful in protecting coastal waters from oil pollution from shipping. It was explained, however that the committee's endorsement is confined strictly to shipping because, in the opinion of the members, the several states should reserve to themselves the regulation of pollution from land sources.

The next meeting of the committee will be held in Hartford on April 7.

DATA FROM STATE HELPS TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS

Solution of the problem of short-haul freight transportation lies in the production of a sufficient volume of data from typical sections of the country such as was obtained through a motor truck traffic census in Connecticut, in the opinion of J. Gordon McKay, highway economist of the U. S. bureau of public roads, in a preliminary report of the Connecticut experiment filed with the state highway department. The Connecticut census covered a year and was recently completed after an intensive survey of the important motor transportation routes in the state. Statistics are now being compiled as a result of the survey, which are expected to prove of great value in obtaining nation-wide economies in the cost of road construction.

"A sufficient volume of highway transportation data must be produced in the near future," the report says, "to provide an authentic basis for analysis, discussion, and an intelligent formation and appraisal of policies to govern the highway transportation of freight and passengers, as well as data necessary to the formation of policies governing the construction and maintenance of highway systems."

The Connecticut survey was the first of its kind ever undertaken in the United States and present plans of the Washington officials of the bureau of public roads contemplate its use as a basis for further study in a number of other states.

The primary purpose of the research project was to assemble all the salient highway facts necessary to a critical analysis of highway transportation in Connecticut, where the transportation of people and commodities is as highly developed as any other section of the country, the report states.

Facts obtained from the survey are expected to serve as an aid in allocating construction and maintenance funds according to the distribution of traffic over the highway system. In addition, by obtaining data concerning the daily and seasonal traffic density of passenger cars and motor trucks on primary and secondary highways, it is hoped to be able to bring about economies in the designing of roadways to meet the demands of traffic.

The measuring of highway transportation is a complicated research problem. The successful operation of the survey required careful planning of the data to be recorded, well worked out field operating schedules to insure accurate data and avoid duplicate recording of traffic, and finally a systematic analysis of the information recorded.

The Connecticut survey is a modern development of highway research. It is a pioneer attempt to determine for a year fundamental facts and is looked upon as a standard method of measuring highway transportation.

STATE COMMERCE CHAMBER FOR RESTRICTIVE IMMIGRATION

The Connecticut Chamber of Commerce has advised the Connecticut senators and representatives in congress that it endorses the general principles embodied in the Johnson immigration to a 2 per cent. quota, based on the foreign population here in 1890 but suggests the desirability of continuing the present immigration law for one year in order that a more thorough study may be given to this important problem by such agencies that are directly or indirectly affected by the passage of such a restricted immigration law.

The state chamber also suggests to the senators and representatives that in continuing the present immigration law that it be so amended as to make it more flexible with respect to meeting emergencies at the port of entry. In the opinion of the chamber such modifications would tend to correct, for the time being, some of the evils of the immigration problem which are now objected to.

At the last annual meeting of the state chamber it voted in favor of selective immigration as the best means of keeping out of the United States the undesirable class of immigrants and at the same time provide a higher type of citizenship.

The personnel of the chamber's committee, which considered the immigration problem is as follows:

Samuel M. Stone, president, Colt's Patent Fire Arms Mfg. Co., Hartford, chairman; W. C. Norris, Willimantic; H. C. Knight, vice president, Southern New England Telephone Telephone Co., New Haven; C. W. Hall, West Hartford; Robert H. Booth, Service Manager, Bridgeport Brass Co., Bridgeport.

INCOME TAX PAYERS WILL WAIT NO LONGER

Now that it is definitely decided that there is to be no 25 per cent. reduction on the income tax payment by March 16, many Norwich taxpayers who have been holding off from making their payments will proceed to draw their checks at once and put them in the mail in the two days which are left to make reports and payments.

THREE PERSONS INJURED IN DERAILMENT OF WORCESTER-PROVIDENCE EXPRESS

More Than Thirty Others Were Cut and Bruised When Two Coaches Left the Rails About a Mile from Whitinsville Station—Nine Passengers Were Taken to the Whitinsville Hospital for Treatment—Passengers Believe the Derailment was Caused by the Rear Car Coming Loose From the Trucks—The Locomotive and the Remaining Car Kept Rails.

Whitinsville, Mass., March 14.—Three persons were injured seriously and more than 30 others were cut and bruised when two coaches of the south-bound Worcester - Providence express left the rails at Dion's crossing about a mile from Whitins station this afternoon. The two rear cars of the train, a combination baggage car and smoker and a day coach bumped along the rails for some yards and then turned on their side. The locomotive and the remaining passenger coach kept the rails.

One of those seriously injured was Elwood Walling, of Harrisville, R. I., the baggagemaster, who was wedged in among trunks and boxes in his car and severely crushed. Rescue parties used axes to release him and physicians at Whitinsville hospital said he had received internal injuries. The others were:

Charles Richter, 70 years old, of Providence, R. I., dislocated shoulder and fractured ribs; and J. H. Mongeau of Pawtucket, R. I., probable fracture of skull.

In addition to these three, nine passengers were taken to the Whitinsville hospital for treatment. Thirty others were tended by physicians at the scene of the wreck or in homes nearby. Those at the hospital tonight, all suffering from cuts and bruises, were:

David Kagan, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Howard H. Hawes, Providence, R. I.
William A. Boucher, Providence, R. I.
Henry Dunstall, Fairhaven, Mass.
Merrill G. Shaw, Edgewood, R. I.
John Brost, Whitinsville.
William Sidebottam, Melrose.
Fred Millah, Pawtucket, R. I.
John T. Wild, Whitinsville.

The train was in charge of Conductor French Welch, of Worcester, and John Congden, of Weonsocket, R. I., with C. S. Wheeler, of Worcester, as engineer and C. G. Norling, of Worcester, as fireman. Members of the train crew said they could not explain the derailment which occurred before the train reached a sharp curve. Passengers said they had felt a bumping for several miles before the train left the track. Officials of the railroad company undertook an immediate investigation to determine the cause of the accident.

The first call for help was sent out by Mrs. Joseph Galipeau, of Whitinsville, whose home is close to the tracks at Dion's crossing. When the two coaches overturned almost in front of her windows Mrs. Galipeau telephoned an emergency call which brought every physician in the district to the scene and also assistance from Whitinsville hospital. Her home was made a relief station for the treatment of those requiring first aid.

Passengers expressed belief that the trouble was due to the rear car, the baggage and smoker, coming loose from its trucks, the car, they said, had been swaying threateningly for some miles and many of those seated in the smoker moved up to the coach ahead for safety, but nobody notified the train officials, so far as could be ascertained. It was believed that the car finally toppled from the tracks and dragged the next coach with it. The two derailed cars were dragged three hundred yards before the train was brought to a stop.

The baggage car was in the worst condition. Everything moveable on the upper side of the car including seats piled up on the lower side, imprisoning the passengers, many of whom escaped death by narrow margins. A door of the baggage section opened as the crash fell on its side and through this opening tons of earth and snow were scooped up as the car dragged along. The locomotive and remaining coach continued the journey to Providence after an hour's delay.

CONDITION OF HIGHWAYS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Hartford, March 14—Herculean day and night labor by the eastern road crews of the state highway department since Tuesday afternoon was successful tonight in cleaning out the tremendous snowfall of the Tuesday blizzard from every trunk line highway in the northeastern section of the state, with the exception of the road from Danielson east over Dark Lantern hill, which will not be broken through until tomorrow night, Superintendent of Repairs Hamlin said. On the Dark Lantern hill road the snow is from three to four feet deep on the level.

The road from Putnam to the Rhode Island state line is completely cleared but the Rhode Island authorities have not yet met the Connecticut crews. Persons bound for Providence can now get through by way of Oneco or Westerly, however, both of which routes are open.

The road from Willimantic through Hampton to Danielson is open its entire width as is that from Willimantic through Pomfret to Putnam and on to the state line. The trunk line from Norwich through Plainfield and Putnam to the state line is also cleared, although beyond the Massachusetts line travelers from Worcester today reported very bad going.

The crews began work today on the state roads and by a late hour tonight had one-way traffic broken through the road from Putnam through North Woodstock to the Massachusetts line.

The bridge at Oneco that broke down Wednesday, causing the death of one man and injury to two more, will not hinder Providence-bound traffic, as it was not on the trunk line highway.

OBSTACLES TO A GOLD BANK ISSUE IN GERMANY

Paris, March 14—(By the A. P.)—The reparation experts who have been studying Germany's financial and economic position appear to have encountered obstacles in connection with their plan for the establishment of a gold bank of issue in Germany, which are likely to delay completion of their report to the reparation commission, it was announced tonight.

Dr. Hjalmar Schaht, president of the German Reichsbank, probably will again come to Paris early next week to be heard once more by the expert sub-committee which has been discussing the plan for the bank of issue. The supposition among those who have been following the experts' deliberations is that the Germans are raising objections to transfer outside reach territory of the German gold reserve, which the experts regard as essential.

NORMAL VALUE FOR FRANC IS DEVELOPING

New York, March 14—Continuing its recovery in response to the $100,000,000 bank loan to France, the franc today sold at a high figure of 4.72 cents, later dropping back, to 4.67 cents around which level it gave evidence of stabilizing.

After the spectacular rise of the currency to a price more than a cent above the record low rate established last week, foreign exchange dealers reported that a downhill market was developing between 4 1-2 and 4 3-4 cents with trading quieting down. Covering by speculators was predicted when an overnight gain of ten points in the franc after which ordinary commercial demands held the rate firm throughout the day.

The eleventh union bill combining the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational denominations, was passed by the Manitoba legislature, without a dissenting vote.

CONNECTICUT INVESTORS IN WORTHLESS STOCKS

New Haven, March 14—When a suit alleging fraud and illegal contract in sale of stock and securities was filed here today against the H. W. Dubiske and Company, Inc., brokers and promoters, it became known that several hundred customers of that firm here who are said to have "invested" in the aggregate more than $800,000 have been trying to find out what had become of the companies in which they were stockholders. The suit was brought by Charles F. Hine as conservator for his mother who had been a customer of the concern, which closed its office here last July. The action follows an investigation said to have been going on for months and to have been conducted through agencies in different parts of the country.

The defendant concern is said to have had its general office in Chicago and branch offices in more than a hundred cities. Counsel for Mr. Hine, in the present suit, claims that more than two million dollars was taken out of Connecticut from 1920 to 1923 and that in the country the concern did at least sixty million dollars worth of business.

Recently former customers of H. W. Dubiske and Company, Inc., offered their stockholdings to local brokers to be sold. They were informed that there was no market and that some companies had gone into bankruptcy. Among companies stock in which was sold were Stevens-Duryea, Peters Home Building, Rawson and Lang, Steelcraft, United States Mortgage, Continental Clay, West Indies Fruit, United States Automotive, Davis Sewing Machine, Di Giorgio Fruit, Metropolitan 5 to 50 cent, Dearborn Truck and Dayton Rubber company.

COURT DENIES REOPENING OF STILLMAN DIVORCE CASE

New York, March 14—The end of the 44 months legal battle unsuccessfully waged by James A. Stillman, former president of the National City bank, to win a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman, came today, in the opinion of her counsel, with the unanimous decision of the supreme court appellate division, upholding Mrs. Stillman's victory in the lower court.

Today's decision was on an appeal to reopen the case and obtain a new trial made by the former banker on November 7. It upheld the findings of Referee Gleason, later confirmed by supreme court justice Morschauser, and decided that Mr. Stillman was guilty of adultery and that his baby son Guy had not been proven illegitimate.

$1,000,000 TO FIGHT FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Washington, March 14—The house voted today to appropriate $1,000,000 for eradicating foot and mouth disease among cattle and hogs in California.

An amendment carrying the appropriation was added to the deficiency bill by a viva voce vote. It was offered by Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee.

Part of the fund will be available after the bill finally becomes a law for payment of claims growing out of the killing of cattle and hogs in an effort to prevent further spread of the disease.

MACK TRUCK, INVENTOR KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

Allentown, Pa., March 14—John M. Mack, inventor of the Mack truck and founder of the Mack Motor Car company, now the International Motor company, was instantly killed late today near Neffs when a work car of the Lehigh Valley Transit company crashed into the automobile he was driving.

Cherbourg, France, March 14.—(By the A. P.)—Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago arrived here this evening on board the steamer Berengaria from New York.

OPENING OF SUIT FOR CONFISCATION OF ORDUNA

New York, March 14.—Trial of the government's suit for confiscation of the Royal Mail liner Orduna, seized Wednesday as a smuggler, began today the witnesses testifying that narcotics and liquor were sold freely each time the vessel reached this port, and that her owners shared the proceeds.

Champagne, whiskey, benedictine, rum, beer, gin and drugs were dispensed to bootleggers by officers and crew of the Orduna, according to the testimony. The witnesses, including federal agents and members of the crew, declared the Orduna's bar never was closed in port.

At the outside of the proceedings, E. J. Berwind, American and British coal operator and financier, posted a $1,000,000 bond so the Orduna might continue in trans-Atlantic passenger service.

Charles Dawe, the ships' storekeeper and one of the seven members of her crew to plead guilty to importing liquor illegally was the government's principal witness. He testified that in his three years on the Orduna, liquor had been sold aboard her every time she reached the port of New York.

Dawe created a stir among the government counsel when he identified Joseph Smith, one of the revenue agents who raided the ship on Wednesday, and one of the government's chief witnesses today, as a bootlegger, who often had purchased quantities of liquor on the Orduna.

Smith, preceding Dawe upon the stand, said he was a truck driver until he became a federal liquor agent last January.

He told of boarding the Orduna frequently on her recent trip and buying rye whiskey and gin.

Curiosity once prompted him, said the witness, to ask Dawe what he did about "the people who run the boat." Dawe's answer was, according to Smith:

"We turn the money in to the company. They don't care what we do with the liquor as long as we get the money."

Counsel for the defense indicated that the Royal Mail Line owners' defense would be that the liquor and narcotics were smuggled and sold without the knowledge of themselves, and the ship's master.

JURY FINDS SLAYING OF HEATON JUSTIFIABLE

Louisville, Ky., March 14—The coroner's jury in the inquest of Richard H. Heaton today returned a verdict finding that William Gates as the slayer and the act was justifiable.

Gates killed Heaton last Saturday night after the latter had held him prisoner for two days, during which time the captor prepared to operate upon his captive.

Mrs. Mary Leady Weisen Heaton, the widow, was the principal witness. Her testimony did not differ materially from that previously given except that she admitted she knew of the plot to mutilate Gates and that in furtherance of his plan, Heaton had studied hypnotism.

Mrs. Heaton said that her husband's threats to kill their baby kept her from telling of his plans. She said he practiced hypnotism upon her and to satisfy him she pretended to be under hypnotic influence induced by him.

Heaton, the trend of the testimony has been, was jealous of his wife, against whom, the authorities declare, his suspicions were unfounded.

At another point in her testimony she declared Heaton had told her he had spent $75,000 in the last four years in tracing men he suspected of intimacy with her. Asked if she had thought her husband was insane, she said she did not know and added "he never had been treated."

OIL COMMITTEE ADJOURNS UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY

Washington, March 14—The oil committee took a sudden recess today until next Tuesday because of the illness of Senator Walsh of Montana, its chief prosecutor.

A cold from which the senator had suffered for some time developed into a slight bronchial trouble and his physician advised him to rest for several days. It was stated that his condition was not serious and that he should be able to resume his duties next week.

Until Senator Walsh returns to the capitol the order of procedure in the inquiry will be undetermined.

During the day President Coolidge transmitted to the senate copies of diplomatic correspondence passing between the American and Colombian governments regarding the Colombian treaty, but there was nothing in this correspondence to show that Albert B. Fall as secretary of the interior had influenced the administration's course in urging prompt ratification of the long-pending convention in 1921.

PLANES ARE READY FOR AROUND WORLD FLIGHT

Santa Monica, Col., March 14—Three cruiser airplanes will leave here at 7 a. m. Monday on the start of the United States army around the world flight, it was announced here today by Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the flight. The fourth airplane will start later in the week, its delivery by the manufacturers here being delayed.

PLUNKETT QUALIFIES HIS "WETTEST" CITY STATEMENT

Washington, March 14—Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, was informed his superiors in Washington that he merely was stating that he heard when he testified recently in New York that Washington was the "wettest city in the United States."

Vote of Confidence Given to Poincare

On Question of Granting the Government Authority to Issue Decrees.

Paris, March 14.—(By the A. P.)—The senate, tonight, gave a vote of confidence to Premier Poincare on the question of granting the government authority to issue decrees. The vote was 154 to 141.

It was the closest call the Poincare cabinet has had since it assumed power in January, 1922.

M. Poincare staked the life of his government on the rejection of six little words inserted by the finance committee of the senate into Article 1 of his fiscal measures as voted by the chamber of deputies asking authority for the government to promulgate laws affecting measures of economy by simple governmental decree.

The insistence of the premier that the senate approved the bill as it left the lower house, without the slightest modification, was more a matter of discipline than a test vote, because several compromises offered by the opposition would have been acceptable to the government under different circumstances.

The finance committee insisted that decrees must be made "within the scope of existing laws. The premier stubbornly contended that his government could not achieve the necessary measures of economies if it was to be hampered by red tape and the machinery of the present laws. In the course of a long historical review of the third republic, the premier brought forward precedents to show that previous governments had been empowered to enact laws by decree on matters far more important than economic questions. He repudiated any intention to violate the constitution and any desire for a dictatorship.

Ship Wrecks Leave Forty Men Missing

Fear is Expressed for the Crews of Seven Tugboats and 18 Coal Laden Barges.

Norfolk, Va., March 14.—More than forty men are missing today as a result of ship wrecks off the Virginia and Carolina coasts and in connection with the loss of six-masted Wyoming, the largest vessel of its class in the world, which went down off Chatham, Mass., Wednesday.

Fear is expressed here for the crews of seven tugboats and eighteen barges loaded with coal, which put out to sea yesterday, when a calm followed the storm earlier in the week.

Summarized, the disasters off this immediate coast sailing out of Norfolk are:

Ward line steamer Santiago, sunk south-southwest Diamond Shoals, probably 25 lives lost; ten rescued, conflicting reports as to fate of another boatload of survviors.

Schooner Wyoming, sunk off Chatham, Mass., en route from Norfolk, no trace of crew of thirteen.

Launch Emily, from Sunnyside, Va., found overturned in Hampton Roads and crew of three or four missing, probably washed overboard.

TWO SCHOONERS WRECKED NEAR POLLOCK RIP LIGHT

Boston, Mass., March 14.—Wreckage from two schooner, one a six master, the other a five-masted schooner, was reported near Pollock Rip lightship today by the lighthouse tender Anemone. One of the wrecks was believed to be the six-masted schooner Wyoming of Portland, Me., whose name plate was found yesterday on the north shore of Nantucket Island.

"NO MORE DICKERING"

The possessor of the loudest voice or the most brazen cheek used to be able to drive the best bargain. But, dickering, chaffering and haggling over prices have gone out of date.

Simply by glancing over the advertisements in The Bulletin you can see where to go for the best buys. You can compare values and check up prices without even stirring from your easy chair. You can know in advance just what you are going to get and how much it will cost. And you can have the satisfaction that comes from knowing your money is wisely spent.

Nowadays, every one is given an equal opportunity to buy shrewdly. But there are still a few who fail to utilize the advertisements. Don't be one of them.

Every advertisement is a real opportunity. Don't fail to make a study of those in The Bulletin's columns.

MULVILLE'S REMOVAL WAS DUE TO "INCOMPETENCY"

Hartford, March 14.—State Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald disclosed tonight that a request which he has made for the resignation of Morris F. Mulville as supervisor of repairs in a large district of Litchfield county was due to "incompetency" of the latter.

Investigation by the state police has shown, according to the commissioner, that state highway department employes in Mulville's district have been engaged, at state expense on private work.

Mulville handed in his resignation today, effective April 1. Commissioner MacDonald, in requesting the resignation earlier in the week, had fixed May 1, as the date when it should go into effect. N. Watson Hardenbergh, of North Canaan, first selectman of that town will succeed Mulville as supervisor for the district.

VANDERLIP IN WASHINGTON FOR A PUBLIC PURPOSE

Washington, March 14.—Frank A. Vanderlip arrived from New York tonight and stated he had come to Washington, "for a public purpose," but would not reveal specifically the object of his visit beyond indicating that it was in connection with investigations now in progress.

Stating that he had been "summoned" here, Mr. Vanderlip said he expected to remain for several days. He would not disclose who had requested his presence in the capital and said he probably would have nothing to say for publication for two or three days.

EMERGENCY DEPUTIES FOR DUTIES IN HERRIN

Herrin, Ill., March 14.—Authorization for six additional deputy sheriffs in Herrin and the commissioning of 25 special deputies as an emergency force was granted today by the citizens' committee and the board of supervisors of Williamson county.

This action was taken to strengthen civil control in the county before withdrawal of state troops, sent here following the riot, February 8, between members of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-klansmen.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY DORRANCE KILLED AT MAIN STREET CROSSING, PLAINFIELD

Plainfield, Conn., March 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance, prominent residents of this town, were killed tonight when their automobile was struck at the Main street crossing by a freight train of the New London and Worcester division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Mr. Dorrance had gone to the railroad station to meet Mrs. Dorrance. After a passenger train had gone Mr. Dorrance started his car across the tracks and was hit by a freight car of a train that was being switched to a siding. Both were thrown under the car and a wrecker and crew had to be sent for to release the bodies.

Mr. Dorrance, who was 54 years of age, was born here. He was president of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association and one of the officials of the Windham County Farmers' association. He represented this town in the legislature of 1919. Three children survive.

Henry Dorrance, proprietor of the Home Hill farm was born January 10, 1870, in Plainfield. He was the son of George Weisnel and Lydia Caroline Palmer Dorrance. He attended the public schools of Plainfield and afterwards a student at the Westminster private school in Vermont.

He first started in business in Plainfield, and [illegible] and for many years was one of the leading [illegible] in southern Windham county. He used only the very latest of improved machinery in the field also in his dairy business and possessed one of the best herds of Ayrshire cattle in the state, nearly all of them being of advanced registry. He also owned Hampshire and Shropshire sheep of fine strains. He farmed along the most progressive lines and at the time of his death was one of the very best known farmers in Windham county.

Mr. Dorrance was one of the officials of the Windham County Farmers' association and had as much to do with the development of the association as any one man in the county, being regarded as an exceptionally able agriculturalist, and one who took advantage of every advanced idea.

For several years he and been selling agent for the Providence and Willimantic Milk Producers' association of which for two years he served as president. He was also president of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association.

On February 19, 1904 in Plainfield he was united in marriage with Miss Sarah E. Francis, who met death with him. She was the daughter of Rev. J. M. and Sarah J. Kiers Francis.

Four children were born of the marriage, three now living: Joanna, Samuel H. and Amy E. Dorrance.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance were communicants of the Congregational church in Plainfield and the members of the [illegible] class.

DAUGHERTY MAKES PUBLIC DENIAL OF INSINUATIONS

Attorney General Denies That He Ever Participated in Any Dishonorable Way in Connection With the Administration of the Liquor Laws or Any Other Laws—Brands the Testimony of Roxie Stinson as That of "A Disappointed Woman"—Gaston B. Means Gives Startling Evidence, Involving Secretary Mellon's Name in Story About Permits for Whiskey Withdrawal.

Washington, March 14.—Attorney General Daugherty tonight made a general public denial of the insinuations against him made in testimony before the senate investigating committee.

"Any inference, direct or indirect," he said, "that I ever participated in any way with the late Jess Smith, or any one else, for a consideration, either monetary, political, or social, in any dishonorable way, in connection with the administration of the liquor laws, is false, and untrue."

The attorney general then proceeded to deny in detail, in a formal statement, the inferences as to wrong doing on his part contained in the testimony of Roxie Stinson, Smith's divorced wife, whom Mr. Daugherty described, as "a disappointed woman who blames me because her divorced husband did not make her sole legatee under his will."

He declared he had "no interest whatever," with Colonel James H. Darden, in his Western Oil company; that he had not been a party to any speculation to make money out of violations of the law or out of the showing of prize fight films; and that Jess Smith never approached him at any time on the subject of clemency for federal prisoners.

"On several occasions," he continued, "it has been intimated by persons ostensibly acting for Miss Roxie Stinson that for a consideration her silence could be purchased and any documents in her possession could be delivered, all of which deliberate and serious attempts at blackmail—have been absolutely and unconditionally rejected."

STARTLING TESTIMONY BY GASTON B. MEANS

Washington, March 14.—The most lurid of the lot yet developed—tumbled today into the record of the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty. As usual, they were fired off with machine gun velocity.

Gaston B. Means, former investigator for the department of justice, and man of many adventures, who described his present business as "answering indictments," testified that he was the "money carrier" for Jess W. Smith in various deals implying corruption.

He told a startling tale of collections of money for Smith in sums ranging from $5,000 to $100,000, and before he finished had brought secretary Mellon's name into a story about permits for whiskey withdrawals, and said he had even once investigated Attorney General Daugherty himself for the late President Harding.

Means was careful to say that the charges against the attorney general, which he investigated when he found to be without any foundation in fact. He also disclaimed that in his testimony today about Smith's alleged money collections, he had any knowledge of the attorney general being involved, or receiving any of the money collected for Smith or one W. T. Underwood, whom he named in that connection.

At no time, in his story of money collections, did Means identify the people he said he got it from.

Specifically Means testified that in February, 1923, at Smith's direction at the old Bellevue hotel in Washington, he collected $100,000 in thousand dollar bills from an unnamed Japanese representing Mitsui & Co., the Japanese banking house, who brought it on behalf of the Standard Aircraft corporation to halt government action toward recovery of overpayments aggregating $6,000,000, on war contracts. The witness said that Smith came the same night and took the money from him.

Means further testified, that at other times he collected from persons he did not name, sums running in the total up to about $50,000, which he said were for Smith and his associates, who in turn, he said, were protecting the owners of the Carpentier-Dempsey fight films from prosecution when they transported and exhibited them in interstate commerce. The owners of the fight films, Means testified, were Smith, Jap Mums, New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer; Will Orr, former private secretary to former Governor Whitman of New York, and one Howard Mannington.

Other collections, Means said, were made by him for Smith on account of whiskey withdrawal permits, and turned over to Smith, but he had not named the amounts nor given specifications when the committee adjourned until tomorrow. When he returns to the stand Means is to be present for details and Senator Wheeler, in charge of the testimony said tonight that the missing specifications would be supplied.

Senator Wheeler was uncertain tonight whether Means would resume the stand tomorrow or whether Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Smith, for whom Means was substituted today because Miss Stinson was ill, would continue her testimony.

In two features, the stories of Means and Miss Stinson dovetail. She told of Jess Smith returning to Ohio from Washington with $75,000 in one-thousand dollar bills in a leather belt, today.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house decided to vote next Tuesday on the Soldiers' bonus bill.

Secretary Work proposed legislation to encourage new reclamation projects.

Inquiry into operations of the bureau of internal revenue was begun before a senate committee.

Western livestock producers asked the interstate commerce commission for lower freight rates.

The senate adopted a resolution broadening the powers of the Daugherty investigating committee.

The senate oil committee postponed its hearings until next Tuesday on account of the illness of Senator Walsh.

Curtis D. Wilbur, of California, was nominated to be secretary of the navy, and Hugh Gibson to be minister to Switzerland.

Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota, introduced a resolution asking what the state department knows of the new French loan.

Gaston B. Means told the Daugherty investigating committee a startling tale of corruption which he said had existed in the department of justice.

An agreement was announced between the Washington and Ottawa governments for appointment of national commissions to assist the joint engineering board in planning for the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deeper waterways project.

ST. LAWRENCE GREAT LAKES DEEPER WATERWAY PROJECT

Washington, March 14—Agreement between the United States and Canadian governments has been reached under which they will create "national" commissions to cooperate with the joint engineering board in planning the proposed St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deeper waterway project.

The American commission, named tonight by President Coolidge, will be headed by Secretary Hoover and include William C. Breed, former president of the New York Merchants association; James E. Davidson, of Bay City, Mich.; James P. Goodrich, former governor of Indiana; James R. Howard, of Chicago, former president of the American federation of labor; Stephen B. ## TAX RETURNS FOR 1917 AWAITING SETTLEMENT

Washington, March 14—More than 9,500 income tax returns cases for 1917 still are awaiting settlement by the internal revenue bureau, the senate committee investigating the administration of that bureau was told today by Commissioner David H. Blair.

About 3,000 of the cases of several years ago have been audited, Mr. Blair said, and are awaiting settlement but the rest have not even been audited. He predicted, however, the bureau's work would be current within another year.

Commissioner Blair and several of his assistants were before the committee practically all day giving evidence as to the present status of the government's income tax operations. Professor Thomas J. Adams, of Yale was present as an expert advisor to the committee and conducted much of the questioning.

There has been a tremendous white pering campaign against the bureau, Senator King, democrat, Utah, said in opening the session. "It will be to your advantage Mr. Commissioner, to have all the charges brought into the light."

"I agree heartily with that," said Mr. Blair.

He added that "in force of 19,000 we were sure to find a certain proportion of criminals and the bureau had sixty secret service men at work" with fair success among its employes.

Bureau officials denied there had been any campaign of intimidation by which taxpayers were suddenly notified of a large extra assessment and then were offered a compromise settlement.

The committee adjourned [illegible] today until Monday.

DISMISSED ANTI-SALOON MAN TELLS TALES OUT OF SCHOOL

New York, March 14.—Charges that the Anti-Saloon League of New York voted to give William H. Anderson a gift not to exceed $7,500 "out of money subscribed by church people for prohibition work" and that back employes' salaries were nearly two months in arrears because long money was used to defray Anderson's expenses in his recent trial for perjury, were made tonight by Dr. Samuel L. Hamilton who was dismissed today as superintendent of the league's Metropolitan district.

Admitting that he had been dismissed Mr. Hamilton denied that the reason was "his hostility to the policies of the organization" as charged by the board of directors but declared he was hostile to Dr. George Calvin Carrington, secretary of the board, and "the little group whom I consider jointly responsible with Mr. Anderson for the present difficulties of the Anti-Saloon league."

Mr. Hamilton in a statement declared the "little group" [illegible] Anderson to "monthly [illegible] clerk room and office [illegible] absentees after [illegible] a raise and a [illegible] asked [illegible]

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
[illegible] Church St. Telephone 195

Esther A. Sanderson, 84, widow of Isaac Sanderson, died late Friday afternoon at her home, No. 76 High street, following a long illness. She was born Sept. 4, 1839, in Londenberg, Mass., a daughter of Abel and Nancy Wymas. She is survived by one son, Fred A. Sanderson of this city, and a grandson, Herbert Sanderson.

Mrs. Sanderson had been a resident of this city for many years. Her husband, formerly conducted the Brainard House and hotel, which stood at the present site of the H. C. Muggay block, corner of Main and Church streets.

Startling information was given in the police court, Friday morning, when Elias Glaubinger, of Colchester, testified that he had purchased and sold cow meat which had been previously condemned, and that he bought cattle from Whittlesey, the state cattle commissioner.

These alarming statements were brought out during cross-examination of Glaubinger by Prosecuting Attorney Harvey, while the Colchester cattle dealer was being tried on a charge of cruelty to an animal.

Asked if he ever sold any of this condemned meat in Willimantic, Glaubinger was positive he never did. He said that he was not the only dealer who bought this kind of beef. For the most part it was cattle that had been condemned on account of various troubles and diseases and when the cattle were believed to have been cured, the meat was sold to dealers in the state. Glaubinger turned on the lights for a real "cattle scandal" in this state when he said that when he bought the cows and butchered them, a government official would put a stamp on the beef, which was then sold.

Prosecuting Attorney Harvey declared that if Glaubinger's statements that he was buying and selling beef that had been condemned were true, it created an appalling situation that was beyond him.

After the court session was adjourned, Glaubinger realized that he had been giving incriminating testimony and he pleaded ardently that the entire matter be hushed up, even going so far as to attempt to slip a $5 bill into a reporter's pocket for that purpose.

Elias Glaubinger and his son, Morgis Glaubinger, 30, were charged with cruelty to an animal. Before the pleas were entered, the elder Glaubinger wanted the court to tell how much of a fine would be imposed but he was informed that all that was wanted of him was to plead guilty or not guilty and the judge would take care of the fine question.

Officer Grant Bombria testified that the Colchester truck had been parked under the footbridge on Railroad street all Tuesday afternoon and that a young cow tied up in the truck was suffering severely from the wet snow which fell during the afternoon and froze the cramped position in which it had been left. The officer could not locate the owner of the truck and later in the day the machine was run to Doubleday's barn, where the animal was given some measure of relief.

Raymond Conners testified to having seen the truck on the street from 4 to 5 o'clock, when he was ordered by the police officer to drive the machine to the barn.

Chief MacArthur gave evidence that shortly after 5 o'clock Morris Glaubinger came to the police station and complained that someone had taken his truck. Elias Glaubinger arrived at the station a few minutes later and both were ordered to appear in police court on the charge mentioned.

In court Friday, Elias Glaubinger said that he left the truck on the street in the forenoon and went off to do some shopping. He did not see his son again until he met him at the police station. He testified that Morris Glaubinger had taken the truck and had gone to Pomfret, where he purchased the cow and he was sure that he did not return to this city until 3 o'clock. As he had seen neither the truck nor the cow, Elias Glaubinger waived any guilt on the matter.

Prosecuting Attorney Harvey said that although it was evident that the elder man was attempting to place the blame on his son, he was still responsible for the suffering caused the animal, as he owned the truck, employed the business—and his son said worked for him.

Attorney Gaucher, who represented the accused, asked that the charge be dismissed for lack of evidence.

Judge Post ruled that the father had succeeded in placing the blame on his son, but as it was the son's first appearance before the local police court, he would be reasonable: he then imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $18.15, which was paid.

The town of Coventry lost one of its leading business men and citizens, [illegible], when William C. Latimer was found dead in his bed, at his home on Wall street in that place.

Medical Examiner Dr. W. L. Higgins gave as the cause rheumatism of the heart. Mr. Latimer's housekeeper, Mrs. Florence Cochrane, feared that something had gone wrong when Mr. Latimer did not come down for breakfast and she ran across the street to the home of her father, Deputy Sheriff A. H. Harmon, who accompanied her to the house where Mr. Latimer was found dead in his bed in a room on the upper floor.

Mr. Latimer did not appear to be suffering from any chronic ailment and never complained of illness. He had, however, been in pain for the past two years from rheumatism in his left leg and he told his son on Thursday that he felt it in his left hand.

He was active Thursday, eating a hearty supper, shaving himself and taking a bath before retiring, about 9 o'clock in the evening. Members of the household did not hear him complain during the night. Medical Examiner Higgins was of the opinion that death had occurred about two hours before his body was discovered.

Mr. Latimer was born in Montville, June 20, 1860. He came to South Coventry about forty-eight years ago, starting in the livery business, which he conducted for nearly thirty-five years. During that time he added a coal and trucking business and later entered the grain selling field. He disposed of his trucking business several years ago. For the past quarter of a century his son, Eugene W. Latimer has been associated with him in the coal and grain business.

Mr. Latimer was a republican in politics and filled many offices of trust, including that of deputy sheriff. He was a member of the board of selectmen for several years, also of the board of relief.

Mr. Latimer was a member of Uriel lodge, No. 54, A. F. & A. M., of Merrow. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank L. Williams of Hartford, Mrs. Charles Brewer of East Hartford, and a son, Judge of Probate Eugene W. Latimer, of South Coventry, also ten grandchildren.

A Hartford paper, Friday morning, carried the following article of local interest:

Mrs. William Hassig, 30 years old, is in the Litchfield county hospital at Winsted, with serious internal injuries, Mrs. Joseph Inger, sister of Mrs. Hassig, is at the hospital as the result of a shock of the news of her sister's injury and Mrs. Josephine Marino of Willimantic is under arrest as the result of an accident on Main street, in the center of the city, about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Marino was driving a coupe at a fast rate of speed and struck Mrs. Hassig as she was crossing Main street, from the Bridge street side to the Hotel Winchester. Witnesses claim that instead of putting on the brakes, Mrs. Marino tried to leave the car, with the result that Mrs. Hassig was dragged about 60 feet, the car stopping with the front wheels on her body. She was extricated by Walter Churchill. It is said that the sound of the crash was heard in stores fifty feet away.

Mrs. Inger was on Main street at the time of the accident, coming from the hospital where she had been visiting another member of the family, a patient there. On learning of her sister's injury she fainted and was taken to the hospital. Mrs. Marino was arrested by Policemen Frank White and Theodore Dautrier.

It was stated at the Winsted police headquarters that Mrs. Marino was not arrested for the accident in which Mrs. Hassig was injured by a car driven by the local woman, but was detained at the police station for about an hour and a half, pending an investigation. Pending action by County Coroner Samuel A. Harmon, she was then released and she spent the night in Winsted and was there Friday forenoon. It is feared that Mrs. Hassig, the injured woman, may not live as she has a punctured lung resulting from the crushing of her ribs. Mrs. Marino communicated with friends in this city Friday morning, one telephone call being sent to Michael Mazzola, who said that he was asked to come to Winsted for the purpose of offering bonds, if necessary.

Mrs. Marino resides on the Flanders road, just over the city line, in the town of Mansfield.

John S. Sullivan became the official superintendent of streets and sewers of the city of Willimantic, Friday. He succeeds George M. Flint who was appointed by Mayor Hommisdas Dion when the democrats went into power, following the December election. Mr. Flint had served just two months, his appointment dating from January 15. Mr. Sullivan has had considerable experience in his work, having been street superintendent four years—1913-1917—during the administration of the late ex-Mayor Daniel F. Dunn.

Apparently the dissatisfaction felt by members of the street was not only confined to the ex-superintendent, for it was announced Friday that Roderick Lussier, also of the department had resigned Thursday night. Mr. Lussier was recognized as an able assistant to former Street Superintendent Irvin M. Ford and his resignation comes as a surprise. Mr. Lussier plans to rest up a bit before taking up other work. He now is dog warden and is in line for reappointment, which must be made by April 1.

E. Frank Maine, 83, died at the home of his son, Horace Maine, of Scotland, Friday morning. He was born March 27, 1840, and had made his home with his son for the past ten years. He was the son of William and Sally Brown Maine. Besides his son he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Nellie York of Plainfield, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

George G. Standish, who died at Seneca Falls, N. Y., last Wednesday, born in Colchester and for a number of years conducted a retail shoe business in this city. November 23, 1842, he married Evelyn Webb, who died January 28, 1886. One son survives, Harry W. Standish of this city. George Standish later married Harriet Miner of Danbury, who died in Springville, N. Y. There were four children from this marriage, but one, Winthrop, died overseas. The other three are Myles of Philadelphia, Livingstone of Springville, and Mrs. Helen Hopper also of Springville.

A meeting is to be held Sunday afternoon at the town hall for the purpose of receiving interest in and grouping new members for the American Legion in this city. E. P. Armstrong of Waterbury, state commander, and possibly State Adjutant Barlow of Bridgeport, will be present and will deliver addresses. Recruiting men are being urged to attend the session, which will convene at 1 o'clock. The local public is privileged to attend the general meeting at 3 o'clock.

Prizes to be awarded at the conclusion of the American Thread Athletic association bowling league are as follows: Winning team, cup; Lariviere Brothers; team high three, box of cigars, Whittcomb; team high single, box of cigars; individual high three, Stetson hat, Church-B. Read company; individual high single, pair of bowling shoes, Bendett & Lahn. A suitable prize is to be given to the bowler having to highest individual average.

Fred Henry Lewis, of New York, propelled his cue ball with his fingers and nose in exhibitions given Thursday evening, at the chamber of commerce and at the Wood parlors. The professor displayed his prowess at finger and nose billiards in a match game with Eddie Ruse, the chamber of commerce billiard champion and with A. W. French at the Wood parlors.

The professor is 51 years of age and has been specializing at finger and nose billiards for about sixty years. He was in this city some 13 years ago on an exhibition tour. He claims that he was never very successful at playing billiards with a cue.

The latest styles for the slim and those of full figure were displayed at the Tubridy-Weldon fashion show at their store on Main street, Willimantic, Friday evening from 7 until 10 o'clock. A long waiting line had congregated in front of the establishment as early as 6 o'clock. When the doors were opened an hour later the store immediately filled up while a large crowd stood on the walk, to secure glimpses of the display through the store windows.

Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Farnham, representing the stout models and Misses Marion Crosby and Marguerite Davis showed the latest fashions in sizes as low as 16. These live models, who came from New York, promenaded down the aisle and onto a platform and then to the show window and back to the rear of the store.

Victrola selections were played during the show. "No Woman Too Stout to Be Stylish" was the slogan of the stout model displayers. It was explained and illustrated that the appearance of the stout woman may be hidden by the clothes which she wears. The slim fashions were pretty and merited the appreciation accorded them. Various types of dresses, gowns, coats and hats, beads, bags, etc., were displayed. The entire show being marked by variety and demonstrating a multitude of beautiful styles. Black and white combinations were shown, several of the gowns and suits being displayed with summer furs. A great deal of the credit for the success is due Mrs. Tubridy, who spared no efforts in securing this marvelous fashion event for Willimantic.

It was stated by one of the models that the show for its styles and colors rivalled even those held in the larger New York stores. In staging a fashion show with such marked results Willimantic has scored a decided advantage in advance of the surrounding larger cities in this section of the state.

Several interested women voters met at the town hall, Friday afternoon, to talk over the advisability of forming a Women Voters' League. Miss S. F. Gleaton, field secretary of the state league, was present and gave an outline of the work of such an organization, and dwelt particularly on the benefits the league is non-partisan, and its aim is to instruct women voters regarding town, state and national government, that they may become intelligently fitted to exercise their newly acquired right to vote, and take part in the affairs in town. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox was appointed temporary chairman. Another public meeting is to be held next Monday night at the town hall to see what action will be taken. There are already 71 leagues in the state. The subject programmes are furnished, according to whatever subject the league may wish to discuss. Such an organization would mean better informed women, better citizens and intelligent voters.

GRATEFUL PARENTS POUR OUT THANKS TO TANLAC

Mr. & Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake and Family

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine and tonic is again very forcefully demonstrated. This time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake, 3436 Kirby Ave., West, Detroit, Mich., where father and mother and every member of the family have been benefited by the wholesome and helpful ingredients of the famous preparation.

Recently, in speaking for herself and children, Mrs. Kaake said: "For more than a year our three little ones — John, age 6, Elwyn, 4, and Margarite, 2—had been so peaked and lifeless that we were seriously worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless, and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else.

"They began to eat and sleep better almost from the first dose of Tanlac, and have picked up now until you couldn't find three healthier or more active children in all Detroit. They eat ravenously, the color of health has returned to their cheeks, and they just want to be on the go all the time. I have also taken Tanlac to build me up, and it never seems to fail.

"As to my personal experience with Tanlac," said Mr. Kaake, "I simply can't express in words the great help it gave me. About a year ago I was a victim of boils, actually having fifty-one on me, and was so played out that I couldn't do a bit of work for weeks. My suffering was almost unbearable. I cared little for food, suffered with severe headaches and stomach pains, and got so weak and nervous that I felt discouraged.

"Tanlac corrected my stomach disorders, woke up my appetite, cleansed my blood and toned up my system so that the boils went away, and nothing of the kind has bothered me since. I have gained 26 lbs., and I eat, sleep and feel like a brand-new man. We have given Tanlac a fair trial and and found it wonderful, and if anyone doubts our statement they can write personally. We wouldn't think of being without Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

BREED THEATRE

Lillian Gish in her greatest role! The ethereal little star who tugged at your heart strings in such big productions as The Birth of a Nation, Broken Blossoms, Orphans of the Storm and Way Down East at last has a role that tests her full powers. When you see her in the Henry King production of The White Sister, opening at the Breed theatre on Sunday for a seven day's run, you will be thrilled, captivated and exalted as never before.

John Barrymore has acclaimed Miss Gish as the one actress who carries the supreme tradition of Bernhardt and Duse to the screen. And in The White Sister she has a picture that is incomparable the finest of the year. Nothing equals the beauty, pathos, suspense and spectacular magnificence of F. Marion Crawford's story of love and sacrifice.

The White Sister was made by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and seven months were spent amid the beautiful backgrounds of Italy and northern Africa in photographing the scenes, which include a magnificent view of Vesuvius in actual eruption, a fight in the desert with the Arabs and a town submerged in an avalanche of water as a great reservoir bursts.

The picture has been released by $3.30 admission prices in New York. It realizes the most wonderful possibilities of the screen.

One show Sunday evening at 7:30. Twice daily at 2:30 and 7:30.

BREED THEATRE

The Buster, the William Fox production starring the robust Dustin Farnum, will be seen for the last time today.

The racy action and the charming romance of the story have won for it the distinction of being one of the best photoplays exhibited on the local screen this year. Supported by the lovely Doris Pawn, Farnum gives an excellent performance as the strong foreman of a western ranch.

Other pictures on the bill include The Way of a Man, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy.

FORMER ACADEMY BOYS IN YALE GLEE CLUB

William Chappell, who is a grandson of Mrs. F. S. Camp of 280 Broadway, and a graduate of Norwich Free Academy in the class of 1922, is a member of the Yale Glee club and will appear at Bulkeley High school auditorium, New London, with the club on March 21. The club is singing in the Whaling city under the auspices of the Amoma class of the First Baptist church. Mr. Chappell was very active in his school life at the Academy and his many friends will be glad to hear of his new achievements during college life. After he graduated from the Academy in 1922 he went a year to Phillips Andover Academy, entering the class of 1923. This year he is a freshman at Yale and has won a scholarship for high academic standing. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Chappell of New London.

Frederick P. Latimer, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer of Groton, is also a member of the Yale glee club this year. His father is an editorial writer for the New London Day. Mr. Latimer is a member of the present junior class and expects to graduate next year. While attending the New Haven university he has always sung in the chapel choir but this is the first year he has represented the university in the varsity glee club. Previous to attending Yale Mr. Latimer studied awhile at the Academy here and then attended Phillips Exeter Academy. Both New London boys were members of the winning Eli glee club aggregation that took first honors in New York.

STANDARD TIME LEADER CRITICIZES SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Charging the town school committee with yielding to "commercial and industrial influence in its schedule" so far as the daylight saving question goes, G. Warren Davis of Preston, the well known standard time leader, has written to A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, at Hartford, a letter in which he criticises the stand taken by the committee. Mr. Davis' letter follows:

Doctor A. B. Meredith, Commissioner of Education, Hartford, Conn.:

My dear Doctor Meredith:

In your note of the 6th this sentence has to have attention: "It would seem to me from such knowledge as I have the situation in the state, that, since the fixing of the hours of the sessions of the schools is of local determination solely, there could be no closer contact between the schools and the parents than exists by that fact."

The local school situation upsets your opinion. For in 1922 and in 1923 the school committee set up the daylight-saving, so called, schedule. Who asked them to do it? The children did not. The parents of the children did not ask them to do it. Is it a worthy principle that first of all interests in school matters are those of the children themselves; the parents next; and the general public next? Yet please note that the committee set up the offensive schedule without asking either the children or the parents of the children.

In a late conference the committee alleged it had worked for the "best interests of the people." Yet this same committee has had in its hands for about two months protests from nearly 1,000 people of this town and locality against returning to the offensive so-called daylight-saving schedule this summer. Please note: The committee ignores those protests. It has not answered the protests.

At the conference the committee was asked did it ever canvass the parents of the children to learn their wishes, whether or not they accepted the so-called daylight-saving schedule. "So far as they could recall they had not." Did they ever canvass over canvass even so little as one district? "No, they couldn't recall that they ever had." Then how could they maintain that they were working "for the best interests of the people?" The question, my dear Doctor, leaves the committee in the fog. The fact is my dear Doctor, the committee has yielded to commercial and industrial influence in its schedule leaving the children and parents to go hang.

Yours Truly,
O. W. D.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
AT THE PALACE

When Edward Dillon's "Women Men Marry" is presented on the screen of the Palace Theatre for a limited engagement beginning Sunday, followers of the movies will see an assemblage of players who for their individual excellence and particular fitness for the roles they play have never been equalled.

Among the names which the cast of this picture boasts are E. K. Lincoln, Florence Dixon, Julia Swayne Gordon, Cyril Chadwick and Maude Turner Gordon.

E. K. Lincoln has been so long and favorably known to the film following that he needs no words of endorsement. His long record of successes has been eclipsed by his work in "Women Men Marry". Florence Dixon is a name which has glittered brilliantly from many an electric sign along the Great White Way. Perfectly cast and superbly directed by Mr. Dillon, she gives a performance of high dramatic force and discrimination. Hedda Hopper who in private life is Mrs. De Wolf Hopper plays the role of a languishing beauty who bends every energy to the arduous task of climbing the social ladder.

Cyril Chadwick, who will be remembered for his work in the stage presentation of "Three Live Ghosts", and other Broadway spoken plays maintains his high reputation as the foremost character actor in the United States.

Julia Swayne Gordon, as the worshipper of social position gives a characterization so true and yet so flawless that in singling out individuals of the cast for special praise the critics said that she represented the high standard which all her fellow players maintained throughout the entire performance.

It is a direct from the shoulder thrust at many of the crudities of our social customs and advances the suggestion that perhaps women today are sold for a price paid in social position as women in the ancient world were sold in the slave market for shekels of gold and talents of silver.

It has no vulgar appeal of wrecked railroad trains nor does it attempt to see how it can go toward outraging decency and not topple over the brink. Mr. Dillon believes that he has made a remarkable photoplay which will set a new standard among picture productions and perhaps mark the era of a renewed interest among the masses in the great art of the silent drama.

AT THE BROADWAY

Few shows—musical or otherwise—can survive the real test of popularity and succeed. And the test in this instance is to stage a midnight show and sell out, which is what the glorious musical piece "Up She Goes" did during its long run in Boston. Heretofore the only shows that were presented at midnight have been colored shows and inrequently, burlesque plays.

During its run at the Wilbur Theatre, many requests were received by the management to stage "Up She Goes" at midnight, thus affording patrons who worked during the day and early evening an opportunity to see it. The answer was in a midnight show, which not only sold out, but which, when broadcasted over the radio, was more enthusiastically received by the listeners-in than any piece previously sent out over the ether. "Up She Goes" will be seen at the Broadway for one night only, Monday, March 24. Mail orders are now being received at the theatre.

BROADWAY THEATRE

The George Melford Paramount production of "Flaming Barriers," featuring Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Miers will open with well merited success at the Broadway Theatre tomorrow for it is one of the finest melodramatic comedies ever brought to the screen. It is a decided picture novelty, humanly appealing and a bear for thrills.

Miss Logan, a fighting daughter who isn't afraid to drive a flying machine over a burning forest or a fire truck through one, and who does both in this picture, amazed her admirers with her grit and daring. Mr. Moreno, as Sam Barton, wealthy efficiency expert and golf enthusiast, has a virile role to portray. His fight with Joseph Pickens, the heavy in the picture, who has attacked Jerry, played by Miss Logan, roused the audience to a high pitch of excitement by its realism.

"Flaming Barriers," one of the most interesting and gripping screen productions seen here in many a day.

Other subjects will be seen on the same program.

STRAND THEATRE

The management of the Strand theatre must and will be given great credit by the local theatregoers for the program that has been arranged the first half of next week at that popular playhouse.

The standard of Keith vaudeville usually shown is promised to be eclipsed by this mammoth show scheduled. Without doubt it is the greatest and largest bill ever presented on any local stage. Every act is a feature in itself each having scored a personal triumph wherever they appeared.

Nothing more will be said and we urgently advise you to be on hand for the greatest time of your life. You will never see a greater show of vaudeville and pictures again.

Watch newspapers Monday for program.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

SPECIAL MOVING PICTURES AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY

At 4 o'clock at the local Y. M. C. A. tomorrow (Sunday) several reels of educational moving pictures will be shown, which will doubtless interest the audience. A reel on snow and ice shows the process of changing the raindrop into a snowflake with an exceedingly close-up view of a crystal of snow. This film teaches the nature of the iceberg formation; also experiments in freezing, and the principle of artificial ice. Another reel shows the microscopic view of crystallization: the crystals, are some of them flower like and of remarkable beauty; these are seen to grow on the screen. Another reel is the portrayal of the life history of a pearl which is full of interest. In addition to the pictures Hugh Kinder will render vocal solos and Secretary Hall will give a brief talk. All men and boys 16 and over are most cordially invited.

LARGE NUMBERS ATTEND SPRING OPENING EVENT

New methods and real values are rapidly bringing Norwich to the front as the leading merchandising center of this part of New England. A local company, The Connecticut Machinery & Sales Company, located on Water street inaugurated something progressive when they announced to several thousand farmers that they were holding a Formal Spring Opening beginning Friday and lasting throughout today, at which Lucky Number souvenirs would be given away, refreshments served and new lines displayed.

The number of people attending yesterday exceeded all expectations and a full day is expected again today. It was pleasing to note the large number of farmers wives and children also attending. Entire families and friends were present from New London, Middlesex, Windham and Tolland Counties and from as far as Hope Valley and Watch Hill, Rhode Island. It was interesting and beneficial to listen to these men talk over their problems—quite generally the same whether from Connecticut or our adjoining state.

This opening is strictly for the farmers and confined to displays of machinery and equipment of that department of the business. Incidentally the most modern and complete lines of implements, pumps, etc., are on display. New London County Farm Agent Clark is to draw three numbers this evening, the holders of which will receive lucky number souvenirs of substantial value.

Socially and from a merchandising angle the first day was voted a great success and pleasant memories of Norwich were carried back to many a farm. It's another feather in the cap of this company which is doing a whole lot in making the Water street section so popular a center in hardware, etc.

VIOLIN INSTRUCTOR

The announcement that Mr. Pavel Leowtevits Bytovetzski, the prominent violin instructor and author will spend part of each week in Norwich should be regarded as fortunate. For never before have students of this city been afforded an opportunity of studying the violin with a teacher of such widely recognized reputation. His coming here is due entirely to the influence of his former pupil, Miss Elizabeth Lane of this city who has retired from teaching and has induced Mr. Bytovetzski to take over her class. Mr. Bytovetzski is a graduate of Conrad Thomson of Brussels, Belgium, known as the greatest violinist since Paganini. With this famous master he spent the last few years of his long course and in 1906 was the only student of a large number to receive a diploma of professorship.

Esther A. Sanderson, 84, widow of Isaac Sanderson, died late Friday afternoon at her home, No. 75 High street, following a long illness. She was born Sept. 6, 1839, in Londenberg, Mass., a daughter of Abel and Nancy Wyman. She is survived by one son, Fred A. Sanderson of this city, and a grandson, Herbert Sanderson.

Mrs. Sanderson had been a resident of this city for many years. Her husband, formerly conducted the Brainard House and Hotel, which stood at the present site of the Hotel Quigley on Main and Church streets.

Startling information was given in the police court Friday morning when Elias Glaubinger, of Scotland, testified that he had purchased and sold cow meat which was found to be diseased and condemned and that he bought cattle from Whitcomb the butcher in the commission.

These alarming statements were brought out during cross-examination of Glaubinger by prosecuting Attorney Harvey, while the Colchester cattle dealer was being tried on a charge of cruelty to animals.

Asked if he ever knew of any of this condemned meat in Willimantic, Glaubinger was positive on that point. He said that he was the only dealer who bought this kind of beef. For the most part it was cattle that had been condemned on account of various troubles and diseases and when the cattle were bought they had been cured, the meat was sold to dealers in the state. Glaubinger turned on the lights for a real "cattle scandal" in this state when he said that when he bought the cows and butchered them, a government official would put a stamp on the beef, which was then sold.

Prosecuting Attorney Harvey declared that if Glaubinger's statements that he was buying and selling beef that had been condemned were true, it created an appalling situation that was beyond him.

After the court session was adjourned, Glaubinger denied that he had been giving incriminating testimony and he pleaded urgently for the entire matter be hushed up, even going so far as to attempt to slip a $5 bill into a reporter's pocket for that purpose.

Elias Glaubinger and his son, Morris Glaubinger, 20, were charged with cruelty to an animal. Before the pleas were entered, the elder Glaubinger wanted the court to tell how much of a fine would be imposed but he was informed that all that was wanted of him was to plead guilty or not guilty and the judge would take care of the fine question.

Officer Grant Bombria testified that the Colchester truck had been parked under the footbridge on Railroad street all Tuesday afternoon and that a young cow tied up in the truck was suffering severely from the wet snow which fell during the afternoon and from the cramped position in which it had been left. The officer could not locate the owner of the truck and later in the day the machine was run to Doubleday's barn, where the animal was given some measure of relief.

Raymond Connors testified to having seen the truck on the street from 2 to 5 o'clock, when he was ordered by the police officer to drive the machine to the barn.

Chief MacArthur gave evidence that shortly after 3 o'clock Morris Glaubinger came to the police station and complained that someone had taken his truck. Elias Glaubinger arrived at the station a few minutes later and both were ordered to appear in police court on the charge mentioned.

In court Friday, Elias Glaubinger said that he left the truck on the street in the forenoon and went off to do some shopping. He did not see his son again until he met him at the police station. He testified that Morris Glaubinger had taken the truck and had gone to Pomfret, where he purchased the cow and he was sure that he did not return to this city until 3 o'clock. As he had seen neither the truck nor the cow, Elias Glaubinger waived any guilt on the matter.

Prosecuting Attorney Harvey said that although it was evident that the elder man was attempting to place the blame on his son, he was still responsible for the suffering caused the animal, as he owned the truck, conducted the business and his son only worked for him.

Attorney Gaucher, who represented the accused, asked that the charge be dismissed for lack of evidence.

Judge Foss ruled that the father had succeeded in placing the blame on his son, but as it was the son's first appearance before the local police court, he would be reasonable; he then imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $13.15, which was paid.

The town of Coventry lost one of its leading business men and citizens, Friday morning, when William C. Latimer, 58, was found dead in his bed at his home on Wall street in that place.

Medical Examiner Dr. W. L. Higgins gave as the cause rheumatism of the heart. Mr. Latimer's housekeeper, Mrs. Florence Cochrane, feared that something had gone wrong when Mr. Latimer did not come down for breakfast and she ran across the street to the home of her father, Deputy Sheriff A. H. Hagmon, who accompanied her to the house where Mr. Latimer was found dead in his bed in a room on the upper floor.

Mr. Latimer did not appear to be suffering from any chronic ailment and never complained of illness. He had, however, been in pain for the past two years from rheumatism in his left leg and he told his son on Thursday that he felt it in his left hand.

He was active Thursday, eating a hearty supper, shaving himself and taking a bath before retiring, about 9 o'clock in the evening. Members of the household did not hear him complain during the night. Medical Examiner Higgins was of the opinion that death had occurred about two hours before his body was discovered.

Mr. Latimer was born in Montville, June 28, 1860. He came to South Coventry about forty-eight years ago, starting in the livery business, which he conducted for nearly thirty-five years. During that time he added a coal and trucking business and later entered the grain selling field. He disposed of his trucking business several years ago. For the past quarter of a century his son, Eugene W. Latimer has been associated with him in the coal and grain business.

Mr. Latimer was a republican in politics and filled many offices of trust, including that of deputy sheriff. He was a member of the board of selectmen for several years, also of the board of relief.

Mr. Latimer was a member of Uriel lodge, No. 24, A. F. & A. M., of Merrow. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank L. Williams of Hartford, Mrs. Charles Brewer of East Hartford, and a son, Judge of Probate Eugene W. Latimer, of South Coventry, also ten grandchildren.

A Hartford paper, Friday morning, carried the following article of local interest:

Mrs. William Hassig, 20 years old, is in the Litchfield county hospital at Winsted, with serious internal injuries. Mrs. Joseph Inger, sister of Mrs. Hassig, is at the hospital as the result of a shock of the news of her sister's injury and Mrs. Josephine Marino of Willimantic is under arrest as the result of an accident on Main street, in the center of the city, about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Marino was driving a coupe at a fast rate of speed and struck Mrs. Hassig as she was crossing Main street, from the Bridge street side to the Hotel Winchester. Witnesses claim that instead of putting on the brakes, Mrs. Marino tried to leave the car, with the result that Mrs. Hassig was dragged about 60 feet, the car stopping with the front wheels on her body. She was extricated by Walter Churchill. It is said that the sound of the crash was heard in stores fifty feet away.

Mrs. Inger was on Main street at the time of the accident, coming from the hospital where she had been visiting another member of the family, a patient there. On learning of her sister's injury she fainted and was taken to the hospital. Mrs. Marino was arrested by Policemen Frank White and Theodore Dautrier.

It was stated at the Winsted police headquarters that Mrs. Marino was not arrested for the accident in which Mrs. Hassig was injured by a car driven by the local woman, but was detained at the police station for about an hour and a half, pending an investigation. Pending action by County Coroner Samuel A. Harmon, she was then released and she spent the night in Winsted and was there Friday forenoon. It is feared that Mrs. Hassig, the injured woman, may not live as she has a punctured lung resulting from the crushing of her ribs. Mrs. Marino communicated with friends in this city Friday morning, one telephone call being sent to Michael Mazzola, who said that he was asked to come to Winsted for the purpose of offering bonds, if necessary.

Mrs. Marino resides on the Flanders road, just over the city line, in the town of Mansfield.

John S. Sullivan became the official superintendent of streets and sewers of the city of Willimantic, Friday. He succeeds George M. Flint who was appointed by Mayor Hormisdas Dion when the democrats went into power, following the December election. Mr. Flint had served just two months, his appointment dating from January 15. Mr. Sullivan has had considerable experience in his work, having been street superintendent four years—1913-1917—during the administration of the late ex-Mayor Daniel P. Dunn.

Apparently the dissatisfaction felt by members of the street was not only confined to the ex-superintendent, for it was announced Friday that Roderick Lussier, also of the department had resigned Thursday night. Mr. Lussier was recognized as an able assistant to former Street Superintendent Irvin M. Ford and his resignation comes as a surprise. Mr. Lussier plans to rest up a bit before taking up other work. He now is dog warden and is in line for reappointment, which must be made by April 1.

E. Frank Maine, 83, died at the home of his son, Horace Maine, of Scotland, Friday morning. He was born March 27, 1840, and had made his home with his son for the past ten years. He was the son of William and Sally Brown Maine. Besides his son he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Nellie York of Plainfield, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

George G. Standish, who died at Seneca Falls, N. Y., last Wednesday, born in Colchester and for a number of years conducted a retail shoe business in this city. November 22, 1883, he married Evelyn Webb, who died January 28, 1886. One son survives, Harry W. Standish of this city. George Standish later married Harriet Miner of Danbury, who died in Springville, N. Y. There were four children from this marriage, but one, Winthrop, died overseas. The other three are Myles of Philadelphia, Livingstone of Springville, and Mrs. Helen Hopper also of Springville.

A meeting is to be held Sunday afternoon at the town hall for the purpose of reviving interest in and procuring new members for the American Legion in this city. E. P. Armstrong of Waterbury, state commander, and possibly State Adjutant Barlow of Bridgeport, will be present and will deliver addresses. Ex-service men are being urged to attend the session, which will convene at 1 o'clock. The local public is privileged to attend the general meeting at 3 o'clock.

Prizes to be awarded at the conclusion of the American Thread Athletic association bowling league are as follows: Winning team, cup; Lariviere Brothers; team high three, box of cigars, Whitcomb; team high single, box of cigars; individual high three, Stetson hat, Church & Ilted company; individual high single, pair of bowling shoes, Bendett & Lahn. A suitable prize is to be given to the bowler having te highest individual average.

Prof. Henry Lewis, of New York, propelled his cue ball with his fingers and nose in exhibitions given Thursday evening, at the chamber of commerce and at the Wood parlors. The professor displayed his prowess at finger and nose billiards in a match game with Eddie Ruse, the chamber of commerce billiard champion and with A. W. French at the Wood parlors.

The professor is 81 years of age and has been specializing at finger and nose billiards for about sixty years. He was in this city some 12 years ago on an exhibition tour. He claims that he was never very successful at playing billiards with a cue.

The latest styles for the slim and those of full figure were displayed at the Tubridy-Weldon fashion show at their store on Main street, Willimantic, Friday evening from 7 until 10 o'clock. A long waiting line had congregated in front of the establishment as early as 6 o'clock. When the doors were opened an hour later the store immediately filled up while a large crowd stood on the walk, to secure glimpses of the display through the store windows.

Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Farnham, represented the stout models and Misses Marion Crosby and Marguerite Davis showed the latest fashions in sizes as low as 16. These live models, who came from New York, promenaded down the aisle and onto a platform and then to the show window and back to the rear of the store.

Victrola selections were played during the show. "No Woman Too Stout to Be Stylish" was the slogan of the stout model displayers. It was explained and illustrated that the appearance of the stout woman may be hidden by the clothes which she wears. The slim fashions were pretty and merited the appreciation recorded them. Various types of dresses, gowns, coats and hats, beads, bags, etc., were displayed the entire show being marked by variety and demonstrating the multitude of beautiful styles. Black and white combinations were shown, several of the gowns and suits being displayed with summer furs. A great deal of the credit for the success is due Mrs. Tubridy, who spared no efforts in securing this marvelous fashion event for Willimantic.

It was stated by one of the model's that the show for its styles and colors rivalled even those held in the larger New York stores. In staging a fashion show with such marked results Willimantic has scored a decided advantage in advance of the surrounding larger cities in this section of the state.

Several interested women voters met at the town hall, Friday afternoon, to talk over the advisability of forming a Women Voters' League. Miss S. F. Gleaton, field secretary of the state league, was present and gave an outline of the work of such an organization, and dwelt particularly on the benefits. The league is non-partisan, and its aim is to instruct women voters regarding town, state and national government, that they may become intelligently fitted to exercise their newly acquired right to vote, and take part in the affairs in town. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox was appointed temporary chairman. Another public meeting is to be held next Monday night at the town hall to see what action will be taken. There are already 71 leagues in the state. The subject programmes are furnished, according to whatever subject the league may wish to discuss. Such an organization would mean better informed women, better citizens and intelligent voters.

GRATEFUL PARENTS POUR OUT THANKS TO TANLAC

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine and tonic is again very forcefully demonstrated. This time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake, 2436 Kirby Ave., West Detroit, Mich., where father and mother and every member of the family have been benefited by the wholesome and helpful ingredients of the famous prescription.

Recently speaking for herself and children, Mrs. Kaake said: "Our whole family was run down and little ones—Junior, age 8, Evelyn, 4, and Marguerite, 2—had been troubled and afflicted that we were seriously worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless, and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else.

"They began to eat and sleep better almost from the first dose of Tanlac, and have picked up now until you couldn't find three healthier or more active children in all Detroit. They eat ravenously, the color of health has returned to their cheeks, and they just want to be on the go all the time. We have also taken Tanlac to build me up, and it never seems to fail."

As to my personal experience with Tanlac," said Mr. Kaake, "I simply can't express in words the great help it gave me. About a year ago I was a victim of boils, actually having operation on me and was so played out that I couldn't do a bit of work for weeks. My stomach was likewise miserable. I cared little for food, suffered with severe headaches and stomach pains, and got so weak and nervous that I felt discouraged.

"Tanlac corrected my stomach disorders, woke up my appetite, cleansed my blood and toned up my system so that the boils went away, and nothing of the kind has bothered me since I have gained 28 lbs., and I eat, sleep and feel like a brand-new man. We have given Tanlac a fair trial and found it wonderful, and if anyone doubts our statement they can write personally. We wouldn't think of being without Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE

Lillian Gish in her greatest role! The ethereal little star who tugged at your heart strings in such big productions as The Birth of a Nation, Broken Blossoms, Orphans of the Storm and Way Down East at last has a role that tests her full powers. When you see her in the Henry King production of The White Sister, opening at the Breed theatre on Sunday for a seven day's run, you will be thrilled, captivated and exalted as never before.

John Barrymore has acclaimed Miss Gish as the one actress who carries the supreme tradition of Bernhardt and Duse to the screen. And in The White Sister she has a picture that is incomparably the finest of the year. Nothing equals the beauty, pathos, suspense and spectacular magnificence of F. Marion Crawford's story of love and sacrifice.

The White Sister was made by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and seven months were spent amid the beautiful backgrounds of Italy and northern Africa in photographing the scenes, which include a magnificent view of Vesuvius in actual eruption, a fight in the desert with the Arabs and a town submerged in an avalanche of water as a great reservoir bursts.

The picture has been released by $2.20 admission prices in New York. It realizes the most wonderful possibilities of the screen.

One show Sunday evening at 7:30. Twice daily at 2:30 and 7:30.

BREED THEATRE

The Buster, the William Fox production starring the robust Dustin Farnum, will be seen for the last time today.

The racy action and the charming romance of the story have won for it the distinction of being one of the best photoplays exhibited on the local screen this year. Supported by the lovely Doris Pawn, Farnum gives an excellent performance as the strong foreman of a western ranch.

Other pictures on the bill include The Way of a Man, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy.

FORMER ACADEMY BOYS IN YALE GLEE CLUB

William Chappell, who is a grandson of Mrs. F. S. Camp of 280 Broadway, and a graduate of Norwich Free Academy in the class of 192[illegible] is a member of the Yale Glee Club and will appear at Bulkeley High school auditorium, New London, with the club on March 21. The club is singing in the Whaling city under the auspices of the Amoma class of the First Baptist church. Mr. Chappell was very active in his school life at the Academy and his many friends will be glad to hear of his new achievements during college life. After he graduated from the Academy in 1922, he went a year to Phillips Andover Academy, entering the class of 1923. This year he is a freshman at Yale and has won a scholarship for high academic standing. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Chappell of New London.

Frederick P. Latimer, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer of Groton, is also a member of the Yale glee club this year. His father is an editorial writer for the New London Day. Mr. Latimer is a member of the present junior class and expects to graduate next year. While attending the New Haven university he has always sung in the chapel choir but this is the first year he has represented the university in the varsity glee club. Previous to attending Yale Mr. Latimer studied awhile at the Academy here and then attended Phillips Exeter Academy. Both New London boys were members of the winning Eli glee club aggregation that took first honors in New York.

ST. PATRICK'S NIGHT DANCE AT STATE ARMORY

The united Division of the A. O. H. are to give a dance St. Patrick's night at the state armory. Music will be furnished by Herb Smith's orchestra. ### STANDARD TIME LEADER CRITICIZES SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Charging the town school committee with yielding to "commercial and industrial influence in its schedule" so far as the daylight saving question goes, G. Warren Davis of Preston, the well known standard time leader, has written to A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, at Hartford, a letter in which he criticizes the stand taken by the committee. Mr. Davis' letter follows:

Doctor A. B. Meredith, Commissioner of Education, Hartford, Conn.:

My dear Doctor Meredith:

In your note of the 6th this sentence has to have attention: "It would seem to me from such knowledge as I have the situation in the state, that, since the fixing of the hours of the sessions of the schools is of local determination solely, there could be no closer contact between the schools and the parents than exists by that fact."

The local school situation upsets your opinion. For in 1922 and in 1923 the school committee set up the daylight-saving, so called, schedule. Who asked them to do it? The children did not. The parents of the children did not ask them to do it. Is it a worthy principle that first of all interests in school matters are those of the children themselves; the parents next; and the general public next? Yet please note that the committee set up the offensive schedule without asking either the children or the parents of the children.

In a late conference the committee alleged it had worked for the "best interests of the people." Yet this same committee has had in its hands for about two months protests from nearly 1,000 people of this town and locality against returning to the offensive so-called daylight-saving schedule this summer. Please note: The committee ignores those protests. It has not answered the protests.

At the conference the committee was asked did it ever canvass the parents of the children to learn their wishes, whether or not they accepted the so-called daylight-saving schedule. "So far as they could recall they had not." Did they ever canvass ever canvass even so little as one district? "No, they couldn't recall that they ever had." Then how could they maintain that they were working "for the best interests of the people?" The question, my dear Doctor, leaves the committee in the fog. The fact is my dear Doctor, the committee has yielded to commercial and industrial influence in its schedule, leaving the children and parents to go hang.

Yours Truly,
G. W. D.

The new mayor of Ithaca, N. Y., is a mechanical engineer professor.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AT THE PALACE

When Edward Dillon's "Women Men Marry" is presented on the screen of the Palace Theatre for a limited engagement beginning Sunday, followers of the movies will see an assemblage of players who for their individual excellence and particular fitness for the roles they play have never been equalled.

Among the names which the [illegible] of this picture boasts are E. K. Lincoln, Florence Dixon, Julia Swayne Gordon, Cyril Chadwick and Maude Turner Gordon.

E. K. Lincoln has been so long and favorably known to the film [illegible] er that he needs no words of endorsement. His long record of successes has been eclipsed by his work in "Women Men Marry." Florence [illegible] is a name which has glittered brightly from many an electric sign along the Great White Way. Perfectly cast and superbly directed by Mr. Dillon, she gives a portrayal of high dramatic force and distinction. Hedda Hopper who in private life is Mrs. De Wolf Hopper plays the role of a languishing beauty who bends every energy to the ardent task of climbing the social [illegible].

Cyril Chadwick, who will be remembered for his work in the stage presentation of "Three Live Ghosts" and other Broadway spoken plays maintains his high reputation as the most character actor in the United States.

Julia Swayne Gordon as the wealthy shipper of social position gives a characterization so true and yet so flawless that in singling out individuals of the cast for special praise the critics said that [illegible] ed the high at[illegible] fellow players [illegible] out the entire performance.

It is a direct fro[illegible] the shrewd thrust at many of the traditions of our social customs and advances the suggestion that perhaps women in days are sold for a price paid in actual position as women in the ancient world were sold in the slave market for shekels of gold and talents of silver.

It has no vulgar appeal of wrecked railroad trains nor does it attempt to see how it can go toward outraging decency and not topple over it. Herein Mr. Dillon believes that he made a remarkable photo[illegible] will set a new standard [illegible] ture productions and persons [illegible] the era of a renewed interest among the masses in the great art of the silent drama.

AT THE BROADWAY

Few shows—musical or otherwise—can survive the real test of popularity and succeed. And the test in this instance is to stage a midnight show and sell out, which is what the glorious musical piece "Up She Goes" did during its long run in [illegible]. Heretofore the only shows that presented at midnight have been [illegible] shows and infrequently, [illegible] que plays.

During its run at the Wilbur Theatre, many requests were received by the management to stage [illegible] Goes at midnight, but [illegible] from New [illegible] easy [illegible] it. The answer [illegible] show, which [illegible] which, when [illegible] dio, was more [illegible] ed by the listeners-in [illegible] previously sent out over the [illegible] "Up She Goes" will be seen at the Broadway for one night only, Monday, March 24. Mail orders are now being received at the theatre.

BROADWAY THEATRE

The George Melford Paramount production of "Flaming Barriers," featuring Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Hiers will open with well merited success at the Broadway Theatre tomorrow for it is one of the finest melodramatic comedies ever brought to the screen. It is a decided picture novelty, humanly appealing and a bear for thrills.

Miss Logan, a fighting daughter who isn't afraid to drive a flying machine over a burning forest or a fire truck through one, and who does both in this picture, amazed her admirers with her grit and daring. Mr. Moreno, as Sam Barton, wealthy efficiency expert and golf enthusiast, has a virile role to portray. His fight with Joseph Pickens, the heavy in this picture, who had attacked Jerry, played by Miss Logan, roused the audience to a high pitch of excitement by its realism.

"Flaming Barriers," one of the most interesting and gripping screen productions seen here in many a day.

Other subjects will be seen on the same program.

STRAND THEATRE

The management of the Strand theatre must and will be given great credit by the local theatregoers for the program that has been arranged the first half of next week at that popular playhouse.

The standard of Keith vaudeville usually shown is promised to be eclipsed by this mammoth show scheduled. Without doubt it is the greatest and largest bill ever presented on any local stage. Every act is a feature in itself each having scored a personal triumph wherever they appeared.

Nothing more will be said and we urgently advise you to be on hand for the greatest time of your life. You will never see a greater show of vaudeville and pictures again.

Watch newspapers Monday for program.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

The Charitable Circle of King's Daughters meet Tuesday evening.

All officers and teachers of the church school are urged to meet at the Community House, at half past six on Thursday evening, for the monthly supper and a brief business meeting, after which adjournment will be made to the lecture by Fr. Honline.

Union mid-week worship, Central Baptist church, Thursday evening, at 7.30, when Dr. M. A. Honline will continue his lectures on Pedagogy and the Bible.

The Camp Fire meets at the Community House at 7 o'clock, Friday evening for handcraft.

SPECIAL MOVING PICTURES AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY

At 4 o'clock at the local Y. M. C. A. tomorrow (Sunday) several reels of educational moving pictures will be shown, which will doubtless interest the audience. A reel on snow and ice shows the process of changing the raindrop into a snowflake with an exceedingly close-up view of a crystal of snow. This film teaches the nature of the iceberg formation; also experiments in freezing, and the principle of artificial ice. Another reel shows the microscopic vies of crystallization; the crystals, are some of them flower like and of remarkable beauty; these are seen to grow on the screen. Another reel is the portrayal of the life history of a pearl which is full of interest. In addition to the pictures Hugh Kinder will render vocal solos and Secretary Hall will give a brief talk. All men and boys 15 and over are most cordially invited.

The favorite stories of Elizabeth Barrett Browning in childhood were Greek stories.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A derrick was being rigged Friday at Oneco, preparatory to hoisting two trucks of the state highway department out of the water, into which they plunged when a bridge gave way under them Wednesday afternoon.

Collapse of the bridge has hampered traffic greatly and detours are necessary. Up to Friday, when a foot bridge was built across, even the mail has had to be taken across by rowboat.

There is much comment in Oneco and other parts of the town of Sterling relative to the accident. Someone has recalled that a heavy motor vehicle struck the bridge last year and it is claimed that this blow weakened it to a considerable extent. This is a theory that likely will interest engineers who will make a thorough examination of the bridge with a viw to determining, if possible, just what caused the bridge to let go. The bridge was built in 1896. A resident of Oneco said that the bridge has been shaky under heavy motor truck loads for a year past.

There appears to be interest, too, in just how much weight was represented by the two trucks that are in the water, the snow plow attachment, the load of men and material the trucks were carrying. It was said Friday afternoon that the town of Sterling may ask to have the trucks weighed when they are taken out of the water, that some approximation of the trucks and their loads may be made.

General interest is being manifested in the removal of the trucks. It represents quite a problem and means the calling of heavy hoisting apparatus into service. Numbers of people from various towns of the county have been at Oneco to look at the bridge since it collapsed.

The funeral of Clarence Gates, who lost his life when the trucks plunged off the bridge and into the water, is to be held today (Saturday).

John E. Lucas, 80, one of Danielson's best known business men for a quarter of a century, died Friday forenoon at his home on Broad street. Mr. Lucas retired from business last year, when his health had become broken, but when there still appeared to be go prospect of regaining it, through rest and recreation.

Mr. Lucas appeared quite well up to the late fall of last year, when his strength began to ebb rapidly and his condition became such as to be alarming. During the winter he was a patient for weeks in Boston hospitals and returned here during the past month, apparently considerably improved.

Within the past few days his condition again became grave and there has been practically no hope for his recovery since the first of the present week.

Mr. Lucas was born in Jewett City, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lucas From his early youth he gave evidence of exceptional industry and he had passed his majority only a few years when he was engaged in the market business in Danielson on his own account and continued to be so engaged until the past year. He achieved the fine measure of success that his close application to business and honest dealing deserved for him.

In his youthful days Mr. Lucas was known as one of the finest semi-professional baseball players in eastern Connecticut and it was through his participation in that national pastime that he first became known to many in Danielson, who have ever since claimed him as a friend.

Mr. Lucas was as devoted to his family as he was a close applicant to his business. He found in his home and in his place of business the things that appealed to him most in life, though not negligent of his friends, or of civic interests.

Mr. Lucas leaves his wife, and two daughters, Miss Blanche Lucas, at home, and Mrs. Yvonne Micure of Putnam. Mr. Lucas was a member of Rose of Lima council, Knights of Columbus.

Mrs. Bridget McLaughlin, 74, wife of Patrick McLaughlin, is dead at their home in the town of Hampton, where the family has been resident for many years. Mrs. McLaughlin died Thursday after a long illness. She was a native of Ireland.

Another day of restoration work on the part of telephone line crews brought a little more order out of the chaos wrought by the big storm of Tuesday and Wednesday. Many poles that were broken off and knocked down had been replaced within the territory of the Danielson division and many lines that were broken or twisted in with others were repaired and put back in service.

What was done Friday represents progress, but not completion of the job that confronts the crews, who have worked valiantly to achieve as much as has been accomplished. Many who have been without telephone service had it restored during Friday and more subscribers will get back into service today.

It was said Friday evening that while all telephones will be back in working order in the very future complete repairs of the damage done in this division may take as long as three weeks.

Danielson again has its street light service and its home lighting service working normally. The fire alarm telegraph service is again in working order.

Things generally are on the mend and to the public the troubles caused by the great storm soon will be no more than a memory.

Investigation about the borough shows that a surprising amount of damage has been done to trees. A particularly unfortunate breaking of trees occurred at the home of C. H. Pellett on North Main street and at other properties in that neighborhood.

Mrs. Harold Bigelow and Mrs. H. H. Conklin had charge of the program at a meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, at the Methodist parsonage Friday afternoon.

A joint meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Ladies' Sewing society of St. Alban's church was held with Mrs. E. H. Keach Friday afternoon.

Many local telephones that had been out of service since last Tuesday were restored to working order during Friday, when good progress was being made by the line crews here to repair storm damage.

W. G. Barker will come here from New York to speak at a Bible students' meeting in G. A. R. hall Sunday morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur G. Bill will have the members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at her home for a meeting Thursday afternoon next week.

Some unusually good acts were included in the vaudeville program at the Orpheum theatre Friday evening.

Lillian Gish in her most distinguished triumph—The White Sister—filmed in Italy, at the Orpheum theatre next Monday and Tuesday, matinee and evening—adv.

Republicans of Killingly will elect delegates next Wednesday to attend the party state convention that will select Connecticut's delegation to the republican national convention to be held in Cleveland in June.

The clock in the tower of the Congregational church—familiarly known as the town clock—is out of commission. It stopped about 12 minutes to 10 Tuesday night, in the height of the storm.

Divorce cases of Mrs. Delia Roberts vs. George L. Roberts and of Mrs. Mary J. Smith vs. John Smith, both Killingly cases, were tried in the superior court at Putnam Friday.

Income tax returns filed today will be accepted by the collector of internal revenue at Hartford. The Danielson Trust Co.—adv.

The mercury slid down to 10 above zero in Danielson, Friday morning, another evidance that March is a winter month.

Bus lines have resumed their service between Danielson and Providence after the tieup and blockade of the road caused by the big snowstorm.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill investigated the accident in which trucks of the state highway department went off a bridge and into the water at Oneco, causing the death of Clarence Gates. The coroner finds that Mr. Gates met his death by drowning.

Though all state highways are open again, travel over some country highways in the outlying territory is impossible for motor vehicle and on some roads only a sled or sleigh can be used successfully.

Abel Roy, 69, a resident on Franklin street here, died in Plainfield while visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Henry Arsenault. He was born in Canada, but had lived in this country for many years.

Ladies—let us have your names. Our toilet goods demonstrator, here all next week, will call at your home. Mose the Druggist.—adv.

Maybe some income taxpayer did do this—and maybe not, but anyway, it's a good story. Explaining on the reverse side of the form a deduction of $400 to church it was set forth that it was to The Church Co., a denomination all its own.

Rev. Mother Angela and Mother Ida of Hartford have been visiting the Sisters of St. Joseph on Franklin street. They visited all the children in all the grades o fSt. James' school during their brief stay.

PUTNAM

Fines and costs amounting to $1,595.42 were imposed by Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court, Friday morning, on accused liquor cases, and jail sentences for the offenders also were ordered. In two instances the severity of the sentences is accounted for by the fact that the accused were second or third time offenders.

Raids made by Captain Jarvis and members of the city police, early Friday morning, following preparatory investigating work that had been done, resulted in the appearance in court of Joseph Richards and his wife, Dorina Richards, Ernest Montpelier and Albert Manoch.

Richards pleaded guilty to keeping with intent to sell and to an actual sale. He, as a second offender, was fined $200 on each count and given 30 days in jail on each count, with costs, a total of $568.14 and 60 days in jail. Richards paid $300 of the fine before he was taken to jail.

Mrs. Richards, presented on the same charges as was her husband, pleaded not guilty. Her case was continued until Monday of next week.

Richards' last appearance in the city court to answer to a violation of the liquor law was Sept. 4, 1923.

Ernest Montpelier pleaded guilty to charges of keeping with intent to sell and with actual sale. His was a third offence, he having been prosecuted in the city court on April 9 and on December 24 of the past year for violations of the liquor law.

He was fined $250 on each count, a total of $500, with costs of $165.14, and given 60 days in jail—30 on each count. He went to jail not only to serve his sentence, but also to work out his fines at the rate of $1.00 a day. On this basis he will remain in jail for the next two years, providing that money for his fine and costs is not forthcoming in the meantime.

Albert Manoch, charged with keeping with intent to sell and with sales on two additional counts, pleaded guilty to the first count, nolo to the second count and the third count was nolled. On the first count the court imposed a fine of $200 and costs of $165.14, a total of $365.14. The court continued action on the second count for a period of six months, Manoch in the meantime to be on probation.

It was stated following the session of court and by way of explanation of the exceptionally heavy costs in each case that these were accounted for by the special assistance of detectives that the police had in obtaining the evidence that brought about the convictions.

Some matters on short calendar were disposed of, some cases assigned and several uncontested divorce cases were heard, at Friday morning's session of the superior court, Judge George E. Hinman presiding.

Judge Sabin S. Russell, appearing as counsel for the receivers in the case of William Metcalfe vs the Manhasset Mfg. Co., entered applications for the allowance and disallowances of claims against the corporation that have been presented within the time limited for such presentation. Judge Russell explained that the claims against the Manhasset company to date total $6,250,966.52, but setoffs and payments will reduce the claims to $5,370,527.76. After hearing Judge Russell the court ordered that the matter be continued one week.

The court approved the suggestion that the case of Margaret O'Leary et al vs Remi Delage et al, and the case of Arthur Pepin et al vs. Louis Wolfe et al be referred to Hon. Gardiner Greene, as state referee.

The case of Frank A. Phillips vs James W. Baker was assigned to be heard at Willimantic on Wednesday of next week. Another assignment was the case of Benjamin G. Stanton, Admr., vs. Samuel L. King to be heard in Putnam on Thursday, March 27.

The court will be in session at Willimantic during the coming week, excepting Friday, when the short calendar session will be held in this city.

Dancing St. Patrick's night at Danielson State Armory—adv.

The divorce case of Ethel S. Mansfield vs. William Nelson Mansfield, to have been heard Friday, was continued until next week.

Asking for a divorce from John Q. Smith, now an inmate of the Killingly town farm, Mrs. Mary J. Smith of Elmville represented that he had struck her, had failed to provide for her and that she had to keep boarders and do housework to get a living, during the greater part of her married life with the defendant.

The couple married at North Scituate, R. I., Dec. 11, 1904, Mrs. Smith testified. She was 19 years the junior of Smith, who is now 72. They lived there for a time and then came to Danielson, where they had a home for nearly 15 years. Later they moved to Elmville.

It was there that the instance in which Smith struck her before witnesses was told about to the court. Mrs. Smith claimed that her husband hit her three times after she had requested that he try and find some employment. Mrs. Bertha Stone, Elmville, a niece of Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Catherine Norton, a neighbor, both testified to having seen Smith strike his wife on the occasion referred to. They told, too, of his threatening to shoot them all with his revolver for remonstrating with him, and so frightened did Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Norton become that they fled for safety.

Mrs. Smith said her husband received a legacy of $2,500 two years ago, but spent it all on horses and on trips to New York and Canada. He also, she charged, bought a rug and other household equipment for a Putnam woman, but did not pay for these goods, an oversight that resulted in his horse being attached. Mrs. Iva Butler, of Moosup, another niece of Mrs. Smith, testified as to how Smith had abused his wife.

Judge Hinman questioned closely who the boarder was at the Smith home at the time Smith left and went to the town farm, this departure being shortly after the date on which witnesses said Smith had struck his wife in their presence, and as to whether the same boarder still lived at the home in Elmville.

Judge Hinman took the papers in the case, reserving decision.

Delia Roberts of Danielson was granted a divorce from George L. Roberts, on the ground of habitual intemperance. The couple were married in Danielson Dec. 4, 1918. Roberts was intoxicated two or three times a week, Mrs. Roberts testified, and this later was corroborated by her mother, Mrs. Mary Bodo, by her brother, Frederick Bodo, by George Rouzok and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, all of Killingly. Roberts lost job after job, the testimony showed, because of his intemperance. He also deserted his wife for long periods and has been away from home much of his married life. He has twice been arrested for non-support. Roberts is said to be in Moosup at present. Mrs. Roberts was given custody of a five-year-old daughter born of the marriage.

The story of a youthful romance that had its inception one day in late April, 1919, blossomed miraculously into love, culminated in marriage within a week and had a disillusioning ending before the summer season had reached its height, was told to the court by Leona Chabot Keefe of Willimantic, seeking a divorce from Joseph Francis Keefe, now in the United States navy and stationed at the League Island navy yard, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Keefe, dainty and petite, told of meeting Keefe in Willimantic in the early spring of 1919 and of their marriage within a week. Mrs. Keefe, then 18, and her spouse a year younger, took him home to her mother, Mrs. Lena Chabot, as a surprise.

Mrs. Keefe related to the court that her husband showed no inclination to work after their marriage, even when members of the household became insistent that he do so. Finally, he said he was going home to Brockton to visit his mother, and he did, leaving his wife in Willimantic. He remained away for a month, during which time no word came from him.

When he did return he was no more inclined to work than he had been before. Mrs. Keefe testified that he told her their marriage had been a mistake; that he was young and desired to have a good time and that he would go his way and she might go her own. She pleaded with him to take her with him and to make a home for her but he was deaf to all these entreaties and finally left her for good and all, in August, 1919.

Mrs. Keefe admitted she misrepresented her age when applying for a marriage license. She was granted a decree on the ground of desertion and allowed to resume her maiden name. For the past two years she has been employed in Newark, N. J., making frequent visits to her home in Willimantic.

Mrs. Lena Chabot, mother of the plaintiff, and Mrs. Lillian Beck, a sister, both of Willimantic, were witnesses for Mrs. Keefe.

Following the Anderson case (special on the Norwich page) court adjourned until next Tuesday, when it will sit at Willimantic.

There is a strong possibility that the headquarters company of the 43d division will be located in this city, it was stated Friday. This division is the one that is being reorganized in accordance with plans of the war department and the one in which State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne, of this city, is finance officer, with rank of major. If the headquarters company is assigned to Putnam the unit will be one of the most attractive for enlistments of any command in the entire division and likely will bring a rush of recruits.

For failure to appear at Danielson, Thursday evening and meet Johnny Lawson of Boston in a 6-round boxing exhibition, Jerry Bernard of this city has been suspended from participation in bouts in Connecticut by the state boxing commission, for a period of six months. Bernard sent no explanation to the club as to why he would not fulfil his engagement. It was stated Friday by his friends that a swelling of his face due to trouble with his teeth was the reason he did not go to Danielson to carry out his contract.

There is a prospect of a series of games between members of the Putnam Checker club and members of the Rhode Island Checkers and Chess club of Providence. Some correspondence has been carried on about the meeting, but dates have not been fixed as yet.

More damaged telephone equipment was restored to working order during Friday, and stations that in a number of cases had been out of service since late Tuesday were restored to working order.

Belated income tax returns were being hurriedly prepared here Friday that they might be rushed to Hartford for today, March 15, the last day for filing without being subject to a penalty.

Rosario Blande, aged over 16, son of Domenico Blande, of 1 Race street, Pawcatuck, was detained by Sergt. of Police Donald Ferguson, Friday night. Blande in company with another youth, went to the Vars Bros.' store, on High street, and while his companion remained outside Blande entered the store and when he thought he was not observed slipped a 35 vest pocket folding camera into his pocket. His act was witnessed by a bystander who reported it to Raymond Vars, one of the proprietors. Mr. Vars asked the boy to produce what he had stolen and the contents of his pocket were shown, but not the camera. Further searching, however, produced the camera and the sergeant of police was called. He took the lad to the station house where he is being detained. It is said that the boy admits that this was not his first offense, as he has been in the same store on two previous occasions when cigars and other articles have been stolen. The case will probably be brought before a session of the Third district court.

Walter J. Brown, 23, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Mary F. Brown, died suddenly Friday morning on the post road, near Dunn's corner school. He had been a weaver in the Clyde Mills and about four months ago he went into the jitney business, operating an Auburn car from the jitney stand in front of the Westerly town hall. Friday morning he complained of not feeling well when he went to the stand on Broad street. About 9.30 he stopped at the filling station at Dunn's corner to purchase some apples or oranges and having left the store continued up the Post road toward Westerly as far as the Dunn's corner church. Stopping his machine there he got out and started to walk back to the store and when near the Dunn's corner schoolhouse was observed by one of the pupils to fall in the roadway. The teacher, Mrs. Lillian K. Greene, went to the highway, thinking that he had been struck by a passing automobile, and found the young man extremely ill. Help was sent for and Town Sergeant George L. Maddison, who resides nearby, responded. Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called but the young man died before he could be taken away. In the opinion of the examiner death was due to acute indigestion, which caused a dilation of the heart. A brother, Herbert Brown, employed at Hillandale farm, Shore road, was notified and the body was taken to an undertaking establishment in Westerly.

Mr. Brown was born in Westerly, Oct. 23, 1901, the son of the late William J. and Mary F. Chapman Brown. He is survived by three brothers, Edward, and Herbert, elder than he, and William H. Brown, aged 19.

It was on January 28, 1807, that Pall Mall was lit by gas—the first street in any city in the world to adopt the new illuminant. The cartoonists of the period drew pictures which represented people choked by the fumes of the new illuminant, and all manner of ridiculous stories were circulated about it. Sir Walter Scott wrote from London that "there was a madman proposing to light London with—what do you think?—why, with smoke." Sir Humphry Davy is also credited with giving the opinion that it would be as easy to bring down a bit of the moon to light London as to succeed in doing so with gas.—London Tit-Bits.

PICKING DENBY'S SUCCESSOR.

On the ground that he does not consider himself qualified for the position of secretary of the navy, Judge W. S. Kenyon of Iowa has declined the offer of President Coolidge to become a member of the cabinet as the successor of Secretary Denby. It seems not improbable that he might have overcome any of the handicaps which he considered he would be obliged to work under, but there is no doubting the fact that service at a post in which there is no special knowledge and no particular interest would be unfavorable.

That Judge Kenyon would make an excellent cabinet member is of course the conviction of the president. He is a man who would have the unqualified confidence of the country, and had he accepted the position would have meant the adding of strength to the cabinet.

A number of names have been mentioned for the place and there have been those who have said that they did not desire it. Whether they were actually asked to take it is not disclosed. Linked with Judge Kenyon as being under consideration for the post has been Chief Justice Wilbur of California, a man of high qualifications and judgment if we are to judge at all by the position which he now holds. Justice Wilbur has not been disposed to discuss the possibilities of his choice. Asked point blank if he would accept if asked, he declared that he had always been brought up to serve his country, which is to be regarded as indicating what answer he would give.

Justice Wilbur has not stood out so prominently in politics as has Judge Kenyon but that fact in no way stands in the way of the service that could be expected from him as a cabinet member.

One thing has been outstanding in connection with the search for a successor to Edwin Denby and that is the type of man to which the president has been giving consideration. It clearly indicates those about whom President Coolidge believes the chief executive should be surrounded as counselors and directors of the important government departments.

THE ORDUNA'S CASE.

The seizure of a large British steamship for violation of the narcotic and prohibition laws of this country must cause surprise only because it is unusual and because of the agreement that was recently signed between the nations. But it is not to be expected that only those who are engaged in smuggling on a small scale or in small ships are to be molested. The surprise over the seizure is only exceeded by the surprise that such a line would tolerate business of that character, knowing that it is in direct violation of the laws of this country.

According to the federal authorities the smuggling has been going on for some time and on an extensive basis. Even so, reasons made it is to be understood that the gathering of evidence has been underway for a considerable time, the situation having been watched until the time was ripe for action that would reveal the situation as something more than exceptional.

It is not to be expected that only one class of violators is to be disturbed. Those who undertake to evade the laws of the country must expect to take the consequences, whether it is an ocean liner that is employed in the work or only a motor boat. Possibly the fact that others have been engaged in similar work with such favorable results has encouraged more to do so. It is barely possible that the officials of the line and the captain of the ship were not aware of the conditions that prevailed. Such, however, is not indicated in the report made by the federal authorities, who give the impression that the captain of the ship was not ignorant of the smuggling. That being the case it takes on a much more serious aspect though it will remain for the charges to be cleared up as to what the facts actually are.

British ships are permitted to come into our ports with liquor aboard, but it must be under seal while within our territorial limits, and such a right does not mean that the officials or members of the crew can do a business in liquor or in narcotics on the side. If there is need of an example in this direction it is well that the Orduna case has arisen now.

DESERVES TO SUCCEED.

With a commission of the league of nations engaged in an effort to curb the use and production of narcotic drugs, to which a representative from this country is lending his assistance, an international restraint is the objective. Much may be done in each and every country to fight the drug evil, but until some effective means of checking the traffic in the habit forming drugs is undertaken on a worldwide scale the success of the effort is problematical.

This country has restrictive laws which forbid the importation of the drugs except under strict accountability, but it is a well known fact that a tremendous business is done each year in smuggled dope. It is being brought into the country over every border and along every coastline. Narcotic squads are constantly at work but the traffic continues. Enforcement of the laws against it is difficult, while the profit to be made from the illicit trade is so attractive that many are willing to take the risk of getting caught, and not a few are willing to make it a matter of life or death.

All this may be ended if an understanding can be reached among nations that will limit the output in the opium and coco-producing countries. The problem is to get such an agreement and after it is obtained to secure enforcement at the source.

It is impossible to stop the production of opium altogether. There is medical and scientific need for a certain amount of it, but beyond that point it would be to the great benefit of mankind if the production could be shut off. While the efforts to interest the particular countries where opium and other drugs are produced to abandon such business are underway, even though possibly in the preliminary stage, it is a bit disconcerting when it is intimated that Germany may put a synthetic product on the market.

What the world needs is not more but less dope. Concerted effort is what is needed to reach the goal. National restrictions cannot be lifted but through international efforts there seems possible that restrain in illicit traffic which the different nations, and especially this country, do not seem able to enforce.

CLEANING UP.

It is a little bit early for the general clean-up campaigns. Another month and there should be an awakening of interest in that direction. But conditions seem to have grown so bad over in Waterbury that the New Haven road has found it necessary to start in and clean up the rubbish which has been dumped upon its premises. It is of course a flagrant instance of throwing the debris over the fence onto the other fellow in the belief that a clean-up is being effected or that property owners or occupants are keeping their own premises spic and span.

Superintendent Snavely of the Waterbury division of the road put his men to work removing the old tin cans, bed springs and discarded baby carriages that had been thrown upon railroad property. It looked too bad for the railroad to tolerate, but when those living along the line of the railroad proceeded to dump more of such trash on the cleaned up right of way, until it looked worse than it did before anything was done, it was considered time to get Waterbury itself interested in the merits of a clean-up campaign that would not only improve conditions but prevent the creation of eyesores by tenement house occupants on property of others.

Waterbury is no exception when it comes to the treatment of the other fellow's property in such a manner. It is a shortsighted policy when such methods of getting rid of rubbish is resorted to. Those who pride themselves in well kept property, when they do so at the expense of the other fellow, ought to be willing to make use of the available facilities and do their part to make the clean-up complete for the entire neighborhood.

RADIO LEGISLATION.

There is now before congress a measure known as the White bill, giving the interstate commerce commission the ultimate authority over the rates to be charged for radio broadcasting and making it possible for the government to deny a broadcasting license to any concern that undertakes to monopolize communications by radio.

Before there is less it can be expected that there will be much more sought in the way of radio legislation. It is something new, popular and far reaching. New phases concerning it are developing each day, the monopoly idea having but recently arisen over the attitude of the A. T. & T. company's big station in New York to others. As yet there is a difference of opinion on that point, but the fact that there has been raised the idea that an effort was being made to establish a monopoly has been sufficient to point out the need of taking action to guard against it.

Whether it is possible to deal with all the features of the radio situation thus far developed, or to guard at this time against developments which can be anticipated is a question which needs careful attention. It is easy to bite off more than can be chewed and it is easy to produce legislation that is worse than, as if there was none.

Apparently the situation is one that is going to require progressive legislation, enacted as the conditions warrant but at all times with due regard to soundness and enforcement. It is useless to expect that radio can escape regulation, but it may not be wise to undertake too much until conditions are ripe for it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Every day is a leap day for those crossing the streets.

Strange views are held as to what is required for the leadership of a third party.

Of course everyone is happy that the time for cleaning up the backyards is not far away.

Now is the time for the good men in Washington to come to the aid of the burdened taxpayers.

France cannot be discouraged as long as Germany remains intact and Mexico is able to borrow.

The longer it takes to reform Philadelphia the more it emphasizes the condition it had gotten into.

Why not call in the league of nations to adjust the differences between Bulgaria and Jugoslavia?

The French franc may be down but there's no chance of it going out while France is able to borrow American dollars.

The man on the corner says: There's such a thing as keeping your conscience on the anxious seat too much of the time.

Admiral Plunkett thinks Washington the wettest city in the country but he might change his mind if he exchanged views with General Butler of Philadelphia.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The Bok award still continues to furnish surprises. Surprise number one consisted in Mr. Bok's summons to Washington to account for his audacity in offering a prize that could not possibly influence national legislation. Surprise number two comes in the shape of a suit against Mr. Bok for the trifling sum of $100,000 together with a few incidentals amounting in all to $1,000,000,000 because the award committee did not award to the plaintiff. Here is a rich field for the funny man in the comic section of the newspapers. What a cartoon he could add to his serial on, "Can you beat it?" A lawyer, hailing from somewhere, claims that his plan—which the committee of award probably only glanced at hastily—was by far the best submitted. Suppose that each one of these 22,000 plans submitted is followed by a lawsuit, what will become of poor Mr. Bok? The public has been waiting the announcement of the asylum from which this lunatic escaped.

Without his signature attached one can easily imagine such an idealist as the late former President Wilson writing in this strain: "No man who does not see visions will ever realize any high hopes or undertake any great enterprise." In this view Mr. Wilson is fundamentally correct. It is also a fact of history that high hopes spring from minds that see the great word of objective reality. That is, hope is the desire that something real if not tangible will be realized. The mental picture of that desire must precede its realization. That is what we mean by idealism. There was a picture of a power loom in the mind of Edmund Cartright before the actual machine was made. Idealism come before realism. Woodrow Wilson had a vision of the world reduced to peace and order, and possibly yet the league of nations may be the means of translating that vision into realism.

"He that riseth late must trot all day" was one of Poor Richard's wise sayings. Does anyone realize this more fully than their busy housewife? Let her sleep over no more than fifteen minutes in the morning and she is hurrying to catch up all day. All workers realize the same thing, that a failure to get a good start in the morning seems to demoralize the whole day. In a measure it is due to the fact that the schedule of work has been broken up; things that ought to have been done at 8:30 a. m. are in the works at 9 o'clock, and thus on all through the day. There are some things which, from their very nature, ought to be done at a definite time, and no other time, earlier or later, will do quite so well. Habit also accounts for this in part. We get accustomed to do certain things at certain times and consequently do not do them quite so well later or earlier. There is of course a moral to all this, and that is, watch carefully against those extra winks after 6 a. m.

Did you ever realize how things that are a great blessing at one time and in one shape may be a great boon, but under other conditions and at other times may be an equally great bane? For instance take the ordinary winter when in this climate ice is a perfect nuisance. It is dangerous to foot-passengers and to automobiles. And yet how anxious we are if December and January pass with no ice. Why is this? Simply because we are looking forward to the hot summer months when ice is anything but a nuisance. The overcoat and the thick underwear come under the same head. Although these are godsends in the winter they are nuisances in summer because of the danger from moths and the bother of storage. What a blessing the rain is when it come down in gentle showers "giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater" but when the cloud-burst comes destroying life and property it is another proposition.

I wonder if the domestic cat is, or ever has been, rated at its true value. The sportsman has no deep-seated love for little pussy, and is sometimes suspected of using the animal as a target to be fired at. If one will learn what the condition was, not alone on the farm, but in the populous town, before tabby appeared he would have greater respect for this harmless quadruped. One need hardly speak of what a pest rats and mice have been and still are. Admitting that in cities they may be of use as scavengers ridding alleys and sewers of material injurious to life and health, yet as carriers of deadly diseases like the bubonic plague in their fine hair, still when it is remembered that in the United States alone they destroy, it is estimated, more than $100,000,000 worth of grain each year, and when we realize that the rat's greatest enemy is the common house cat, we say most fervidly, let pussy live!

Seventy years ago today Commodore Perry negotiated his famous treaty with Japan, and it has historical importance from the fact of opening the island kingdom to western civilization. Up to that time there had been no national intercourse between Japan and the countries of Europe and America. The compact was also noteworthy because it was an open treaty. It was something to "be seen and read of all men," for the excellent reason that neither country had anything in it that either was ashamed of or wanted to conceal. Perhaps that is the reason that there has been no outbreak between the two countries. Secret treaties are apt to engender secret misunderstandings, and secret misunderstandings are apt to end in open conflict. It is possible that if the countries of Europe had cut out their duplicity in dealing with one another, there would have been peace for these seventy years as there has been between Japan and the United States.

One is inclined to ask if these frequent appeals for popular expression on this or that question is a real test of public opinion. Probably not more than one person in ten is reached through these questionaires, and of those reached very likely not more than one in fifty takes the trouble to answer. The Literary Digest does a good deal of this thing in its attempt to get at the popular pulse, and at the same time, of course incidentally, does some very clever advertising for a certain periodical known as The Literary Digest. In this way a referendum has been sought on the successful plan in the Bok prize contest. But if three million responses should be returned, two thirds of which were in favor of the plan, would that be a true test of popular opinion? They are trying the Mellon tax proposals in the same way, which in reality is not an accurate test.

There is much said about the grace of persistency, that is, keeping at a thing until it is done. It was Josh Billing who once said: My son, take knowledge of the postage stamp for it always sticks till it gets there." Now this is very commendable in principle, and ought to be followed—up to a certain point. While, it is wise to keep at a thing, it is equally wise to know just when and how long to let up on it. There is the grace of holding on, but it is not a bit more important than the grace of letting go. Many a person has been wracked by rampant nerves just because he didn't know how to let up. It is a wise man who lets up before the snap comes. It is through avocation that we get the power to continue our vocation.

SENATOR McLEAN'S POSITION ON FARMER'S RELIEF

During the discussion of the bill in the senate for the promotion of a permanent system of self supporting agriculture in regions adversely affected by the stimulation of wheat production during the war, and aggravated by many years of small yields and high production costs of wheat, Senator G. P. McLean took part.

In setting forth his position he said:

I am going to call attention to the principle which is involved in this bill. It does not seem to me that, taking the statement of the learned gentleman who made the investigation upon its findings, there is any such condition in that section as will warrant an appropriation of this character in order to meet an emergency that Congress can not control. An emergency that will continue as long as the natural disadvantages of climate and soil continue.

I will repeat, farming as a whole there and throughout this country is at a low ebb. The cotton men are having better days just now, but it is only a short time since the senator from Alabama (Mr. Heflin) called our atention to conditions which were most distressing. Not only agricultural conditions but conditions in all other activities are subject to their up and downs. Certain sections may be prosperous at times, and then whenever overproduction comes or for some other cause prices drop.

I wish to repeat that if the farmers of North Dakota were suffering for want of the necessities of life I would say, "Find out who they are and make the contribution direct to relieve the distress; but do not adopt a proposal that, in my judgement, will defeat its own purpose and in the long run be regretted by the very men who propose it today." I say that, Mr. President, because this legislation violates the fundamental and vital principle upon which the social and industrial life of this nation is based. In the first place, it takes $50,000,000 out of the treasury of the United States and gives it to the secretary of agriculture, and authorizes and empowers him to use it in direct competition with the existing credit merchants of the country, to compete with the federal reserve system, to compete with the federal farm-loan system, to compete with the intermediate-credits system, to compete with the state banks, directly or indirectly; and the capital which is represented, the amount of money that is taken out of the treasury, is more than the combined capital of the federal reserve system and the land - bank system when they were formed.

But that is not the worst feature of this bill, Mr. President. It takes this large sum of money out of the treasury for the express purpose of repairing the capital of farmers who have failed, to enable them to compete with their next-door neighbors whose methods have been measurably successful. I do not know what it would be called. I certainly is not individualism, and it would be difficult to find an advocate of Socialism who will say that it is not extremely offensive to his view of what true paternalism should be. He thinks that the government should take control of production and transportation and the gives his reasons for it; but I have yet to hear of a Socialist who advocates taking large sums of money out of the public treasury for the express purpose of permitting individuals who have failed to compete with individuals whose methods have succeeded in private occupations.

Of course the trouble is one which we all recognize. It is a pretty hard one to remedy, I have heard it stated that with our improved agricultural implements one man can cultivate as many acres today as three men could cultivate before the introduction of the power machines. Consider for a minutes what that means. It means that the farmers today can produce as large a quantity of food products as could have been produced in 1860 if the entire population of the country had been engaged in farming.

Make it there is not a state in this Union that could not produce enough foodstuffs to maintain its population and have a surplus. I have heard it stated that we could easily feed a billion people. I think the two states of Florida and California could produce enough citrous fruits to supply the normal wants of a billion people. This is not only so with agriculture, but it is so with almost every industry where the conditions permit reasonable economic manufacture.

Congress can not regulate production in this country. Marketing associations may, in a measure, stabilize the price of a product if the production is constant, but only under such conditions, and the instant any industry shows an attractive profit there will be overproduction. Our acreage is so enormous that marketing associations can not control the price where there is ever-production. If the parties who own and control means of production are unable to control it, how can the government assist in any material way unless it goes the full length, confiscates, owns and manages all the farm lands of the country, and allots to every man the number of acres which he may cultivate?

I do not believe we are ready for that. My impression is that the average American citizen would rather go along under the old regime for a little while yet. Rising and falling prices are natural. A pretty wise man once said that they were the romance of trade. I sometimes think these with the love for variety which is interent in any active, red-blooded man worthy of the name, he would rather take his chances under the system that has brought us so far on the road to comfortable prosperity, especially in view of the fact that every community and every nation that has tried the paternalistic method of controlling prices has gone to the dogs, never to return.

Mr. President I do not want to criticise, and I am not going to criticise, the purposes or the motives of the gentlemen who are supporting this legislation. I know that environment has a great deal to do with the convictions of honest men: and if I lived in the Dakotas or in Montana or any one of these states that is situated far distant from markets, that has to contend with the natural disadvantages of that location. I should feel that it was my duty to do everything I could to ameliorate conditions: and it may be that the effect of environment would be so strong after a time that I could become convinced that a proposal such as that embodied in this bill would result in a permanent benefit.

If I know anything about the history of such remedies, however, if the law of supply and demand is to be left operative, it is my firm conviction that this little sop which each farmer can receive, but which in its total amounts to a colossal sum ,will be a foundation for the creation of still greater necessities; and, the precedent once being established, we shall go where all our predecessors have gone, and the people who receive these benefits will regret it in the long run.

The distinguished junior senator from Minnesota (Mr. Johnson) is in the chamber. Some time ago I read a purported interview which he had with a reporter of the New York Herald, in which he said that in his opinion the trouble with the farmer was that he had too much credit, and that what he wanted was a market; and I said to myself: "Newspaper reports to the contrary notwithstanding" and the senator had been criticised somewhat in the East—"a Daniel has come to judgment in the senate of the United States." It is what I have been maintaining for 10 years in my humble and effective way.

Why, Mr. President, when we drafted the federal-reserve act and based our currency upon self-liquidating commercial paper I felt that it would be a mistake to make an exception in favor of the farmer and render six months agricultural paper eligible for rediscount, but I was overruled by the committee. What happened? Take it in 1920, just before prices began to drop. The bankers were anxious to make money. The farmers were anxious to sell their crops at the highest possible price; and when the price fabric began to tremble they got their paper renewed, held on to their products, and they went down, and the farmer went out. If the banks had not been tempted to make money and in turn invited the farmers to renew their paper—in other words, if the farmers of the country in 1920 had been compelled to take in sail, reduce their obligations—they would have done so and they would have sold a very large portion of their products at a profit. The farmer should have reasonable and seasonable accommodations for the production of his crop, and I have advocated every measure looking to that end; but if a farmer wants money for one, two, or three years, he should borrow it from a man who has money to lend for one, two or three years.

Credits have been made easy. I do not object to that; but the senator from Minnesota is everlastingly right when he says that the farmer has had too much credit and that what he needs is a market. I am willing to go to any length to which congress can go that will help him to obtain markets; but you can repeal the Sherman act, you can give the farmers permission to combine and cooperate, you can go to any extent that you please, legitimately, and with the enormous total of fertile acres in this country the farmer will find that the only way in which he can control his markets is to go to the foundation and control his production.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Word of Appreciation

Mr. Editor: The Scout executive desires to express, through the papers, his sincere thanks and appreciation for the excellent services of the campaign workers during Boy Scout budget week.

Although the total amount of contributions received to date is not what is needed and expected, it is evident that interest in the Boy Scout movement in Norwich is greatly increasing. This is shown by the fact that the people of Norwich have responded to the call for financial aid in greater numbers than ever before.

The index of success of any good cause is shown by the constituency supporting it, and this year's list of subscribers is ample proof of that fact. To the permanent list of loyal helpers of previous years there has been added many new names. Norwich people are generous. They support any worth while causes.

Norwich Council, Boy Scouts of America, devised and carried out a well organized campaign, and the scout executive again, wishes, personally and for the scout council, to thank all the workers who so kindly volunteered their services.

F. A. BENTON,
Scout Executive.

Norwich, March 4, 1924.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

SHOULD WE KNOW HIM?

And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou has sent. I have glorified Thee on the earth; I have finished the work which Thou gavest me to do. John 17:3-4.

I wonder if we should know Christ if He came among us now, following the same rule, i. e., if the revelation were befitting our time as His revelation 1900 years ago fitted His time. If He came now to reveal His Father, should we know Him?

Except we come to Him in our hearts we should not know Him; except He is our life, except He is to us the power of our being we should not know Him.

I do not feel sure I should know Him, I should like to get near enough to Him before I die that I would most certainly know Him if He came according to the law of the time of this world—not with a halo of glory around His head, as the painters paint Him, but as He came before. I can only hope that one day I shall be such that I should know Him. For to know Him is life eternal, to know Him as the Son of God, our Saviour and Redeemer, our all in all.

CHILD TRAINING

Jaunts With Our Children

Do you ever enjoy a jaunt in the woods with your children? And do you share an interest with them in the things of nature, in God's great out-of-doors? If not, you should remember that parents, living in rural communities where there are kindergartens, can give their children much they would get in a city kindergarten by taking frequent trips with them. One of the greatest purposes of the kindergarten is to acquaint him with the world about him, and to teach him his relationship to the people with whom he associates. Nature's lessons serve this purpose.

First help your children to know the many land and water birds. Keep a list from year to year of the birds seen and the dates on which they appeared each spring. A bird guide and a small pair of field glasses are helpful on a field trip. Teach the children to know the songs of the birds, too, by taking them just at dusk to listen to their calls.

If these calls are translated into words the children can more easily distinguished one from another. From childhood I remember that the brown thrasher says, "What would you give me for my tail, my tail? A sixpence, a sixpence. Taint enuf, 'taint enuf. A shilling, a shilling. Cut it off—cut it off. Tr-r-r-r-r-r-r- (the saw)." The meadowlark says, "Teakettle, tea in the teakettle." Killdeers, phoebes, and chickadees say their own names. The robin says, "Cheer up cheerily."

Birds' nest should likewise be studied and the kinds of places chosen by the different birds for their homes. Instill through such knowledge a desire on the part of the child to protect the birds and their homes and thus further the work of our bird protective societies.

Along with the birds, study flowers and trees. Let the children have a wild flower garden at home and teach them how to transplant it from the woods and tend it. In this way have them become familiar with 25 or 30 of our most common wild flowers and trees. A good flower guide would be serviceable.

An added joy of the wood trip is, of course, the picnic lunch. How the children love to help build the fire and cook the meal. And don't you love the freedom of it, too? There is no better time to become real pals with your children than when close to nature.

On a jaunt it is always a splendid idea to gather specimens to bring home. The children sometimes busy themselves for days making things from their collections. Each specimen has its story to tell, and this further contact more clearly impresses the characteristics upon the child's mind.

Aside from the purely educative purposes of our jaunts, I would far rather have my children remember, when they are grown, that mother always takes time to go to the creek with them than have them remember whether or not my house was always dusted and ready for callers.

Above all help the children realize that back of the wonders of nature which they see there is a kind of Heavenly Father watching over each and everything Whom we must glorify for these great blessings.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Mrs. Kendal, who 78th birthday is to be made the occasion for a testimonial in London today, was, until her retirement several years ago, one of the leading actresses of the English stage. With her husband, the late William Hunter Kendal, she filled a large place in the dramatic world during the second half of the Victorian era. Mrs. Kendal's professional life practically dates from her childhood. She might almost be said to have been born on the boards, for both her mother and father were of the profession. She made her first public appearance on the stage at the age of five and attained leading roles before she was out of her teens. In 1869 she was married to Mr. Kendal, who was already prominent as an actor and manager. During their subsequent career the couple continued to play together. In 1887 they visited the United States and Canada, and were immensely successful. Mr. Kendal died in 1917.

HELPED HER IN EVERY WAY

So Writes Mrs. Trombley of Sharon, Vt., Concerning Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sharon, Vermont.—"I was weak and run-down, had a tired feeling and bearing-down pains. I saw an advertisement in the newspaper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began taking it. It has stopped these bearing-down pains and other bad feelings, and has helped me in every way. I have so much faith in the Vegetable Compound that I keep it on hand all of the time and recommend it whenever I have the opportunity."—Mrs. LEWIS TROMBLEY, Sharon, Vermont.

Glad to Help Others

"I had pains in my back and sides for many months, and my work would have to be left undone at those times. My sister told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing her, so I tried it, and from the third bottle I was well and every one thought I looked better. I am glad to help others regain their health, and you may use my testimonial."—MABEL HARTMANN, 1824 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. You must believe that a medicine that has helped other women will help you.

Stories That Recall Others

She Was For Him

A monument dealer was talking one evening to his nearest neighbor. A very old lady. "How's business?" asked the aged neighbor. "Oh, pretty good," he replied. "We sold a nice mausoleum today."

"How's that?"

"I say we sold a nice mausoleum today."

It was clear that she did not understand. She looked puzzled, and finally she asked bluntly: "Is it for you, or against you?"

"It's for us," he replied with a smile.

"Then hurry!" she cried clapping her hands.

So He Won The $5 Check

This advanced class had got to the point where there came up the question of knowing certain poems.

The teacher was getting poor response and finally said: "I'll wager there isn't a person in the class who can recite The Star Spangled Banner. I will go even further and say that there is no one here who can recite My Country 'Tis of Thee. In fact it is my custom at this time to offer $5 to the student who can do either."

One of the young men asked for a chance to try. Consent was given and he completed the four stanzas, having faltered on only a few lines.

Calling for a fountain pen the teacher made out the check for $5 and said, "That's the best $5 I ever spent."

MARCH'S CHANGEABLE WEATHER

One may expect many changes in March and should be prepared for coughs and colds. The slight cold, if neglected, may develop into a serious illness. With the first sign of a cough or cold take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the old reliable family cough remedy, excellent for coughs, colds, hoarseness. John R. Lyons, Prescott, Arizona, states: "I had a bad cough, used FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND and it relieved me in a little while."

Marion Star Owner Files Suit Against Vanderlip

Alleging slander, Roy D. Moore, proprietor of the Marion Star, of Marion, Ohio, has filed suit for $500,000, in Federal District Court, New York, against Frank Vanderlip. The damage suit is based on the famous financier's remark that the paper was purchased from the late President Harding at a price "well known to be more than twice what it was worth."

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

OBITUARY.

Dr. Henry Davis Sydleman

Dr. Henry Davis Sydleman, 88 years of age, died Friday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. A. Fitch, No. 16 Penobscot street. Dr. Sydleman was a native of Poquetanuck and was born October 28, 1835, the son of George A., and Fannie Davis Sydleman. His early education was received in the schools at Poquetanuck. He was one of the best known dentists in this locality, having learned his profession with Dr. W. W. Sheffield of New London.

Then he opened an office in Norwich and practiced dentistry here for over 50 years. His office was located at the corner of Main street and Shetucket streets. He also conducted an office in Mosup at one time.

On April 30, 1861 he was united in marriage with Miss Harriet Cittenden. She died several years ago. For the past three years D. Sydleman had resided with his sister. Surviving him are his ster, a brother George A. Sydleman, a niece, Miss Fannie D. Sydleman, all of Norwich and a nephew, Williard E. Coats, Providence R. I. Dr. Sydleman attended the Episcopal church. He had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances who deeply mourn his death.

SLEPT SNUG AND WARM IN DANIELSON SNOWBANK

A flour salesman who reached this city Friday from Danielson had a tale to tell of half a day spent in his automobile, part of the time snugly ensconced in a snowbank.

He was in Providence Thursday afternoon and was anxious to get to Danielson so that he started on his machine over the snowy road which but few machines have traveled since the storm early this week. About six miles east of Danielson he was sliding along in a rut in the snow at about 30 miles an hour when he suddenly came to a spot where somebody's machine had to put a wave in the rut. At the speed he was making, this shot him off the road into a snowdrift where his machine was buried to its windshield—stuck fast. Nothing he could do would budge the car, so that he finally decided to make a night of it. Throttling his motor down, he dropped off to sleep, kept warm by the heat of the motor.

He was hauled out Friday morning when a state highway department truck came along.

MASSACHUSETTS TECH PLAY BY TINGLEY COOK SCORES SUCCESS

W. TINGLEY COOK

Norwich may well feel proud of its author-playwright, Witter Tingley Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Cook of this city, for his musical comedy, "The Hidden Idol" as played by the undergraduate students of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as their Tech Show completely captivated the audience that filled the Palace theatre to capacity Friday evening. The play itself, the work of the principals, the ballet, the chorus and the orchestra were all contributing features which reflect great credit on Massachusetts Tech and those who had charge of the play. To say that Norwich people were pleased with the production is putting it very mildly, the fact is, that they were overjoyed with it. Seldom if ever has such an enthusiastic audience greeted a production in Norwich, whether amateur or professional. The student players, sensing the enthusiasm, played up to it in superb style, far exceeding the expectations of the most optimistic of the directors of the play.

From the delightful overture by the Tech orchestra of 25 pieces, to the final curtain there was not a dull spot, the action of the play running smoothly and rythmically to a happy conclusion. The music and lyrics were exceptionally catchy, witty and pleasing and each number was received with insistent applause that demanded encore after encore. The singing of the principals in their solo numbers was excellent, each and every one displaying remarkable talen. The singing of the chorus was also well deserving of the highest praise. In the dance numbers the chorus, ballet and special solo dancers reflected no little credit on their instructors and their perfect grace and technique was highly pleasing.

It is almost next to impossible to pick out any individual stars in the cast, chorus or ballet, but it can be safely said that Richard Whiting as Mister Brown, a cinema photographer, won instant favor with his audience from the first time his bubbling smile spread over his face until the final curtain. Mr. Whiting's portrayal of the happy-go-lucky boy, brimming over with the fullness and joy, could not be improved upon. His lines were given with an unconscious spontaineity that found an instant response in his audience.

J. H. Clifford as Phil Wainwright, a moving picture director, and hero of the play was exceptionally fine in his portrayal of his part and his solos and dance numbers were well executed. Playing opposite him was Hood Worthington as Hasahdha, the dancer of the Temple of Gar, and heroine, whose interpretation of the part was truly a wonderful exposition of the dramatic art. His dancing numbers were given with spirit and with distinct understanding.

C. H. Topping, who played the feminine role of Minerva Summerwell, the fiancee of Phil, was a high light in the production taking the role with exceptional ability. His portrayal was given with a complete understanding and his characterization of the modern woman was perfect.

Another whose work stood out was W. F. McCormack, as Mrs. Summerwell, a dominating wife whose word was law with her husband, Prof. Summerwell (played by S. F. Hrashey.) Mr. McCormack's interpretation of the part was perfect.

Others who showed remarkable talent were R. L. Turner as General Allaghab, C. R. McBrayne, as Pansy, Mrs. Summerwell's servant, J. D. Cochrane, Jr., as The Rajah of Kookostan, and D. P. Jeppe as Jeremy Judd, a tramp.

The play opens with a moving picture company on location in the mountains of Kookostan with Buster Brown grinding away at the crank of the camera and Phil directing the company. From then on there is action aplenty, the camp being alarmed at the presence of some of the natives. Buster complicates things by bringing in a temple dancer, Hasahdha, with whom Phil falls in love. The act closes with the whole party being taken captives by the army of the rajah under General Allaghab.

Just before the opening of the second act the Tech Jazz Band entertained with a number of selections. The playing of this quintet simply took the house by storm and the audience was loath to let them go even after four encores had been given.

The second act was in the drawing room of the rajah's palace where Buster shoots craps with the general and gains control of the army. In this act several delightful dance numbers are given by Hasadha and Buster refuses to be downcast although he is given to understand that the grim reaper is stalking close outside his door.

The third act opens with the scene in the Temple of Gar with a religious ceremony going on. This scene as given by the ballet is an excellent bit of art. The action continues with Prof. Summerwell becoming more and more excited about the hidden idol. Then when all seems lost Phil announces that it all has been a farce to get real animation into a moving picture, and everything is bright and rosy again.

Call for the Author

Between the second and third acts there was an urgent demand for the author of the play and W. Tingley Cook was called to the stage for a speech. Tingley was generally overcome and his speech was brief, thanking the audience for their enthusiasm and saying that he and the company were highly pleased that they had been able to entertain the home town folk.

Among the specialty numbers was the Spooky Blues by General Allaghab and Pansy, a number that had to be repeated several times before the audience would consent to having the play go on.

Another feature of the production that won the highest commendation was the ballet, Ah, The Jewel is in the Lotus. This was a delightful bit of art which included a pretty interpretative dance by Lawrence A. Foster as Tara and John T. McCoy as Buddha. The story of the ballet was interpreted with such complete understanding that it left a lasting impression on the audience.

The play was given under the auspices of the Norwich Rotary club for the benefit of the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Work Fund and was a complete success from all standpoints. The Rotary club feels well repaid for its efforts and is highly appreciative of the Tech Show in coming to Norwich. Every member of the club hopes that Norwich will not be taken off the list of places in which the Tech Show plays but that the show will visit Norwich each year where a warm welcome will always await it.

The play is to be given at Northampton for the benefit of Smith college tonight (Saturday) and on Monday in Hartford. The Boston performances are planned for April.

FORMER NORWICH MAN DIED IN NEBRASKA

Stephen L. Geisthardt, 62, formerly of Norwich, a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, class of 1878, Yale, 1883, died February 18, at his home in Lincoln, Neb., following a stroke of apoplexy suffered two weeks previous. Mr. Geisthardt was a resident of Lincoln for over 30 years and was a member of the board of directors of the National Bank of Commerce, Lincoln. He was born January 29, 1862, and after graduating from the Norwich Free Academy took a law course at Yale, graduating there in 1883. He then competed a two year law course at Columbia Law school. While he was attending the N. F. A., he carried a Norwich Bulletin paper route.

Mr. Geisthardt went to Lincoln in 1895 and for two years was an instructor in modern languages at the University of Nebraska. In 1887 he took up the practice of law and continued in that profession until about two years ago when he was forced to give up his practice because of ill health. He was one of the leading attorneys in Lincoln.

He was both a Scottish and York Rite Mason, being a Knight Templar and knight commander of the Court of Honor. For years he was treasurer and a trustee of the Nebraska State Historical society. He is survived by his widow, Fannie Geisthardt, his father, 90, and mother, 83, both of this city, a brother, Charles Geisthardt of this city, a sister, Mrs. Dorsey, who resides in Omaha, and a sister at home.

SCANDINAVIAN BELL RINGERS GIVE FINE PROGRAMME

An audience of 250 that filled the Swedish Lutheran church on Hickory street, Friday evening, thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment given by the Scandinavian bell ringers, a troupe of five men who achieved thoroughly musical and artistic effects on the sweet toned bells. They were enthusiastically applauded and obliged to give encores, as was Mrs. W. E. Manning of this city, who assisted with readings.

The bell ringers' troupe comprised: Leader, Alfred Josephson; first tenor, bells, J. G. Holmstrom; second tenor, bells, J. A. Holmstrom; baritone, Theadore Kivarnstrom; bass, Edward J. Sunderlin.

The following was the programme: A Signal from Mars, Taylor, Twilight Echoes, Miller, the bell ringers; reading, Mrs. W. E. Manning; In the City of Boden, Weedquist, Consolation, Morrison, Footsteps from Hallingland, Dillstrom, the bell ringers; reading, Mrs. W. E. ### PRETTY RECEPTION BY HIGH SCHOOL CLASS

The high school reception by Mrs. William Ballantyne Penfield's class made a most enjoyable evening Friday in the Wauregan house ball room with the programme of dances carried out with grace and charm by the class members. After the opening march the leaders, Robert Otis and Miss Betty McCord, Wilfred Suthill and Miss Phyllis Brewer presented Mrs. Penfield a beautiful bouquet of roses and a bouquet of sweet peas to Mrs. Stebbins, the pianist.

The following numbers made up the first half of the programme, with an orchestra playing for the dancers: March, one step; Fox trot, plain; waltz; class dance, Bambalina fox trot; one step; waltz; fox trot; class dance, French Tango; one step, fox trot, Nu-Sway; Paul Jones.

After the intermission the enjoyable evening came to an end with a programme that included fox trots, waltzes, one steps and a Paul Jones. The children's reception is to be given this afternoon.

LEGHORNS AND R. I. REDS ARE SHOWING THE HONORS

White Leghorns entered by Hilltop Farm at Suffield, Conn., and Rhode Island Reds owned by Fernside Farm at Attleboro, Mass., have for three consecutive weeks provided the chief attraction in the Storrs laying contest. The ten Leghorns have laid 956 eggs since the contest started last November and the ten Reds have laid 949 eggs during the same period. At times during the last three weeks these two pens have been within three eggs of each other. The management has not known from one day to another which one of these two pens would be entitled to the distinction of leading all comers. In the eighteenth week there was a gain of 304 eggs over the previous week. The total production for all pens was 3,789 eggs or a yield of over 54 per cent. C. T. Darby's pen of Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., won first place for the week with a score of 60 eggs. Hilltop Farm's pen of Leghorns and Sunset Poultry Farm's pen of Reds from Amherst, Mass., tied for second place with 56 eggs each. Two other pens of Reds owned by Fernside Farm at Attleboro, Mass., and Deer Brook Poultry Farm at Short Falls, N. H., were third and fourth with 55 and 54 eggs respectively.

For the past several years there has been a growing tendency among poultrymen to hatch their chicks earlier. A few breeders in Connecticut had chicks out in January, and quite a number of poultrymen are now breeding late February and early March chicks. In general early chicks escape a lot of troubles to which later hatches fall heir. On the other hand it is not all smooth sailing for chicks that are being reared before the snow is gone and the frost is out of the ground. Close confinement, hot house conditions, and lack of direct sunlight frequently means chicks with weak, wabbly legs. Science comes to the rescue with the suggestion that such chicks be fed raw cod liver oil.

The dose is one per cent. of the mash or one pint of the oil to 100 pounds. Don't use emulsions. The essential factor in codliver oil is the anti-rachitic vitamine which is thought to be largely lost when the oil is emulsified. Chicks exposed to direct sunlight, not sunlight filtered through glass, are less likely to suffer from weak legs.

The Unconventional Professor.

One of the most extraordinary examples of unconventionality in dress was Prof. F. W. Newman. He often clothed himself in onion fashion—three coats, one over the other, and the last one green. In winter weather he would wear trousers edged with six or eight inches of black leather. During that period of the year his favorite outer garment was a rug, with a hole in the middle for his head. But even this, Professor Newman's biographer notes, was not such a surprising vagary of public costume as that of another professor, very dreamy and absent-minded, who, being intent on making some abstruse point clear to a young lady pupil, walked one evening round and round a London square with her, talking earnestly and attired in his top hat and dressing gown.—Manchester Guardian.

Who Awards Nobel Prizes?

The Nobel prize-winners are selected by the Swedish academy and the Norwegian storthing, or parliament, four by the former and one by the latter. Nationality has nothing to do with the choice. During the short time that the prizes have been awarded the principal countries of Europe, as well as the United States, have been recognised by the selectors. The Peace prize is the one awarded by the Norwegian storthing. Those whose duty it is to award these prizes of world-wide fame are naturally always on the look-out for works of merit in the various departments. But, no doubt, they have many claims for investigation from those who feel that their work entitles them to some consideration.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

DELANEY ENDS KNOCKOUT STREAK OF BERLENBACH BY K. O. IN 4TH ROUND

New York, March 14.—The sensational knockout streak of Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight, was abruptly ended tonight when he was knocked out in the fourth round of a spectacular 15-round match by Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn.

Berlenbach's defeat, after he had hung up a string of 26 knockouts came decisively and with dramatic suddenness to a crowd of 14,000, the largest that has packed Madison Square Garden this season.

A smashing right to the jaw, after Berlenbach had twice been floored, ended the battle in Delaney's favor.

Delaney's victory came as a result of his superior speed, generalship and hitting accuracy. After giving ground in the first two rounds under Berlenbach's rushing but wild attacks, the clever Bridgeport fighter floored Berlenbach in the third round for a count of four with a swishing right to the jaw. Berlenbach, badly dazed, never really recovered from this blow, the first decisive one of the bout, and reeled to his corner at the bell.

Out for the fourth round Berlenbach seemed shaky. His attempts at offensive were wild and Delaney, realizing he had victory in his grasp, coolly picked off his man with a deadly left jab, followed by a lightning right cross. Less than a minute of the round had elapsed when Berlenbach was sent flat on his back with a smashing right. He took a count of eight, gamely arose to his feet and tried to fight back. But his arms hung helpless as he reeled and gave ground under Delaney's carefully timed shots. Backed against the ropes, Berlenbach crumpled under a rain of blows, a right to the chin again sending him down. He managed to stagger to his feet after another count of eight but Referee O'Sullivan stepped between the fighters and halted the bout, as Berlenbach was obviously unable to go on and literally "out on his feet."

Though the match witnessed the shattering, for the present at least, of a pugilistic idol who had been raised to unusual heights of popularity by New York's flatic fandom, Delaney was hailed more enthusiastically as a conqueror than had Berlenbach in his previous victories.

The bout marked Berlenbach's most important test and the crowd seemed to be whipped to greater enthusiasm because he failed to meet it. Seldom has the historic arena witnessed such a demonstration for a battle in which no title was at stake and Delaney with difficulty found a way to his dressing room after leaving the ring.

The real story of the fight was confined to the last two rounds, for neither fighter did much damage in the opening two. Delaney's shifty work gave him a slight shade in the first round while Berlenbach showed to his brief and only advantage in the second. Once in this round Delaney slipped to his knees but it was from slipping after a clinch instead of a blow. All through these rounds Berlenbach, obviously over-anxious, swung wildly and ineffectively.

Berlenbach had a slight advantage in weight, tipping the scales at 162 1-2, while Delaney weighed 161 3-4.

In two six round preliminaries, Paul Rosen, of Canada, weighing 133 1-2, won the judges' decision over Dan Hickey, of New York, 125, while Joe Gleck, New York, 129 1-4, gained the verdict over Johnny Kochansky of Bayonne, N. J.

DELANEY NOW MATCHED AGAINST JACKIE CLARK

New York, March 14.—Jack Delaney will substitute for Paul Berlenbach as an opponent for Jackie Clark of Allentown, Pa., in a twelve round match at the First Regiment armory, Newark, N. J., next Monday night, promoters announced tonight after the Bridgeport boxer's spectacular knockout of Berlenbach in Madison Square Garden.

The Berlenbach-Clarke match was arranged prior to tonight's contest, which was protested without avail by Newark promoters. The agreement for the substitution of Delaney was reached at a conference between promoters and managers of Delaney and Berlenbach.

FAST GAMES ON Y. M. C. A. COURTS FRIDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 14. — Friday night on the Y. M. C. A. courts, but three games in the Business and Professional Men's volleyball league were played. The Merchants won three from the Thames club by forfeit. The Elks club took two sets from the Lions club. Although the Elks had but four men to five for the Lions they were able to win two out of three sets.

TAFTVILLE VS. WESTERLY FOR BULLETIN CUP SUNDAY

Manager Fred Knowles of the Taftville soccer team has notified the players of 1923 and those desirous of playing this season to be at the Providence street grounds this Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for practice for the opening game of the season, which comes on Sunday.

The first opponent will be the Westerly soccer team which last season took two straight games from the Taftville team. The play Sunday will be for the Bulletin cup and Taftville expects to reverse the conditions of 1923.

The Taftville team will be picked from the following players: Murphy, McCluggage, Greenhalgh, Eden, Jubert, Ainsworth, Walker, Stanton, Foster, Walton, Dolan, Thompson and Jim Greenhalgh.

The players and fans are to meet at the Taftville postoffice at 12:45 o'clock Sunday for the trip to Westerly, and it is expected that a large delegation of fans will accompany the team.

DEMPSEY-GIBBONS FIGHT IS CALLED OFF

New York, March 14.—The proposed return heavyweight title match between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons, which Tex Rickard planned to stage in the metropolitan district early in June, was called off tonight by the promoter after a conference he had with Jack Kearns, the champion's manager. Abandonment of the bout, forecast several days ago was due to a motion picture contract which Dempsey has accepted and which will keep him busy until some time in July, Rickard said. Kearns told him the financial inducements offered for movie work were greater than those held out for a return battle with Gibbons who lasted 15 rounds with the titleholder at Shelby, Montana, last July. Gibbons already had accepted Rickard's terms.

SERVICE BATTERY EASILY WINS FROM PUTNAM FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, March 14.—The Service Battery took the measure of the Putnam team here tonight by a score of 49 to 15. From the start of the game the Service Battery five took the lead and were never in danger after the first few minutes. Burton starred for the battery, scoring 7 baskets from the floor, also contributing largely to the victory for his team by his clever pass work.

In the preliminary game the Jolly Five won from the Seconds by a score of 40 to 34. The game went overtime, the score being tied at 30 at the end of the second period.

JOHNNY FARRELL BREAKS CLEARWATER COURSE RECORD

Clearwater, Fla., Mar. 14 Johnny Farrel with a 66, broke the record of the Clearwater course by two strokes and leads in the West coast open golf championship, which started here today, by eight strokes. Arthur Havers, British open champion, was second in 82, due to poor approaching.

His partner, James Ockenden, the French champion, took 75. Walter Hagen and Cyril Walker were 76. Billy Mehlhorn of St. Louis, Leo Diegel, of Washington and Joe Kirkwood, of Rockford, Ill., 74. Clarence Hackney had 79 and Sid Alex Smith.

FABER AND WEST REPORT TO BALTIMORE TODAY

Joe Faber and Tracy West, two local boys, who will be given tryouts with the Baltimore Orioles, left Friday evening for Baltimore where they will report to Jack Dunn today. The boys will go from Baltimore to Atlanta, Ga., where they will join the camp of the Orioles on Monday.

Faber had a tryout with Baltimore last year, but West is a new recruit. Both boys have the best wishes of their Norwich friends.

BENNY LEONARD TO SECOND GENE TUNNEY

Chicago, March 14.—Benny Leonard, World's lightweight champion, decided tonight to pass up a next week's vaudeville engagement at a loss of $2,500 so he could accept Gene Tunney American light heavyweight champion, in his match with Jimmy Delaney in St. Paul Monday night.

HARRY GREB NOW AFTER MATCH WITH BERLENBACH

Chicago, March 14.—Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, left here tonight for New York, with the hope of getting a match with Paul Berlenbach, New York's latest knockout sensation. Greb said he had received an offer from Tex Rickard, New York promoter, to box Berlenbacher.

MRS. MALLORY MAY PLAY WITH NORWAY TENNIS TEAM

Christiania, Norway, March 14.—(By The A. P.)—That Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallroy, the former tennis champion of the United States, has consented to play on Norway's Olympic tennis team, subject to the approval of the French Olympic committee.

Upon learning that Mrs. Mallory was barred from representing the United States in the coming Olympic games because she represented Norway in the last Olympic games at Stockholm, the Norwegian Tennis association invited her to join the Norwegian team. She accepted the offer and will be one of the three Norwegian ladies to appear in the Olympic tennis series, playing in the ladies' singles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles. But, in order to insure against difficulties arising at the last moment and with a view to frustrating possible attempts to exclude her from play altogether, the Norwegian Olympic committee has asked that the French committee give its approval to her selection.

Like the other Norwegian representatives, Mrs. Mallory has agreed to pay her own expenses as the tennis association is short of funds.

WANTS RETURN BOUT WITH YOUNG PECHENE

Sporting Editor:

Dear Sir—I wish to use a few lines of your valuable space to express my feelings in Promoter Frank Barber and the boxing fans in regards to the decision awarded Young Pechene Thursday. I would like to meet Pechene in a return bout at 118 lbs. and I will give him 2 lbs. by scaling 110 for a six-round go and if I lose I will not take a cent and give my share to charity.

I do also claim the flyweight championship of Eastern Connecticut and I'm ready for Young LaRue of Waurasan or any Eastern Connecticut man at 112 lbs.

I'm also willing to take any man at 110 lbs., barring none, and I assure the boxing fans any bout I take part in will be a good one on my part.

Yours for clean boxing and fair decisions.

Signed, YOUNG COULON.

HOMER SMITH MATCHED AGAINST CUBAN CHAMPION

Havana, March 14.—Homer Smith, heavyweight pugilist of Kalamazoo, Mich., who came to Havana several weeks ago to box "Battling" Siki has been matched against Santiago Esparraguera, Cuban light-weight champion. The bout will take place the night of March 21. It will be a benefit for the fund for widows and orphans of Havana policemen.

Siki, who has been suffering from broncho-pneumonia, still is in the hospital but is expected to be able to start training again in about two or three weeks.

PLAN BASEBALL PARKS AND HOTEL AT ORLANDO

Cincinnati, O., March 14. — August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Nationals, announced at Orlando, Fla., today that plans are practically completed for purchase of a large tract of land in Orlando and the erection of a hotel with golf course and two baseball parks, according to a special dispatch to the Cincinnati Times Star.

The project, Herrmann said, will involve an expenditure of at least $500,000. It is understood that it is planned to have an American league club come to Orlando for spring training in conjunction with the Reds beginning in 1925.

PLANNING AN EIGHT CLUB HOCKEY LEAGUE

New York, March 14. — Plans for the formation of an eight-club international professional hockey league embracing four cities in Canada and four in the United States, will be discussed at a conference next Tuesday at Montreal between Tex Rickard and Canadian interests headed by Tom Duggan.

Rickard plans to equip Madison Square Garden with a rink to be utilized by teams representing New York and Brooklyn. Other proposed American entries are Boston and Pittsburgh while Canada probably will have teams in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

ARGENTINA'S POLO TEAM WILL PLAY IN ENGLAND

Buenos Aires, March 14. — Argentina's Olympic polo team will participate in the British spring polo tournament before going to Paris for the Olympic championships, it was announced today. Captain Enrique Padilla and Arturo Kenny will sail for England April 17, while the Miles brothers, David and John, and Jack Nelson, the other members of the team, will depart some time in May. Thirty-three ponies were shipped to Liverpool today.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY WINS RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP

Northfield, Vt., March 14.—Norwich University won the rifle team championship of the first corps area in competition with ten other New England colleges, according to an official communication received here today. The cadets shot a total of 7498 out of a possible score of 8,000. Norwich will now be matched with the winners of college team titles in the tournaments conducted in the other eight military areas into which the country is divided to decide the national championship.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The first shut-out game in the annals of baseball took place at Dexter Park, Chicago, July 23, 1876.

Young Stribling, the Georgia battler, is said to have made $50,000 by his ring work so far this year.

A golf tournament for the southwestern championship is carded for Hot Springs, Ark., the week of March 17.

The Memphis Hunt and Polo club has been organized to foster polo and kindred sports in the Tennessee city.

The big Louisiana derby to be run on St. Patrick's day will mark the close of the winter racing season in New Orleans.

Bucknell university expects to have a big new stadium completed in readiness for the opening of the football season next fall.

The University of North Carolina basketball team finished its schedule with 23 consecutive victories—a clean slate for the season.

Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion of the world, is actively training for his coming 15-round contest with Abe Friedman at Madison Square Garden.

"Big" Munn, the former Nebraska football star, later a boxer, and who is now trying his hand at the wrestling game, weighs 265 pounds and is 6 feet 6 inches in height.

A record crowd of nearly 10,000 people saw the Michigan-Purdue basketball game, which served as a formal opening of the new Yost field house at the University of Michigan.

The St. Paul boxing promoters expect a record-breaking crowd at their show on March 17, when the main attraction will be a 10-round battle between Gene Tunney and Jimmy Delaney.

Al Reich, who has gone to Buenos Aires to give battle to the redoubtable Luis Firpo, is now in his thirty-fifth year and one of the oldest of the heavyweights now active in the ring.

In the first match game of baseball ever played in New England, which took place on Boston common, Sept. 8, 1858, the home team was defeated by a team from Portland, Maine, by a score of 47 to 42.

The distinction of being the only prominent baseball organization to have five of its teams finish the season with batting averages above .300 belongs to the Western league, which made this record last year.

Nearly 1,000 athletes, representing universities, colleges and schools throughout the middle west, are expected to compete in the second annual relays at the University of Kansas, which will be held April 19.

Dallas has signed Bill Matlock, third baseman of the Southwestern University of Georgetown, Tex. Matlock had at different times signed contracts with the Philadelphia and Detroit Americans, but was never given a trial by either club.

Phil Bedgood and Luke Sewell had to pass up training with the Indians at Hot Springs last week. Sewell had a blistered foot, while Bedgood was forced to go to bed as a result of spraining his ankle coming down the mountainside at the Arkansas Spa.

Ben Diamond, veteran catcher of the Denver Club, has been traded to the Houston team of the Texas League. Third Baseman Ed. Hanley and a bundle of cash was the price paid by Houston. Diamond caught over 100 games last season and was one of the best hitters in the Western circuit. Hanley had been sold to Winston-Salem some weeks ago, but the deal was cancelled at the player's request.

President Al. Tearney announces the completion of his umpire staff for the Western League for 1924. The men signed to call them are, Pat Donohue, Matty Fitzpatrick, Ed Gaffey, Ollie Anderson, Gerald Hayes, H. R. Held, Pat Boyle and Spike Shannon.

A. Rankin Johnson has signed to manage the Temple team of the Texas Association, next season. Johnson has been connected with baseball in Texas for several years, during which time he has been player, manager, club owner and umpire. Last year he managed the Austin team.

T. L. Denman, president of the East Texas League, has appointed George (Cap) Leidy, old-time player, as umpire-in-chief of the league. Arrangements were also perfected whereby the pennant winners of the Texas Association and the East, Texas League will meet in a play-off series.

Walter Johnson told the world from Hot Springs last week, that this would probably be his last year as a major league pitchers. The fire ball king says that he plans to buy a Pacific Coast League club, and if successful he will continue to take his turn on the slab. Otherwise, is will be curtains!

It was again, off again, when St. Paul sold Charley Dressen and Mike Gonsales to Cincinnati. Dressen is to remain in St. Paul this year, for delivery to the Reds in 1925. Gonsales, however, was delivered to Brooklyn, but Bess Ebbets of the Dodgers refused to have anything more to do with Gonsales when the Cuban held out for a big wad of money for his service for this year. It is believed that Gonsales will presumably revert to St. Paul, inasmuch as the only player the Saints have received from Cincinnati in the deal is Herb McQuaid.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTT MADE TO ENTER STATE SWIMMING MEET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 14.—Final preparations have been made by the New London Y. M. C. A. physical director, Dr. A. B. Dawson, in anticipation of the Y. M. C. A. state swimming meet that will be held at the local "Y" Saturday afternoon at 3 and evening at 8 o'clock. Twelve electric lights of 500 watts each have been installed especially for this meet, turning the Y tank from darkness to daylight. Splash curtains have been installed along the pool to protect the spectators from flying water.

Entries have been coming in daily from the various Y. M. C. A. teams in the state. Over 65 swimmers are already entered to participate in this meet with a possibility of 10 or 15 more expected to enter. Six entries are listed from Hartford and nine from Greenwich, seven from Norwich, headed by their captain, Ted Kundig, four from New Haven, seven from Naugatuck, and two from Waterbury, besides 15 to 20 local entries. Entries are expected from Bridgeport and Willimantic. Torrington has wired that it will not enter a team in the meet as was expected. Meriden is on the uncertain list.

Local entrants and the events in which they will compete are: Dexter, sprints, relay and under-water swim; Walsmith, backstroke, 40-yard and 100-yard swim; Hansen, fancy diving; Foskett, plunge for distance, fancy diving; Edward, plunge for distance; Donohue, fancy diving; Allen, breast stroke; Kerridge, 40-yard and 100-yard swims, and Cleveland in the 40-yard swim.

Due to the inability of Kerridge, a member of the relay team, to make an appearance in this city on Saturday, his place will have to be filled by a 15-year old student of Bulkeley High school by the name of Woodruff. Woodruff made some good time in the tryouts on Wednesday and Friday nights. The fact that he will be picked in preference to an older and more experienced swimmer will give the reader some idea of just how valuable this youngster is. The other members of the relay team are as follows: Dexter, Walsmith and Keefe.

In the boys' classes, the following will compete: 135-pound class, 60-yard swim, Woodruff, Snow, Reeves and Pendleton.

In the 110-pound class, 40-yard swim Palmer and Messick. The other boy in this class has not yet been selected.

Tracey and Dexter will make up the under-water swimmers.

Physical Director Dr. A. B. Dawson has also made arrangements with the girls from the Connecticut college to enter a team. This entry was not known until about 9:30 Friday night.

Besides these attractions, Buster Ellonsky, whose fame has spread across the country as a long distance swimmer, will give an exhibition in which he will swim handcuffed and in other ways that have made him famous. Late this afternoon Dr. Dawson received a straight jacket from the Norwich State hospital. Buster Ellonsky will don the straight jacket and give various demonstrations in swimming and strong man feats.

The officials that will have charge of the events will be physical directors from various Y. M. C. A.'s about the state. It is the biggest thing in the way of water activities yet to be held in New London. Very few tickets are left for the reserved sections.

Friday evening several members from the Mystic Oral school tried out in the various events. Out of six entries but one showed good form. However, it is doubtful whether he will be one of the New London entries in any of the events.

Tryouts for the Norwich teams were held in the Norwich Y tank on Wednesday. The time made by some of the swimmers, especially Capt. Kundig, were better than were ever made before.

Mayor Malcolm Scott will present the medals to the winners

Sea-Elephant Lazy Marine Animal.

The sea-elephant which abounds about the Island of South Georgia, located more than 1,000 miles east of Cape Horn, is one of the largest of marine animals, one of the laziest and most contentious. His main business while ashore is sleeping and fighting bitter battles with other sea-elephants. The animal is so named from his great bulk, which, in the bull, often attains a length of more than 20 feet and proportionate girth, and his long snout. His mode of progress on land is similar to that of an inch-worm, traveling entirely with the aid of his fore-clippers and humping his unwieldy body in what is said to be a very ludicrous manner. Despite his awkwardness, he can travel as fast as a man can walk.

Young Ambition.

A brown-haired, bright-eyed newsboy, not more than nine years old, was in the midst of a heated argument with the news stand man when the Woman noticed them. The man couldn't understand just what the boy wanted, although he was explaining loudly in newsboy jargon that he was very definite about the matter. Presently the boy took the man by the arm and led him to his choice among all the magazines that were hung about the news box for display. The Woman wondered what it would be—Diamond Dick or Racy Stories. Without hesitation the boy pointed to his desired magazine. The Woman blinked and looked again. The cover under his small, slightly soiled index finger said, "What to Sell and How to Sell It."—Chicago Journal.

POETRY

When the Birds Come North

The birds go south, and again come back
Then warm winds breathe on the plain
They never forget the homeward track,
Nor the orchard down by the lane.
Some bright winged joys of mine one day,
Took flight—how my heart did yearn
I said for a little space they will stray,
And when weary they will return.

The years have come and the years have gone,
But never a wing's white gleam!
Though I have watched from the early dawn
Till the evening star's first beam!
With a hopeful hand I have set a light
In my window for them to see;
To guide, if lost in the maze of night,
To a sheltering haven—and me!

They are missed each day, but always most
When up from the southern skies
The birds appear like a conquering host,
With their low and tremulous cries.
They, too, I think should heed the call
When love sings in the breast,
And come with the rosing, and all,
Back to the old home nest.

I wonder oft where they build and sing.
Those truants that charmed my heart;
In what far grove their flight they wing
Detained by what magical art.
Will they come back? With a patient heart,
I still wait for their safe return:
Each day as the sun's bright beams do part,
Shall the light of their welcome burn.
—Alonzo Rice in Indianapolis News

This Blue

Under the candle's high white pillar,
Inconstant wax and constant flame,
Only at last a blue fire burning,
Essential ghost without a name.

Intense, unearthly, quiet blue
Blooms from a strand of blackened [illegible]
A brief and breathing residue
Cupped in the silver candlestick.

When in the old gray silver of my body
The candle of my living crumbles low
This blue will blossom visible and steady
Will stand revealed a moment, and will go.

Under the candle's high white pillar
Inconstant wax and constant flame,
Only at last a blue fire burning,
Essential ghost without a name.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

A Dark Cloud and Its Silver Lining.
By John G. Whittier.

In the Minister's morning sermon he told of the primal fall,
And how, henceforth, the wrath of God rested on each and all;

And how, of His will and pleasure, all souls, save a chosen few,
Were doomed to eternal torture, and held in the way thereto.

Yet never, by Faith's unreason, a similiar soul was tried,
And never the harsh old lesson a tenderer heart belied.

And after the painful service, on that pleasant, bright first day,
He walked with his little daughter thro' the apple bloom of May.

Sweet in the fresh green meadow sparrow and blackbird sung;
Above him its tinted petals the blossoming orchard hung.

Around, on the wonderful glory, the minister looked and smiled:
"How good is the Lord, who gives us these gifts from His hand, my child.

"Behold in the bloom of apples, and the violets in the sward,
A hint of the old lost beauty of the garden of the Lord."

Then upspake the little maiden, treading on snow and pink,
"O father! these pretty blossoms are very wicked I think.

"Had there been no Garden of Eden, there never had been a fall;
And if never a tree blossomed God would have loved us all."

"Hush, child!" the Father answered. "By His decree men fall;
His ways are in clouds and darkness, but He doeth all things well.

"And whether by his ordaining to us cometh good or ill, Joy or pain, or light or shadow, we must fear and love Him still."

"Oh, I fear Him!" said the daughter, "and I try to love Him, too;
But I wish He were kind and gentle —kind and loving as you."

The minister groaned in spirit, as the tremulous lips of pain,
And wide, wet eyes, uplifted, questioned his own in vain.

Bowing his head, he pondered the words of his little one.
Had he erred in his life-long teachings, and wrong to his Master done?

To what grim and dreadful idol had he lent the hollest name?
Did his own heart, loving and human, the God of his worship shame?

And lo, from the bloom and greenness, from the tender skies above,
And the face of his little daughter, he read a lesson of love.

No more as the cloudy terror of Sinai's mount of law,
But as Christ in the Syrian lilies the vision of God he saw.

And as when, in the cleft of Horeb, of old was his presence known,
The dread, ineffable glory was infinite goodness alone.

Thereafter his hearers noted in his prayers a tenderer strain,
And never the message of hatred burned on his lips again.

And the scoffing tongue was prayerful, and the blinded eyes found sight,
And hearts, as flint aforetime, grew soft in his warmth and light.

SHOWER FOR DON PEDRO SUGGESTED

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I was so sorry I couldn't attend the anniversary meeting. Such a storm! It reminded me of an anniversary meeting several years ago when Club No. 3 took a sled ride to W. We had thunder and lightning and I thought we never would get home. March 23 is Don Pedro's birthday. I am sure she would appreciate a shower of cards to Mrs. Mary Reebe, 23 Masonic Street, New London, Conn.

Biddy: Suppose you are clucking to the little fairy.

Apricot Jam: Wash 1 pound evaporated apricots, cut in small pieces, cover them with 7 cups of cold water and let stand 48 hours. Then add 3 pounds granulated sugar and cook about an hour over slow fire. This will make 3 quarts. It is fine.

Best wishes for the Corner.

A ST. PATRICKS DAY LUNCHEON

Dear Sisters: In March we have the day sacred to St. Patrick, and more and more each year the citizens of America are joining with the large body of Irish Americans in celebrating memory of the good saint, the least of whose kindly ministrations is said to have been driving snakes from Ireland.

Among the many emblems denoting "auld Ireland" is not difficult to contrive a decorative scheme for a luncheon of a dinner to satisfy the most critical person. The harp and the shamrock come to us from the music and the poetry inherent in the nature of the people and from the caricature of the jovial Irishman we can take his pipe and his hat to give a dash of fun to our feasting.

Green, the national color of the emerald isle furnishes our back ground, and a center piece of feathery green ferns is entirely in keeping with the idea I wish to carry out. Place cards may be cut to represent the shamrock and inscribed under the name of each guests may be a line of poetry or a verse, from one of the many plaintive and gaushing love songs of the country. Clay pipes painted green or small green snakes can be used for favors. Sometimes you can take a clay pipe and fill it with green candy or make gold rings around the green pipes, so the favors will make them laugh, or if the musical idea is to predominate small green and gold harps can be used.

It will be very easy to carry out the leading thought in the menu using green as the coloring in as many items as possible. The soup you can color with spinach. The salad may be lettuce and green cherries and the ice cream molded to represent green harps. The croutons to accompany the soup are shaped by cutting stale bread, with a shamrock shaped cutter, served with olives—lightly brown your croutons in the oven. For the meat serve shamrock croquettes, using chicken veal or lamb and you can trim with parsley, celery or water cress.

ETHELYN.

RECIPES VIA RADIO

Dear Social Corner Folks: How are you all, if I may inquire?

I am glad to see the Corner reading the letters so much, the more there are the better.

You see I tried to be funny in the first letter I wrote. That is I wrote it incorrectly, but meant no harm. However, I did not "get away with it," and great was my chagrin, on reading my epistle in that Saturday Bulletin, to find the editor had failed to appreciate my attempt at humor, and had to go to so much trouble to make the letter printable.

But how appropriate some of you must have thought my sobriquet?

Well, the joke is on me, and I hope I am good sport enough to take a joke occasionally, even when I am the "goat."

Rosalind is reminded of trees, flowers, bugs and such things, by the names chosen by new comers. I suppose I am classed in with the "bugs."

Does not Chauffeur ever write any more? I have not seen a letter from her in some time. Perhaps she has changed her name.

I met her one day last summer, near the tunnel at Tafts, as she was headed toward Jewett with a car full of women, but being a careful driver she did not take her eyes from the road, so I don't think she saw me.

I am enclosing the rest of the poem, The Snow-Birds Song requested by Elizabeth Henry, and will wind up with a few recipes which I have received via radio, tried and found not wanting.

By the way one of the members last fall sent in her way of putting up pineapple with citron. I tried it, and if you could have seen my husband eating some the other day, you would think it was a success.

Three Egg Sponge Cake: Beat the whites of 3 eggs, with a pinch of salt, until stiff and dry, have ready 1 cup of sugar, dissolved in 3 tablespoons of cold water. Let stand on back of stove to warm, while beating eggs. Add gradually to egg whites and beat. Add 3 yolks beaten thick, 1 teaspoon lemon extract and beat again. Last add 1 cup pastry flower sifted twice, with 1-4 teaspoon of baking powder. Fold in lightly to above mixture. Bake in moderate oven in an angel cake tin. It never fails.

If anyone who tries this, thinks they have eaten a nicer sponge cake than this recipe makes, I would like to have the recipe.

Chinese Chuse: (For use at a mah jong party. I don't know if that last word is spelled right, but it sounded like chuse or maybe its shoes, anyway it is good.) 1 cup finely chopped dates, 1 cup English walnuts also chopped fine, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup pastry flour, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, 2 eggs, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Mix dry ingredients together, then dates and nuts, add eggs beaten light, spread in thin sheets, and bake, when done, cut in small squares, form into rolls and roll in granulated sugar.

I would like to give you some more recipes but I don't want to take up the whole page so will stop till some other time. Hoping you will like these recipes. They were transmitted from WJAR at Providence.

SILLY SALLY.

WANTS HELP TO CURE A CORN

Mr. Editor and Ladies of the Social Corner: Greetings! I have been interested in you and your Corner from its start. Know many of you personally and others by your pen names and letters to the Corner.

You call it the Social Corner and I read in your letters that it is rightly named. I think it could carry another, that of bureau of information. I notice when you have a spot on your table or a rusty sink and want to remove it, you can find out how by writing to the Corner.

Now mine is a corn on my toe, a bad one with a red spot in the middle and I can say with the rhymist that great oaks from little acorns come and from a little corn great aches do come.

I have had that corn ever since I was 17 years old and that is two or three years and maybe more. I would like to know how to get rid of it.

I have never written to the Corner but have been told that in order to join you must send in a recipe. So I will send the old Irish rule of potatoes and point, told me by and Irishman. You take your "spuds" wash, peel or not just as you like, boil them in which you have put a little salt. When they are done, put a little salt on the table, hang a herring some where in the room where it can be plainly seen, dip your potato in the salt and as you eat it point at the herring and think how nice it would be. That is potato and point.

Now if that recipe doesn't get me in, do write just the same tell me how to cure a corn. I will sign myself not Lucy Acorn but just.

A. CORN.

BEING POLITE TO OUR CHILDREN

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Will write a letter and tell you how I enjoy the fine weather. I have not been off the farm since last October except four times. I started this letter Monday when the weather was better, will finish today (Tuesday.) It does not have to look much like taking a walk this morning. My daughter says she is too busy to go out much with all the problems of housekeeping staring her in the face.

When the breakfasts are cleared away, the same old problems arising, the housewife sits down to think of something appetizing. The dinner she must prepare, or give the cook directions, and great is the relief she feels when she has made selections. When dinner things are cleared away, the problem that is uppermost is just the same with one word changed—what can I get for supper?

Some one was speaking about rats and mice. Can a rat carry eggs? A rat cannot carry an egg without breaking it, two or more can. One rat will lie on his back holding an egg between his head and forefeet and another will lay hold of him and drag him off egg and all. The old fashioned way to rid the place of rats is to catch one and singe it, let it go and all the rest will go too.

Speaking about not putting saleratus in cakes. My daughter made me some biscuits for supper and did not put any in. They did not raise but she put them on the table. The father and brothers took some and when she came in the dining room they were playing ball with them. They were her first and she was only ten years old. She never heard the last of it and today they say she makes good biscuits.

Last week a sister spoke about the children of today coming before the older people. I think they should have a chance to talk and learn to take part in the conversation with older people. It teaches them to rely upon themselves. I hate to see a child hange its head when spoken to. A friend of mine dined with a family where there were four boys and two girls all under sixteen years. Each did their share of the entertaining yet the talk was so quiet and courteous and free from interruptions that my friend asked the mother the secret of her children's good manners.

"I suppose," she she, "that their father and I try to be as polite to them as we expect them to be to us." I think that is a fine way because the children must have a good example.

Don't Worry: My guess about your egg mystery is that you must have put a crowing hen in with your roosters. I have heard hens crow haven't you?

Joan: You asked me what the devil's whiskers is. I don't know as I can describe it so you can understand what it looks like. We have it in a hanging pot and it comes up all over the pot with little light green leaves. Then the stem grows up a little more and four more leaves come and so on until it hangs over the edge most half a yard. The center of the pot is full too. The leaves are very crisp about one half inch long and as wide as a flat tooth pick. The stems with the leaves all grown out look round as they hang down and about and up just like an old man's whiskers.

Rosalind: We tried your gold and silver cake and it was fine. We frosted it and trimmed it for a birthday cake for my little grand daughter with eight candles in rosebud holders. It was very pretty.

Lola: My son-in-law says the next time you make raised doughnuts will you please send him two as you used to do. He never says any good as you used to make. Will say so long for this time. Yours as ever.

WINNIE.

AT CLUB'S NO. 2'S ANNIVERSARY

Dear Social Corner Members: Several have asked for a letter telling about the meetings and as we have just had our anniversary meeting of No. 2 I will try and describe it as well as I can. First we had a big crowd, and I think every one will say a very fine dinner. Then we had, as you know perhaps, asked each one to bring something that we could sell and the sisters responded very well and we made quite a sum on those things, which no doubt will be read by our treasurer at the next meeting. We had quite a number of visitors from Willimantic and other places and Whirlwind and Foxglove braved the bad roads and gave us their company as well as their talent. Will try and give you a brief outline of what we had for entertainment for which I thank all the sisters as well as our guest.

Readings were given as follows: The Minister, by Beatrix; Catnip, by Vira; Forget It, by Whirlwind; The Nurse, by Mayfayre; The Groundhog, by Lucy E; Buying a Horse, by Necia; Cheer up, by Wurdy Bell; The Automobile, by True Blue; Castor Oil, by Chocolate.

Then Dark Eyed Susie gave us some very fine music and Mrs. Ida Richardson, a guest, played and sang, Laddie, and God Remembers When the World Forgets.

I hope I have written this so the shut-ins can get an idea of what we had. Here's hoping the Social Corner may have 24 years more of success.

Yours,

CHOCOLATE.

A SMALL FAMILY GROWN LARGE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Again the year has rolled around and the Corner has a birthday. We were a small family and now we are many. Although we still miss those who were so ready and willing to write for the Corner and on calling their letters to our minds they still influence us for good. Because of those who so dearly loved the Corner we try to write, but oftentimes sickness or other things obstruct the way. Yet the Corner still lives and thrives and our membership increases. May we celebrate many such birthdays and when we too are called away let others keep up these nice, useful, and interesting letters.

Our snow is going fast. Still we have quite a lot but not nearly as much as last year at this time.

Now dear sisters and members of Club No. 1, I wish to thank you most heartily for my valentine gift. It filled a needed want at just the right time. I like to read of the good times you all have at your different club meetings. Enjoy yourselves while you can. To the shut-ins and the sick and those who are in sorrow you have my heartfelt sympathy and I think of each of you often.

Best wishes to each one. Cheerily,

DIANA.

BROWN BREAD

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What lovely weather this is for March! What a fine time we had at our last meeting! The Social Corner is rightly named as every corner of the large hall was filled and all having a good time. Someone asked for a recipe for brown bread. Here is mine.

Dew: Kist: Tried your hot milk one cup of rye meal, 1-2 cup of molasses boiling hot, one teaspoon of soda stirred in while hot. Mix very thin with milk and steam three hours. Hope some of the sisters will try it.

Derr: Kist: Tried your hot milk cake and find it fine and one of my neighbors tried it, too, with good results. Hope none of the sisters got stuck in the mud.

Good bye until we meet again.

Yours truly,

WINDHAM BLUE BELL.

CLUB NO. 3 MEETS MARCH 19.

Dear Sisters and Brothers: Isn't this week the most like winter we have had? Was very sorry not to be at the Willimantic meeting this week, but wind and snow made it impossible to get there. Lebanon Club will meet in Baptist chapel, Wednesday, March, 19th, 1924. Please bring plate, knife, fork, spoon and cup, also something good to eat as usual. Hope to see a large attendance, and would like to have members of other clubs meet with us. I wish those that are not writers would come and join in our social time. Then we might encourage them to be Social Corner writers. The chairman of the committee is sick. Hope she will be able to attend the meeting.

Yours for the Corner.

M. M. L.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS ABOUT HOUSE PLANTS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: When the snow is falling and the wintry winds blowing as they are today we understand how much it means to have a warm cosy home. We walk to the window and look at our plants, it is then that we enjoy their fresh green leaves and gay blossoms. Then if we have noticed a nice plant in a window as we pass along the street we are cheered by the sight and we know the home has a housewife within. who needs more than potatoes and meat for her food. So I believe a plant in our home is worth two in the florist's window. You have no doubt heard the remark that certain persons have great luck with plants, they can grow them without any bother. Let me say right here that is not true; luck is generally care. Our love of flowers leads us to give the proper position, soil and care to the plants. Out of door plants grow almost by themselves because nature supplies all their needs. In the house you will have to supply every requirement, soil, water, heat air, and light. When you fail the plants fail. Cleanliness is very important. Keeping the pots, shelves and stands neat and clean requires a great deal of time and patience, but if not done the plants will not thrive. Fresh air is also essential and can be given during cold winter months by lowering the window from the top about mid-day when the sun shines brightly. By doing this the air will blow over the plants instead of directly upon them. Then there are the insects, the mealy bug which infect the coleus. Use a small brush and strong soap suds or life-buoy and the trouble will be controlled. The white speck and fly are difficult to control. They must be sprayed with nicotine. Angle worms do not eat roots but in squirming around through the pot fill up the drainage. A watering with lime water will bring them to the surface. Some of the sisters complain of leaves falling from begonias. I should say it was over watering. Never should any water stand in the saucer of the begonia. I wish the sisters could see a begonia I have. It is called the archangel and has 24 clusters of blossoms to say nothing of the foliage.

Flower Lover and Crimson Rambler: I also have a hoya given me by Savilla's daughter four years ago. It has more than fifteen leaves but not quite a thousand and never a bloom. They require intense heat and lots of moisture, but not much light. I wonder if any of the sisters have a partridge cactus. I have one and it is very odd. Have two small ones I would give to any-one wishing one. I hope this letter will be beneficial to many, as Rural Delivery says every lettre is sure to please someone. With success to the Corner I remain.

TRUE BLUE.

FINE TIME WITH CLUB NO. 1

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I feel I must write and tell the sisters that had planned to go to the 14th anniversary in Willimantic what a good time they missed.

I started out at take the 9:45 trolley supposing I should see others going. Reaching the car station I was filled heart when in come Cypress. We were delighted to see each other.

The car came but no more sisters, Reaching Pleasure Hill, Lonesome Pine joined us. Thought as the weather looked a little brighter more would come on 10:45 but not one more from Club No. 2 came.

When we arrived at the hall what a grand surprise awaited us, Jennie, Priscilla and Olive from Hartford were there. I certainly was surprised. I was glad there were some who were not afraid of a few snow flakes. We certainly were welcomed by the Willimantic sisters and soon felt ourselves at home, and after a while the buzzing began although we had no Bumble Bee. There was not as many as we had last month, as the crowd was smaller. At 12:30 (having waited to see if there would be more from Club No. 2) we were called to dinner. A table was reserved for the guests, with the best things imaginable. It was a great pity there were not more when the sisters had taken such pains to give us a good time and only 2 responded. I could not begin to tell all the goodies there were. The table decorations were very attractive. I remember the last on the bill of fare was ice cream and it was delicious.

After dinner we had the pleasure of listening to recitations by the sisters. There was also dancing of the Virginia reel which was well done.

Then it was time to come home. All having had such a fine time.

Moral—Now sisters next time do not let a few snow flakes scare you for you do not know what you missed.

NECIA.

SUGGESTS MEETING AT MOOSUP

Dear Social Corner Members: I thought I must write a few lines and tell you that I was much disappointed in not attending the anniversary meeting. Was visiting relatives in Norwich and stayed over intending to go but was called home on account of sickness in the family. I thought I would be able to attend this meeting but luck was against me, which shews that we must not be too sure of anything. I am still hoping sometime to make a success of my effort and win. Have heard from some of the sisters since and they were all delighted with the meeting.

Right here I want to make a suggestion. Couldn't we gather at Moosup for a meeting in the near future? That would give the members from Sterling, Moosup, Plainfield, Central Village and nearby towns a better chance to attend and while you think of it would it not be just as well? It's no more trouble for the sisters to come over this way then for us to go over there every time. We could call it a basket lunch which I think would be very pleasing. We could hire a hall at a small cost. Think it over sisters and see how you feel about it and if you decide to come I will make arrangements for the hall. I hope to hear something favorable. I am very busy with housecleaning and patchwork. Have pieced three quilts and am working on the fourth. I want to get through cleaning so as to enjoy the good old summer time. It seems when spring is here everything takes on new life so we must be thankful that everything is as well as it is when we come to think about others that are worse off then we are: So cheer up, there are better days ahead and scatter sunshine everywhere you go for life is what we make it every day.

Good luck to all.

RURAL DELIVERY.

WAYS OF USING CORNMEAL

Dear Corner Sisters: Cornmeal is healthy. Our ancestors ate more of it than we do. It gives heat and energy to the body and is a good food for the cold days.

There are so many ways of using cornmeal. Perhaps some of the sisters have some of these recipes, but for those who haven't I will send in a few of mine.

Indian Pudding: Bring a pint of milk to the boiling point, stir in 3 tablespoons of cornmeal and cook until thick, cool, then add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon and ginger, 1-4 cup each of molasses and sugar and one egg. Turn into a buttered baking pan, add nearly a quart of milk without stirring. Bake for about 2 hours. A few dried sweet apples and raisins make it better. This is delicious served with thin cream.

Cornmeal Muffins: One cup of four 3-4 cup cornmeal, 4 tablespoons baking powder, 4 teaspoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup of milk, 2 tablespoons butter. Mix dry ingredients, then add milk, beaten eggs, melted butter. Bake in muffin tins in hot oven about 20 minutes.

Corn Cake: Two tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 1-2 cups milk, 1 cup flour, 1 cup Indian meal, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons creamtartar, scant teaspoon salt,

Steamed Brown Bread: Three cups corn meal, 1 cup rye, 1 cup flour, 2-3 cup molasses, 1-2 cup raisins, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups sweet milk and one cup water. Steam three hours.

Baked Brown Bread: 1 1-2 cups corn meal, 1 cup graham flour, a little white flour (1-2 to 3-4 cup), 1-3 cup molasses, 1 pint sweet milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Bake in a pail 1 1-2 hours covered.

Baked Johnny Cake: 1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup white flour, 1 teaspoon flour, 1-2 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon soda, scant teaspoon salt, two cups of milk. Bake in two tins.

Old Fashioned Brown Bread: Warm water 1 pint, warm milk 1 1-2 to 2 quarts, 1-2 yeastcake mixed in water, 1 cup molasses, 2 quarts meal, 1 pint graham flour, 1 saucer of wheat flour, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix well and as meal swells it is better to use plenty of wetting. Let stand 3 hours to rise in pans you are to bake it in. Bake in old fashioned iron dish if you have one. Bake a long while, from 3 to 4 hours. This is as my grandmother used to make it. It is great. Try it. (facel a mb fg mb fg mb fg mb Breeze: Had a delightful visit with you. Your hospitality is lavish. It makes me want to come agin.

Olga: Am glad to read a letter from you. I always like to chat with you. Do you know who I am?

1776: It must seem good to be out after the long shut-in days. Spring is near and your boy will enjoy the sunshine and the out door air will be his best doctor.

Dorinda: Do-rest-awhile should be your name for a spell. Have just received a letter from Slim Jim. It is cold down in Florida this winter. There have been only four warm days. Berries and fresh vegetables are scarce on account of a frost on Jan. 6th and it has been too cold for things to grow very fast since..

I wish to extend thanks for the birthday greetings sent to me by the Social Corner sisters. It is nice to be remembered.

Best wishes to all.

ZERVIAH.

MANY REMEMBRANCES

Dear Corner Pals and Sisters: I first wish to thank the sisters for the very nice surprise box they sent me on my birthday. It is nice to be remember and know you are not forgotten. I will long cherish a kind feeling in my heart for each and every one. I also wish to thank sister Savilla for her pretty remembrance which she sent me in the form of needlework done by her own hands. I am still guessing who the sister is that sent me such a lovely birthday gift and forgot to tell who it was from, but maybe I can guess a little later. I shall watch the writing a little more closely. I wish to thank Rural Delivery, Balsam Fir, Savilla, Savilla's daughter, Pauls, Calla Lily, Aunty F., Anastasia, Foxglove, Zerviah, Neighbor Eveready, Olive, I. H. D., Neighbor Eveready's Sister and the three sisters who wrote me the letters. Joan, Harriett and Janic. I sure had some kindly thoughts.

Fritzie: My last initial is M. but I have no little girl. Which direction from me did you live, was it southeast?

Rosalind: If your brother reads my puzzle I still have another checker puzzle, but I can't seem to master this one. Wonder if he can?

Foxglove: I failed to clearly make out where you live as the place got blurred. I have your name, R. F. D. and state but the town I cannot decipher. Will you please send it again to me?

What a lovely full page we had anniversary week. I hope to see it kept just as full.

Joan: Your last letter I received Saturday, now I clearly understand what you said. Am awaiting a reply to the proposition I made you. Hope to hear in the affirmative.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

PYORRHEA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Painless pyorrhea destroys more teeth than all other causes combined. Do not think that you are immune—that you are relieved from worry because your teeth are perfectly sound and free from decay for more wollkept perfect teeth, sound in every way are lost from the ravages of painless pyorrhea than from decay and all other causes combined. Pyorrhea seldom hurts until so far advanced that the gums ulcerate, the teeth become loose and fall out or have to be extracted. Do not take chances of losing your valuable teeth. To save your teeth look at the gums. Your gums should be a healthy even pink, firm and hard. If your gums bleed when you brush your teeth, if they are spongy and are pulling away from the teeth, if your gums are sore when apparently perfectly sound beware of pyorrhea.

Millions of people have this disease and do not know it. Soft bleeding, receding gums mean pyorrhea. To keep your teeth you must keep healthy gums. There germs enter your whole system. Stomach trouble has come to do with gum disease.

PAULA.

WHO CAN HELP?

Dear Corner Sisters: A friend who takes the Bulletin and Courier sends me the Courier every week and as I used to live in Norwich I find some intgresting things, esgecially in the Social Corner, and want to ask if any of you have such a time with circulation as I do, or is it congestion? At times my heart is very rapid then quiets down again. Think Kitty Lou would give some remedy or advice in the matter. This happens every day and causes me to have so much noise, etc., in my head. If there is such a thing as just to be comfortable would appreciate it very much. Will some sister write a few lines to help yours sincerely.

E. S. C.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: As I haven't written for a long time thought I had better get busy.

I wish to thank all the sisters who sent cards for my birthday; also Busy Bee for the lovely birthday cake.

Will send a fudge recipe:

Chocolate Fudge: 3 cups sugar, 1 cup milk, 4 or 5 tablespoons of cocoa, 1 table spoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put sugar, cocoa and milk into saucepan, boil until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Take from the fire and add butter and and vanilla, stir until creamy, pour in buttered pans and cut in squares.

FRANCES.

STOPPED BY THE STORM

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Well, some morning for Club No. 1's anniversary! This is certainly a bad time of the year for anniversaries. I remember well last year Annette and I were all ready to go when it started in to snow and blow and so we decided to stay home, for we didn't know how it would be in the afternoon. But about 2 o'clock the sun came out nice but it was too late then to go. That was Club No. 2's anniversary.

Mayfayre and I were all ready to go to Willimantic Wednesday but as usual we stayed at home. I don't doubt but what we would have gotten there all right, once we got on the car, but that's where the hitch comes in. We live so far from the car line that we don't dare go anywhere when its stormy.

We are sorry not the have been able to go for we have heard that Club No. 1 has very good times and I was hoping to meet Agatha there and see some of her crochet patterns.

Yes, I'm just as nutty as ever over crochet, but the trouble is I don't have half time enough to do all I would like to. But then we old married woman can't afford to neglect our housework and sewing for anything like that, although I know lots of women that neglect their work for less important things.

Well how many have seen blue birds and robins? I have. Just two weeks ago I saw the loveliest fat blue bird and then a yellow bird about as large as a robin. Then in the afternoon I saw a big robin and we see any number of blue jays here all the time. And just think, I picked a large dandelion near my hen coop the last of January! I tell you there is no place like the country even if we do get snowed in once in a while, ha, ha.

I wonder how Foxglove and Whirlwind arrived home last week, and I've been wondering if they would go to Willimantic. I was pleased to meet them both.

Didn't we enjoy Mrs. Richardson's singing. It was very kind of her to come and entertain us and I think we should try to keep a little more quiet while anyone is singing or reciting. It is very annoying to the one who is kind enough to sing or speak.

I heard one young lady who was asked to sing say, "No, the last time I sang here every one was talking together and I vowed I'd never sing here again." Now, personally, I don't blame her at all. It annoying to the singer and also to those who love good singing and can't hear on account of some thoughtless chatterers.

Well, Ma of Greene Gables, how many chickens have thou? I have eleven nice strong healthy ones. Now, isn't that lovely? Don't you dare laugh because I expect eleven more today (Wednesday) and then two more settings next week. How's that for a farmer, eh?

Sometime when I go by your place I'm going to stop long enough to say howdy and to see your chicks.

Well, I want to thank the Social Corner member for the lovely calendar I received and appreciate it very much.

I could write a little more but little daughter is here with her ma, ma, so I think I'll say Au revoir.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

WHY DOUGHNUT GREASE FOAMS

Dear Social Corner: Many thanks to the editor for the unexpected pleasure of the yellow slip. Also I saw that the verse of The Lavender Girl which I quoted wasn't printed quite right, which made it read rather funny. It should be thus.

"I keep my mother; myself and brother,
By trudging along to sell my lavender."

And the last line should be:
"Come, come, buy my lavender"

Thank you Olga for your appreciation of my letters about the old songs for they seem to be always coming up in my mind because my mother was a singer in the bygone days, when I was a little girl and people sang at home more than they do now, she and I sang them together. One rather simple little song was,

"Lightly row, lightly row,
O'er the glassy waves we go
Smoothly glide, smoothly glide
On the silent tide.
Let the winds and waters be
Mingled with one melody,
Sing and float, sing and float,
In our little boat."

The soprano and alto together make a very pretty song of it and another which was rather on the melancholy order, and I don't remember the name of it, was:

"Near the lake where drooped a willow,
Long time ago,
Where the rock threw back the billow,
Whiter than snow.
Dwelt a maid who loved and languished,
Long time ago.
Can I now forget her, ever?
No, lost one, no."

To change the subject I will say to Auralee who complains of the grease foaming over her doughnuts that probably if she uses plain lard instead of lard compound and has it hot enough, not burning hot, of course, but enough to throw off a bluish smoke, she will have less trouble. It will sometimes foam a little, but not badly and sometimes not at all. Lard compound has several kinds of fat in it, each having a different quality, which I think causes it to foam and bubble when hot. I have probably made bushels of doughnuts, first and last, and, next to cookies, they are about the most tricky and uncertain things about turning out just right that I know of. Even when you think you have made them exactly alike every time, they will sometimes disappoint you and I don't believe anybody knows exactly why. So we put it down to the total depravity of inanimate things and let it go at that.

Best wishes,

IOLA.

WHEN MAKING DOUGHNUTS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: It should have read a scant one half cup of shortening blended in with the sugar in the recipe I sent in my last letter. If one has a small family and they want to make doughnuts, divide the dough, and put part away where it is cool, so not to have so many at a time. Those in the second frying are lighter than the first.

I hope we shall have this kind of a winter right along, with no deep snows and plenty of fun for those that like winter sports.

ROSALIND.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have enjoyed reading the Social Corner pages for many years and would like to become a member if there is room for one more.

Will take for my pen name,

ORRILLA DAY.

JOINED CORNER IN ITS INFANCY

Dear Social Corner Members: I wish to thank the editor for the yellow slip, also Club 3 for the sunshine box. It is nice to be remembered, especially when sick and in misery. Then you are glad for most any thing to relieve your mind. I was so sorry to miss the annual meeting the first I have missed of either Club 1 or Club 3, but we can't always do as we wish.

Bob White: When first taken sick, I couldn't seem to move in bed without a cramp. I happened to tell of your letter telling of the crooked knee. So I mentioned it to hubby, jokingly of course, for it seemed so funny to think of it. But faithful hubby got my shoes and crossed them. Result: the cramps left and haven't returned either. My shoes are crossed every night now. Can you tell me where the virtue is in it?

Adella: Was sorry not to be able to see you the other day you called, but my nurse was very strict, I get excited so easily.

Lonesome Pine and others that gave me their order for handkercheifs, I have them in my possession now and will deliver them the first chance I have.

I joined the Corner in 1911 when the Corner page was an infant. I wish we might hear from some of the old original members with their quaint and humorous letters.

I have always and do still sign my name,

AUNTY NO 1.

WHEN MAKING SOAP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: For weeks and months perhaps extending into a year I have planned to write a letter for the Social Corner page. Way back in October when Rosalind sent me a pretty post card for my birthday, I intended to write and thank her for her kind remembrances. Again at Christmas time I received pretty cards from Primrose and Mary 'Gusta. It indeed seemed nice to be so kindly remembered.

My excuse for not doing my part to fill the Corner page is I had so much writing to do that was strictly necessary that I had to neglect many friends outside the Corner as well as in. The sisters in Club 4 certainly have been doing their share of writing in the past two months. When I saw Mary 'Gusta's letter after such a long wait and May B's, I decided that I too must have a part in it. For several weeks have been shut in with a severe cold which took all my enthusiasm for letter writing and everything else. Have very much enjoyed the interesting letters of late. They have been so worthwhile. Twenty surely keeps the ball rolling and her bright chatty letters are up to the minute.

One remark Loretta's recent letter appealed to me in regard to prohibition and enforcement of the law and how little discussion there was among the Social Corner sisters. I, too, have noticed that, and wondered why among so many sisters so little was said about temperance. It surely is not a worn out topic, but one of vital interest.

One of the sisters, (have forgotten the names) spoke of crossing one's shoes to relieve a cramp. I suffer considerably with cramps, but I assure you, that crossing my shoes had no effect whatever. No doubt from lack of faith. I am a natural doubter.

Photographer asked in her last weeks letter about the use of saccharin tablets. I use them occasionally. They sweeten heavily, one tablet equal one lump of sugar. In coffee only for one pint I use three tablets. Some might like it sweeter. For orange or lemon jelly (one pint) one would use five or six. Personally I am not fond of saccharin as a sweetener have never used it in cakes, as if I did would use it in the same portion as for jelly.

I have noticed in the past that some of the sisters make their own soap. I wonder if any have tried adding a tablespoon of baking soda; it makes the soap come more quickly, as another improvement, beside lining the pan with paper before pouring in the mixture, put another lining in of thin white muslin. Then when ready to remove the cakes of soap peel off the cloth, and your cakes of soap will be as white on the bottom as on the top. I use the recipe on the can of "Babbitt's Potash," but to it I add borax, sugar, liquid ammonia and soda.

It is a long time since I have written a letter and surely this lengthy one will make up for it. It is quantity if not quality.

Wishing all the sick ones a return to health, and with kindest greetings to all, I remain cordially your sister.

JUST ME

WINTER BOUQUETS

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am passing on what other needle workers have done in the way of making winter bouquets of flowers, grass and pods of the milkweed. In one of our downtown stores I saw on a table a basket filled with what I supposed were dried flowers, grass and milkweed pods. I was eager to know how they had been kept so long as they were a Christmas decoration and and the process that was used on them. The clerk told me all she could, and I thanked her, and came out with my mind still on that basket of dried flowers and grass. Some of the grass looked to me like the salt water beacher. After Christmas, I visited in the home of a friend, where the home is made attractive with little dainty articles made of the best crepe paper, such as bouquets or roses in vases, dolls dressed to cover the box of toilet powder and a large rose around the mouth piece of the telephone suggested this thought: Into the heart of a rose, I have whispered my message of cheer.

While in that home I was shown the dried flowers and the velvet grass with the pods of the milkweed and now I am coming to the point. In the Needlecraft of April, 1924, Page 53, this problem is solved. What this woman has done, others may do.

I am glad Joan, has asked for letters to be written in regard to the Social Corner gatherings. As I live so far away I cannot go, but I am always glad to hear about them. I wish to thank The Bulletin for the calendar.

SATURDAY EVE

PINEAPPLE PIE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Have just arrived home from your Corner meeting at Willimantic and must write about it while fresh in my mind. Arrived a little late and one of the good sisters took me in hand to a bountiful dinner (such a lot of good things to eat) and I had a very good time.

Busy Bee: You don't know what you missed. I took the 1 o'clock trolley.

Sis Hopkins: Why didn't you and your goodman come? There were quite a few asking for you. We missed you both.

Mary France: You, too, they were asking for. Here is the recipe you were asking for.

Pineapple Pie: 2 crusts and don't roll too thin, 1 large can grated pineapple, thicken with corn starch and a little salt, sugar to taste. When cool add juice of 1 lemon and pour in crust. This will make two good sized pies.

Long live the Social Corner is my wish.

APRIL FLOWER. (23rd.)

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I'm a stranger in a strange city and wish to become a member of your social circle. Will try and meet with the sisters next meeting. I will sign myself,

MARY ANN FRIENDLY. (Oct. 18.)

SOME REQUESTED RECIPES

Dear Sisters: I am sending in some recipes that were requested:

Economy Omelet: 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons corn meal, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup grated cheese. Scald the milk in a double boiler, add the salt and corn meal, stir until cooked, cook twenty minutes. Add the cheese and stir until melted, add the beaten yolks of eggs, fold in the fluffy beaten whites, pour into a greased baking dish, and bake in a slow oven until firm—about 20 minutes.

Helena: For mending valuable china and glass objects which would be disfigured by common cement use chromo cement.

This a mixture of five parts gelatin to one part of a solution of acid chromate of lime. The broken edges are covered, then pressed together and exposed to the sunlight. The effect of the latter is to render the compound insoluble even in boiling water.

NEW LONDON PROPERTY OWNERS PROTEST SEWER ASSESSMENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 14.—Miss Mary Feidera, of Huntington street, Miss Elizabeth Ingoleby of Niantic, Thomas Connelly of Golden street, Miss Augusta Case of Sound View and George Morgan, the last named a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Pequot, were patients discharged today at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital.

At a meeting of the class of 1924 of St. Mary's parochial school, held this morning at 10.30 o'clock at the school, the following officers were elected: President, Hubert Dempsey; vice president, Corine Kelley; secretary, John Farrell; treasurer, Cecelia Sullivan. At another meeting of the class to be held later, the class colors and patrons will be selected.

Charles Rice of Montauk avenue is a patient at Lawrence hospital, as the result of having suffered from the extraction of a number of teeth yesterday afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie E. O'Neill, widow of John O'Neill of 102 Connecticut avenue, was held this morning. At 9 o'clock, at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, a large gathering of mourners attended the mass of requiem celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were Timothy Sweeney, Cornelius D. Twomey, Edward M. Sweeney, Frank Strehlau, Frank Corcoran and Joseph Connell. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The automobile owned and driven by E. W. Perkins of 20 Shetucket street, Norwich, struck and killed an airdale owner by John White, of 376 Huntington street, on that thoroughfare this morning.

Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond this afternoon conducted his inquest into the fatality yesterday afternoon, when Joseph Foley, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Foley of 495 Williams street, was struck and killed by a Norwich-bound trolley car of the Connecticut company, between Main and Rosemary streets. The inquest was held at the police station. The witnesses interrogated were Arthur Prodell, 112 Smith avenue, Norwich, and Albert Vetter, of 38 Franklin street, Norwich, motorman and conductor, respectively of the trolley car; Miss Ruth McGarry, employed at the Connecticut College for Women; Miss Agnes O'Sullivan of 71 West street; T. C. Speirs of Mohegan avenue and J. MacManulla of 259 Huntington street, the last named being opposite the trolley car when the accident occurred. Following the interrogation of the witnesses Coroner Desmond and Prodell and Vetter went to the location of the fatality where additional facts concerning the killing of the child were obtained. Coroner Desmond did not announce his finding, but will do so within a few days.

Mrs. Bridget Keefe and family, of 359 Bank street, today moved to the residence at 45 Faire Harbour place, recently purchased by Mrs. Keefe.

Taxpayers, and that means all the property owners who are assessed for the laying of an outfall sewer extension at Parkway, protested when they had opportunity today at a hearing on the fixing of pay for benefits and for the assessment of damages the [illegible] along the line of the sewer [illegible] to pay to the city. All [illegible] owners or their [illegible] invited to the permission of [illegible] for the expenditure [illegible] ance includes that the city [illegible] the "extension as a whole" [illegible] and that the city should [illegible] and that the property owners [illegible] pointed out in some instances that the property already had paid for sewer privileges and that they should not be expected, now rightly asked, to pay again. The argument of the city was that the sewer must be extended and that sooner or later the city must extend various outfall sewers farther into the waters of the Thames to preserve the public health.

The argument of F. V. Chappel was that the city had not paid anything for the right of way over the Pequot beach and the only benefit was to the beach property, so he held that the property owners should not be asked to pay. He said the matter was a trade between the Pequot Beach association and the city and that private property owners should not be connected with the matter at all. The director of law claimed that the extension was a part of the city's sewer system and as such was of benefit to all the residents.

The hearing was before the compensation board composed of George Watters, William Comm, Jr., and Fred Burrows, the last named the assessor of the city. The board is to report to the city council, which will decide the matter, probably at the meeting Monday evening.

The funeral of Joseph Foley, the four-year-old boy killed by a trolley car on the way to Norwich, Thursday afternoon, is to be held Saturday. The boy's mother, Mrs. Foley, is said to be in a delicate condition. The sympathy of citizens generally has been excited for the grief-stricken parents of the child.

Theodore Lusta is booked for appearance in the police court Saturday morning at 9.30 to answer to a charge of the theft of a gold watch that is the property of James Kirby and which was stolen from Mr. Kirby's room in the home of Mrs. Mary McGarry in Tilley street, January last. Lusta was held in the jail here by adjournment of the case up to Wednesday evening, when he obtained a bond that holds him for appearance Saturday. The bond is supplied by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company of Baltimore, and is for $1,000. Lusta is understood to be held on another charge in New Haven on a bond of $2,000. Lusta claims he was never in New London till he was brought here. It is said that Lusta acted strangely for a man who was wrongly charged with theft and that he made no such "holler" as an innocent man would make. He was in jail several days before he was able to get a bond to secure him his liberty, if only for a couple of days.

William Coleman, colored, an employe at a New London hotel, lost or forgot his house key, last night, and when he appeared at his rooming place he found that he was shut out. He aroused the woman who rents him his room, aroused her to the extent that she didn't hesitate to tell him what she thought of a fellow who came to his room at midnight and woke up the occupants of the house to get in. She told Billy enough that he became in temper and then he spoke his little piece. The result was that the landlady had William arrested and he was presented in court. The offense was trivial as a breach of the peace and both man and woman were concerned in it, so the court suspended judgment, with the understanding that William should get his duds out of the house without delay. This he agreed to do and departed congratulating himself that he had not been fined.

The police call light at Montauk and Willetta avenues is out of condition and whenever the trolley cars pass it the light is turned on so that it shows a call for an officer. The police have been running to the telephone on the pole nearby to answer the call nightly, so they wonder why the light is not put in order.

Mrs. Florence Bradshaw of Bradford, R. I., and Mrs. Carl Badstubner and infant daughter of 131 Connecticut avenue, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

The funeral of Lucille E., infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lauriston D. Avery of 43 Truman street, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents. Rev. Myron E. Center, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Ira Y. Allyn, brother-in-law of Mrs. William H. Osborne of Quaker Hill, died yesterday afternoon at his home in Somerville, Mass.

Mrs. Edith M. Young Haley, 43, wife of John R. Haley, died yesterday at her home in Center Groton. Besides her husband, Mrs. Haley is survived by two sons, Ross Young Haley and Harry Haley, both of Center Groton.

Announcement is made of the marriage Feb. 27th of Lawrence M. Prendergast, of Chicago, son of Mrs. John D. Prendergast, of 43 Montauk avenue, and Miss Bertha Keenan, daughter of Walter Keenan, also of Chicago. The ceremony was performed at St. Basil's church, Chicago, by Rev. John Barrett. Harry Conlon of Chicago, was best man, and Miss Lorraine Keenan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. Prendergast was formerly employed as draftsman by the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company of New London and is now draftsman for the Western Electric company, in its Chicago office.

The eighty-first anniversary of the Groton Heights Baptist church is to be celebrated with special services next Sunday. In the morning, at 10.45 o'clock, Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the church, will preside, while Dr. Witter, missionary, on leave from Assam, will deliver the sermon. At both the morning and evening services there will be special music.

Automobilists complained to the police last night that at a point on Pequot avenue, near the plant of the N. B. Lapointe company, a quantity of broken glass was strewn along the highway for a considerable distance and caused passing machines to receive tire punctures. Whether the [illegible] was intentionally placed in the [illegible] or whether it got there from [illegible] is not known although [illegible] an investigation in an endeavor to ascertain how the glass got into the path of the automobiles.

Sessions of the New London evening school in the Jennings school on Cole street, were dispensed with Wednesday night, the closing of this form of school marking the 75th session during the winter. The attendance at all of the sessions was remarkably large, probably because of the absence of severe weather.

Yesterday was the 13th of the month and it was certainly an unlucky day for the Connecticut company, for with a fatality there came three derailments during the early evening. In connection with the death of Joseph Foley, it is reported that the father of the child may cause a damage suit to be instituted against the trolley company on the grounds that the car was not equipped with the basket-like fenders. It is contended that had the car been so equipped the child might have been picked up by the fender and not allowed to be crushed beneath the brake-beam.

Daniel Stahler, Jr., a youth who has a long police record on charges of intoxication, was arrested late last night by Patrolman William Babcock and John Clifford, when the officers found Stahler occupying the greater part of the sidewalk on State street. Stahler, however, fared well, for he obtained a night's rest at the police station and this forenoon prior to the convening of the police court he was allowed his liberty after receiving some sound advice from Acting Prosecutor Frank Q. Cronin.

Several from New London's sporting fraternity are in New York tonight where they witnessed the fight at Madison Square Garden between Paul Berlenbach, sensational New York middleweight, and Jack Delaney, crack Bridgeport fighter.

During the gale Tuesday night the fence and lattice work at the rear of the cottage of Senator Frank B. Brandegee, corner of Montauk avenue and Chapel streets, were blown over.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich Grange, No. 172, held an interesting meeting Wednesday night in Steiner's hall on Main street with Worthy Master Arthur W. Avery in the chair. After a short business session the members enjoyed two delightful solos by Mrs. J. D. Libby of New London, her selections being At Dawning, Cadman and Don't You Mind the Sorrows, Cowles. Several readings were also given by Mr. Libby after which both entertainers were given a rising vote of thanks.

John R. Lyman then opened the discussion for the evening on the subject, Why not eliminate the fakirs at our county fair and have more agricultural exhibits? Others who joined in the discussion were Carl W. Brown, John E. Fanning, Edward Cook, G. Warren Davis and John O. Peckham.

After the discussion Worthy Master Avery was authorized to appoint a committee of three to draw up and send out the following resolution to all neighboring granges in New London county and also to the directors of the New London County Agricultural society: Resolved, that we, the Norwich Grange, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, send the following resolution, promising more agricultural exhibits, asking to do away with the fakirs, and have the hour of entering changed from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, also asking for disinterested judges to judge our exhibits.

Plans were also made for a public baked bean and salad supper to be held on the evening of the next meeting. Plans were also made to initiate a large class of candidates in the first and second degrees at the next regular meeting. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the feast committee and a social time was enjoyed.

The ways and means committee announced the Wednesday afternoon pinochle tournaments would start on Wednesday of next week, the first to be at the home of Mrs. William G. Murray on Prospect street.

GROTTO

Nemrod Grotto is to [illegible] its new headquarters in the [illegible] building on Tuesday evening with a long promised minstrel show which will be the first general social event in the new rooms. The members are privileged to invite their friends of both sexes and a delightful entertainment is in prospect.

HIBERNIANS

The united divisions of the A. O. H. and the Ladies auxiliary will hold their annual St. Patrick's celebration with a dance at the state armory which promises to be a stellar attraction for the members and their friends. Besides the regular dance programme, the degree team of the Ladies Auxiliary is to put on a drill in which they will display some fine marching and floor work of which those who saw it last year have very pleasant recollections.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

Efforts of the legislative committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to have the tax laws, which exempt the American Legion from paying admission taxes on entertainments, amusements, dances, etc., sponsored by them, amended to include all other veterans' societies, have met with success.

In a letter to Captain Edwin S. Bet[illegible]heim, chairman of the national legislative committee of the V. F. W., Congressman John N. Garner (ranking democrat on the ways and means committee in the house) declared:

"My impression is that we should amend the laws so as to include the Veterans of Foreign Wars and I am sure we did. I am always glad to have a suggestion from you and to be of service to the veterans when possible."

Section 214 of the act amended, was also changed to read, "contributions made to the V. F. W. posts, Ladies' auxiliaries or other veteran posts can be deducted from income tax just as contributions made to charitable institutions." This also includes dues. On February 19th the provision in Section 214 passed the House of Representatives and on February 26th, the exemption from tax on admission passed.

A bill appropriating $25,000 to form the nucleus of a fund to be expended in the entertainment of the former overseas men of the U. S. military and naval forces, who will be present at the 25th national encampment, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to be held at Atlantic City, Sept. 8-13, has passed the New Jersey state legislature. On receipt of this information the city council of Atlantic City appropriated $5,000 and launched a campaign for a substantial city fund.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The millinery class of Division No. 13, Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., met Thursday evening with Miss Margaret Monaher of Park street. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held with Miss Nellie Gleason of Fourth street.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Sedgwick corps, No. 16, held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial, with the president, Clara P. Burke, conducting the business session. One new member was initiated and one application received. The corps voted to furnish American flags to three schools in Preston, which will be secured as soon as possible. Report was made that the Sedgwick corps room at the Cromwell home had been refurnished with shades. The members were reminded of the meeting of the sewing society next week Thursday and the meeting closed in the usual form with salute to the flag and the singing of America.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

Despite the inclement weather which brought to mind memories of the great blizzard of 1888, one hundred men braved the elements to attend the regular meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 62, Tuesday night to join in the observance of Past Chief Rangers' night. The meeting was opened with Chief Ranger M. S. Looby in the chair, who immediately turned it over to Past Chief Ranger James H. Casey. Under the good and welfare several of the grand court officers gave interesting talks.

Grand Chief Ranger Cavanaugh of Torrington thanked the court for its great work, stating that Eastern Connecticut led made the largest gain in membership during the past year of any section of the state. He told of the beauty of the new ritual that has been gotten out for the observance of Armistice day and spoke of the success

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The death of Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman occurred 50 years ago Thursday, March 18th at his home in this city. Notable people attended the funeral among them being Commodore Stephen Decatur and other naval officers. Norwich also paid tribute to a son who had brought honor to his home city.

Other items of that week taken in part from the Bulletin of 1874 are as follows:

Monday, March 9, 1874—We learn that Orin S. Spencer owner and proprietor of the Atlantic hotel at Watch Hill has been making arrangements with the Johnson Bros. of the Wauregan House for the lease to them of his hotel. The arrangements were completed Saturday and C. W. Johnson & Co. will manage the Atlantic Hotel during the coming season. It is one of the largest and most popular houses at the beach, and lovers of the seashore are pleased to learn that it will be in the hands of capable men for the summer.

The police force has been increased to thirteen men, the place made vacant by the departure of Haley now being filled.

A sloop, with cargo of flounders, the first issue of the season, now lies at the dock.

It is rumored that application will be made to the legislature at its next session for the charter of a ferry to run between New London and Groton this season, also during the week days when the present ferry is not in ...

...arch 10, 1874—At the annual meeting of the Wauregan Steam Fire Engine company held last evening, the following were unanimously re-elected: H. H. Osgood, foreman; Asa Nash, first assistant; W. A. Thompson, second assistant; E. F. Hill secretary and treasurer.

Because of increased business Andrew Engler the popular barber in the Wauregan has added to his establishment several very elegant chairs. They are covered with marquette cloth and will prove useful as well as luxurious.

Fifty men have been at work on the foundation of the state capitol at Hartford since last fall, and when spring comes 300 more men will be added to the working force to speed the work along.

The supreme court of errors comes in this morning with Chief Justice Park presiding. He will be assisted by Judges Foster, Carpenter, Phelps and Pardee.

Henry S. Gulliver of this city has been appointed to speak at the Yale college Junior Exhibition his subject being, Mirabeau.

Wednesday, March. 11, 1874—Improvements still go on as they went on the West Side. Hakes & Slocum have extended and enlarged their coal office. Kelsey of Hartford is putting in two store rooms in the old Wickham building, and E. M. Frasier is making additions to the basement of the ...

The locomotive Shetucket has been undergoing thorough repairs. She has been painted and varnished and her truck wheels have been added. She is again the pride of the "piratical" driver.

The new iron bridge at Greeneville is progressing wonderfully. The first section has already been laid and is ready for the planking.

Snow equals yesterday brought back memories of winter weather but deluded the lovers of sleighing. The cove was again fringed with ice and people are taking back to overcoats and mufflers.

Herman Loupe was seriously injured Sunday when he fell in the house owned by J. O. Fish, which is now in process of construction. The boy fell through the joists striking on his chest breaking several ribs and suffering possible internal injuries.

Thursday, March 12, 1874—According to the notice, a meeting of those interested in the New Pork church enterprise met last evening at the Rock library. The meeting was organized with Franklin Nichols, chairman and E. T. Clapp clerk. After prayer by Dr. Hallo it was unanimously voted to call the new society, "The Park Congregational Society," Messrs John F. Slater, Eben Learned and C. P. Cogswell were elected a society committee, Frank Johnson, treasurer, and O. L. Johnson, Jr., clerk. A vote of thanks was passed to the Methem street Methodist society for their offer of the use of their church until the lecture room of the new church should be ready. It is hoped that the new lecture room will be available on April 1st.

Rufus Marshall, long connected with W. Standish in the trucking business has purchased a large double truck and is now to enter business for himself.

High winds continue to prevail and reports from towns north are that from six inches to a foot of snow cover the ground. People in Norwich wearing rigs continue to remain indoors.

Friday, March 13, 1874—A party of the uptown Bean Hill residents chartered a special car from the Horse Railroad last evening for a return home at a late hour. The matter was in the hands of an agent who endeavored to officiate as sole guardian of the flock and sustain the duties of both driver and proprietor. When the driver insisted on collecting the fares, thus following out company regulations, a struggle ensued and there was considerable activity until the driver pulled a revolver and threatened to shoot unless things went straight. In the melee the pistol was fired but fortunately without doing any harm. This scattered the party and one man jumped first, naturally brought blame to himself and the party set out after him, giving him a severe beating upon catching him. The real culprit stood in the background and enjoyed the scene.

The mid-Lent Calica ball was held last evening in White's hall and was a success. Miller's band furnished the music and the affair which was arranged by Charles Carew was one of the most enjoyable of its kind held this season.

The roads about Norwich are reported to be in excellent condition and parties are out each night. Skating is also reported at its best, all ponds having a smooth coating of ice, however, is not heavy enough for harvesting and I. W. Carpenter has a force of 40 men at work on the Massachusetts pond, shipping his harvest to Greeneville.

A woman wearing a July straw hat chilled the people walking on Main street yesterday.

Saturday, March 14, 1874—People of Norwich were startled and pained last evening to learn of the death of Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman at his home in this town. Admiral Lanman caught cold 10 days ago and steadily became worse, his condition exciting the strongest anxiety and sympathy as he wavered between life and death.

Admiral Lanman was born in Norwich, July 16, 1811 and having a strong passion for the sea entered the navy at a youthful age, and in 1835 received the appointment of midshipman. In 1837 he was attached to the frigate, "Macedonian" of the Brazil squadron. In 184[illegible] was promoted to the position ...passed midshipman and ...schooner Dolphin, ...ion. Through all the ...his steady perseverance gained for him the distinction of rising to the rank of read admiral of the United States navy. In 1848 he was honored by being made the bearer of dispatches of the Pacific squadron to Washington. During the Civil war he was assigned to the Minnesota, of the north blockading squdron.

At the famous attack on Fort Fisher he was assigned to lead the second squadron and was consequently exposed to the brunt of action. Admiral Porter speaking of his work at that time said, "Commodore Joseph Lanman was selected to lead the line, therefore he led in action. I was much pleased with the way in which he handled his ship and fired throughout the action; the whole affair in his part being conducted with fine judgment and coolness. I recommend his to the consideration of the department, as one on whom they can place the utmost reliance, place him in any position."

Commodore Stephen Decatur of Boston, an old companion of Admiral Lanman arrived at the Wauregan House last evening. The commodore is totally blind from a sunstroke, but looks every bit the gallant old salt that he is.

Norwich is now experiencing the severest weather of the season.

LEBANON

Rev. A. G. Littlefield preached an excellent sermon Sunday morning, from Acts 3, part of the 14th verse, "The Holy One and the Just." His subject for next Sunday's sermon is to be The Baby's Tears. The C. E. meeting was led by Miss Margaret Wyman.

In spite of the bad traveling and the storm Friday night, about 75 attended the chicken pie supper given at the chapel of the Baptist church. The supper was served by the men and consisted of chicken pie, pickles, pie and coffee. After supper a social time with games was enjoyed. About $40 was added to the treasury.

Mrs. Frank Bruce is visiting her sister in Winchester, Mass.

Jonathan Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R., met in the parlors of the First Congregational church Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Danielson of Brooklyn is visiting her sister, Mrs. William A. Mason.

Harry Bruce spent the week-end at his home.

Miss Edna Burgess of Willimantic is visiting relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Bishop entertained Sunday the former's brother, Charles Bishop, also Mrs. Bishop's sister, Mrs. Nellie Tuttle and son, Charles, all of Hartford.

Mrs. Elizabeth Troland spent the week end in New London.

Rodney Hewitt Jr. is ill with pneumonia.

Revere Beebe is in New York for a few days.

Mrs. A. C. Hoxie and daughter Phyllis are visiting Mrs. Hoxie's mother in Woburn, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Taylor, their son, Reginald, and Miss Hattie King were in Hartford recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sweet with their daughter, of Norfolk, are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Mary Sweet.

Miss Edith Foster, Miss Louisa Barry of Hartford, and Horace Peckham, of Manchester, were in town on Friday night to attend the chicken pie supper at the Baptist church. They spent the night as guests of Miss Foster's mother, Mrs. Ella Foster, returning to Hartford Saturday noon.

The heavy snow storm Tuesday did much damage to telephone service 35 lines being out of order. Some of the cross-roads being blocked, no mail was delivered on the R. F. D. route Wednesday.

There are many cases of grip in town.

Alberta, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wheaton, is ill with scarlet fever.

WEST KINGSTON

The local W. C. T. U. met March 5 with Mrs. Lena F. Woodmansee with a good attendance and several visitors. The president, Mrs. Lucy R. Dawley, was unable to be present because of illness, so Mrs. E. J. McElroy presided. Every one enjoyed the meeting. During the social hour refreshments were served. The next meeting, the first Wednesday afternoon in April, will be held in West Kingston church.

F. E. Crandall and son Floyd spent Sunday with the former's parents, near Westerly.

The near-blizzard struck here in full force. Telephones were out of order for a couple of days. Electric lights off from 8.30 p. m., Tuesday evening until 11.30 a. m., Thursday. Those in the town who depend almost wholly on electricity for water, lights and cooking were very much inconvenienced during the time.

The social held in the church Friday evening of last week had a large attendance. Much fun resulted from the "spell down" match. A few minutes past 9 o'clock refreshments were served. An accordion played by James Johnson was one of the features. There will be another social in April.

Mrs. Annie K. Webster and Mrs. W. Shannon spent Saturday in Providence.

Thomas H. Barber and Charles A. Fuller of Wyoming were recent callers in this village.

No school sessions were held in the town Wednesday.

Mrs. A. K. Webster, Miss Mildred Webster and Miss Mary Preston spent Sunday, with relatives in Westerly.

MARKET WAS BEARISH.

New York, March 14.—Stok prices showed a streng tone on an increased turnover in the early part of today's market, but became unsettled towards the close on week end profit-taking and a resumption of short selling. Announcement that the house would vote on the soldier bonus bill next Tuesday and the possibility of its passage were reported to have inspired the late attacks of bear traders.

Speculative interest was divided largely between the high priced specialties and the medium priced rails, particularly those in which favorable dividend developments are believed to be pending. American Can and Baldwin were pushed up a point or more during the morning, but they yielded with the rest of the list in the afternoon, Can closing unchanged at 116 3-4 and Baldwin showing a net gain of 1-2 at 128 1-8. U. S Steel closed at 103, off 1-8, and Studebaker was unchanged at 101 5-8.

Kresge, making its first appearance in sometime, jumped 20 points to 335, a record top, on one sale of ten shares. General Electric touched 225 3-4, its highest price since 1903 and an extreme gain of 7 points, buying being influenced by reports of a capital readjustment which would be favorable to stockholders. National Lead closed nearly 5 points higher at 140.

Wilson Packing preferred broke 13 points to 45, a new low in response to the passing of the dividend. United Cigar Stores broke 15 1-2 points to 190 on one sale. Market Street Railway prior preferred also established a new low at 44 1-4, off 3 3-4, on the passing of the dividend. Late selling was directed principally against the tire stocks, Kelly-Springfield being hammered down more than 3 points to 20 1-2, the lowest this year.

Copper improved on the French confirmation that Premier Poincare had informed American bankers, prior to the granting of the recent $100,000,000 loan that the Dawes report would prove acceptable to France. American Smelting led the advance, moving up more than 2 points to 63 1-4, buying of this issue also being influenced by rumors of an extra dividend in April. Oils were irregular, renewed selling breaking out in the Pan-American issues. Recent advances in crude prices have resulted in increased activity of the shares of some of the smaller companies, such as Superior, which have contracted for their output at prevailing market prices and of companies like Marland and Texas Company that have large quantities in storage.

In the railroad group Wabash preferred A touched 46 3-4, the highest since 1917, on reports of an early resumption of payments. Southern Railway held close to yesterday's final prices despite a large volume of profit-taking. Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred also expected to benefit by early dividend action, touched a new 1924 top at 48 3-4. Chesapeake and Ohio closed nearly 3 points higher at 74 3-8.

Call money was unchanged at 4 per cent. An easier tone developed in the time money market, banks lowering their asking price to 4 3-4 and brokers bidding 4 1-2, some 30-day loans being arranged at the lower figure. Commercial paper held steady at 4 1-4 per cent.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was irregular. Reconversion of sterling credits into French francs created demand sterling down more than a cent to around $4.28, while French francs made further recovery by crossing 4.70 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 14.—First indications that the deterrent effects of March income tax payments on bond trading were being removed came today in a revival of speculative interest, which stimulated activity and higher prices throughout the list. Responding to the improved outlook for railroads, indicated by the inauguration of Southern Railway common dividend, numerous second grade rail issues moved higher. A renewed demand for the St. Paul 4s of 1925 brought a recovery of 1 1-2 points, and active inquiry for Seaboard, New Haven and Prisco obligations took these bonds into higher ground.

In the face of the omission of the preferred dividend by Wilson and Company, the bond issues moved higher, the convertible 6s gaining more than two points and the first 6s a point. Abandonment of the company's plan to issue prior preference stock apparently, was construed as a favorable development for bondholders. Foreign bonds held firm today as trading interest in them quieted down.

With the tax payments out of the way, an increased volume of new financing is expected to appear in the market next week. Prospects include several sizeable public utility and industrial issuts.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 14.—Corn prices underwent a sudden tumble today largely as a result of liquidating sales and because of absence of the aggressive rural support which recently had checked. Closing quotations on corn were heavy, 1 1-8 to 2c net lower, May 77 7-8c. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c off, May $1.05 3-4 to $1.05 7-8 and July $1.06 3-8@1-2 to $1.06 1-2, with oats varying from 1-8c down to 1-8c gain, and provisions at 2c setback to a rise of 5c.

At first the corn market showed an upward tendency owing to unfavorable weather and to smallness of country offerings. However, the fact that demand was slow from shippers here and from industries had a depressing influence, which especially in the last half of the day more than counterbalanced the outlook that the corn movement from first hands would be restricted. Corn selling on the part of speculators, who were simultaneously purchasing wheat was also a bearish factor in the corn market, and so, too, was dislodgement of numerous standing orders to sell corn at certain levels in order to stop losses that otherwise might have been incurred.

Wheat, although somewhat affected by the weakness of corn had a firmer tone than for several days past. Enlarged European buying on this side of the Atlantic appeared to be chiefly responsible. It was estimated that in the last two days four million bushels of Canadian wheat had been purchased for shipment to Europe.

Seeding delays steadied the oats market.

Provisions averaged lower with corn and hogs. May lard went under the season's previous bottom price.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 14.—Conflicting price movements took place in today's curb market, most of the activity, however, being on the upside. Active oils such as Standard of Indiana, Vacuum, Mutual and International showed only nominal changes on the day. Expectations of an extra dividend on Prairie Oil and Gas did not materialize, the stock fluctuating within a 2 point range and closing at 147 for a gain of 1 1-2 points. Chesebrough broke 11 points to 405 on a small turnover.

Strength and activity of Dubilier Radio, which climbed more than 2 points to 32, a record top, featured the industrial list. Ford Motors of Canada jumped 3 points to 475. Glen Alden Coal moved up a point but Kresge and Lehigh Power securities fell back on profit taking.

MOODUS JUDGE'S WILL REMEMBERED MANY RELATIVES

The will of the late Judge Albert E. Purple, Moodus, was admitted to probate by Judge Walton Hall, Jr., in the probate court at Moodus Saturday afternoon.

The only public bequests in the will are $5,000 to the Middlesex hospital, $5,000 to the East Haddam public library, and $2,000 to the Moodus Cemetery association.

Judge Purple's nearest relatives were first and second cousins. To them are sequeathed as follows:

To Ellen Purple Sawyer, $2,000; Fanny Purple Hinsdale of Portland, $2,000; Miss Abbie L. Purple of Moodus, $3,000; Mrs. Emma Purple Manee of Moodus, $2,000; Mrs. Allen Purple Manee of New Britain, $2,000; Mrs. Addie Williams, Mrs. George H. Ventres, Edward E. Smith, Albert W. Smith, Miss Bertha Smith, Miss Esther Smith, John C. Church and Mary Church, of East Haddam, $2,000 each; to Mrs. Susan Church Tracy of East Haddam, $3,000; Samuel P. Clark of Moodus, $10,000; Henry Squire of Union City, $2,000; Louisa Squire Warner, Jane Squire Way and Alice Squire Gager, $2 000 each; to Minnie Clark Boles of Waterbury, $2,000. Several of the legatees are dead and their legacies become lapsed.

The will also gave $15,000 for the building of a library building in Moodus, but as Judge Purple built the building during his life at more than twice that amount, this legacy is also lapsed.

Miss Belle Hayward of Colchester, Miss Nellie G. Tryon of Windsor and Miss Sylvira J. Arnold of Moodus, personal friends of the testator are given $2,000 each.

The residue of the estate, both real and personal, is given to Arthur J. Silliman of Moodus, a friend and business associate of the testator for many years. Mr. Silliman is named as executor and has begun the settlement of the estate.

The appraisers are Charles H. Rogers and Charles H. Emily. The estate is estimated from $800 000 to $1,000,000.

Judge Purple made provision in his will that in case Mr. Silliman should not survive him, then the entire residue of his estate should go the town of East Haddam for the establishment and maintenance of a school in Moodus.

At the time of his death Judge Purple was the largest exclusive manufacturer of cotton twine in the world.

FORMER NORWICH MAN DIED IN NEW JERSEY

Amos Andrews, of 1068 North avenue, Netherwood ,Plainfield, N. J., died about 5 o'clock Monday evening March 10, in Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, where he was taken Sunday March 2 for an operation for internal trouble. The operation was performed the following day but it was seen that the chances for recovery were slight Mr. Andrews had been ill for about a month but did not give up until finally obliged to do so.

Surviving are his wife, who was Miss Frances Franklin, a brother Gustavus Andrews of Jewett City, Conn.; two sisters, Mrs. [illegible] Walker, of Norwich, Conn. and Mrs. Catherine Wells, of Providence Rhode Island; three nieces, Mrs. Floyd May of Norwich, Mrs. Lavina Bliss of Providence and Mrs. Ayers of Norwich and two nephews, James Andrews of Plainfield and Warren Andrews of Norwich.

Mr. Andrews was born in Norwich, June 21, 1850. In early life he took a desire to enter the Navy, and was able to do so, beginning a career at the age of twelve on the flagship of Admiral Farragut, who was the first man to hold the title of Admiral of the U. S. Navy. Mr. Andrews had some thrilling experiences. After Farragut lost his flagship "Tecumseh" by a torpedo, he still determined to force the passage of Mobile Bay. August 5, 1864, and when warned of the danger of torpedoes, standing high up the mast head, to see his course, he shouted: "Damn the torpedoes! Steam ahead!" In after years Mr. Andrews used to think of the old Admiral's determination that day, as he overcame obstacles in the way of his work.

Returning to Norwich after the war Mr. Andrews was employed for some years with the Potter Printing Press plant, up to 1890, when this plant was removed to Plainfield, by the president of the company, the late Charles Potter. Two years later Mr. Andrews went to Plainfield and resumed work with the Potter Co.

On March 25, 1874, Mr. Andrews married Miss Frances Franklin of Norwich, who survives him. They have lived in Plainfield forty-three years and were anticipating the observance of their golden wedding.

On July 1, 1891 Mr. Andrews was appointed superintendent of the newly inaugurated public water supply system for Plainfield. He saw the development of the service, the installation of extensive equipment, the increased number and increased depth of the driven wells, and lived a busy life looking after the Plainfield water service.

He also was drafted into local politics at different times accepting the election as republican delegate to the county and city conventions of his party, but never sought nor held political office.

He was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., which he joined April 3, 1900; a member of Plainfield lodge of Elks and of Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias. He was one of the charter members of Hope Chapel.

The funeral of Mr. Andrews was held here Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the home of his niece, Mrs. Floyd C. May, No. 19 Oak street. The service was conducted by Rev. D. A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church. There was a large attendance and there were many beautiful floral forms.

The bearers were Floyd C. May, Lloyd V. May, Warren Andrews and W. B. Heideloff. Burial took place in Yantic cemetery and a committal service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Pitt. Relatives and friends were present from Jewett City, New London and other places.

The body was brought here from New Jersey Friday morning and was brought from New London by Undertaker C. A. Gager, who was in charge of the local funeral arrangements.

After a man has tried in vain to borrow a few paltry dollars you can't convince him that the world isn't growing wiser.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the over-fat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly, and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a box, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4613 Woodward Ave. Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a box of Marmalo Prescription Tablets.

TAFTVILLE

The trolley tracks on lower Norwich avenue were being repaired by a gang of men employed by the Connecticut Co., Friday.

Frank Bolque of Hunters avenue has been a recent visitor with friends in Bristol, Conn.

Stanley Recave of Occum was in Boston, Mass., Friday attending the automobile show.

William T. Delaney of South A St., has been a visitor in Hartford this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gley and daughter who have been residing with Mrs. Gley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Pilling of Providence Street for the past few months, moved on Thursday into one of the apartments in the new house recently erected for Jack Hall on Norwich avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Bibeau and family of Hunters avenue who have been obliged to give up their house there, have been unable to find another and have moved to Baltic to reside temporarily.

The O. J. S. met Wednesday evening with Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis at her home on North Third avenue.

Miss Edith Louise Heap of South Second avenue is the guest of her cousin, Miss Edna Baldwin of Plainfield.

Albert Nolan, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Nolan of the Canterbury Turnpike, is a patient at the Backus hospital.

Miss Dorothy Wood of the State Normal school of Willimantic is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family of South Second Avenue, for the week end.

Louis Glaude of Terrace avenue has been able to give some information about Daniel Byron, who died suddenly Wednesday at his rooms in the Ponemah House. Mr. Glaude knew Mr. Byron well for forty years and at one time roomed with him at Haverhill, Mass., and lived near him in Occum. He is said to have a brother and sister residing in Providence, R. I. and efforts are being made to locate them.

Assistant Postmaster Edward V. Murphy announced Friday that money orders payable in francs would be accepted until further notice at the fice cent franc rate. Last week when the franc was beaten down in the foreign exchange markets, the notice was posted at the local postoffice that the four cent rate would prevail.

Joseph Carrigman of North A St., has resigned his position with the Ponemah Company.

DRINK, DESERTION AND CRUELTY GROUNDS FOR THREE DIVORCES

Three divorces, all for different reasons, were granted by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court short calendar and motion list session at New London Friday morning.

A divorce was granted to Helen P. Austin of Woburn, Mass., from Herman W. Austin of Norwich, after Mrs. Austin had proven to the satisfaction of Judge Avery that her husband had been intolerably cruel to her. They were married June 10, 1903, but, according to testimony had been married only about a month when her husband began treating her so cruelly that she was forced to leave him. The wife was granted change of name to Helen F. French.

Howard P. Oram of New London was granted a divorce from Mona Converse Oram on grounds of desertion. The couple were married May 1, 1919, and Mrs. Oram deserted her husband Feb. 2, 1920.

How the drinking habits of her husband, Walter S. Hunt, a public accountant, formerly in business in New London, had wrecked their married life was related by Mrs. Florence Duffell Hunt of Waterford, who was granted a divorce and allowed to resume her maiden name of Florence Duffell. Mr. Hunt is now believed to be in New York.

The couple were married in London, England, on Aug. 21, 1906. Both came from very prominent families, and the match was considered an ideal one. Hunt, according to his wife's testimony, had drunk considerably while in college in England, but she thought that when he came to this country and got away from his old associates, he would give up the habit. He did for a long time, she said, but a few years ago the desire to "get out with the boys" proved overwhelming and his excursions from the straight and narrow began to occur with increasing frequency.

Hunt was a certified public accountant and possessed unusually alert and acute business acumen, and his services at the Groton Iron Works plant, where he held the important position of chief accountant, are said to have been invaluable. After the closing of that plant he opened accounting and auditing offices in New London, and a brilliant future was predicted for him.

But—soon after opening the New London offices, he started to drink again, and the habit, according to the testimony of his wife, soon was his master and he went off on "sprees" that lasted from three days to weeks at a time, generally as long as his money lasted. On one occasion he took $1,000 and went to New York, where he spent the $1,000 in ten days, she said. His attention to his business depreciated and finally dwindled away entirely.

Finally last spring he was arrested in Norwich for driving an automobile under the influence of liquor and fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail, execution of the latter being suspended, the wife says. He came home to New London and secured some money with which to pay damages which he had incurred in Norwich, and left for that city to settle them. Mrs. Hunt has not heard from him since that date to this and she expressed that thought that he is dead.

Indirectly, however, friends in New London have learned that Mr. Hunt is working in New York city.

The suits of Frank Kessler vs. Mary Crane Kessler and Marie Forthier Couillard vs. Joseph A. Couillard went off the list and the case of Emily Marra vs. Daniel E. Marra was postponed.

MOTOR TRUCK OVERLOADS DECREASING IN STATE

Prior to the adoption of a policy of more rigid enforcement of motor truck weight laws in this state some months ago, overloading was practiced extensively, according to statistics in Connecticut by the state highway department and the U. S. Bureau of Public roads.

An analysis of loaded trucks over an extended period showed that 29.6 per cent. were loaded above rated capacity. In regard to the situation, J. Gordan McKay, highway economist for the Bureau of Public Roads, in his preliminary report, said:

"Motor truck overloading is an uneconomical practice and forces a state to constantly police its highway system to prevent it. The influence of highway law enforcement in Connecticut is shown by the large decline in such cases during the past year. This decrease is partly due to a realization by motor truck owners of the rapid depreciation of their vehicles when constantly overloaded, but primarily the decrease is due to police enforcement of the Connecticut laws regulating truck loads.

"Frequent police inspection and weighing of loaded motor vehicles suspected of being loaded above capacity tends to decrease the practice, especially if the penalty for overloading is sufficient to discourage a repetition of the offense. Efficiently organized motor trucking companies realize the damage to truck equipment when overloaded and regulate loads to the carrying capacity of the trucks.

MISSIONARY FROM ASSAM IS TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. W. E. Witter who is to speak at First Baptist church, Sunday evening needs no introduction to many American Baptists .Because of his services as district secretary for over twenty years and as a missionary on the foreign field, hundreds have come to know this enthusiastic, consecrated and indefatigable Christian worker.

Back in the early eighties, after he had secured his B. A. and M. A. degrees from University of Rochester and had been graduated from Rochester Theological Seminary, he was sent as a missionary to work among the Assamese and Khois in Shillongor, one of the most Northern states in Assam. Later he went to the Lhota Nagas in the Naga Hills. He returned home on furlough and secured his M. D., degree. It was impossible for him to return to the foreign field so he was appointed a secretary of the Missionary Society.

He was eager to get back to the field in other lands so was sent with Mrs. Witter to begin work with the students of Cotton College, the only college in the province of Assam with its 7,000,000 people. Dr. and Mrs. Witter had remarkable experiences with the young men of this college, many of whom will be the leaders of tomorrow. During their last year in Assam these two missionaries were able to make valuable additions to the Christian literature in Assamese, translating books, pamphlets and booklets.

PAPERS ON PROGRAMME FOR LEBANON D. A. R.

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., met in Lebanon this week in the parlors of the First Congregational church. The afternoon's programme postponed from the February meeting, consisted of the following. How the School Fund Started, by Miss Annie Gillette; Sketches from the Life of Washington, by Mrs. Myron Smith; Sketches fro mthe Life of Lincoln, by Mrs. David Pitcher.

The hostesses were Mrs. Otto Pultz and Mrs. Ray Manning.

From the earliest times furs have had a remarkable fascination for women. The women of ancient Greece, Rome and Assyria all made lavish use of furs.

BOOK REVIEW GIVEN FOR MISSIONS DEPARTMENT

The monthly meeting of the missions department of the Woman's Federation of Park Congregational church was held in the parlors of the Osgood Memorial Parish House on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, chairman presided. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. George L. Ingalls. Mrs. Charles A. Saxton played the accompaniments for the hymns.

The subject of the afternoon was Home Missions. After reading the minutes of the last meeting, the secretary, Mrs. John S. Blackmar read a very appreciative letter from the missionary in Plummer, Idaho to which several boxes of clothing had been sent.

A very interesting and comprehensive review of the home mission study book, entitled, "The Debt Eternal," by John H. Finley was given by Miss Helen Marshall. The subject matter of the book is children. The eternal debt which maturity owes to children is education. The book deals with the various franchises of education fo rthe child, the great importance of the right training in the home, the necessity of play and recreation for the right development of the child, the value of all the health work that has been started, and the great need of enforcing the child labor laws. The last chapter laid great importance on the church's work for the child.

During the meeting sewing was done for the hospital, the work being in charge of Mrs. Charles A. Saxton.

At the close of the meeting "Gratitude Gifts" bags were distributed by Mrs. R. F. Smith. They are to be returned at the October meeting.

Mrs. Payson presided at the tea table. The committee serving tea consisted of Mrs. Franklin Wilson, chairman, Mrs. L. O. Smith, Mrs. Payson, Miss Cyrus Woodman and Miss Margaret Sayles.

FREEMAN TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION THIS YEAR

Congressman Richard P. Freeman, of New London, according to an Associated Press despatch from Washington, has stated that he will be a candidate for re-election this year. In discussing matters of Connecticut interest Congressman Freeman explained why he voted for the compromise tax bill which passed the house, reaffirming his opposition to any kind of a bonus and to restrictive immigration bills. He also touched on another matter of state interest, pollution of waters by manufacturing interests.

Regarding the tax bill, for which Congressman Freeman and Mr. O'Sullivan voted and against which Congressmen Fenn, Merritt and Tilson were recorded, the Second District congressman said: "I saw no use in voting against the compromise measure. It is better than the present law and so I voted for that much relief. But, of course, I wanted the Mellon plan and supported it on every occasion possible.

Mr. Freeman is against any sort of a bonus bill, including the insurance plan. "The main thing to do is to prevent a cash bonus. If a bonus bill with the insurance feature is passed today even without any provision by which veterans can borrow on the insurance policy, the great danger is that in a year or two tremendous pressure will be put upon congress to authorize the borrowing feature. So I won't support any possible opening wedge for a cash bonus, in effect if not in name," said Mr. Freeman.

"The veterans will get pensions later on, anyway. They will get service pensions whether they are disabled or not after a while," he added.

As for the immigration problem, on which many communications have come from Connecticut organizations to Washington, Congressman Freeman indicated that he would be inclined to oppose even the bill reported out by the senate immigration committee which would make the quotas 2 per cent. on the census of 1910, as compared with the present 3 per cent. on the census of 1910.

"I think I should favor more extended immigration to this country, together with some means of selecting the immigrants and certain measures for controlling their location here—as between the city and the country—until they become citizens. There is no need to let them congregate as one or two big cities; we could send them to the farms and so forth," said the congressman.

The rivers and harbors committee of the house, of which Mr. Freeman is ranking member, will soon report a bill aimed to prohibit the dumping of oil from vessels into harbors and tidewater. Mr. Freeman, during the illness of the committee chairman, has been presiding at hearings on this matter.

But of larger interest to Connecticut, perhaps, is another proposal, which the committee is expected to favor, authorizing an investigation into the pollution of inland waters by industrial plants through the dumping of oil, acids and waste materials. However, this question is not of immediate concern since the investigators would not make a report for two years.

CAMP FIRE CEREMONIAL FOR GUILD MEETING

With a good sized attendance the Womans Guild of the United Congregational church held its March meeting Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the Community House. Mrs. Charles Tyler Bacon, the president, presided at the meeting at which considerable routine business was transacted. Following the business meeting there was a ceremonial by the various groups of Camp Fire girls connected with the United Church, which lasted about an hour and a half. There were Camp Fire songs, ceremonies of various kinds and several new members were received by the different groups.

During the business meeting the members discussed the plans for the organ recital to be given next month by F. W. Lester, assisted by Henry J. LaFontaine.

number of Foresters who had entered the different branches of the service during the world war, and that 2,000 had made the supreme sacrifice. He also made reference to Mother's day and said that in observing it we would honor our best friend, one who has taught us how to follow the teachings that would enable us to become both better citizens and Americans.

The principal speaker of the evening was Supreme Secretary T. M. Donnelly of Jersey City. In opening, Mr. Donnelly said if he were to choose the jewel of words of the languages of the world it could not begin to praise Court City of Norwich for its work. Faces that have inspired the continuance of the fine work that has been accomplished by the older real American men with real American blood are the types that the nation stands for in order that we may go along with greater strength and enthusiasm so that this organization may be extended to every fireside in these United States.

He told how the organization develops companionship and friendship in order to bring its members closer together and that without them we were absolutely poor and destitute. He likened the Foresters of America to Napoleon and his drummer, when he ordered him to beat a retreat when he thought that he was facing defeat. The drummer insisted that he beat a charge and not retreat and at last the mighty general gave consent and a retreating army took courage and once more was turned forward and to victory. The Foresters never beat a retreat but on the other hand always beat the order to charge.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered the speakers and the Donnelly-Cavanaugh class was immediately formed. Practically everyone in the hall pledged themselves to secure at least one new member within the next two months. The entertainment committee served light refreshments and the members also enjoyed two boxing bouts before good-nights were said.

WOMEN OF MOOSEHEART

The Women of Mooseheart, Norwich Chapter, No. 124, met in the Moose home, Thursday evening with a good sized attendance. The Senior Regent, Mrs. Anna Crowe, presided at the meeting. The chapter has voted to hold a food sale sometime this month. Immediately following the next regular meeting there will be a social time for the mothers and daughters and refreshments will be served by the committee.

GROSVENORDALE DIVORCE FROM NORWICH WOMAN

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 14.—In the Windham superior court here today, Judge George Hinman presiding:

The final divorce of the day was granted Henry V. Anderson, of North Grosvenordale, from Mildred Irene Anderson, now of Norwich. This couple married in Voluntown, July 8, 1916. Mrs. Anderson deserted her husband May 13, 1922, and has since remained apart from him. In the meantime a child has been born to her at Norwich, June 31, 1923. Mr. Anderson told the court that he visited his wife at a mill in Norwich Falls last year and at the time she informed him she expected to become a mother in about a month. He said he inquired who was the father of her expected child and that she told him it was none of his business. A record showing the birth of this child was introduced as evidence.

Mrs. Anderson is now living with Mr. and Mrs. Alvar Anderson in Norwich. Alvar Anderson is a brother of Henry V. Anderson, the plaintiff in the case. Both Mr. and Mrs. Alvar Anderson were witnesses at the hearing of the case here Friday and testified that they had knowledge of the birth of the child to Mrs. Henry V. Anderson in June of last year. Their home is on Sherman street, Norwich.

Judge Hinman granted the divorce on the grounds of adultery and gave Mr. Anderson custody of three children born of the marriage, these children now being supported by him and in the care of his mother at North Grosvenordale.

"Mother Carey."

The telephone bell rang and a faithful reader said: "We all knew that sailors call the stormy petrel Mother Carey's chicken, but who was Mother Carey? I've asked several shipmasters, but they're as ignorant as I am." Inasmuch as the ultramarine reporter was absent on assignment, it was necessary to consult the reference books, with this result: "The name Mother Carey is possibly corrupted from the Latin mater cara (dear mother), in allusion to the Virgin Mary." The explanation is plausible, at least. Sailors of old carried their religion with them, even when they embarked on a voyage of plunder, and it is reasonable to suppose they directed their prayers to the Virgin when the stormy petrel gave warning of heavy weather.—New York Evening Post.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

Headed for the Old Bramble Patch

The stage on Letture Avenue
Was crowded in and out,
When all of a sudden, the driver heard
Little Jack Rabbit shout:
"Stop! I want to take Uncle Dave
Up to the Bramble Patch,
Where Lady Love is waiting for us
To lift the wooden latch."

"Whoa!" shouted the old dog driver and the next minute the little bunny and Uncle Dave had hopped aboard. Taking two carrot dimes from his pocket, the rabbit boy slipped them into the slot machine.

Then the Policeman Dog waved the paw and blew his whistle and across Turnip street rattled the coach. Hitching up his knapsack, the little bunny smiled at the fat gander conductor and said:

"I'm going right back
To the Old Bramble Patch
Where the front gate is locked
Every night with a latch.
To keep Danny Fox from slipping in
When every one's sound asleep.
He's a tip-top Fox in his woolen sox
Oh my, he can softly creep."

"Well, well, well," said the kind gander conductor, "you're a nice little bunny."

"Do you read the Rabbitville News?"

"No, my little rabbit boy," answered the gander conductor. "It is good for a smile and a laugh for a while?"

"Well, I should say yes three times. There's a story about me every night, but not on Sunday. That day nobody knows what I do," answered the little rabbit winking his nose at Uncle Dave maybe a million times more or less.

"I hope you won't do anything you shouldn't," whispered the conductor man. "You look like such a nice little bunny."

"Goodness no," he answered. "Lean over and I'll tell you." As soon as the kind gander conductor lowered his head, the little rabbit whispered in his

"I help my mother up to noon
So after luncheon I can go
To call on Cousin Cottontail
Down where the brambles grow.
I hop along the Old Cow Path
Beside the Bubbling Brook
Until I come to an old Brush Heap
In a safe and cosy nook.

Sometimes I spend the afternoon with the little Cottontails. It's lots of fun."

Just then the old stage coach stopped and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

HOUSE TO VOTE ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL TOMORROW

Estimated List is $2,119,000,000, Spread Over Twenty Years—Bill Provides for Paid-Up 20-Year Endowment Life Insurance Policies and Cash Payments to Veterans Not Entitled to More Than $50—Congressman Tillson is One of Four Members Who Will Present a Minority Report That Will Oppose the Bonus, Declaring it an "Unsound Principle."

Washington, March 16.—The report of the house ways and means committee on the new soldier bonus bill which will be presented to the house tomorrow and vted on Tuesday, was made public today by Chairman Green, estimating the maximum cost of the measure at $2,119,000,690, spread over twenty years. The cost, the report said, could be met by anticipated savings in current expenses of the government.

A minority report signed by four republican members of the committee—Representatives Treadway, Massachusetts, Tilson, Connecticut, Watson, Pennsylvania, and Mills, New York—attacks the giving of a bonus as an "unsound principle" and declared its cost would limit tax reduction in future years.

The bill provides for paid-up 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation.

Proponents of the measure predict its passage Tuesday although a two-thirds majority will be necessary, the bill coming up under suspension of the rules which limits debate and prohibits amendments.

Members of the democratic veterans' group were disturbed today because they had been denied the opportunity under the rules of offering an amendment providing for full cash payments as an option of the measure, but leaders indicated most of them would vote for the bill and depend on senate action for the full cash payment option.

Twenty-one of the 23 democratic members from New York state signed a statement today declaring they favored passage of soldier bonus legislation, but preferred "immediate all-cash payments."

Chairman Green in his report said two bonus bills had passed the house and one of them both the senate and house. The latter, he said, was vetoed by President Harding, but the present measure was framed "so that it will become law." It would confer substantial benefits on the soldiers, he said. Its cost will be capable of accurate and definite determination and the necessary appropriations could be made without embarrassing the treasury.

The average of the insurance policies would be $962. The policies would be valued on the basis of the adjusted service compensations provided in the vetoed bill, $1 for each day of home service and $1.25 for each day overseas. The first sixty days would not be counted.

Veterans who served more than 110 days and who would not be entitled to cash would receive a paid-up 20-year endowment policy for the amount of insurance their adjusted service credit plus 25 per cent would purchase at their age.

Such insurance would be computed in accordance with accepted actuarial principles and based upon American experience tables of mortality, with interest at 4 per cent per annum, compounded annually.

"If the veteran dies before the 20 years are up, the full amount of the policy would be paid his beneficiaries or his estate. At maturity the face value of the policy would be payable in full. The policies would be dated from next January 1.

The majority report estimated the average adjusted compensation due veterans would be $382 each. The maximum number of days which could be counted at 560. Service any time between April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1919, would be counted if enlistment was made prior to Nov. 11, 1918. Adjusted service credit of $496.63 would be worth a policy valued at $1,000.

Chairman Green estimated that on Jan. 1, 1924, there were 3,038,288 veterans living and who would be entitled to the insurance policies and 189,583 veterans who served from 91 to 110 days who would be entitled to the cash payments. Also there were 183,805 veterans who died prior to Jan. 1 this year and whose dependents would be entitled to the adjusted service compensation in ten annual installments. The average age of veterans was figured at 33 years, as of Jan. 1, 1924. Officers above the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenant in the navy would be eligible for the bonus.

The cash payments might be made, Mr. Green said, within the calendar year, if the bill is passed, although insurance policies would not be dated until Jan. 1, 1925.

Loans could be made on the policies after two years from the date of issuance at banks incorporated under the laws of a state, territory or District of Columbia, and the rate of interest could not be higher than two per cent more than the federal reserve rates for the district in which the loaning bank is situated. Loans could not exceed 90 per cent of the reserve value of the certificate for the current year nor 60 per cent of the face value at any time.

The following table shows the loan values at various years of a $1,000 policy:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 | $87.93 | 12 | $436.50 |
| 3 | 109.99 | 13 | 484.50 |
| 5 | 153.52 | 14 | 525.84 |
| 6 | 188.61 | 15 | 589.19 |
| 7 | 225.32 | 16 | 645.22 |
| 8 | 263.75 | 17 | 704.09 |
| 9 | 303.98 | 18 | 766.02 |
| 10 | 346.12 | 19 | 831.23 |
| 11 | 390.23 | 20 | 900.00 |

To meet the costs of the bill a sinking fund would be created for which $100,000,000 will be appropriated annually. The funds necessary to meet the cash payments as well as payments to dependents of deceased veterans in the first year are estimated at about $133,000,000. This cost would decrease annually, it is figured, to $90,835,230 in the nineteenth year.

The minority report declared that "while we have a great deal of sympathy for the proposition that in time of war all citizens whether drafted for military service or performing necessary economic labors, should be paid as nearly as possible on the same basis, on the theory that in time of national danger all men's persons and time should be at the disposal of their country, we believe it to be impossible to readjust this inequality today without grave economic loss to all our people which, of course, includes the veterans themselves."

The minority members declared for legislation which would be beneficial to the wounded and dead veterans and their dependents. The minority report pointed out that an appropriation of $135,000,000 would be necessary in the first year of operation of the bill and that "the revenue bill recently adopted by the house reduced taxes to a point where, in accordance with the treasury estimate, they will not only wipe out all prospective surplus, but, in all probability, create a deficit for that calendar year."

"In the face of these facts," the report said, "for congress to create a new and continuing obligation for some years to come without providing the revenue to meet that obligation is, in our judgment, a very unsound practice."

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET

New York, March 16.—(By the A. P.)—Developments in the foreign market overshadowed events in other departments of finance and business during the past week. Well-posted observers believed that France's declaration of her intent to balance the national budget, the arrangement of large French credits abroad and the extraordinary rally in the franc, marked the beginning of a new phase in post-war financial history.

In rallying approximately 1 1-2 cents during the week to 4¾ cents, the franc reflected both heavy covering operations by speculative and commercial interests which were short of this currency, and a restoration of confidence in the French financial position. This confidence was fed both by the explicit declarations for reforms by the French government and by the belief that the bankers who arranged the credits in the United States must have received strong assurances as to the French fiscal and foreign policy.

The broader aspect of the question, and that creating most interest, was the impending report of the Dawes committee and the changes for reparations settlement. There was considerable optimism in the best informed quarters over the outlook. The opinion was widely held that the franc had swung the balance too far against France and was likely to increase the difficulty of dealing with Germany.

FRENCH SENATE VOTES TO SUPPRESS MATCH MONOPOLY

Paris, March 16—(By the A. P.)—The senate today voted the suppression of the match monopoly, 168 to 119, after the government had made the vote a question of confidence. Thus the senate refused to follow the opinion of its finance committee, which opposed supression. The four hours' debate turned chiefly on whether state industries were practicable or advisable.

M. De Lasteyrie, the finance minister, in advocating suppression of the monopoly said that the state profits from matches came from those it bought abroad and resold in France, not from those it manufactured. The United States was cited as an example in favor of a company-owned telephone service, which, the minister declared, was superior to a state-owned service. He promised to watch out that no match trust was formed.

TO DISCONTINUE SUNDAY AFTERNOON EDITIONS

New York, March 16.—Discontinuance of the Sunday afternoon editions of the New York Telegram and Evening Mail was announced today by Frank A. Munsey, who consolidated The Mail with The Telegram when he recently purchased the former. Today's were the last Sunday issues of this evening paper. The week-day consolidated editions will continue.

The Telegram, formerly one of the Bennett properties, began issuing Sunday afternoon editions during the war.

PROCESS SERVERS HAVE LOCATED JAMES G. DARDEN

Washington, March 16.—Process servers of the senate finally have located James G. Darden, formerly of New York and Washington, who has been sought by both the oil and Daugherty committees.

A subpoena for Mr. Darden—"Colonel," Darden, as he is known in Washington—was issued a month ago by the oil committee which desires to question him in connection with a claim he tried to enforce in Teapot Dome.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jacob Ruppert

New York, March 16.—Mrs. Jacob Ruppert, mother of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York American league baseball club, died of heart failure at her Fifth avenue home today after several weeks' illness. She was 82 years old.

Colonel Ruppert and three other children, George Ruppert, Mrs. H. G. Silleck and Mrs. Anne Schalk, were at her bedside. Her husband, the late Jacob Ruppert, was founder of The Ruppert Brewing interests.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ruppert will be held on Tuesday at her home.

Prince's Injuries Not Serious.

London, March 16 (By the A. P.)—The Prince of Wales, who was injured Saturday when he came a cropper in the steeplechase of the army point-to-point meeting at Arborfield, will have to rest up during the week, although his condition was said to be not serious.

EXPERTS AGREE UPON REPARATION REPORT

Paris, March 16 (By the A. P.)—The report of the first committee of experts under Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, which is practically agreed upon by the experts, though the working out of some details and the drawing up of the text may require another week, is based on these fundamental findings:

The German people must pay as much in taxes as any of the people of the allied countries. Germany must pay the maximum of her capacity in reparations. The German economic machine must be free to function under German control, unhindered by any interference from the outside.

Minimum sums must be paid at once, or in the immediate future on reparations, these to be increased in proportion to the revival of Germany's prosperity and according to her economic condition.

In order to put Germany in a position to carry out her part of the programme, which the report will suggest to the reparation commission on the basis of these general principles, the experts propose to set up an international bank, to have exclusive right to the issue of German currency on a gold basis. The bank plan provides for the cooperation of the allies and neutral nations with the Germans in supplying capital and in the management of the institution, which is to be located in some country neutral in the late war.

The capital of the bank remains to be fixed; indications are that it will be in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 of which half will come from Germany and the remainder from abroad. Foreign subscribers to loans to raise the necessary amount or to the capital if final arrangements are so provided will be secured by a lien on Germany's productive monopolies.

The setting up of a bank of issue is expected not only to assure permanent stability of the mark, but to furnish a flexible medium through which reparation payments may be effected without resorting to the purchase of foreign money with marks, with the consequent risk of another depreciation in Germany's money.

WILBUR MAY MAKE TRIP TO WASHINGTON BY AIRPLANE

San Francisco, March 16.—Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy-elect and present chief justice of the California supreme court has taken under advisement an offer to go to Washington by airplane. The aviator making the offer did not disclose his name.

Chief Justice Wilbur has disclosed that for several months past he has been writing a children's story—"Johnny and His Magic Vest" in which "Johnny" makes Uncle Sam master of all oceans.

"As secretary of the navy that may sound like a navy policy," the cabinet appointee laughed. "But remember, it's only a children's story."

VOTE TO ACCEPT THE OFFER OF E. L. DOHENY.

Los Angeles, March 16—Directors of the Pan-American Petroleum and transport company at a meeting here yesterday, voted to accept the offer of Edward L. Doheny, chairman of the board, to guarntee the company against any loss it may sustain by reason of continuing work upon the naval fuel oil station at Pearl Harbor, territor yof Hawaii, it was announced by Mr. Doheny tonight.

In accepting the offer of Mr. Doheny, members of the board expressed their "appreciation and admiration of his patriotism in giving the guarantee and thus assuring the completion of a project so essential to the naval defense of the Pacific coast. The Panama Canal and this country's island possessions."

GERMANS EMIGRATING TO SOUTH AMERICA

Cologne, March 16.—Emigration from western Germany to South America is attaining large proportions. During the last six months thousands pf Germans have gone to Brazil. This month 7,000 emigrants will leave Baden and Wurtemberg for Paraguay where the Paraguayan government is making each man a grant of from twenty-five to fifty acres along the railway line. The emigrants are traveling in steamers owned by Hugo Stinnes. They are taking with them quantities of domestic agricultural machinery. They intend to make up a colony composed exclusively of people from Baden and Wurttemberg.

COOLIDGE MEMBER OF PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY

New York, March 16.—President Coolidge has accepted the position of honorary associate of the Philharmonic Society of New York, the directors announced today. He is the first president of the United States asked to join the society and the first honorary associate elected since 1900.

The society, founded in 1842, has had as honorary associates Vieuxtemps, the violinist, who was the first to hold the office on his election in 1843; Mendelssohn, Jenny Lind, Thalberg, Liszt, Wagner, Rubinstein, Theodore Thomas, Edwin Booth and Dvorak.

FRAME BUILDING IN THOMPSONVILLE BURNED

Thompsonville, Conn., March 16.—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed a two-story frame building owned by Charles Mirelli and occupied by James Ryan and Frank Avena and their families. The occupants had barely time to get out in their night clothing. Sparks from the blaze destroyed the large tobacco shed nearby belonging to Judge Arnold of Manchester, which contained many farm utensils. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Roosevelt Resents Stevenson Attack

Declare Implications made by the Representative Are "Deliberately False."

Washington, March 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy, lashed back tonight at Representative Stevenson, democrat, South Carolina, branding as deliberately false, statements made by the latter yesterday on the floor of the house to the effect that Mr. Roosevelt had profited directly or indirectly, from the naval oil leases.

Men who wilfully misrepresent facts to injure innocent men, he said in a formal statement, "are equally crooked with those who take bribes." The secretary called on "all Americans, democrat or republican, regardless of politics, who stand for honor, fair play and Americanism" to make it their business to drive such men from public office.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement issued on his return to Washington today, from a trip to New York, said: "Congressman Stevenson has attacked my personal honor, stating that I directly or indirectly profited by the naval oil leases. He has also brought my wife's name into the matter. His implications are deliberately false.

"My connection with the Sinclair company is given in the testimony. Before the war I was a director of the company and a member of a firm of bankers who helped to finance the company. I resigned my directorship and sold what stock I held during the war. The last stock interest I had, either directly or indirectly, ceased when 1,000 shares of Sinclair stock, bought by my wife in 1920, were sold at a loss by her some months before the leases were signed.

"I gave up all business at the time of the war and completely severed all my connections before I went into politics.

"I have been in no business of any kind since that time, and have made no money either directly or indirectly therefrom. Neither Mrs. Roosevelt nor I hold or have held any oil stocks other than those mentioned above, during this period. Our money is invested in bonds.

"When I returned from the war in 1919 I found my brother Archie, a wounded ex-service man with two children and no position. I spoke or telephoned to Mr. Sinclair and he was given a position. This is no more than I have done for many ex-service men since that date. At the time I got him the position it was before I had been nominated for the assembly of New York state, almost two years before I became assistant secretary of the navy and while a democratic administration was sitting in Washington.

"It so happened that I was not consulted concerning the making of the oil leases. I did not know they were being considered until after they were accomplished facts. With reference to the Teapot Dome lease in particular I never knew Mr. Sinclair was negotiating with the government on any matters, and I heard of the lease only after it was announced to the general public.

"Practically all of this appeared in the testimony nearly five months ago. Furthermore, all financial affairs of Mrs. Roosevelt and mine are at the disposal of the committees in the senate. They can have the complete list of every dollar we have had or expended since the war.

"I did not inherit my money. I made it myself before the war. I was making money before the war, in a business I had largely built up myself, more than twenty times my present salary. I gave it up and went into political life for exactly the same reason that I went to war. My wife who, incidentally like the rest of us, served in France, strongly advised me to go into politics, though the sacrifice in money bore particularly on her.

"Every crook should be punished regardless of politics or position. Equally crooked, however, with those who take bribes, is he who, cloaking himself in congressional immunity, wilfully misrepresents facts in an endeavor to injure an innocent man. Regardless of politics, such a man should be held to account."

Representative Stevenson issued a statement tonight replying to that of Mr. Roosevelt. It follows:

"In reference to Colonel Roosevelt's charge that I have slandered him or his folks the record will show that I have used only the facts presented by him and his brother, drawing inferences where they left it indefinite.

"I desire Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Sinclair to answer the questions: For what did Sinclair pay Archie Roosevelt $50,000 a year and further $5,000 a year as stated by Colonel Roosevelt at Colonel Roosevelt's request when Archie himself admits that during the last year he did practically nothing?

"This went on during the whole time that the Teapot Dome business was negotiating and Archie Roosevelt admits on examination before the senate committee that he did practically nothing during the year of 1923.

"Was this enormous salary, three times the salary of the assistant secretary of the navy (then) or what was it and why was it increased from ten to fifteen thousand dollars? I am not making charges, I am asking the question.

"Colonel Roosevelt asserts that the American people should draw me out of public life. I invite him to come down to South Carolina and canvass my district with me in joint debate on whether he or I should retire from public life. I have been in public life thirty-four years and have met all comers and am prepared to deal with Col. Roosevelt on even terms anywhere, anytime."

THE GREEN LITTLE SHAMROCK OF IRELAND

There's a dear little plant that grows in our isle,
'Twas St. Patrick himself sure, that set it;
And the sun on his labor with pleasure did smile.
And with dew from his eye often wet it.
It thrives through the bog, through the brake and the mire-land;
And he called it the dear little shamrock of Ireland—
The sweet little shamrock, the dear little shamrock,
The sweet little, green little shamrock of Ireland.

This dear little plant that springs from our soil,
When its three leaves are extended,
Denotes on one stalk we together should toil,
And ourselves by ourselves be befriended;
And still through the bog, through the brake and the mire-land,
From one root should branch, like the shamrock of Ireland,
The sweet little shamrock, the dear little shamrock,
The sweet little, green little shamrock of Ireland.

Textile and Shoe Industries are Dull

Other Industries in New England Unable to Absorb the Surplus Workers.

Boston, March 16—Part time work was general in the textile and shoe industries in New England during February, with other industries unable to absorb the surplus workers, says the monthly industrial survey of the federal employment service, issued tonight. Building operations continued active. The report by states follows:

"In Maine the employment situation throughout the state this month shows very little change over January. Some shoe factories and Textile mills are still closed, while others are on a part time basis. Not enough employment to care for those released in their individual lines. Building operations continue active and provide employment for a large number of craftsmen. Paper industry has shown improvement during the past month and all mills are running. There is sufficient farm help to meet present demand. Housing conditions as a whole are considered satisfactory.

In Connecticut practically all industries are operating, most of them on full time basis, with overtime prevalent in certain departments, and a shortage of skilled men is reported as existing in the metal trades. Clock and ball bearing industries working overtime in some parts of the state. A large amount of farm labor is employed in the tobacco warehouses. Building construction continues active and provides work for a large number of tradesmen. Housing conditions improving throughout the state.

In New Hampshire: With few exceptions all mills are operating through some are on a part time basis. Lumber industry unusually busy for the winter season. Surplus of workers in the shoe and textile industries are unable to find employment in other lines. Hosiery mills and machine shops are on a four and five day per week schedule. Building is fairly active, employing many men. Housing conditions fair throughout state. Furniture and wooden heel factories are on an overtime schedule in some sections.

In Rhode Island employment conditions continued to slow down during the month of February. Practically all textile mills are operating on a part time basis and the surplus in these lines are unable to find work. Yarn and worsted mills in certain sections are working night shifts and a shortage of skilled workmen is reported in some lines. Building construction fairly active for this period of the year with sufficient tradesmen to meet the demand.

SENATE COMMITTEE WILL TAKE UP TAX BILL TODAY

Washington, March 16.—The senate finance committee will resume examination of treasury officials tomorrow with a view to determining the exact amount of revenue which must be raised by the new tax bill. It is not likely, Chairman Smoot said today, that actual work on the measure will be taken before the latter part of the week.

Meantime, a vote on the bonus bill is scheduled for Tuesday in the house and if passed this measure will be in the hands of the finance committee also. A move to place it ahead of the tax bill would be in order, Chairman Smoot said today, and decision would rest with the committee.

Although the revenue measure has been before the committee for two weeks, no work has been done on any of the rate schedules nor have any of the important administrative features been definitely agreed upon.

BEAT OUT WIFE'S BRAINS, THEN SHOT HIMSELF

Cleveland, March 16.—After beating out his wife's brains, with a hammer, Joseph Daxberger, 49, shot himself while their two daughters were at Sunday school today. The woman is the third to be slain within twenty-four hours. There also were several serious stabbings and shootings.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE PARTIAL PAYMENT TAX PLAN

Thousands of Income Taxpayers Whose Payments are Small Paid Only a Fourth Instead of all Their Taxes—Have Heretofore Paid in Full—No Estimate Has Been Made of the Amount of the First Quarter's Payment.

Washington, March 16.—Although the "deadline" for payment of the first installment of income and profits taxes this year was passed last midnight, the treasury was without a precedent today to guide in calculating returns from the first quarterly collection.

So many unknown quantities existed that Under-Secretary Winston asserted one guess was as good as another on the amount collected.

Treasury estimates before congressional discussion of a 25 per cent reduction affecting this year's collections, placed the first quarter's receipts above $400,000,000. Those figures, however, were based on averages taken from previous year's records.

Officials explained that thousands of taxpayers whose individual payments were small but totalled tens of millions in the aggregate were this year for the first time taking advantage of the privilege of paying only a fourth instead of all of their taxes. The treasury has no way of knowing what effect this will have on receipts of the first quarter and Mrs. Winston believed those in charge of the collection would be unable to calculate the receipts with any accuracy, until late in the week.

The usual last hour rush to file returns recurred Saturday in every collection and sub-collection district with the result that masses of returns flowed into those offices today and will continue for several days.

REICHSTAG ELECTIONS IN GERMANY MAY 4

Berlin, March 16—(By the A. P.)—The German political party leaders are beginning organization for the reichstag elections which are to be held May fourth, the elections are expected to bring about marked changes in the political complexion of Germany's legislative body through the augumentation of the communists and the extreme nationalists, or Deutschvolkische party and a lessening in the number of votes controlled by the moderate parties standing between the extreme nationalists, who are antisemitic and pan German and the avowed communists.

At least eleven parties of some importance will have candidates in the field. Therefore there is a grand battle among the partisans of the extreme left and the extreme right to draw strength from the groups standing in the political middle. I think not a single can hope for anything like a majority. In fact, it is said no two or three parties can expect to get a working combination unless they are able to corral members of the other parties.

A presidential election is not to be held until next year. Therefore President Ebert will not enter the campaign for members of the reichstag. Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann both will be active. In fact they are planning to take a trip to Vienna this week and are giving signs of attempts at bettering Germany's foreign relations in an effort to strengthe nthe coalition cabinet which represents only the middle parties and which may have a difficult time in remaining in power under the new reichstag.

INFORMATION GIVEN BY FRANK A. VANDERLIP

Washington, March 16.—The witness stand of the Daugherty investigating committee promises this week to be the fount of another stream of sensation.

A sheaf of new subpoenas have gone out for witnesses to develop the stories already told of "deals" in the Carpentier-Dempsey prize fight films, said to have been exhibited throughout the country in violation of law at a profit to exhibition syndicates of $125,000 and the Standard Aircraft case in which, according to the testimony, $100,000 was received by Jess Smith, the friend of Attorney General Daugherty.

Frank A. Vanderlip, the New York banker who furnished a sensation in the oil investigation, today offered Senator Wheeler the assistance of the Citizens' Research Bureau, which he organized recently, and the offer was accepted. It is not planned to place Mr. Vanderlip himself on the witness stand.

"Mr. Vanderlip came to see me and gave me some information which I believe will prove very important," said Senator Wheeler. "He told me he was connected with a citizens' organization composed of prominent people, and that his organization would undertake to furnish information and run down leads which would assist the committee in clearing up graft and corruption, and get to the very bottom of it. I told him I would be very glad to have him and his organization or any other organization help me and the committee in getting the facts."

AMERICANS IN ROME TO ATTEND CONSISTORY

Rome, March 16—(By the A. P.)—Rome is packed with Americans as the consistory at which Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein are to be elevated to the cardinalate approaches. There is a dearth of hotel accommodations and many Americans have been forced for hours to walk the streets in search of places to put up. All the main hotels of Rome are booked up for several weeks ahead. Never before has Rome held so many Americans.

The holding of the public consistory in St. Peter's is expected to allow the giving of tickets to the function to practically all the Americans who apply for them. At least one-half of the tickets will be allotted to people from the United States, while the remainder will be divided among visitors from other countries.

"BANBUG" SELECTED AS ANTONYM TO "SCOFFLAW"

New York, March 16.—Joseph of Chelmsford, Mass., today was awarded the $100 offered by Mrs. Rose Scott, of Saugatuck, Conn., for a "general word to apply to all persons advocating restriction of various rights and privileges." "Banbug" was the word suggested.

Mrs. Scott made the offer for a word that would be the antonym of "scoffaw," which was selected by prohibition advocates in Boston as an appellation for persons who violate the laws. Thirty thousand words were entered in the contest.

TROUBLE IN GREEK CHURCH IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 16—Policemen today were called to quiet a disturbance at the church of the Annunciation, a Greeg Orthodox church, which arose when two pastors attempted to deliver a sermon at the same time.

BANKERS PROTEST MAKING TAXATION A PARISIAN ISSUE

Washington, March 16.—A tax conference to protest against congress making a partisan issue out of tax legislation now before that body, has been called to meet in Asheville, North Carolina, March 20th. The call was issued by the Southern Division of the American Bankers' League, with headquarters here, through its chairman, Giles L. Wilson of Tampa, Florida. The mayor of Asheville, the Asheville chamber of commerce and the Asheville Clearing House Association joined in the call, which is approved by the American Bankers league and all chairmen of southern state divisions.

The inability of the house to write a sound tax measure and the public confession of important senate leaders that the senate is incapable of improving the house measure is given as the reason for calling the conference. The conference will undertake to prepare a workable tax measure, it is understood, and submit it to the senate finance committee for consideration, this measure to be hewn out of the business experience of the south by those who are in direct contact with the borrower and the lender.

The permanent concern of the conference is declared to be the fixing of the rate of taxation which will divert capital from the tax-exempt securities to productive investments, and it is the opinion of those calling the conference that this decision can only be reached by a non-partisan consideration of the matter by business men free from the taint of partisan or personal politics.

States that will be represented at the conference are North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Louisiana.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA IS MORE DRUNKEN THAN PARIS

Washington, March 16.—The District of Columbia is 300 per cent. more drunken than Paris and 2,000 per cent more murderous than London, Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, declared in a statement today giving comparative figures.

Statistics on arrests here as reported by the police department, Mr. Tinkham said, "disclose a civic depravity and social disintegration under present conditions and laws which are both appalling and unbelievable."

As foremost causes "for these amazing and portentious phenomena of the American social decline," Representative Tinkham said, are the "loss of confidence in and respect for present congresses and, therefore, for laws passed by them," and the "abdication of certain sects of the Christian church from their spiritual direction and leadership and their assumption of political and legislative domination." Divorces in the United States, he said, had increased 100 per cent. in the last ten years.

London, with a population of 8,000,000, Mr. Tinkham said, had 23 murders in 1922, against 38 in the District of Columbia with a population of less than 500,000. In Paris, he said, with a population of 3,000,000 there were 16,000 arrests for drunkenness in 1923 against more than 8,000 arrests for drunkenness here.

MAH JONG DRESS MAKES APPEARANCE IN PARIS

Paris, March 16—(By the A. P.)—The Mah Jong dress made its initial bow to the Parisian public at the Autouil racetrack today on the occasion of the 27th annual running of the grand prix du Printempts, which coincided with the first real breath of spring.

It was the first outdoor display of the styles and creations of the 1924 season.

The Mah Jong dress consists of three distinct frocks, entirely independent one from another, but worn all at the same time and presenting a delightful "fused color" effect.

Americans, who formed a large percentage of the 50,000 in attendance—the largest in the history of the French racing thus early in the year—predicted that the dress worn three-fold would be very popular upon approaching American seaports, in view of the customs regulations.

FIRE LOSS EXCEEDED INCOME TAX RECEIPTS

New York, March 16.—Fire losses in the United States in 1923, totalling $500,541,001, exceeded by millions the amount of the nation's personal income tax receipts for the year said a report issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The careless smoker again was founded to be the cause of the greatest number of fires, the board holding him responsible for a toll of $25,776,951. Defective chimneys and flues caused the next greatest loss, $18,650,443. Fires originating in boilers, stoves and furnaces caused a $16,676,784 loss; spontaneous combustion $14,894,798, electricity, $11,918,572; spark on roofs, $11,876,718, and lightning, $11,512,726.

The recorded losses, the report explained, totalled $405,382,801 the total for the year being reached with the addition of 25 per cent. as representing unreported fires and those incident to uninsured property.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
81 Church St. Telephone

Fire prevention methods and the checking of fires that occur, were discussed, at a conference of the forest fire wardens of Windham and Tolland counties held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Saturday, with morning and afternoon sessions.

State Forester Austin F. Hawes was in charge, assisted by Assistant Fire Warden James Stocking of Connecticut. Thirty-eight men were present at the meeting which is held annually at this time of the year, to permit organization to combat the usual spring fires.

State Forester Hawes opened the morning session with an address on "Connecticut Fires in 1923". Mr. Hawes emphasized the importance of being well organized as well as fully equipped so that every available force might be brought to fight against forest fires at a moment's notice, the first fifteen minutes or even less, being valuable in getting control of the flames.

Mr. Menagie, fire warden from Bolton, suggested that the double forester's pumper should be in the hands of every deputy warden, as well as every warden, in order to be used effectively as in many cases the two ends are several miles apart. Representatives of the New York, New Haven and Central Vermont railroads explained the increased cooperation between themselves and the fire wardens. About a third of the forest fires are those in which the railroads are concerned. Mr. Stocking, assistant fire warden, went on a tour of inspection last year, at the invitation of the railroad authorities in a car furnished by them, for the purpose of drawing up plans to decrease the number of railroad forest fires. Helpful conferences were also held with the local wardens.

Mr. Hicks, who is in charge of the prevention of the white pine blister rust, on behalf of the state forestry association, said that he found that the infection does not spread from tree to tree, but by means of currant bushes and the like.

If the proper steps were taken to keep these bushes at least 900 feet away from the pines it would tend to prevent the majority of the trouble.

The white pine blight is oftentimes caused by bad weather conditions and cannot be remedied but it rarely proves fatal and the trees thus affected generally recover in a few years.

"Setting back-fires is very seldom a wise move in fire fighting," said Mr. Stocking in his address on "Original Fires, versus Back Fires." Incidents where back fires had caused more severe results because of unintelligent setting were related by the speaker. He strongly advocated preparedness at all times by having a sufficient number of men working and placing the apparatus see that each man could be equipped to fight a fire within a few minutes. Cases are known where fire wardens spent as long as half an hour preparing their apparatus.

Leonard M. Tarr of the United States Weather Bureau, of New Haven, had been scheduled to deliver an address but he was unable to attend.

At twelve o'clock adjournment was taken and the wardens left to partake of an excellent luncheon at the Johnson House.

At the afternoon session, all the section foremen of the Connecticut division of the Central Vermont railroad were present and their spokesman asked for instructions. He was answered by Mr. Stocking, who advised the men that before starting a fire they should get permission from the adjoining land owners and then get a local fire warden to help and burn clear a strip from one hundred to two hundred feet wide, along the entire line.

A vote of thanks was extended the Chamber of Commerce for the use of the rooms.

A. E. Moss of the Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs, had for his subject, "Outlawing Large Fires." Mr. Moss pointed out that the automobile camping custom was still in its infancy and that further damage caused by these camp fires could be decreased by providing permanent fireplaces for campers. The automobile camper, however, is hardly ever responsible for a forest fire of any consequence. Eighty per cent. of the town of Mansfield is woodland and Mr. Moss has established a remarkable record for fire prevention and fire fighting in that area.

P. L. Butterick, secretary of the state forestry association spoke on "Cooperative Forest Protective Associations." He announced that the association had arranged with well known foresters in the state to deliver addresses on forestry subjects, with stereopticon slides, before civic societies, clubs, churches, schools and other organizations. 85 per cent. of the lumber used in this state is imported and for the freight on this the citizens of Connecticut pay about $5,000,000. Industries in the state are handicapped, because of the scarcity of local forests according to Secretary Butterick, who then told of the accomplishments effected for the preservation of the forest supply, through the administration of the association.

A general discussion period was held before the session was adjourned. Mention was made by one warden of the difficulties involved in fighting fires two or three miles from the locality in which he resides, although not in his district.

Mrs. William Hassig, who is in the Windfield County Hospital, as the result of an automobile accident on Thursday in Winsted, was very much improved at the week end and there is hope of her recovery. Mrs. Josephine Marino, of Willimantic, whose car struck Mrs. Hassig late Thursday afternoon was released under bonds of $3,500. William Hassig, husband of the injured woman brought suit again Mrs. Marino Friday for $15,000 and her car has been attached by Deputy Sheriff Dudley, Manchester. Mrs. Marino recently served a sentence of thirty days in the Tolland county jail, for violation of the Liquor laws.

Bonds were furnished for Mrs. Marino by Michael Mazzola of Willimantic. She is still in Winsted. Dr. David Reidy, after examination, reports that Mrs. Hassig is suffering from severe body lacerations and several fractured ribs, which it is believed pierced her lungs. Three of her fingers are reported to be torn off.

The funeral of Robert Ryan was held from Killourey Brother's funeral parlors on Union street, Saturday morning. Requiem high mass at St. Mary's church, South Coventry at nine o'clock was sung by Rev. William H. Kennedy. The choir rendered "Nearer My God to Thee" as the body was borne into the church. "Ave Maria" was sung at the offertory and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" as a waiting hymn. Burial was in the St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of George G. Standish who died in Seneca Falls, N. Y., last Wednesday, was held from 62 North street at three o'clock, Sunday afternoon. Rev. Arthur W. Clifford offered prayer. The casket was placed in the receiving vault at the Willimantic cemetery, Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Funeral services for E. Frank Maine were held from the home of his son, Horace Maine, of Scotland, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The body was conveyed to this city and placed temporarily in the receiving vault of the Willimantic cemetery, Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

In connection with the statements made on the witness stand in the local court room, Friday morning, by Elias Glaubinger of Colchester, that he had purchased condemned beef from the state commissioner, information has been given by Deputy Commissioner Dr. George E. Corwin. Deputy Corwin spoke in the absence of Commissioner of Domestic Animals James M. Whittlesey, of Hartford. Mr. Corwin said that cattle are often given what is known as a reactary test. Should one member of a herd show signs of disease, particularly through the tuberculin test, the entire herd is condemned to be killed. Each individual animal is then examined and those found fit are sold to cattle dealers throughout the state.

The others are Destroyed. Dr. Corwin said that he has no recollection of such a sale to Mr. Glaubinger, but presumed that the latter referred to a transaction of this kind in his testimony. According to Dr. Corwin, this practice is carried on throughout the country.

The Bulletin correspondent however was informed by an experienced cattleman that the entire truth is now generally known with regard to the butchering and selling of condemned beef and a further investigation is to be made.

Deputy Sheriff Dudley, Manchester met with disappointment Saturday when he came to this city to place an attachment on the property of Mrs. Josephine Marino in a suit for damages brought by William Hassig, resulting from injuries to Hassig's wife, Thursday when she was run down by a automobile driven by Mrs. Marino. When the Winsted officer came to Willimantic he was informed that the Marino home was outside of the city limits and was in Coventry, Tolland county. At the town clerk's office in South Coventry the sheriff found that the property occupied by Mrs Josephine Marino was listed in the name of her husband and that there is no property in the former's name in this vicinity.

The call has been issued for the electors of the republican voters to assemble Wednesday evening to elect delegates to the republican state convention and congressional district convention to be held at Hartford April 2 and 3, for the election of delegates to the republican national convention and the appointment of a state central committee. The call was issued by Charles A. Gates, chairman of the republican town committee. A town committee for the ensuing two years will also be selected.

Charles A. Gates and Mrs. Lillian S. Frink, members of the republican state central committee of the twenty-ninth district have issued a call for the republican district caucus in this city, Saturday, March 22 for the purpose of electing two delegates-at-large to the republican state convention to be held in Hartford, April 2 and 3. Candidates will also be nominated for membership on the republican state central committee for the ensuing two years.

Thomas Palmer, an employe of the Smith-Winchester Manufacturing Co., of South Windham recently sustained severe injuries while engaged in removing a machine from a freight car, in the New Haven railroad yard in that place. Another freight car which was being switched struck the one that was being unloaded and the machine was pushed against Palmer, injuring his hip, knee and ankle and his side. Palmer was taken to his boarding place where he has since been under the care of a physician.

The Samuel Palmer house, located on the road between Manfield Hollow and North Windham, was completely destroyed by fire, together with its contents, Friday afternoon. A defective chimney was given as the cause of the blaze. $1,000 insurance was carried on the building through a local agency but the total loss is estimated as considerably over that figure.

M. E. Lincoln and Christopher J. Mannick of this city have purchased the old Windham street school building, which was partially destroyed by fire January 30 last. The purchase was made through the state board of education and Mr. Mannick is directing the razing of the structure. The main portion of the building was erected nearly forty years ago but considerable of the lumber on the lower floor was put in in recent years and this will be salvaged. It was stated by one member of the school committee that the purchase price of the ruins of the school building was fixed at $200.

The members of the Imperial quartet of this city will go to South Willington to sing for the Womans Christian Temperance Union, Wednesday evening. The members will entertain their husbands at a banquet.

A large crowd attended the dance at Lebanon Saturday, for which music was furnished by the Lyric Orchestra of this city.

This year there will be considerable interest in the town caucuses, for the reason that a new state law requires that one member of the town committees shall be a woman. The republican caucus meets Wednesday night, the time for the democratic caucus not being announced yet. The caucus meets to elect delegates to the state and congressional district convention in Hartford, April 2 and 3, and for the election of delegates to the national convention and the appointment of a state central committee. Also to elect a town committee for two years. This would seem to be an added incentive to organize a women's voters' league, that they may be properly informed on management of town affairs, when the state has passed a law requiring a woman on a certain committee, Monday (tonight) the women of both parties are to meet at the town hall to talk over the advisability of organizing a woman voters' league.

At St. Mary's church tonight (Monday) at 7:30 o'clock patriotic exercises for St. Patrick's day will be held, including special vocal and instrumental selections. Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church, Greeneville, will deliver the sermon.

A whistle alarm called the hose company to Slater avenue Sunday afternoon. The truck traveled the length of the avenue and the men saw no fire. The truck returned to the hose house and then came back to one of the houses in the rear of Dearnley & Clarke's store.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Parkhurst, Mr. and Mrs. William Dealtrey, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cheney, Mrs. Ellen Paul, Mrs. Dona Ballou, Mrs. Earl Hiscox and Miss Elizabeth McClugage attended the English Tea Party given by the Baltic M. E. church, on Saturday evening.

Mrs. John E. Hawkins of Norwich came to Jewett City Saturday to visit her uncle, George A. Haskell, who is very ill.

Mrs. Lucy Franklin and her daughter, Miss Nellie Franklin, are ill. B. P. Franklin of Fiskdale has been at home for several days.

Officer Henry Vegiard was notified Saturday night to look out for Joe Selinsky, of Phillips street, who had shot his wife, who was in Norwich at the time. Later the Norwich police found the man.

Several from town heard the programme of Irish airs given by Prof. Frank L. Farrell on the recently rebuilt organ at St. Patrick's church on Sunday evening.

NEW LONDON BAKER ENTERS COMPLAINT AGAINST LOCAL LABOR AGITATOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 16. — Nathan Hochman, proprietor of baker shops at Nos. 117 and 142 North Bank streets reported to the police Saturday afternoon that a labor agitator, Albert Walkowski, of No. 147 North Bank street, was endeavoring to cause discontent among the employes of Hochman. According to Hochman the agitator has visited his establishments several nights of late and informed the bakers employed at the two shops that they should receive higher wages and urged them to take steps to obtain higher pay.

Patrolman Frank Philopena reported this afternoon that a public service automobile, O-2635, and with registration missing had been parked on Broad street, near Connecticut avenue, since Saturday morning. It later developed that the car belonged to George Quinn of 309 Broad street and had been left in the highway for convenience.

Thomas Kehr is confined to his home on Ocean avenue by a severe attack of pleurisy.

An automobile owned and driven by John Sideris of 10 New street and a machine owned and operated by Mrs. Hattie Cohen, of 18 Whiting street, Willimantic, were in collision this afternoon on Main street, near the corner of Williams streets. Both cars were damaged, the New London car bearing the brunt of the crash but none of the occupants of either car were injured.

The police were summoned to a Fourth street house this afternoon where a row occurred between families residing in different parts of the house. With the arrival of the officers the disturbance had ceased, but the brawlers were given a warning of what to expect if a recurrence of the trouble should be reported.

An automobile owned by Thomas Manning of 37 Colman street and with Mr. and Mrs. Manning and infant and Mr. Mannings father, James Manning, also of 37 Colman street as occupants, overturned late this afternoon at the corner of Bank and Colman streets. All the occupants were precipitated from the car and all sustained injuries, although not of a serious nature, except Thomas Manning, Mrs. Manning received lacerations of the left leg, James Manning received a laceration of the head, near the eye and the baby got a cut over one of the eyes. All three of the injured were attended by a physician. Mr. Manning's wound requiring several stitches to close.

The party started for an automobile ride, about 2.30 o'clock and were on their way to their home when the accident occurred. Mrs. Manning was driving the machine and when she attempted to operate the car from Bank to Colman street the machine apparently was going at a fast rate of speed, to fast to permit the turn being made, for the auto travelled to the further side of Colman street and overturned close to the sidewalk. Pedestrians assisted the injured to the Manning home and righted the machine, which was not damaged.

Statistics from the registrars' office at Connecticut College, show that the student body is composed of 436 members, 87 per cent. of whom are of the Protestant faith. The greatest increase in the last four years has been made by Congregationalists who now have 89. The second highest are the Presbyterians with 42. The Methodists rank third with 37 students. The Roman Catholic faith has 39 adherents. Students of the Jewish faith are 26 in number. Other denominations are: Baptist 25; Christian Science 22; Unitarians 14; Friends 9; Lutherans 5; Universalists 1; Unionists 1. There are four students in the college having no church preference.

The funeral of Mrs. Alice Howard, widow of John Howard, was held Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Gunter, the pastor. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Ellen Beckwith, 73, formerly of New London, and widow of Turner C. Beckwith, died Saturday morning at the home of her son, Herman Beckwith of Niantic. Mrs. Beckwith had been in ill health several months and since the death of her husband six weeks ago, her condition gradually became worse. She leaves only her son.

Mrs. Alice Cheeseman Calvert, wife of Arthur T. Calvert, died Saturday morning at the Norwich State hospital, where she had been under treatment some time. Mrs. Calvert, besides her husband, is survived by a brother, Claude Cheeseman, of New London.

A bond furnished by Theodore Lusta and on which the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company is the surety, was called in the police court Saturday, as The Bulletin prophesied it would be. The bond is for $1,000 and was supplied by Lusta to insure his appearance in the court to answer to a complaint alleging the theft of a watch from a rooming house in this city last January, when Lusta was strolling about without any visible occupation. Lusta is a Greek, but he seems to be conversant with the ways and the ideas held by Americans. He sets up a defense, or he will, if he ever makes one, that the case against him comes from mistaken identity. He says he was never in New London till he was brought here from New Haven, where he is under a bond of $2,000 for appearance, to answer to the complaint for the theft of a watch.

He has been able to secure a lawyer and will contest the case, in the event that his bond is reopened and he comes to trial.

George Nugent of Bulkeley place, paid a fine of $10 in the police court Saturday for operating an automobile without a license. He knew his license had expired but took a chance. State Officer Kennerson came upon the machine of Nugent when the operator had some trouble with it and then Nugent could not show a license. He had a license of last year but that did not permit him to drive now so he was ordered to court. He pleaded guilty and settled.

New London tugs and barges coming up the coast from Newport News and Norfolk fared well in the storm of the past week. They have all reported safe with their barges.

A report on a matter referred to the director of law of the city is looked for at the meeting Monday evening when the status of the differences as to rebuilding the burned property of Meyer H. Hollandersky on Bank street will be known. The city council has declined thus far to grant a permit to Mr. Hollandersky to rebuild the burned building. The city's inspector of buildings holds the opinion that the loss sustained was more than half the value of the structure and he has advised the city not to permit the building to be repaired. "Order it to be torn down," is his recommendation. Opinion in the council is not agreed that the inspector is right in his estimate and the order to tear down has been withheld. It is on this matter that the voice of the law is to speak Monday.

Another matter that will come to the council, it is supposed, is the objection of land and property owners in the Pequot beach section who remonstrate against paying for any portion of the sewer extension known as the Parkway extension. The property owners have been before the compensation board and there registered a positive objection to assessments for any portion of the cost on the argument that they had already paid their sewer assessment and that the extension does not benefit their property in any way. They hold that the extension is for the sole benefit of the Pequot Beach association, an exclusive group of men and women, and by them was conceived and is attempted to be carried out. On the other hand the city represents that the extension is part of the sewer system of the city and is necessitated on the score of protection of the health of the citizens.

The funeral of Mrs. Adelia K. Lusk, widow of William F. Lusk, took place Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. McGrath, with Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, deacon and Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger sub-deacon. The bearers were John Stanners, Charles J. Ducy, Daniel D. Buckley, Robert H. Keyes, Thomas Jeffers and John Gleason. Among the mourners was a delegation of members of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association, of which organization Mrs. Lusk was a charter member. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Joseph Foley, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Foley of 495 Williams street, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents. The bearers were John and Dennis Foley and James Connors and James Sullivan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Traffic has been resumed between Shaw and Howard street on Hamilton street. The highway has been closed to vehicular traffic a week to permit repairs being made to the sewer, which passes beneath a bridge spanning Shaw's cove.

Another automobile, a Ford coupe, was stolen from New Haven early this morning. The customary request was made of the New London police to be on the lookout for the stolen car.

The automobile, owned and opterated by Clarence A. Haynes, of Waterford, struck James McInnich of 176 Montauk avenue, on Bank street opposite the corner of Montauk avenue, Saturday afternoon. McInich escaped injury other than minor bruises. McInich was crossing from Montauk avenue to Bank street when he stepped in front of Haynes' car, which luckily, was not traveling at a fast rate of speed. McInich did not observe the automobile until it was close to him and too late to keep out of its way. He was struck by the fender and hurled to the pavements. Upon regaining his feet McInich declared that he was unhurt.

Charles E. Rice of Montauk avenue who was operated upon several days ago at Lawrence hospital for stomach trouble, is reported as being as favorable as can be expected.

Frank Cunningham of Mystic, Mrs. John McGill of Niantic and Mrs. Albert Patterson of Niantic, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Meyer H. Hollandersky has returned to his home on Broad street, having spent a week in Lakewood, N. J.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Some day this week—the date had not been definitely fixed at the week end—Coroner Arthur G. Bill will hold an inquest here, relative to the tragic deaths at Plainfield Friday night of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance. Coroner Bill will have members of the freight train crew operating the train that figured in the accident here and such other persons as may have valuable information about the sad affair.

The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance are among the outstanding tragedies of recent years in this territory. That they met such an untimely end under the circumstances in which their lives were snuffed out has aroused the keen interest of their relatives, their friends and the general public as to how it all came to happen. Mr. Dorrance, who was driving, was an unusually able, careful and observant man. He was not given to taking chances—with his automobile or in any of the every day affairs of life. The public will be interested to know, as the result of the coroner's investigation, exactly under what circumstances the accident happened and as to what the witnesses, if there were any, can contribute to complete the story of a tragedy that had a depressing effect on the people of all this section of eastern Connecticut.

Saturday the body of Mrs. Mary Eliza Braman, 84, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. P. Cobleigh, at Winchendon, Mass., was brought to Central Village, for burial in Evergreen cemetery. Mrs. Braman was a resident here for about 76 years and is well remembered by many residents of Danielson. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Inez E. Franklin and Mrs. Cobleigh. She was the widow of George Braman.

Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. Cobleigh were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Graves and other friends in Danielson over the week-end.

John Edward Reed, a resident of Danielson since his childhood days, died during the early hours of Saturday morning at his home on Hawkins street, death terminating a long illness.

Mr. Reed was born in Lowell, Mass., January 20, 1862, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reed. With his parents he came here as a very young boy and following the completion of his education entered the employ of the Quinebaug company, a manufacturing company with which he was destined to remain during 46 years of faithful service, the greater part of it as overseer of a spinning department of the big textile plant.

Mr. Reed's connection with the Quinebaug company with which he gained his first textile experience, was not unbroken. He went to Willimantic at one time, to take a position in another mill and at another period was employed at a textile plant in Clinton, Mass., but his ability was such that his return was sought by the Quinebaug company and eventually, many years ago, he returned to Danielson and ever after during his active years remained with that corporation. Mr. Reed retired from his position as overseer two years ago this month.

Mr. Reed was a member of St. Alban's church. He was a member of Moriah lodge, No. 25, A. F. and A. M., of this place and his funeral will be with Masonic rites.

Mr. Reed is survived by his wife and two sons, Alfred L. of Danielson and Milton of Boston.

Devotion to his home and its members and faithful attention to his duties in his occupation of a lifetime were outstanding characteristics of Mr. Reed. His was a citizenship of exceptional merit, sound in all its fundamentals, based on the practical, substantial things of life. Such lives are held to constitute the foundations and safety of nations, though rarely attracting the attention they deserve.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the funeral of Clarence Gates, who lost his life when a bridge collapsed at Oneco Wednesday afternoon, was held from his home in Moosup, with services at All Hallows' church in the place at 9 o'clock, Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy being celebrant of the high mass of requiem, which was attended by one of the largest funeral congregations at the church in years.

Members of the League of the Sacred Heart of All Hallows' parish attended the funeral in a body and the funeral procession included a Moosup drum corps of which the deceased was a member.

The bearers were six brothers-cousins of Mr. Gates—Amadee Zercie, George Zercie, Arthur Zercie, Fabien Zercie, Eudore Zercie and Adrian Zercie, the last named the driver of the truck in which Mr. Gates lost his life and Mr. Gates' companion as the truck plunged off the bridge into the river.

Following the service at All Hallows' church in Moosup, the body was taken to Waurekan, where a service was held in Sacred Heart church, prior to the casket being entombed at Sacred Heart cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At St. James' church, Sunday, at all the masses, prayers of the congregation were asked for Mrs. Exilda Bedard, 70, of Moosup, who became ill while attending a service at All Hallows' church in that place and who died of heart trouble shortly after being removed to her home. Mrs Bedard was a resident of Danielson for many years. She was the wife of Isaac Bedard, who was employed here as a painter.

Saturday morning the funeral of Abel Roy was held from the home of his daughter in Plainfield with services at St. John's church in that place at 9 o'clock, with Rev. R. P. Morrissey as celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was at Sacred Heart cemetery, Wauregan. The bearers were John T. Govern, Arthur C. Messier, James Riley, Joseph Messier, William Boulacy, Drendiane Messier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements. Mr. Roy was a resident on Franklin street in Danielson and died while on a visit with relatives in Plainfield.

Sunday afternoon the funeral of Chester Bombha, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walenty Bombha, was held from their home on the West Side with services at St. James' church at 3:30 o'clock. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Following services conducted at his home in the Sawyer district of Putnam, the body of Thomas J. French was brought to Westfield cemetery here for burial. The service was conducted by Rev. N. B. Burton, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Putnam. Members of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows of Putnam acted as bearers. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements. Mr. French was a native of East Killingly. He had been a resident of the town of Putnam for many years.

A pair of state highway department motor trucks that had been submerged in the river at Oneco from the time a bridge broke under their weight, Wednesday afternoon, were hauled out Saturday. The trucks were not seriously damaged. A crew of men is now at work making ready to restore the bridge so that traffic may be resumed over the important highway artery of which it was a link.

Engineers of the Eastern Connecticut Power company are planning for its two subsidiary companies, the Putnam Light & Power company and the Danielson Light & Power company, a nine-mile gas pipe line intended to transport illuminating and fuel gas from Putnam to Danielson. That negotiations and plans are well under way for this project are admitted by officials of the company but they are not willing to state definitely at this time that the plan will be put into effect, although probable that it will.

If the plans materialize, gas will be delivered to consumers in Danielson at a better pressure than at present. In addition to this, people living along the nine-mile right of way between the two points will be served. This will probably afford gas to people living in Dayville and Elmville a service that they have never before had. Such a line as that planned is not an experiment, for several such pipe lines are working successfully in different parts of the country.

It was rumored that some such plan was in the minds of the company when a large gas container was erected in Putnam, last fall, as an auxiliary to the old gas container. This container has not yet been put in use, as some equipment is still to arrive and some changes in the pipe service near the gas house need to be made.

It is stated that the Danielson gas plant is an old and antiquated one and that it is at present carrying nearly capacity load and expected demands upon it in the future will have to be met either by reconstruction of the Danielson plant or, in some other way.

If the present plan is adopted, it is believed that work of construction will be begun in the spring.

Judge George E. Himmes of the superior court has handed down two decisions in cases tried in Putnam last week. In the case of David Bresen, of Moosup, against Benjamin Goodman, of Danielson, the finding is for the plaintiff to recover his entire claim of $276. This action grew out of a bill for shoes and rubbers that the family of the defendant contracted at the plaintiff's store. The defendant admitted that the goods were delivered, but alleged that they had been paid for. In his decision the court stated it came down to a question of credibility of witnesses and he felt that the defendant had not sustained the burden of proving payment.

In the case of Almon C. Jackson, a garage man of North Oxford, vs. Constable Peter A. Gardner of Putnam, the court finds for the defendant. This was a case where the plaintiff sold by conditional bill of sale an automobile to a third party. The constable attached the automobile in a civil action. The conditional bill of sale was not recorded at the time but was recorded the next day, which was nine days from the time that Jackson placed the automobile in the possession of the vendee. The only question involved was whether or not the recording of the conditional bill of sale was, under the circumstances, nine days having elapsed, within a reasonable time. If it was, then the plaintiff would prevail; if not the defendant would prevail. The court found that nine days was not a reasonable time, therefore found for the defendant.

The ninth annual meeting of Putnam Country club is to be held in the chamber of commerce rooms, Tuesday evening. Nine years ago a small group of men held a meeting and from this meeting developed the present club which has taken on an interstate aspect, as its membership includes people from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

When the club organization was perfected, nine years ago, the old Heath farm south of the city was purchased. The farm included a dilapidated one and a-half story farmhouse. This house has been transformed into a modern clubhouse, with additions made fro mtime to time. At present it is lighted by electricity, contains shower baths, large locker rooms, a room for women members, sun parlors and a large, wide piazza.

A professional golf player was secured to lay out a nine-hole course. The course contains a number of natural hazards and has been lauded by visitors as one of the finest courses in New England.

From a small number of members the club has developed year after year and the membership is now a substantial one. The hiring of a professional as club superintendent and green-keeper has added much to the interest in golf.

The club year starts May 1st and it is anticipated that there will be the usual enrollment of new members this season as in the past.

Members of the new troop of Boy Scouts were out Saturday afternoon selling tags. A substantial sum was realized for the treasury of the new troop.

Saturday night Wappequasset tribe of Red Men met in the wigwam on Pomfret street. Following business around the council fire, there was initiation. After this there was a varied entertainment and refreshments were served.

Miss Helen Sharpe and her sister, Mrs. M. R. Joy and son Richard, are en route to California by steamer Kroonland via the Panama canal. The only stop the vessel makes is at Havana, Cuba. They will be gone six weeks, returning by rail.

Miss Lorena Gallant, a student nurse at the Hartford hospital, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gallant.

Miss Pauline Lucier spent Sunday with friends in Boston.

Cargill Council, K. of C., held a special meeting Sunday at which the second degree was worked, preparatory to getting candidates in readiness when a class initiation in the third degree will be held in St. John's hall, next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lewis T. Champlin entertained several tables of bridge Friday afternoon at her home on Grove street. The affair was in keeping with St. Patrick's day.

Miss Katherine Byrne has returned from a business trip to New York, where she was the guest of her sister, Miss Isabelle Byrne.

Clarence G. Webster of Walnut street, has been removed to the City hospital in Worcester. Mr. Webster for a number of months has been suffering from a peculiar skin disease that leaves the body practically raw. His is one of about 20 cases ever known and doctors are somewhat at a loss as how to treat the malady. Two nurses have been in attendance on Mr. Webster and specialists have been called in consultation. It was thought that the case could be better treated in a hospital in a city where the disease could be under the observation of a skin specialist.

The latest divorce petition to be filed with Clerk E. M. Warner, of the superior court is that of Grace E. Brown, of Putnam, who asks for a decree from Clayton A. Brown, now of Los Angeles, Calif., on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Brown, who was Miss Grace B. Bowen, alleges that she was married June 5, 1911, and that her husband deserted her Jan. 1, 1912. Besides a divorce the petitioner asks for the custody of their one minor child.

Another divorce case filed last week is that of Emily Burlingame, of Killingly, asking a divorce from Daniel Burlingame, of Brooklyn. They were married Nov. 16, 1895, and desertion Feb. 28, 1921, is alleged.

Sunday in Putnam churches included the beginning of a series of sermons on The Joy of Living, by Rev. Simeon E. Cozad of the Congregational church. Sunday's subject was The Quest of the Source of Happiness. Ethics of law, Attorney E. C. Morse, leader, was the subject at the Men's Forum at noon.

Rev. George L. Drowne officiates at the communion service at St. Philip's church and at the regular morning service at 10.30.

Rev. John C. Stoddard's subject at the Baptist church, Sunday morning, was: "In his steps." Mrs. Thomas Jones and Miss Alice Geier furnished the flowers, in memory of relatives.

Van Tiar, arrested last Thursday in a North Grosvenordale boarding house and taken to Webster where he was arraigned on a charge of assault, was brought back to North Grosvenordale, Friday evening, and arraigned on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. When the man was arrested and searched the revolver was found in his pocket.

Tiar was given a hearing at the home of Justice Percy Tourtellotte and was fined $20, and costs of $12. Tiar was arrested in Webster as he left the court room after he had attended the Webster district court on the assault charge. He at first refused to return to Connecticut, but later decided to accompany Officer Neri Coderre, of North Grosvenordale.

For at least forty years, purebred bulls have been used at Valleyside dairy farm, owned by William C. Child, at Woodstock. The results have amply justified the faith in purebred bulls that has caused the Windham County Farmers' Association to inaugurate its present campaign to bulls in the county.

Mr. Child learned the lesson of good dairy breeding from his father, H. T. Child, and has sought to improve upon it. With each change of bulls he has endeavored to get better quality. One day he learned of a bull up in Massachusetts that was producing heifers with an average production of 1,000 pounds more milk than their dams. This was precisely the kind of bull he was looking for and he went to Winchenden, Mass., to see if he could buy it. The animal was owned by a bull association and as the members were ready for a change he bought the bull.

The value of good bloodlines is clearly demonstrated in this bull, Mixter Chiefton. He possesses some of the best blood of the Guernsey breed. His sire was Yeoman's King of the May with 80 A. R. daughters. His dam was Mixter Dayspring with a record of 610 pounds of butterfat in Class A, sired by Langwater Demonstrator and from an A. R. cow. The remarkable success of this bull while owned by the Winchenden Bull Association, combined with his excellent pedigree, should assure a fine crop of calves on the Child farm.

A young bull, now being developed to take the place of the present senior herd sire when his daughters come to the breeding age, also shows splendid promise. He is Mixter Collector, sired by Langwater Mixter, a grandson of Langwater Warrior, and carries 50 per cent May Rose blood. His dam was Mixter Patricia, with 613 pounds of butterfat in Class B.

Three of the milking cows and three heifers are purebred, but through long use of a purebred bull and home raising of heifers, the grade cows are hardly distinguishable in appearance or production from purebreds. Mr. Child believes that the practice of buying cows and adding to the herd is dangerous in that it is somewhat likely to introduce disease. His herd is on the tuberculin accredited list and he does not care to take chances on bringing in tuberculosis.

While the herd represents the results of forty years of good breeding, a severe setback was experienced twelve years ago when lightning set fire to the barn and almost wrecked his dairy business. Twenty-three milking cows were burned, fire spreading with such rapidity that it was impossible to get any of them out. Eight dry cows were on pasture at the time and this represented the foundation from which the present business has been builded. Fortunately, seven heifer calves were dropped from this small group and gave an excellent start after the loss, seemed little short of providential.

About sixteen to eighteen cows are regularly milked on this farm. The cream is separated and made into butter, which finds a ready market at Webster, Mass. In summer the surplus is taken care of by the summer colony at Woodstock. Cream and buttermilk also finds a ready market at Webster, good quality buttermilk being a scarcity in southern New England.

Skimmilk is used to grow out strong healthy calves and the surplus is fed to hogs and poultry. By dressing the hogs on the farm and retailing the meat and sausage, a fair profit is realized, especially when it is considered that they furnish a market for skimmilk. Even on this basis, Mr. Child has been unable to figure a profit in hogs sold on the hoof at prevailing prices. Sixteen hogs were butchered and sold from the farm this winter.

Average milk production for the herd in one year, as shown by records kept in the Woodstock Dairy Club, April 1922 to April, 1923, was 7,462 pounds, with an average butterfat content of 5.4 per cent. The high cow gave 10,696 pounds of milk with a butterfat content of 5 per cent. The herd shows uniformity in producing ability as well as in type. Cows that give less than 6,000 pounds of milk in a year are dropped from the herd. Milking machines are used except on days when milk weights are recorded, when the milking is done by hand. Mr. Child sends his records of milk production for each cow, together with records as to feed, etc., to the farm management specialist of the Extension Service at Storrs. From these figures the profit or loss on each cow is figured.

Six to eight heifer calves are grown each years from the best producing cows and these take care of the annual replacements necessary through loss or poor production.

While dairying is the principal source of income on the farm, Mr. Child does not neglect other opportunities. There are 148 acres, not including woodland, in the home farm and all but 20 acres can be cultivated. Ten acres of apple trees are beginning to show good returns. Eight acres of potatoes are grown annually. A flock of 200 hens furnishes another satisfactory "sideline."

Thirteen acres of land were seeded last year in addition to one and one half acres of alfalfa. The farm provides all the silage the cows can eat and with the addition of good quality hay, including the alfalfa hay raised or purchased, it is possible to cut the grain bills materially.

Mr. Child is a strong believer in farm power and labor saving machinery. He uses a farm tractor to advantage. On the whole, the farm represents the best type of diversification in agriculture for this section, with dairying as the chief industry but with varied sources of income.

WESTERLY

An attempt was made Saturday morning about 3 a. m. to set fire to the large granite cutting shed of the Joseph Coduri Granite company, off Oak street, located along the railroad track to the eastward of the High street dry bridge. It was soon after 3 o'clock when Towerman Herman A. Cook from his signal tower to the eastward of the High street highway bridge saw a blaze by the west end sliding door of the cutting shed and telephoned in his discovery. Patrolman Michael Curtin had the fire alarm sounded for box 66, Oak and Haswell streets, and a second alarm was sent in soon after. All three pieces of apparatus of the department responded and soon had a line of hose laid to the cutting shed from the hydrant on Oak street. Joseph Coduri, who resides on Oak street just above the plant was called on the telephone and when he arrived at the shed found that inflammable fluid of some kind had been thrown on the woodwork, the door having been pushed aside to admit someone for the purpose. The timely discovery and arrival of the firemen prevented the destructive work of the flames, the actual damage amounting to about $25. The shed is a large and modernly equipped one for cutting granite and houses thousands of dollars worth of granite in various stages of completion. A force of 60 men are employed. There is no night watchman on the grounds, the furnace fires being banked for the night. Mr. Coduri is at a loss to account for such action on the part of anyone and has offered a thousand dollar reward for the arrest or evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties connected with this criminal and anarchial attempt at the destruction of property, with its attendant throwing out of work the skilled men in his employ. The reward will probably be supplemented by a similar offering of reward by Westerly authorities.

Mrs. Barnes Newberry of Providence, a summer cottager at Longshore, East Beach, Watch Hill was the hostess at a dinner party at her Providence home Saturday evening.

Carl Zemper, automobile dealer of Wakefield, R. I., was sentenced Saturday to thirty days in Providence county jail and fined $100 by Judge Capotosto, in superior court, having been found guilty by a jury at Kingston February 28th of operating an automobile on the Tower Hill road, on November 25, 1923, while intoxicated. In sentencing Zemper, Judge Capotosto characterized the case as one of the worst in his experience and said that the maximum sentence which he imposed was not adequate. An automobile belonging to William Kellar of West Warwick was run into by defendant Zemper, when he came around a curve in the road at a speed of forty to forty-five miles an hour in the night time, imperiling the lives of helpless people.

The judge declared that the defendant had perjured the witness stand and committed deliberate perjury, in the hope that a witness named Cook, who was with him at the time could not be produced in court by the prosecution. Cook was produced and testified to being with Zemper and that both had been drinking. The defendant has been in jail since February 28th, when Attorney General J. P. Hartigan appeared for the state. Attorney John J. Dunn of Westerly was appointed by the court at Kingston to defend Zemper.

Dr. and Mrs. Milton Buckworth returned Sunday from a trip south.

| Rossie W'd'ers | 8790 | 2 | 7 | .222 |

Mrs. J. C. Tyler, Mrs. Morehand and Mrs. Leslie Harrison highest individual scores.

Frederic H. Cranston of Norwich was the guest of relatives here Saturday.

The British Museum recently acquired the first printed world map recording the discoveries of Columbus published in 1506, and showing that his mistaken notion that he had reached Asia was shared by others.

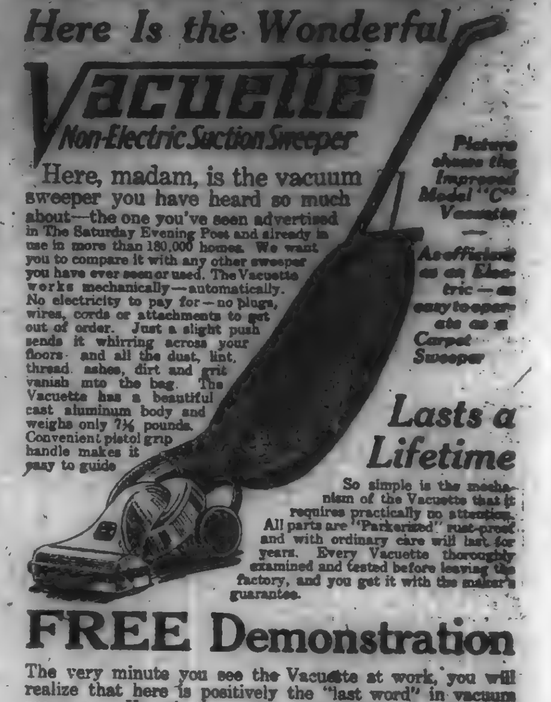
Sweeping Made Easy

Without Electricity!!

Here Is the Wonderful

Vacuette

Non-Electric Suction Sweeper



Here, madam, is the vacuum sweeper you have heard so much about—the one you've seen advertised in The Saturday Evening Post and already in use in more than 180,000 homes. We want you to compare it with any other sweeper you have ever seen or used. The Vacuette works mechanically—automatically. No electricity to pay for—no plugs, wires, cords or attachments to get out of order. Just a slight push sends it whirring across your floors and all the dust, lint, thread, ashes, dirt and grit vanish into the bag. The Vacuette has a beautiful cast aluminum body and weighs only 7¼ pounds. Convenient pistol grip handle makes it easy to guide.

Picture shows the Improved Model "C" Vacuette — As efficient as an Electric — as easy to operate as a Carpet Sweeper

Lasts a Lifetime

So simple is the mechanism of the Vacuette that it requires practically no attention. All parts are "Parkerized" rust-proof and with ordinary care will last for years. Every Vacuette thoroughly examined and tested before leaving the factory, and you get it with the maker's guarantee.

FREE Demonstration

The very minute you see the Vacuette at work, you will realize that here is positively the "last word" in vacuum sweepers. Here is the really dependable cleaner—before which dust and dirt vanish as if by magic. Don't take our word for it. We will demonstrate the Vacuette on your own rugs and carpets. Let us bring this wonderful sweeper to your house, where you can actually test it yourself. No reason to hesitate—you will not be obligated in any way.

Phone or Write Do this now—before it slips your mind. Take advantage of this opportunity to get a free demonstration at our sole risk and expense. You will be simply amazed at the thoroughness with which the Vacuette cleans your rugs and carpets. You will be positively delighted at the ease with which you can turn drudgery into play. You will be absolutely astounded at the low cost of this peerless vacuum sweeper. Madam, you owe it to yourself to see the Vacuette. Don't put it off a moment. Phone or write—NOW!

TAX REDUCTION AND BONUS.

The decision to have the bonus bill brought up for a vote on Tuesday under a suspension of the rules of the house was bound to bring out the claim that it is possible to do anything when it comes to imposing a heavier burden upon the taxpayers, but nothing can be done when it is desired that there should be a reduction in the taxpayers' burdens.

At the opening of this congress it was clearly demonstrated that the ways had been greased for a soldiers' bonus bill. It was the intention to put this over on the country whether it wanted it or not. This was quickly realized when it was brought to the attention of the chairman of the house ways and means committee and the country that the conditions were such that there could be a substantial cut made in the income taxes. Those who had been clustering to the political advantages which they have sought through the bonus proposition displayed no great enthusiasm over the idea of cutting taxes. It was only as the result of a loud protest on the part of the people that it was not sidetracked then and there. Efforts since a tax reduction bill has been brought out have been to block it. A bill has been approved in the house that will cut taxes much more deeply than conditions warrant and thereby pile up a deficit. The disposition is to beat the plan at any cost.

As for a bonus there is a determination in congress to see it through at any cost. There is even a demand that the payments on the war debts be cut in two and extended over twice as long a period in order to provide for the gratuity. The idea is to get hold of half of the sinking fund and to convince the people that the continuation of unwarranted taxation for twice as long is really something in their favor.

It is anything but an impressive picture which is presented by congress in the attitude that it is taking relative to tax reduction and the paying out of government funds that will run way up into the billions for a bonus.

A FINE SELECTION.

From the very position which he holds there is certain to be recognition of the fact that a man of high attainments has been selected by President Coolidge for secretary of the navy in his nomination of Chief Justice Wilbur of California.

It is not necessary that the one selected for such a post should have had a naval training, and it is invariably a civilian who is chosen, but in this instance the combination of qualifications which comes from a graduate of Annapolis and one who has risen to the high position of chief justice of the state of California is impressive. The decision will be regarded as an excellent one with fitness clearly the outstanding feature. In going to the Pacific coast for his head of the navy department President Coolidge did no different than others have done. California furnished a previous secretary of the navy in Secretary Metcalf who also was a lawyer.

There are those of course who will and already have pointed to the choice as a political one. It was the noise that was raised relative to the offer of the position to Judge [illegible] of Iowa, and it would have made no difference to whom the appointment had gone the cry of currying political favor would have been raised. For that very reason those who attempt to attack the appointment show that they see only through political eyes, and their statements must be taken accordingly.

They will be without influence when it comes to action upon the appointment. Confirmation should come quickly. Justice Wilbur from the very position that he holds comes without political entanglements. He has been picked because he is, in the words of the president, "the man I need for the navy," and he has accepted the appointment because he is a man who has been brought up to serve his country and intends to see that the best that is in him is given to this department of the government. The fact that he has had a naval training and the additional fact that he stands so high in the law make his selection highly commendable.

BANNING BY DISTRICTS.

Admiral Plunkett of the Brooklyn navy yard recently issued orders to the effect that enlisted men must keep out of a certain zone contiguous to the navy yard. The ground for this was that they were coming under the influence of those with liquor to sell and were being observed upon the street in an intoxicated condition.

The idea of the admiral seems to have been laudable enough in his desire to keep them away from dangerous influences, but when he did that he also denied them access to institutions within that zone which are conducted for the benefit of the enlisted men, and also intended to provide places of recreation and good influences.

It was because of this order that the rear admiral was called to Washington and it was in Washington that he referred to the national capital as the wettest city in the country, only to be forced to explain later on that while he said that he did not do so from an actual knowledge of conditions but because of hearsay.

As the result of his statements to the department in Washington the ban which he placed upon the territory about the Brooklyn navy yard has been lifted. In his endeavor to protect the men and at the same time deprive them of wholesome privileges he disregarded the fact that it was not in that particular section of Brooklyn, or New York city for that matter, that the enlisted men confined themselves. There was no banning of Manhattan and apparently no restrictions placed upon other districts of the city where liquor or vice were to be encountered. The ban played one district against another.

It was evident that if the admiral was going to be as thorough as he should in his effort he should have made his order more sweeping. That the bootleggers of the district he picked should be dealt with as conditions require there is no doubt. Possibly the publicity given to the situation will cause the authorities to give more attention to what is evidently a problem which has heretofore failed to get all the attention it requires.

EYES AND HOPES ON DAWES.

From the time since he was named as the American representative on the committee that is scrutinizing the financial situation in Germany all eyes have been on General Dawes. Some indication of what may be expected among the committee's recommendations has been given and now it is declared that Premier Poincare of France is basing his hopes upon the Dawes committee report for the adjustment of the situation with Germany that will result in the clearing up of the financial position at home. Temporary relief seems to have been obtained, but it is permanency that is desired.

The Dawes committee faces the difficult task of dealing with the facts and yet setting them forth in such a convincing manner that they will make a favorable impression upon all concerned. It is by no means easy when it is realized that will require Germany to pay what it had made up its mind not to, and it will mean that French requirements under the Versailles treaty will need to be appreciated.

Developments have been headed for the point where a sane consideration of the facts would bring about an adjustment. There have been hopes that the Dawes committee would be able to accomplish this. Those hopes have not been abandoned. Much therefore depends upon the committee report due this month and in expectation of a successful effort by the experts all eyes as well as hopes continue to be directed toward General Dawes and his helpers.

THE BALKAN WAR CLOUD.

When trouble is not to be found elsewhere it can be expected that it will not be long before some such developments will be found in the Balkan states. They have suffered enough to desire the benefits of peace but they seem to prefer war. No sooner does it appear that a period of tranquility can be depended upon than some new outbreak arises.

Just now it is a question what is going to be the outcome of the preparations that are being made by Jugoslavia to block the intentions of Bulgaria. There isn't any doubt but what the intentions are that Jugoslavia intends to start the war kettle boiling in that region if Bulgaria doesn't abandon its seeming determination to get control of Macedonia.

The trouble has been smoldering for considerable time. Jugoslavia doesn't intend that the former Servian territory shall be lost and it is engaged in moving its forces to advantageous points. It is not to be supposed that should war develop as the result of the situation that the conflict would be confined to those two countries alone. The Balkans are not disposed to do things that way. It is a group that is easily entangled and it could be expected that all of the region would be more or less drawn into the struggle before its conclusion unless the provisions of [illegible] of the principals should be such as to bring about a quick decision.

Europe has had enough war to last it for one while, but no serious movement seems to be underway to adjust the differences in any other way than by resort to arms. While there may be a sentiment for a clean by those who like such things the situation in [illegible] is such that all possible efforts ought to be directed toward averting any clash.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: This is always one of the colorful days of the year.

Now that the little blizzard is over any spare time can be put in getting the lawn mower in shape for a busy season.

A March windstorm quickly discloses the weak and dead branches of the trees, the unstable blinds and the other weak fixtures.

From the instructions being given to republican delegates it seems to be clearly established who is wanted for the next president.

The same thing that prompted the sending of a message to Moses by New Hampshire may cause other constituencies to take similar action.

The worst of the predictions about how many people are to be killed by automobiles in certain states before the year ends is that they come true.

One of the great delights of the winter is studying the seed catalogues. But not any more so than receiving those seed that are relied upon to do wonders.

Congress must realize that when it turns down the president's request for an immediate tax cut it, in reality tells the taxpayers of the country that it is not interested in their welfare.

In believing the deposing of him and the abolishing of the caliphate as "Fundamentally sacrilegious and void" Abdel Medjid may yet elicit the aid of the league of nations for reinstatement.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Do not put lye solution in aluminum vessels.

Piano keys can be easily cleaned by rubbing with alcohol.

Soap should never be rubbed on silk underwear or stockings.

Use the enameled coat hangers for chiffon and georgette waists and skirts.

Spread butter on grass-stained white skirts and place in the sun.

Green corn can be roasted deliciously. Remove husks and silk and toast it under the flame in the gas range broiler.

Bermuda onions are in season; slice fairly thick, roll in egg and cracker or bread crumbs and fry in bacon fat. Brown well.

Green tomatoes and green peppers may be fried in the same manner. Slice the tomatoes, dip in oil, then in bread crumbs and fry in bacon fat or butter.

Worn-out stockings make good stove polishers.

When boiling onions, cabbage, turnips or any vegetable with a strong odor, boil at the same time some vinegar with spices in it. This will destroy the vegetable odor.

In pressing never put an iron on the right side of any goods except cotton. Always lay a cloth between the iron and the goods.

Wash the zinc tray in your gas stove then cover with vinegar, let stand a few minutes, rinse well and dry. All spots will disappear after a few such treatments.

Legs of old stockings from which the feet have been removed make good coverings to wear over your arms while doing dirty work.

Linoleum looks better and lasts longer if given an occasional rubbing with kerosene. All dirt or stains will be removed in this manner.

FOR FROZEN PIPES

The easiest way to thaw frozen water pipes is with boiling water. Before trying to turn a faucet that is frozen dip a rag in boiling water and lay it on the faucet for a minute and it will turn easily. If you attempt to turn it when frozen you may crack it or else crack the pipe. On cold nights be sure there is a teakettle of water on the stove when you go to bed and leave a stream of cold water the size of a lead pencil running in the kitchen sink. If the stream is smaller it is likely to freeze. Water in motion will not freeze unless the motion is too slight.

CLEANS COFFEE POT

To keep the coffee pot sweet and clean put a tablespoon of bicarbonate of soda into it, fill it nearly full of water and let it boil for a little while. Then rinse thoroughly with several lots of warm water. This should be done once a week.

TO THICKEN GRAVY

A good way to thicken gravies for pot roasts or stews is to put a little rolled oats, say a small handful, in with the meat. It may easily be strained when served and imparts a more wholesome flavor than flour or cornstarch.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Sapphire-blue chiffon is used to line the drapery of a white satin dinner frock.

Spring frocks in silks and crepes show much embroidery banding about the hem and neckline.

One piece dresses with large checks or plaids frequently have short capes lined with bright colors.

Cross-stitching in two shades of yellow brown or blue is used to decorate tailored blouses of cotton broadcloth.

The latest cloche has no brim at all. It fits closely down over the head and ears, but at one side it has an ornament of little curled feathers or of stiff ribbon cocked at a perky angle.

Angora plaids in tones of fawn and white are used for sport coats that have scarf collars with an embroidered monogram in one corner.

The carnelian, whose province it is to protect from sorrow and misfortune, today is being combined with jade to form some hatpins de luxe.

Street pumps of fawn and seal brown kid today are trimmed with a single gold line, which is most striking.

Very large checks, which seem to be a cross between a check and a plaid are seen on the topcoats for spring. Invariably the coats have narrow fur collars, among which the new "leopard cat" is a favorite.

Shoes very long and pointed, with the high heels against which the "sensible" woman rails—these are among the spring showings. Often the shoes fasten with one strap, and this around the ankle.

Separate heels and buckles covered with seed stitch embroidery in many colors are among the many novelties of the season. Or if one prefers there are heels and buckles of black and white enamel.

With the return of the sleeveless evening gown and the equally sleeveless cape have come again elbow-length gloves, with three pearl buttons at the wrist. White is the correct color, with no contrasting embroidery, although some women have recently appeared in evening dress of champagne color.

FOVORED FOR SPRING

Fashion's color scheme as reflected in the modes for the south and for early spring is of decided interest. Certain shades stand out in high relief, while the tendency to employ black and white in effective combinations is very pronounced.

Much yellow is seen, especially in the costumes for southern resorts and in the various accessories that contribute so materially to the successful ensemble of the moment.

Green has lost little of its prestige and the soft tone of moss green is chosen for tailored frocks of cloth and the more informal models developed in crepe, silk alpaca and flannel.

Powder blue, brick dust—a tone not unlike the rosewood of last season—and mocha are other colors that are favorably considered, while one finds a Chinese influence in certain bright shades of red and blue that are used for trimming than for an entire costume.

VOGUE OF REAL LACE

Real lace always seems a fitting complement to hand-embroidered net and organdie. This no doubt accounts for the fact that each spring sees a new version of the always adorable lingerie gown.

There is something appealingly feminine about these frocks, for only the most exquisite fabrics are employed in their fashioning and their beauty is augumented by the delicacy of the needlework and by the quality of lace used for trimming.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Be active! If you have your own housework to do, be glad of the exercise it gives you. And learn to do it so you make an exercise out of it, not a burden.

The inside as well as the outside of the nose should receive regular attention. It is an excellent plan to sniff up a little warm water every morning to cleanse the nasal passages. A little salt added to this nasal douche helps to cure or prevent colds.

Old age is a breaking down of tissues, elimination ceases to be as effective or as great, the system literally clogs with matter that chokes it up. Muscular activity will break up these deposits, will stimulate the body's system of elimination of waste.

For ridgy nails rub the nails with some good oil or cold cream, or better yet with vaseline and wipe it off, then rub your polisher thickly with a good cake or powder polish. And now polish the nails as hard as you can, going back and forth over each one separately with quick, firm strokes. It will take longer than the ordinary buffing but even so in a remarkably short time you will have polished off every trace of a scratch. Then wash the cream and powder from the nail and polish again with a clean buffer.

NEED OF ACCESSORIES

With simplicity the rule, it follows that accessories loom large in importance and the woman of fashion selects every detail with rare discrimination.

Earrings have suddenly regained their prestige and are shown in a wide variety of new designs, most of which are quite long and of the filigree type set with semi-precious stones. Both powder blue, the new color, and a brilliant red called gypsy red are a feature of costume jewelry.

The newest envelope bags have fob ornaments of beads or brilliants which are attached to a tiny pocket just large enough to hold a tiny gay chiffon handkerchief.

CLIPS FOR THE BIB

The baby's bib will stay in place more firmly if held by little clips of silver. These clips are fastened together with a fine silver chain. Some are in the shape of tiny Teddy bears, others are oval with little faces etched upon them.

WILL NOT TURN BROWN

When pealing apples have at hand a pan of cold water to which a few drops of lemon juice have been added. As they are prepared drop the apples one by one into the pan. They will not turn brown. When possible apples should be cut with a silver knife.

A DEMURE LITTLE BAG

A demure little wrist-bag of envelope design now on view here is in mouse gray suede. Its very neat, trim lines are relieved by tassels or bangles. The one note of color is struck by a small, vivid enameled brooch which serves as a clasp. The design is a Greek head.

MAKES SEEDING EASY

Put the raisins in a basin and pour boiling water over them. Let them stand for a few minutes, drain the water off and you will find that the stones will squeeze out quite easily without taking away from the flavor.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To remove streaks left in white clothes wash in clear water to which a little ammonia has been added.

Delicate colors in washable materials will not fade if before being washed they are soaked in tepid water to which a few drops of turpentine have been added.

Lisle thread and silk stockings will wear much longer if they are washed in cold water before being worn.

Immerse an ink-stained handkerchief in milk immediately after it has been stained, allow it to soak and the ink will disappear.

Iodine dropped on unstarched material makes a brown or yellow stain. The presence of starch causes the stain to become deep blue or black, while ironing the cloth sometimes turns the stain a dark brown. The method of removing these stains depends upon whether starch is present. Wash the stain in an abundance of water or soak it for a number of hours in cold water. The stain can be removed also by wetting with warm water and drying in a warm place, such as over a radiator, repeating if necessary.

WHEN YOU BUY SHOES

The worst sort of false economy is to wear shoes that prove after purchasing to be uncomfortable and badfitting. At the same time in these days of high shoe prices it is a shame to get shoes that you do not wear, in nothing is that adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, truer than with respect to buying shoes.

It is a good plan to persuade yourself that the shoes will never feel a bit more comfortable than the first time you put them on at the shoe store. Perhaps they will be less stiff, but it is a fact that a shoe that strains or pinches when you first put it on will give you trouble sooner or later. Don't go to the shoe store on a cool day for shoes that you will expect to wear in warm weather. Your feet are actually and decidedly more sensitive when the thermometer is high.

If you go around in flat heeled, rubber soled sneakers to do housework on warm days the chances are that tight, unyielding leather shoes are going to be unendurable when you change into them.

CLEAN A PANAMA

Clean your own Panama hat. It is easily accoplished. Take off the band and brush the hat well to remove all dust. Have lemon juice in one saucer and in another a tablespoonful of flower of sulphur. With a clean toothbrush, or some other small brush, apply the lemon juice over a small portion of the hat, and while still damp follow with the sulphur. In this manner cover the entire hat, then place it where the hot sun will strike it.

USE MENDING TISSUE

While piecing together a quantity of fur to make trimming for a coat and hat, one woman found that mending tissue and a warm iron saved endless sewing—a tedious task where fur is concerned. Stripes of colored lining were laid over the fur and the mending tissue and the joining was accomplished expeditiously and proved quite strong enough for the purpose for which the fur was intended.

TEST FOR EGGS

Boiled eggs which adhere to the shell are fresh. A good egg will sink in water. Stale eggs are glassy and smooth shell. The shell of a fresh egg has a limelike surface. A boiled egg which is done and dries quickly on the shell when taken from the saucepan is fresh.

FOR NEW KID GLOVES

It very frequently happens that new kid gloves split the first time they are tried on. This can be prevented by placing them between the folds of a damp towel for an hour or so before they are worn. The moisture allows the kid to stretch so that the gloves will give to the required shape without splitting.

RECIPES

Princess Plum Pudding: Two tablespoons gelatin, 1 cup of milk, 1 cup Sultana raisins, 1-4 cup shredded orange-rind, 1-4 cup cold water, 1 cup hot water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 ounce of chocolate or cocoa, 1 cup cream, 1-4 cup shredded citron, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup nutmeats, 1-8 teaspoon salt, candied cranberries.

Place the grated chocolate in a saucepan and pour over the water, and stir until melted. Dissolve the gelatin in the cold water, and then stir into the hot water. Add the sugar and stir several minutes. Remove from fire and add the milk, raisins that have been well washed, the shredded fruits and chopped nut-meats. Stir together thoroughly, adding first the salt and the vanilla. Beat up the cream until stiff, fold a little red jelly into this to give it pink tinge; then carefully stir it through the mixture. Pour into mold lined with candied orange-rind. When firm, turn out and garnish with holly and berries.

Marshmallow Tarts: Arrange marshmellows on biscuit or thin unsweetened round crackers, allowing one marshmellow to each biscuit. Cut a criss-cross in the center of each marshmellow and in each press one-fourth teaspoon of butter. Arrange them on a baking sheet or on a dripping pan and bake in the oven until the marshmellows puff and spread to almost cover biscuit. Remove from the oven and press the half of a candied cherry into each cavity. Arrange the tarts on a plate covered with a doily. Serve at afternoon tea.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Harold Box, whose reported discovery of a cure for pyorrhea is regarded as of as much importance in the field of dentistry as the discovery of Insulin was in the field of medicine, is a professor in the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, University of Toronto. Dr. Box is a young man scarcely more than thirty years old. He graduated from the Toronto dental college in 1914, was immediately selected for research work and has been a member of the faculty ever since. He at present occupies the position of professor of dental pathology and periodontia. In 1920 he secured the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Toronto. In 1921 the American Academy of Periodontology elected him its first fellow. For three years he delivered lectures in Columbia University, New York. It was in 1919 that the germ of the idea which he is said now to have perfected came to him and he has been working on it ever since.

Stories That Recall Others

Too Much for Jim

Grace, a stenographer, wished to have her hair bobbed. Now her sweetheart, aged 62, objected because he thought that a woman, aged 27, was too old for bobbed hair.

But off came Grace's hair. And when Jim arrived that evening there was a long grim silence. Finally she broke it: "Oh, Jim," she exclaimed, "I feel so young with my hair short—quite too young to go with an old man with a mustache. You'll have to shave yours if you keep going with me."

Jim decided that it was best to stop right there before matters had progressed any further. Jim is now calling elsewhere.

Too Risky.

Tom is a droll man of leisure who gathers at what is at times referred to as the cracker barrel association. He is usually cheerful but has been morose of late.

"Wall, I ain't gonna do it," he broke out finally.

"What's the matter, Tom?"

"Ain't gonna run for president."

"No?"

"Yep; ever' time they git a good one he ups and dies, or they shoot 'im or sumpin. Too risky. Lot o' good work to be did right here."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

22 Persons Buried in Debris.

Turin, Italy, March 16.—Twenty-two persons were buried in the debris of a match factory explosion here. Seven of them were removed later seriously injured. The others have not yet been rescued.

In King Tut's Time.

Folks in King Tut's time were not so slow. Carl Mitman, in cataloguing the ship models in his department of the Smithsonian institution, points out that Egyptians built boat-hulls of the correct form for speed nearly 4,000 years before modern scientific designers arrived at the same conclusions. Vikings had the right idea and Malay pirates had the waveline theory of construction down to perfection when English and American sailboats were clumsy tubs.

HARTFORD WOMAN'S SKULL FRACTURED IN AUTO CRASH AT NORWICH TOWN

Miss Irene Liebowitz, 21, of No. 27 Simms street, Hartford, is said to be dying at the W. W. Backus hospital, as the result of injuries received when the touring car in which she was riding hit a telegraph pole near the Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. She is in a critical condition her injuries consisting of several broken ribs, a punctured lung, badly fractured skull and possible other internal injuries. When taken to the hospital she was bleeding from the ears.

Miss Liebowitz with her sister, Miss Etta Liebowitz, were riding in an Auburn touring car, registration number 56,835, owned and driven by Harry Abraham Cohen, 25, of No. 24 Laurel street, Hartford. The three left Hartford about 11 o'clock Sunday morning to visit the girls' brother, who is a patient at the Norwich state hospital. As the machine was rounding the corner near the Sacred Heart church in Norwich Town the right hand side of the machine collided with the telegraph pole at that point. Both the women were thrown from the machine to the road. The car swerved sideways for several feet and came to a stop across the sidewalk with the front end against the fence, about 15 feet from the pole. Irene Liebowitz was riding in the front seat with Mr. Cohen to whom she was to have been married in two weeks time.

She was evidently thrown against the pole and then into the road. Mr. Cohen who was uninjured, with the exception of a slight scratch, picked up the unconscious girl and carried her to a nearby house and a hurry call was sent to the hospital for the ambulance. Miss Etta Liebowitz escaped with a shaking up.

Mr. Cohen and Miss Etta Liebowitz went to the hospital with the unconscious girl and Mr. Cohen remained at the hospital until about 7 o'clock in the evening when he was brought to police headquarters and held under bonds of $5,000 which he was unable to furnish Sunday night. Miss Liebowitz remained at the bedside of her sister throughout the night.

The local and state police were immediately notified of the accident and three state police officers were quickly on the scene. They conducted an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the accident. Mr. Cohen did not have his driver's license with him, it was learned. He claims that he rounded the corner at a speed of about 18 miles an hour.

The touring car, which Mr. Cohen had only recently acquired to use in connection with his repair garage which he recently opened in Hartford, was considerably damaged. Practically the entire right hand side of the machine was torn away. The top was ripped and smashed, running board smashed, rear wheels sprung, the gasoline tank was torn loose from its fastenings and the machine was otherwise damaged. It was removed to a local garage shortly after 4 o'clock.

CHILDREN DANCE GRACEFULLY AT CLASS RECEPTION

The reception for the children's dancing class of Mrs. William Ballantyne Penfield, held Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 at the Wauregan House ballroom made an enjoyable programme for 400 relatives and friends of the class members as they watched the pretty class numbers and the interpretive solo dances that were given with grace and understanding on the part of the little ones. The dainty dresses and the many flowers added a colorful touch to the afternoon which opened with the march led by Grant Denison and Lois Bussey, Bobby Agnew and Letitia Parker.

After the one-step and fox trot, the solo number, Fairy Tinka Bell, was given by Alice Moran who wore a fairy dress of yellow trimmed with silver. This was followed by La Peacherina, danced by Letitia Parker who was charming in peach georgette trimmed with peaches. Following the Bambalina fox trot and Pretty Peggy one-step, members of the beginners class who were costumes of blue trimmed with yellow and black braid gave a French group dance, Tourdion (Chalif.)

A pretty number was "The Seashore Girls" by Lois Bussey who wore a dainty dress of gold with spangles. This was followed by the modern polka and a waltz by the class and a solo number, The Shepherdess (Chalif) by Janice Richards who wore an appropriate dress of pink taffeta trimmed with blue and silver and carried a shepherd's crook. An attractive solo number was the "Bean Brummel," danced by Grant Denison, who wore a full dress suit.

The Nu-Sway fox trot and the Bee Bee polka were followed by a Dawning, danced by Helena Crandall in a dainty ballet costume of gray, pink, blue and yellow, and the solo dance, By the Firelight (Chalif) which was given by Deborah Parker who wore a gypsy costume of dark red satin trimmed with black and yellow and carried a tambourine.

The group dance, Jingle Bells, was given by Margaret McVeigh, Margaret McGillicuddy, Mary Prunier, and Virginia Rogers, in Christmas costumes of red trimmed with bells, and the afternoon came to a close with a one-step and the final march which was led by Warren and Ruth Le Pierre.

Assisting Mrs. Penfield were the Misses Margaret Dodd, Ruth Burdick, Millicent Disco and Frances Henault, who wore evening dresses, and boys of the high school class were the ushers.

The class gift to Mrs. Penfield was gold pieces and she presented a handbag to the patroness, Mrs. W. R. McCord. The music for the afternoon by an orchestra was in charge of Mrs. W. E. Stebbins, the class pianist.

One number on the programme, Irish Lilt, by Belle Martin, had to be omitted because of her illness.

DOUBLE FUNERAL PLANNED FOR MR. AND MRS. DORRANCE

A double funeral is to be held for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance of Plainfield who were instantly killed Friday night when their touring car was struck by a freight train at the Main street crossing in Plainfield.

That crossing is without a gate or warning bell but there are lights and a sign. There is no crossing tender after 7 o'clock at night. William Anthony of Washington, R. I., was conductor in charge of the train which caused the tragedy.

Mrs. Dorrance had been in Hartford for several days, engaged in research work, and her husband had driven to the station to meet her on her return.

PRESTON TOWN TAX GOES UP ONE MILL

Voters of the Town of Preston met Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the town hall for the purpose of laying the tax on the grand list. Appleton Main was chosen moderator of the meeting and a 15 mill tax was speedily voted. This tax is one mill more than the tax for 1923.

The grand list for the town as fixed after deductions had been completed by the board of relief totals $1,101,998, a gain of approximately $50,000 over last year.

LEDYARD TOWN MEET RAISES TAX ONE MILL

Voters of the town of Ledyard settled on a 24 mill tax, one more mill than last year, at the town meeting held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the town hall. The meeting was in charge of Charles A. Gray, moderator.

The grand list for the town as left by the board of relief is approximately $529,000, no material change from the list of 1923.

Railroad Men Entertained

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 16—The New London Division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, entertained the Providence division Saturday evening. The first event on the program was the bowling and following this, the entire party had a banquet at a restaurant. To put a fitting climax to the entertainment a dance was given in honor of the Providence division at the Crocker House ball room.

Attending Northfield Meeting

Miss Gertrude S. Avery left Friday for Northfield, Mass., where she will be at the meeting of the Connecticut Valley Intercollegiate Missionary Union which out of college student volunteers are attending.

TOWN MUST PAY SHARE FOR GRADE CROSSING REMOVAL

In answering the question propounded to it with reference to the apportionment of part of the expense of removing the grade crossings near the railroad station at Old Saybrook upon that town, the supreme court, Judge William M. Maltbie, acting for Associate Justice Lucien F. Burpee who was ill, has something to say about the "inept" way the law was worded under which the decision was given.

The question put up to the court of last resort was, "Did the public utilities commission have authority to apportion any part of the cost against the appellant town for the removal of the grade crossings?"

The supreme court reviews all the law on grade crossings, considered the question of wide public safety involved, with the main object and intent of the legislature in making the law, "inept" as that law is in places, as the opinion puts it, and then answers the question in the affirmative.

The court practically presented two issues to the supreme court. The first was whether the law as amended in 1923 applied to this particular case. The court quickly dismissed that issue, so far as it might benefit Old Saybrook, pointing out that the law took effect upon its passage and there was nothing in the wording to indicate that it was to be retroactive. As the movement to remove the crossing began in March and proceedings attending the commission's part followed from month to month, with the new law going into effect May 29, the court could not find that the case at bar was in any way covered.

The answer to the question laid before the court then turned on the interpretation of the various sections of the law covering the removal of grade crossings. The court rules on that section which gives to the state highway commission power to move or to eliminate a crossing in the public interest, with the public utilities commission to act in case the parties involved, including the railroad, or railroads, cannot agree. After the commission decides on the plans and cost it may apportion the cost "equitably between the state, the railroad, and the municipality" interested in the change.

The court finds that highways under the differing conditions now existing, have become of importance to not only the community through which the highway passes, but also to the state and interstate travel. The court reviews the requirements of safety and the need of action. It points out that in this case the wisdom of the change is recognized, that the cost is apportioned $10,000 to the town and the balance $158,000, to the state and railroad. There is no criticism of these findings.

FUNERALS

Hugh C. Callahan

The funeral of Hugh C. Callahan was held Saturday morning from his late residence, 145 Boswell avenue, at 8.15 o'clock, followed by requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. # COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

SUCCESSFUL PROMOTION OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Hartford, March 16—By the expenditure of approximately $2,000,000 for the promotion of public health in the year 1923 the people of the state of Connecticut saved more than $16,000,000 in the lessening of deaths and sickness, as compared with the average for five previous years, according to the biennial report of the state department of health for the years 1921-1922. The net profit to the state therefore, from its $2,000,000 expenditure, was $6,000,000 or 300 per cent.

The statistics were arrived at by applying the methods of calculation promulgated by the national conservation commission. Taking the five year period from 1913 to 1917 inclusive, it was found that the average number of deaths from preventable diseases each year was 35,299. These do not include the influenza epidemic figures of 1918-1919. The total monetary loss from these preventable deaths was computed to be $20,976,000 an average loss for each death of $2,-685.33. Applied in another way, this means that the state department values a person's life at the same amount, $2,685.33, much higher than the chemists' figures.

In addition to financial losses to the state from preventable deaths, there was an almost equal loss from preventable disability. The five year average total loss from this cause was place that $20,184,000, making a grand total preventable loss of $41,070,000.

The preventable diseases most expensive to the state during this period was pulmonary tuberculosis, which cost $6,420,000 needlessly. Next in rank is venereal disease which took $2,304,000 from the state wealth.

According to former Commissioner Blunk's report, there still remains a calculated, preventable loss of $32,-000,000 yearly, which can be eliminated, if public sentiment and funds will sustain the endeavor.

GREENWICH "Y" WINS STATE SWIMMING MEET; NEW LONDON 3RD; NORWICH 4TH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 16—Headed by Captain W. J. Meany, Jr., the Greenwich mermen, by scoring a total of 29 points, won the state Y. M. C. A. swimming meet held at the New London "Y" natatorium Saturday night. Approximately nine teams representing the leading cities in the state were entered in the meet. Of this number, but five teams competed in the finals. The Hartford and New Britain teams left New London after the preliminary events were run off, and did not stay for the finals although both teams qualified for the finals. The reason given by these teams for leaving was to catch a train.

It is expected that several national Y. M. C. A. records were broken by the members of the rival team. Although a confirmation on this report from the local physical director, A. B. Dawson, could not be made because he did not have the records of the Y. Y. C. A. on hand at a late hour last night. The meet was interesting throughout and unusual interest in the various swimmers was obvious. Several times a vociferous applause met the winner of some event.

The meet was well handled by the judges, who were made up of the various physical directors in the state. Only once or twice was the meet slow in getting under way. With this exception the interest in the meet from the spectators' point of view never waned for a minute.

But in winning the meet, Greenwich did not have such an easy time in doing so. Up until the last event, which was the fancy diving, New London swimmers were in the lead by a scant margin of a single point, the score standing 26 for New London, Greenwich 25, Naugatuck 20 and Norwich 10. The outcome of the points scored in the fancy diving which would decide what team was to win out, was announced by the judges as follows: Naugatuck, first place, 5 points; Greenwich with second and fourth places gained four points which made that team's total swell to 29. Norwich received third place, while the four New London divers failed to place. The final team score was announced as follows: Greenwich 29, New London 26, Naugatuck 25, Norwich 12, New Haven failed to score even one point.

Sullivan captured the lion's share of the prizes. He scored a total of 14 points, comprising of two first places, one second place and he was also a member of the relay team that took third place. Meany, of Greenwich, and Kundig, of Norwich, were tied for second place in the individual scoring with 12 points each. Although Meany did not make the most points he was the most scintillating performer of the evening. It was mainly through his final spurt in the relay race, of which he was anchor man, that won that event for Greenwich. Meany was only one of the many prep and high school swimming stars that made their appearance with the various teams that were entered. No doubt the fans present were ignorant of the fact that Meany is the brother of the fameus Miss Helen Meany, the national high diving champion for the past three years, and who held also the national spring board championship for the years of 1921 and 1923. Young Meany comes from a swimming family, so to speak, and is a swimmer of note himself. He was captain of the Mercerburg Prep swimming team, and was a member of the relay team that broke the world's intercollegiate record. In proportion to the events that young Meany entered in, he easily outscored anyone else in the meet.

The meet got under way officially soon after Bruce Edonsky gave a few demonstrations in swimming. He entered the tank first in a straight jacket, and later swam with his feet and hands shackled. He then had his hands and feet untied and showed the spectators a few of his famous long distance strokes.

Four teams that qualified for the finals in the 160-yard relay race were Greenwich, New London, Naugatuck and Hartford. The latter team was unable to stay and but three teams entered in this event. Sullivan, for Naugatuck got off to a good start and finished his 40-yard swim 4 yards ahead of his nearest competitor. Woodruff, of New London, the second man on that team, gained 3 yards on the leader of Naugatuck. But while these two teams were battling among themselves for the lead, Meany, anchor man for Naugatuck, by giving all that was in him for the final spurt furnished the sensation of the meet by forging ahead of both the New London and Naugatuck anchor men, winning the meet for Greenwich. The time was 1:30 and 1-5 seconds. Score, Greenwich 8, New London 6, Naugatuck 4.

The finals in the 40-yard free style was the next swim on the program. Sullivan of Naugatuck got off to a fine start and held it throughout. He made the course in the remarkably fast time of 20 and 1-5 seconds. Meany of Greenwich was second, Dexter of New London third, and Walsmith of New London fourth. Score for the teams was, Naugatuck 5, Greenwich 3, New London 2.

In the 60-yard breast stroke, Hanson's claim of a foul necessitated for this race to be held over again. Kundig of Norwich, who won the first race, was again the winner, with Seeley of Naugatuck second, and Raymond of Greenwich third. The time of the winner being 49 and 3-5 seconds. Hanson of New London fell out of the race at the end of the 15-yard mark.

The 220-yard free style swim was more of a duration contest than a fast swim. Kundig captured first honors in this race, his time for the course being 3 min. 21 and 2-5 sec. Cleveland of New London was second, coming in 20 yards behind the winner. Corey the third entrant in this race was 40 yards behind the second man.

Woods of Greenwich, with a plunge of 69 feet, the length of the tank, was awarded first place in the plunge for distance. Fosket, with a plunge of 67 feet, was second. Tagigian of Naugatuck was third with 64 feet 6 inches. Anderson of Greenwich was fourth with 61 feet and 6 inches.

In the 60-yard back stroke event, Walsmith of New London and Sundvall of Naugatuck led a pretty race all the way. For over 46 yards of the distance both were neck and neck and it was not until the final 14 yards that Walsmith by a final spurt was able to finish ahead of Sundvall by a scant two yards. Hanson of New London and Woods of Greenwich were third and fourth respectively.

The 100-yard free swim was an exciting race all the way. Sullivan of Naugatuck and Meany of Greenwich furnished plenty of excitement in this swim. Both Sullivan and Meany were determined to finish first, and an exciting race developed. The leader for the first 80 yards could not be determined, for both Sullivan and Meany were continually abreast of each other. Sullivan in the next 20 yards weakened and Meany won by a scant three yards. Sullivan finished second, and Dexter came in third. The time of 1 min. and 2-5 sec. for this swim was unusually fast.

In the underwater swim, Tracey led the other two men entered in the meet with a swim of 166 feet. Johnson of Greenwich was second with a 120 feet, and Seeley of Naugatuck was a close third with 118 feet.

Although New London had four men entered in the fancy diving contest, not one man placed. Sullivan of Naugatuck gave a splendid exhibition of fancy diving that was seldom seen in this city. He easily won first place in this event. Woods of Greenwich was second, Kundig of Norwich, the only man from that city, received third place from the judges and Meany of Greenwich was fourth.

In the boys' events, Poscavage of Naugatuck won the 40-yard free style swim for boys weighing 110 pounds and over. Palmer of New Britain was second. Needham of New London third and Meany of Greenwich fourth. The time of the winner was 35 seconds.

The last event on the card was the 80-yard free style swim for boys 135 pounds and under. Woodruff of New London finished first, Petrovasky also of New London was second, Snow of New London was third and Meany of Greenwich was fourth.

The officials were Dr. A. B. Dawson, referee and starter. Judges, W. S. Meany, Sr., Greenwich; W. A. Tetlow of Naugatuck; J. Hergstrom of New Britain. The timers were H. W. Rafferty, New London; W. A. Tetlow, Naugatuck, and R. Tracey of New London.

The final team scores were announced as follows:

| | New London | Greenwich | Naugatuck | Norwich |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 160-yard relay | 6 | 8 | 4 | 0 |
| 40-yard dash | 3 | 3 | 5 | 0 |
| 60-yard breast stroke | 0 | 3 | 5 | 0 |
| 220-yard swim | 5 | 0 | 0 | 5 |
| Plunge for distance | 3 | 6 | 2 | 0 |
| Back stroke | 7 | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| 100-yard swim | 2 | 5 | 3 | 0 |
| Fancy diving | 0 | 4 | 5 | 3 |
| Totals | 26 | 29 | 25 | 12 |

SISLER PLAYS SEVEN INNINGS IN GOOD STYLE

Mobile, Ala., March 16.— Manager George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns, played his first game since October, 1923, today, an exhibition affair against the Mobile Southern association team, covering first base for seven innings. He fielded faultlessly and was robbed of two chances to make spectacular catches of foul balls by interference from McManus who worked at second. Sisler was up four times and his record for the day was a fielder's choice, a strikeout, a fly to left field and an infield out. The former premier first sacker of the majors took things easy, not exerting himself.

NEW LONDON BEATS LOCAL Y. M. C. A. IN HEXATHLON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 16.—The New London Y. M. C. A. athletes won over the Norwich Y athletes in the senior hexathlon contest. The last number of events were run off at the New London Y last week. Norwich finished with their events early in the week.

In the final total score New London piled up a grand total of 2,578 points to Norwich's 2,254. A margin of 324 points separated the two institutions in total points. The leading scorer for the New London Y was George Gadbois with 447 points, while for Norwich R. Harris with 371 points led that Y.

MISS COLLETT AND MRS. HURD BEAT BRITISH TEAM

Clearwater, Fla., March 16. — Miss Glenna Collett, paired with Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, defeated Arthur Havers and James Ockenden, the British golf team, by three and two here today. The British golfers conceded a handicap of six isques which were used on their first nine holes and which gave the women golfers an advantage of four up.

Playing level, the British golfers should have won by four and three as they had a best ball of seventy-two against seventy-eight for their opponents.

SUZANNE WINS TENNIS TITLE OF SOUTHERN FRANCE

Nice, France, March 16.—(By The A. P.)—Suzanne Lenglen today added another cup to her immense collection by winning the tennis championship of Southern France. The French girl defeated Mrs. Covell, England, 6-3, 6-1.— Mrs. Covell reached the finals through her victory on Saturday over Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the California girl, but she failed today to give Mlle. Lenglen as hard a battle as Miss Ryan gave her last week at Mentone.

REDS AND INDIANS TO PLAY AT LAKEHURST

SHIP AND ENGINE TEAM WINNERS IN "DUSTY" LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 15.—The final curtain was rung down in the Industrial league Saturday night on the Y. M. C. A. floor, when the Connecticut Power quintet easily defeated Palmer Brothers by a 47 to 24 score. The second scheduled contest which was to bring together the New London Ship and Engine and the J. N. Lapointe fives was forfeited to the Ship and Engine five when the Lapointe players failed to put in an appearance on the court.

It was an easy matter for the Connecticut Power to gain a victory over the quilt makers. After the first ten minutes of play the Palmer Bros. outfit was never in the game.

Prince, with 14 baskets from the field, and Hutchinson, with five field baskets, led their team in scoring.

Gilliam and Terry for the Palmer five worked hard for a victory.

The lineup and summary:

TO ORGANIZE LIGHTWEIGHT BASKETBALL LEAGUE

A basketball meeting is to be held at the Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday night, when captains and managers of the various lightweight basketball teams are invited to meet with Physical Director Fritz to discuss the arranging of a championship series of games for the purpose of deciding the Norwich and vicinity champions. There are many good lightweight teams now playing basketball, and the matter of winning the championship which will include an appropriate award, should prove interesting to local cagers. Further information may be secured by calling or phoning Mr. Fritz at the Y. M. C. A.

"Y" EMPS BEAT THE WEST SIDE BASKET TOSSERS

In a fast basketball game, featured by good team work, the "Y" Emps defeated the West Side Ramblers on the Y court Saturday night, 10-12. The score was close throughout the game, being tie until near the close of the contest, when Brauman caged one from the field which gave the Emps the victory. The Emps are strengthening up their team for the series, and are hopeful of capturing the city lightweight championship. The lineups:

West Side—Segal f, Hyatt f, Donegan c, McDougal g, Kelly g.

Emps—Pascouche f, Brauman f, Hollender c, Bergeron g, Brown g.

NINETEEN-YEAR OLD BOY AGAIN DEFEATS HAUGEN

Estes Park, Colo., March 16.—Lewis Dalpes, 19, Denver high school boy, defeated Lars Haugen, national champion, for the second time this winter when he captured first place in the national amateur event at the Rocky Mountain Parks ski tournament today. Dalpes scored 226 5-6 points in the tournament to 203 points for Haugen.

CHAPMAN TECH FIVE WINS EASTERN CONN. HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, March 16.—Chapman Technical High of New London, by defeating Portland High by a 44 to 22 score in the final of the Eastern Connecticut interscholastics at Storrs, Saturday afternoon, was declared the champion of Eastern Connecticut. It was the third victory for the Tech five in two days.

In the Chapman Tech victory over Portland High, Hewitt and Andrews gave one of the best exhibitions of basketball playing yet to be seen on the Storrs court in a high school contest. This pair were largely responsible for the entire three victories scored by Chapman Tech in this tourney. Hewitt with 12 field baskets and three foul goals scored enough points to win the contest himself. Andrews' play was almost as good as Hewitt's although he did not score as many points as the Chapman Tech pivot man did. He fed the Chapman Tech forwards enabling them to score more points than he was able to make himself. The summary:

The outcome of the games held at Storrs, Friday afternoon and evening, in the first round of the Eastern Connecticut interscholastics are as follows:

At 2 p. m. East Hartford and Stafford Springs were the first teams to take the floor. After a close and hard fought game East Hartford was returned the winner by a 32 to 29 score. At 4 p. m. Windham High, beginning the contest with an entirely second team, defeated Stonington High by a 22 to 7 score. In the scheduled game between Woodstock and Glastonbury at 3.30, the latter team did not make an appearance and forfeited its game to Woodstock. The Portland and Putnam High quintets took the floor at 4 p. m. The outcome of this contest was not very much in doubt from the very beginning, Portland easily taking the Putnam boys into camp by a 34 to 15 score.

The first game of the evening took place at 7 o'clock with Chapman Tech opposing Tourtellotte High. Tech won the game by a 52 to 13 score.

Portland by winning over Putnam early in the afternoon, and Woodstock by winning a game from Glastonbury by forfeit, began the first game in the semi-finals. This game was played after the Chapman Tech-Tourtellotte High game. Portland High won from Woodstock by a 33 to 19 score. By winning from Woodstock, Portland remained for the finals. This team to play the winner of the Chapman Tech-Windham game.

In the semi-finals Chapman Tech, although not favored to win over Windham, as that team already won over the Tech about a month ago in New London, upset the dope and won a hard fought game by a 34 to 22 score.

By winning over Windham High, Chapman Tech was then scheduled to play Portland High for the championship. Portland players were in better condition for this game than the Tech players.

WHIRLWINDS TAKE EASY GAME FROM BATTERY E

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Western, March 15.—Nearly a thousand basketball fans crowded into the state armory on Dixon street Saturday night to witness the fast but one-sided basketball game between the Battery E, 243rd Field Artillery and the Madison Square Garden Whirlwinds. The passwork of the visitors was most speedy and accurate and when a foul goal was shot for the ball was as good as caged. The local boys, although outclassed by their speedy antagonists, put up a good exhibition and the gallery witnessed some good basketball playing.

It was a different type of game than that played on the previous Saturday night with the Silent Five for at that time the visitors insisted that when the ball went out of bounds or touched anyone on the side lines and referee blew his whistle and it jumping ball follow. On Saturday night however, the ball was "always in play" and a faster and uninterrupted game resulted. There were times when it seemed that the referee's whistle should have blown for fouls but as the offences were nearly even no marked objection was made. Many were the times when it seemed that the players were holding each other with both hands and the closer covering done by the visitors. So fast was the passwork of the Whirlwinds that the ball was kept from the possession of the Battery men for some periods of time. This condition was noticeable when the New York boys held the ball out in passwork away from their opponents' goal with the idea of "bringing out" from a defensive position the artillery lads. When an opening occurred a Whirlwind player would dash in and the goal was made.

Credit should be given the local management for going outside and beyond their team's place and bringing in a team to show local basketball fans, who have been constant in their attendance, an exhibition in which exceptionally good and speedy basketball playing was furnished.

The usual dancing program featured the remainder of the evening, following the completion of the game.

The summary follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Battery E | Whirlwinds. |
| Spencer | Henry Cohen |
| | Left Forward |
| Torrey | David Cohen |
| | Right Forward |
| Stenhouse | Lindblom |

Scoring — Battery E: Field goals, Spencer 1, Torrey 2, McCloy 3, Shortman 1, Plympton 1; fouls 4.

Madison Square Garden Whirlwinds: Henry Cohen 7, David Cohen 3, Lindblom 2, Herbert Cohen 3, McKew 4; fouls 0.

Referee, D. Harold Rogers; timekeeper, Alex. Greig; scorers, C. Mudge and Clark; attendance, 900; two twenty-minute halves.

WESTERLY SOCCER TEAM AND N. L. RANGERS IN TIE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, March 15.—The New London Rangers and the Westerly soccer teams battled to a scoreless draw here this afternoon. Both teams were unable to display their best play, due to a high wind that swept the field all afternoon. The high wind had complete charge of the ball, making it hard for either team to score. C. Weall for Westerly, had two good shots for the New London goal but missed both times, the ball going to the right of its mark each time. New London had a chance to win when Carlaw had an easy shot for the goal but due to the high wind the ball could not keep its true course. Grey at goal for New London, stopped one attempt made by Westerly for the goal.

Westerly was originally scheduled to meet Taftville today in regular matches for the Bulletin cup. New London is also entered in this league. It is understood that the Taftville team has withdrawn from the league due to the inability to get enough players for a team. Should this team drop out of the league, Westerly will engage the New London Rangers in the best three out of five games. These games will be played probably after this coming Sunday, for on that date the New London Rangers will play the New Bedford All-Stars at New London.

OFFERS GIBSON FOR SALE TO ANY CLUB FOR $4,000

Boston, March 16. — Frank Gibson, holdout catcher of the Boston Nationals, who wants a guarantee that he will catch more than half the games this season before he will consent to report to the St Petersburg, Fla., camp, has been offered to all the major league teams and at least one minor league club but there has been no takers, President Christy Mathewson stated at training camp today. He said that Gibson can only win a regular berth by showing his ability in competition with the other players at training camp. Mathewson said Gibson was on the market for $4,000.

Big Entry List.

Philadelphia, March 16.—This years entry list for the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival to be held at Franklin field April 26 and 28, is the largest and most representative in the history of the big meet. Although nearly six weeks off, Manager George W. Orton said tonight he expected at least 500 institutions to send representatives. The total number of contestants is expected to exceed 4,000.

De Palma Wins.

Los Angeles, March 16.—Ralph De Palma, veteran automobile race driver, defeated Sig Haugdahl, Norwegian pilot, in a feature speed match at Ascot Park here today. The Italian won by taking two out of three scheduled five lap sprints around the five-eighths mile dirt track.

Deep Thought Wins.

San Diego, Calif., March 16.—Deep Thought, brown colt from the stable of Commander J. K. L. Ross, today won the Tia Juana derby for three year olds.

Brazil is 46 per cent forest, much of which is little known.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"A show that just abounds in wholesome comedy and with pretty Girls and Comedians who know how to delight, will be found at the Palace Theatre beginning Monday, March 17th."

The top attraction for the entire week will be Marty Dupree and her Snappy Peppy Revue with 15 people who have every where made a hit. The Performances here, and Miss Dupree's hand picked chorus of beauties is sure to delight. Miss Dupree has an attractive personality and heads the show that has won her favor from coast to coast. The comedy element will be well placed in the hands of Bennis and Frank P. Q. Murray and others, include George Brown, Lew Cheon, Madeline Boland, Wallace Melvin, Steve Hughes.

The return engagement is by popular request, hundreds being unable to gain admittance to the theatre during their former engagement. The show is bigger and better than before new costumes, songs and beautiful scenic effects adding greatly to an already fine show. Miss Dupree and her company made a great many friends on her last visit to Norwich, and she has been looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to renewing old acquaintances. A feature picture "Women Men Marry," dealing with the problems of married life a Pathe News and a rip roaring comedy are also on the program.

BREED THEATRE

The Henry King production of The White Sister, starring Lillian Gish, and shown last night for the last time at the Breed theatre, stands as one of the truly great motion pictures. It is a perfect visualization of F. Marion Crawford's widely read story, told in all its dramatic intensity and filmed in Italy against the beautiful backgrounds described in the original. Miss Gish rises to supreme heights in the remarkable photodrama. Her portrayal of Angela places her in a class by herself—the one, real thrilling genius of the screen.

The actual eruption of Mt. Vesuvius is shown. Molten lava, flowing down the side of the mountain is pictured with the mouth of the crater belching forth its deadly fumes and fire. On top of this comes a flood, with an entire town being wiped out.

The White Sister is a picture that nobody should miss. It was made in Italy by Inspiration Pictures, Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and is released through Metro.

The White Sister will be shown twice daily at 2:30 and 7:30 for the remained of this week.

ST. MARY'S PARISH PLAYERS IN MAKING DADDY BEHAVE

The annual mid-Lent entertainment of St. Mary's parish will take place at the Broadway theatre, when St. Mary's parish players, a company of parish talent, will present the comedy, Making Daddy Behave. The cast have been trained under the able direction of James E. Murphy and the proceeds realized will go for the new parish memorial church recently dedicated. For the past ten years the parish players have presented an entertainment during the Lenten season and critics who have watched the cast at their rehearsals have acclaimed this year's offering to be far ahead of previous efforts, which is saying a great deal. The efforts of the players will no doubt be rewarded with capacity houses on both nights. Between each act specialties will be introduced, thus affording an evening of rare enjoyment.

SACHEM STREET AND McKINLEY AVENUE SALES

Mrs. Hattie A. Henderson has sold her four-apartment houses, Nos 49 and 51 Sachem street, to Charles A. Gager, through the Murphy & McGarry real estate agency. The purchase was made as an investment.

The same firm has also sold for Katherine C. Murray, house and lot No. 124 McKinley avenue, to Maude T. MacDougall, who will occupy it as a residence.

OWNERS OF NEWARK CLUB OUT LOOKING FOR GROUNDS

Newark, N. J., March 16.—Bernard Moan, William Ashton and Edward F. Monaghan, owners of the Newark club of the International league to whim the club franchise reverted upon direction of President John Conway Toole, Saturday, when Michael McTighe, Newark sports promoter, refused to deposit $25,000 he had been demanded by the league, will take steps tomorrow to secure playing grounds here, it was announced today. Already the new owners have secured two new players.

McTighe has declared that he will seek an injunction to prevent the transfer of the club's franchise to the Baltimore men, contending that the league has no legal authority to request him to post $25,000. He also asserts that he had until April 15 to provide a playing field.

McTighe is scheduled to appear Wednesday before Vice Chancellor Church to show cause why receivers should not be appointed for the club.

Investigation Wanted.

"What makes you think you were defeated by fraud?" "I paid for 100 votes in the second precinct, and the books show that I got a total of only 153 there. Our election system is simply rotten."—Cleveland Leader.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AT THE BROADWAY

George Melford's latest Paramount picture production, "Flaming Barriers," scored a knockout on its initial presentation at the Broadway theatre last night. Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Hiers, the featured members of an unusually clever cast achieved personal triumphs by reason of their artistry in what was declared to be one of the most dramatic pictures shown here this far this season. Sam Barton, a better golfer than an efficiency expert takes charge of the affairs at the large automobile machine shop of Patrick Malone in Burbridge.

"He becomes deeply interested in Malone's latest invention, a fast automobile fire truck, but more so in Malone's daughter, Jerry.

At a convention of fire chiefs Jerry exhibits the truck to such excellent advantage that they recommend its purchase to their respective cities —Jerry's chance to show off the apparatus coming when the dense fog at the convention is being held patches fire and endangers hundreds of lives. The girl goes to Burbridge after the truck in an aeroplane, and drives the engine to the scene of conflagration at high speed. Intense realism characterizes the ensuing scenes of this rapid-fire story, one of the best screened in a long time.

Jacqueline Logan and Antonio Moreno share individual acting honors while Walter Hiers gives an exceptionally clever comedy characterization. Charles Ogle is convincing as Patrick Malone, the inventor, Robert McKim, Luke Cosgreve and Warren Rogers are among the more prominent players in the strong supporting cast.

Other subjects including a comedy and news weekly.

"UP SHE GOES" BROKE ALL BOSTON RECORDS

While Boston has been especially kindly to musical shows and favorable those which pleased it with patronage, no musical comedy that has played the Hub this season has received the enthusiastic support and popular favor as did "Up She Goes," William A. Brady's musical delight which comes here to the Broadway on Monday, March 24 following its long run at the Wilbur, Majestic and Shubert Theatres in Boston.

Originally scheduled for the Wilbur Theatre for four weeks its engagement was twice extended and it then was moved over to the Majestic Theatre, where standing room only was the rule. Previous booking made a quick shift to the Shubert Theatre where it rounded out its popular and profitable run. There is no question but that the ability of a show to maintain its strong pace, despite several moves, reflects the wide esteem in which "Up She Goes," was held and the packed houses that since have greeted it in Worcester, Springfield and Providence are ample evidence that its appeal is not confined to one city or any group of people.

Prices are 50c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 plus taxes. Mail orders are now being filled in order of arrival. Send yours in today and be assured of a good seat.

AT THE STRAND

A program of B. F. Keith Vaudeville that is rightly named, super, is the program that will be presented at the Strand Theatre the first half of this week.

The all star vaudeville acts is headed by Lela White's Entertainers, minstrels de luxe in Bits of 1924. This capable company of funsters consists of five well known artists. Miss Lela White is interlocutor; endmen, Major White and Bob Blake; singers, Miss Mary Tomkinson, colortura and Miss Billie Tempest, queen of the blues. Such a group of artists has never before presented in Norwich in one act and is sure to take the town by storm.

The Vanderbilts are in an offering entitled "Rehearsing for the Millionaires' ball. It is as good as it is unique.

Charles & Lillian Gerard appear in an artistic vaudeville treat.

Lew Reed and Jos. Termini, two gentlemen from nowhere offer a very funny skit that is sure-fire comedy.

The steppers in "A Scintillating Dance Revue with Harry Lewis, Neal English and the Frederick Sisters.

All in all a complete show of this kind has never before been offered in Norwich.

A man killed and three people, two women and a man, accusing themselves of the crime, is a situation cleverly and logically accounted for, to be found in the B. P. Keith Thomas Production, "The Love Pirate," at the Strand theatre today. The manner in which each one of the three accused innocent and the guilty one discovered, is quite novel, a climax that is absolutely surprising and dramatic.

A remarkable cast was chosen by Producer Rich

SATURDAY'S MARKET

New York, March 15—Bear pressure against the tire, motor and tobacco shares, apparently based on unfavorable earnings and dividend rumors, unsettled today's stock market, although independent strength was shown by some of the medium-priced rail issues. Trading was largely of a professional character, as it has been for the last month or more.

Speculative fears for the safety of the dividend on Kelly-Springfield 8 per cent. preferred, action on which is due about April 1, were reflected largely in a 7-point break in that stock to 56. Heavy liquidation of the common seat that down more than 9 points to 17 5-8, a new low record for the year. Net losses in most of the other rubber issues were held to fractions, Goodrich touching a new low at 31, off 1.

Selling of the motor shares was based on unconfirmed reports that some of the leading companies were not finding a ready market for their cars and storing a large portion of their output. Chandler broke 3 1-2 points to 56 1-2, a new 1924 low; Maxwell A dropped 2 to 50; Stewart-Warner sold down 1 1-2 to 56 and Studebaker and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Pressure against the tobacco group centered in Tobacco Products issues, each of which dropped more than 2 points to new 1924 lows, on rumors threatening the maintenance of the 6 per cent. dividend. New lows in this group also were recorded by American Sumatra, common and preferred, Consolidated Cigar, common and preferred and General Cigar.

General Electric advanced fractionally to 236, a new high since 1902, and then broke nearly 4 points from the top on profit-taking Corn Products, Dupont and Gulf States Steel also reacted sharply on realizing sales.

Another decline in commodity prices resulted in further liquidation of the silk shares, Mallinson and Julius Kayser, dropping 3 3-4 and 3-4, respectively to the lowest prices of the year. Cocoa-Cola was again in supply, touching another new low at 63 1-4 off 2 3-8 in further reflection of speculative disappointment over 1923 earnings, which left a slight margin over the 7 per cent. dividend rate.

Chesapeake & Ohio was one of the active features of the rail group closing 2-4 higher at 75 1-8. Good buying also was noted in Norfolk & Western, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and Erie first preferred. Lackawanna and Northern Pacific were heavy.

The weekly clearing house statement showed increases of $37,745,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $700,000 in cash in own vaults; $47,000 in net demand deposits and $5,487,000 in time deposits. Reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve bank dropped $4,...

Breadfruit.

The breadfruit, with the coconut and banana, furnishes the chief food of the natives of the Pacific islands. That is why we call it "breadfruit," because, for them, it takes the place of bread. Apart from its fruit, the tree itself is a very useful one, for, when beaten out, the inner bark forms a fine white cloth called tapa cloth.

Quite Probable.

Wonder if, in 50 years, a man with a horse and buggy won't look as queer as a man wearing a coonskin cap would now.

The Busy Bee.

In order to store up a kilogram (two and one-fifth pounds) of honey, bees have to visit at least 6,000,000 heads of red clover, according to computations based on observances of their work by Dr. L. Armbruster of Berlin. Clover honey requires the most work. Fewer visits to other honey-producing plants are required, as low as 80,000 in the case of peas.

Crocodiles' Stomachs.

African crocodiles frequently carry a great assortment of bracelets and trinkets in their stomachs.

POETRY

Beneath His Wings

Keep me as the apple of thine eye, hide me under the shadow of thy wings.
—Psalm 17-8

Hide me under the shadow of Thy wings
O God,
I cannot bear Thy sun,
'Tis much too bright
For me;
I see the quietness of heaven things, O God
The goal I have not won
With heart contrite
I see.

In turbulence of thought, I am afraid, O God
The World with all its doubt
Fills me with fear
And dread,
I am not strong like Him who was betrayed, O God,
I fain would be devout,
But Faith, once near,
Seems dead.

I long have hoped for strength to bear the light, O God,
But when my soul doth look
Into Thy face,
'Tis shame
That binds me and destroys my purest sight, O God.
The shame that hath mistook
Thy love and grace
For blame.

Oh, make me strong to pass on light
Truth brings, O God,
From fear give me release
Lest I should die
Today,
And in the shadow of Thy loving wings
O God,
I shall find joy and peace,
All doubt shall fly
Away.
—By Charles L. H. Wagner in Boston Transcript.

Bobbie (aged 7, helping cousin to dress doll)—"What goes on next?"

Cousin—Well, really, Bobbie, I don't think I ought to tell you."—Bystander.

First Broadwayite (during violent rainstorm)—Some shower.

Second Broadwayite—You said it. Belasco himself couldn't do better.

Boss—Want a job, eh? Well, there's not enough doing around here to keep a man busy for an hour a day.

Applicant—Just the kind of a job I'm looking for, mister.—New York Sun and Globe.

Caller—What's your name, little girl?"

Little Girl—Hazel.

Caller—But what's your last name?

Little Girl—I don't know what it will be. I'm not married yet.—Chicago News.

Pope (according to the Yorkshire Post)—I hear that Charlie Green is going to be married next week.—

Little Robert (whose ideas on the subject are somewhat confused)—The last three days they give him everything to eat he asks for, don't they, papa?—Boston Transcript.

Nancy, aged seven, is lunching with her mother in a restaurant.

Mother (helping herself to sauce)—You won't like this dear, it's parsley sauce.

Nancy—Oh! Let me have some, mummy. I know I should like it.

Mother—Why, you haven't tasted it.

Nancy—No but I've read about it in the Bible.

Mother (surprised)—"Where?"

Nancy—I've been reading about the man who was sick of the parsley and I want to try it.—Brisbane Mail.

Injun Joe, called to fame by Mark Twain in "Tom Sawyer," died the other day at the age of 103. For more than seventy-five years he had answered the call of the wild up and down the Mississippi river, and never wandered far from its banks. The Hannibal Courier Post, says Injun Joe, whose real name was Joe Douglas, emphatically denied being the original of the fictional Indian, but Hannibal residents insist he is so. There was much of romance in his life. He was found in an abandoned Indian village of Callaway county, and reared by a white man.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

In School Days

Still sits the schoolhouse by the road,
A ragged beggar sunning;
Around it still the sumachs grow,
And blackberry vines are running.

Within, the master's desk is seen,
Deep scarred by rape official;
The warping floor, the battered seats,
The jack-knife's carved initial.

The charcoal frescoes on the wall:
Its door's worn sill, betraying
The feet that, creeping slow to school
Went storming out to playing.

Long years ago a winter sun
Shone over it at setting,
Lit up its western window panes
And low eaves' icy fretting.

It touched the tangled golden curls
And brown eyes full of grieving,
Of one who still her steps delayed
When all the school was leaving.

For near her stood the little boy
Her childish favor singled;
His cap pulled low upon a face
Where pride and shame were mingled.

Pushing with restless feet the snow
To right and left, he lingered—
As restlessly her tiny hands
The blue-checked apron fingered.

He saw her lift her eyes; he felt
The soft hand's light caressing,
And heard the trembling of her voice,
As if a fault confessing:

Still memory to a gray-haired man
That sweet child-face is showing;
Dear girl! the grasses on her grave
Have forty years been growing!

He lives to learn, in life's hard school,
How few who pass above him
Lament their triumph and his loss,
Like her—because they love him.

—Whittier.

Don't Give Up

If you've tried and have not won,
Never stop for crying:
All that's great and good is done
Just by patient trying.

Though young birds, in flying, fall,
Still their wings grow stronger;
And the next time they can keep
Up a little longer.

Though the sturdy oak has known
Many a blast that bowed her,
She has risen again, and grown
Loftier and prouder.

If by easy work you beat,
Who the more will prize you?
Gaining victory from defeat,
That's the test that tries you!

—Phoebe Cary.

JNCLE JED'S TALK WITH THE WIDE AWAKES

It is indeed unfortunate that there are some boys and girls who are never pleased with anything that is done for them. They find fault with this and they find fault with that. They are what is known as chronic faultfinders. Now fault finding very often leads to disagreeable arguments which result in unhappiness in the home. Fault finding and arguments should be avoided in the home, especially at the dining table. It is far from pleasant for those at the table to be forced to listen to continual complaints about the kind of food served and the way it is cooked or the things their brothers and sisters have done or have not done.

The truth of the matter is that the chronic faultfinder is plain selfish. He wants everything done his way if his demands and desires are not satisfied right on the minute he gets cross, peevish and touchy. Just because he is looking at life from the wrong angle and because the world doesn't appear as rosy as he would like it to be he seems to want everyone he comes in contact with to be as miserable as himself. That is a wrong attitude to take. Instead of trying to discover defects he should try to discover good points.

We should try to take things as we find them. It is not always possible to have things done right on the minute or to have them just the way we expect them to be. We should try to get all the happiness we can out of life. One way to be happy is to make others happy and we can't do that continually finding fault with or nagging them. Start the day right. Look on the bright side and not the gloomy side of life and give praise where praise is due.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

SHOULD DO OUR BEST

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to the Wide Awakes for a couple of weeks, but I have not forgotten it. I always look for it the first thing when we get the Bulletin. I think it is a great thing that we boys and girls can have a page all our own in such a good paper. It not only gives us pleasure in taking part to help make the page a success, but it also gives us a feeling that we are helping to make the world a better place to live in by doing our best. If everyone would only "do his best" this would be a better and happier world. I for my part will try to do my best.

Let all of us Wide Awakes and contributors to our page resolve to make that resolution, and keep it as long as we live. It would be a good plan if we would make small signs with that resolution written on them and hang them in our bedrooms where we would see them every day. Then we wouldn't forget it.

EMMA I. ROODE, Age 12.
Voluntown.

SAVES HIS EGG MONEY

Dear Uncle Jed: I have six hens. They are red. They have been laying eggs, but do not lay now. I sold my eggs to my brother and he paid me for them. I put the money in the bank.

HERBERT W. CAMPBELL, Age 8.
Jewett City.

SIX LITTLE BANTAMS

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written to you before, and I want to tell you about my pets. My mother had six little bantams last summer. Four of them died. I was happy when my mother said I could have the two bantams for pets.

Now it is winter and the snow is on the ground. They do not like to walk on the snow or ice. I feed them and they are not afraid of me. I can pick them up anywhere and they will fly on my shoulders. I take them into the house cold nights. I have a box with some hay in the bottom for them to sit on.

HAROLD CARPENTER, Age 9.
Canterbury.

MY FISHING TRIP

Dear Uncle Jed: One day last July my father asked me if I would like to go fishing. He told me to dig some worms. My father and I jumped into a boat and rode off to a place where there were a lot of bubbles. I baited my hook and threw it into the water. Suddenly I felt a bite and pulled and I was surprised to see a big green bullfrog. I took off the bullfrog, rebaited my hook and threw it back into the water.

Very soon I had another bite. I pulled hard because I thought I had a ten pound eel. I pulled with all my might. The string broke and I fell headfirst into the water. I got out of the water and asked my father if it was the eel that broke the string. He laughed and said that my hook was caught on a stump.

JOSEPH MIKLOJCIK, Age 12.
Colchester.

A PICNIC AT THE SHORE

Dear Uncle Jed: One Sunday my folks and I went to Quanochontaug on a picnic. We carried our lunch. We took our camera and took several pictures. We were going to go in bathing but my brother and his wife came away, and forgot their bathing suits so we didn't go in. I like to sit on the rocks and watch the waves roll in. We found lots of shells and pretty stones. We had candy, soda and ice cream. There was a bowling alley there. I liked to watch them play. We got some lobsters and brought them home. They were fine. It was 6 miles ride down there.

We went through Westerly. Afterward my sister and sister-in-law, her aunt and a friend of ours went down for a week. They had a lovely time. We ate our lunch on a porch. We had sandwiches, cake, coffee, pie, boocies and lots of other nice things.

A GRATEFUL PATIENT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you a story and the name of it is The Elephant's Memory. A beautiful elephant, named Lizzie, was taken ill, while the circus to which she belonged was exhibiting in London. She was led to a doctor's office, where she was given some medicine, which greatly relieved her and saved her life.

Some time afterwards when the animals of this circus were parading through the streets the elephant saw standing at his door the doctor who had helped her. She stepped in front of the house and reached her trunk into the doctor's hand. The whole procession had to wait while he petted her, after which she walked on with a pleased look in her eyes.

MY CAMPING TRIP

Dear Uncle Jed: Last vacation I went camping with four of my friends about twelve miles away from home. We took with us many supplies and six dollars worth of provisions.

Each of us took our dogs because they wanted to go with us. Everything went alright until one night when we were sound asleep we were suddenly awakened by the bark of my dog.

We soon found that a pony had strayed away from his pasture and had had stumbled and hurt his leg on some rock. Just then a man came toward the camp and said that the pony belonged to him. He proved it by showing us the brand on the pony. He thanked us for stopping the pony from straying away anw farther and he gave us two dollars each.

The next day we started for home with our dogs. It did not cost us anything for the provisions because the two dollars each of us had paid for it. We resolved to camp again next vacation if we could.

A TAME BLUE JAY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am interested in birds and I am thought you would be. I am going to tell you a story about a tame blue jay. Once a woman had a tame blue jay, who was fond of saving what he could not eat, and putting it safely away. The place he seemed to think most secure was somewhere about his mistress, and he would come slyly around her as she sat at work and try to hide his treasure about her clothes. When it was a dried currant or bit of bread she did not care; but when he came on to her shoulder and tried to tuck a dead worm into her hair or between her lips, or a piece of raw beef under a ruffle or in her ear, she had to decline to be used as a storehouse.

He liked to put away other things as well as food. Matches he seemed to think were made for him to hide. His chosen place for them was between the breadths of matting on the floor. Once he found a match; hunted up a good opening, and put it in. Then he went on as he always did, to hammer it down so tightly that it would stay. One of the blows of his hard beak struck the end of the match, and it went off with a sharp crack. The noise and the flame which burst out made the bird jump three feet and scared him nearly out of his senses. After that she took care to keep the matches out of the way of a bird so fond of hiding things.

FEEDS THE DEER AND BIRDS

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you, but I have read some of the stories that the Wide Awakes wrote. I enjoyed them very much. So I thought I would tell you about what I have done for the deer and birds.

One day while my father and I were walking in my apple orchard I saw three deer looking for apples. I went home and got some apples and threw them in the apple orchard. The next day when I went down there the apples were gone so every day I put apples there in the same place for if I didn't the deer would be disappointed and would not come there any more. For the birds I throw out pieces of bread and corn which they liked very much. Every day I did this, but when I would go out there would be no birds in sight, but when I go in and look out the window I would see a whole flock of birds. Five or six blue jays and about 20 or more sparrows.

One day while I was watching them a strange cat came to catch them. Quite a few days after that I went as usual to feed the birds and they did not fly away.

JOHN'S PONY

Uncle Jed: One day John's father said he would buy him a pony if he took care of it himself. John was delighted and said that he would take care of it. One day his father came home with a little black pony with a white nose and a white foot. John soon named him Whitefoot. John would feed him every day and Whitefoot became stronger. He was so fond of John that he would put his nose in John's pocket for some sugar. He would surely find some there. Whitefoot had a bad habit. Everybody who came in his stall, he would give them no room to pass. But when John came he would give enough room so John could walk all around him.

AN ODD NAME

Dear Uncle Jed: One day last week a funny incident occurred. Two little girls were talking about the new pupil in the primary class.

I never can remember her, said one of them. I know it is either "Highest" or "Lowest," but I always forget which it is.

The other little girl laughed and said, "It isn't either one. It is 'Lois.'"

WHICH WAS RIGHT?

Uncle Jed: There lived in Canada a little girl named Viola. She had many brothers and with one she played with from morning to night.

There was one field of grain in which the children took a great interest. They watched its growth carefully, but, in spite of them, the sparrows would eat the seeds.

"I am going to stay here all day in the field to frighten away the birds," said Viola. "I can make a scarecrow, and then we shall keep the birds away with no trouble for ourselves."

"My way is best," said Viola. "My way is best," said William stubbornly.

Viola got a rattle and settled herself in the shade of some trees on the edge of the field. She rattled vigorously for a long time, and no bird dared come near. Then the warm air made her drowsy and before she knew it she was fast asleep. What a fine feast the sparrows had then, to be sure!

William laughed at Viola's efforts, and made his scarecrow. It was a terrible looking creature.

"I'd like to see any bird dare come near that," he said proudly. "Now we may play in peace."

Other things filled the children's minds and it was a week before they again went to the field. There stood the fierce scarecrow keeping guard and what do you think? A sparrow had built its nest in his coat pocket.

A RAVEN'S JOKE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you a story and the name of it is A Tame Raven's Joke. One day the captain of a company of soldiers was absent. Then men were in the guard house, some taking a nap, others talking, or amusing themselves. A loud voice of command was suddenly heard outside the door, "Guards, attention! Turn out, turn out, quick!"

Supposing it to be the captain's voice, the soldiers instantly seized their guns, took their places in the ranks and marched out of the guard house. Here they waited for further orders.

"Forward, march!" immediately followed in the captain's voice.

The men looked around for the captain, but no captain was to be seen. The commands came from a tame raven, who was gravely watching the fun from the top of an adjoining wall. The men took the thing in good humor. They made a great pet of the bird, always thereafter called him Captain.

A CLEVER DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you a story and the name of it is "The Dog With An Eye to Business." His name was Fido, and he was only a little mongrel dog, but he knew that things good to eat were to be had at the baker's shop for money. So whenever he received a penny or half penny, he would take it in his mouth and run to the baker's for his treat. But how did he get it? He used to jump to the top of the half door leading into the shop, and ring the bell behind the door until the bakers came forward and gave him a bun or a biscuit in exchange for the coin. Fido would accept any small biscuit for a half penny, but nothing less than a bun would satisfy him for a penny.

After a time the baker became tired of the dog's frequent visits, and one day refused to give him anything in return for the coin. The little fellow was not to be taken in more than once, however. Always after that Fido put the money on the floor and would not let the man pick it up until he had brought the biscuit or bun that the coin called for.

THE YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Dear Uncle Jed: The Yellowstone National Park is a tract of land mostly in Wyoming and is larger than the state of Connecticut. This tract of land the government has set aside as a national park. It has many curiosities such as geysers, hot springs, and falls. There are many geysers such as the "Old Faithful", the "Beehive" the "Giant" and the Giantess." "Old Faithful" got its name because it sprouts up hot water from 130 to 150 feet every seventy minutes. The hot springs that send forth the boiling water, dissolve the minerals in the rocks and make beautifully colored terraces.

There are many falls and lakes on this land, which are very beautiful. The "Yellowstone" and "Big Horn" rivers flow through the canyons and make a very high fall known as the "Great Fall" which is 308 feet in height. The Yellowstone lake is a beautiful sheet of water nestled in the mountains nearly eight thousand feet above the sea and flows into the Yellowstone river.

Hunting is forbidden in the park and animals such as elk and bear lose all fear of man and come very close to you. A herd of buffalo is kept in this park and is said to be the remaining herd in the United States now. There are excellent roadways in this park and many people come here to gain in knowledge, wisdom and health.

THE SEASONS

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell about the seasons. Spring is a very pleasant time although the ground is damp. The early flowers are peeping out and the pussywillows are seen everywhere. Daisies and buttercups are growing profusely in the fields. Dandelions are blooming in the tall green grass. Snakesmouth and azalea are seen in the swamps. Many botanists are seen in the swamps and fields. Boys and girls are pulling the petals of the daisies and playing on the grass. The farmer plants and plows and the women are seen in the flower gardens. The fisherman comes home laaden with fish. Pleasure seekers are seen everywhere. I like spring because it is warmer and the trees are leafing out. School will soon let out for the summer.

Summer's climate is warmer. It is so hot that we do not like to work. There are many flowers now. Water Arum and Bouncing Bet. Many other kinds are seen throughout the country. The farmer mows and gathers the hay into the barns. The women pick the berries and the men gather the green corn and other garden products for the market. I like summer because there is no school and I can help mother.

Autumn is cooler and the weather is pleasant. The flowers are beautiful. The walnuts are falling from the trees and the children gather them. The farmer cuts his cornstalks and uses them for fodder. The men hunt for animals and fish for bass. The leaves are pretty.

Winter is a cold season and the ground is frozen. The snow comes and is hard traveling. There is skating, skiing and sliding on the hills and ice. The trees are bare and there are only snowbirds and winter animals. I like winter because there is skating and sliding.

OUR PET PIG

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you about our little pet pig. I think very much of it. We fed it on a bottle at first, but now it drinks out of a trough.

TWO LOST GIRLS

Dear Uncle Jed: On the edge of a certain forest is a high cliff, steep and rough, containing caves and large cracks with dirt where one can walk between the rocks. If we follow along in the cracks and over the rocks we soon come to the bottom where there is a little spring coming from under the rocks. It makes one feel so refreshed after drinking out of a cool clear spring like this one, especially on hot summer days when the water in wells is warm.

One morning two little girls Loura and Vivian were playing in a field picking flowers and eating the strawberries whenever they found some in the grass. The sun soon getting hot in the fields and the strawberries eaten up, Loura and Vivian started into the woods for flowers and berries.

Wandering all around seeing birds and hearing their merry songs, seeing chipmunks and squirrels frisking about on stonewalls and among the bushes, they soon felt themselves lost. The two girls tried to find their way out by wandering all around but soon had to take a rest because they were very tired and thirsty. They took a little rest but their thirst would not let them stop long so they wandered around again till they came upon a very small stream hardly a foot and a half wide.

The girls followed it up and came to the spring. They drank and drank till they could drink no more. Leaving the spring they climbed up between the cracks until they were on the top of the mossy cliff. Looking about they saw a road which they knew led to their house.

When they saw part of the house their hearts grew light although they were about a half a mile away yet.

After this in the hot summer days when they got thirsty at play Laura and Vivian used to go down to drink from that cold spring.

MY TRIP TO FALL RIVER

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you about my trip to Fall River. Sunday I had to get up about four o'clock and we started at seven o'clock. We passed two bridges that open. We saw I don't know how many big boats. We got there about 9 o'clock. Then we had our dinner. And we went to my other uncle's house and then came back. When I got home it was 20 minutes past seven.

I will tell you about myself. I am ten years old. I am in the third grade. I live in North Sterling. I live five miles from Moosup. I like books very much.

MY BIRTHDAY PARTY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my birthday party. I was ten years old. I invited ten children to my party, but only nine came. I enjoyed it very much. We had many things to eat. My father gave me a very nice Bible, and I got three other books to read, and have read them all through. I had many other presents too. I made some baskets for each person, filled them with candy, and put one in front of each plate.

STUDIES I LIKE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my studies. I like arithmetic best of all. I never used to care for it much, but when I was in the seventh grade I began to like it.

Spelling is another study I like. I was trying to get all one hundreds, but I misspelled one word at the beginning of this school year.

When I was in the seventh grade I had hundreds in spelling the entire year. Spelling is an important subject for without spelling one is unable to read or write well.

I was never interested in history. I always used to say it was a subject for boys, but I found out differently. Now I am very interesting in it myself. Geography is another study I like, for we can learn many things about foreign countries and our own country.

I don't like language as well as I do the other subjects, though it is an important subject in school. I am now in the eight grade.

FOUND GOLD PIECE

Dear Uncle Jed: Yesterday Mr. Lee told our grade to write a short story, and this is what I wrote. Honest People Are Not Always Rewarded.

It was in November when the wind was blowing in the trees. John Jones, a boy of twelve was riding on his bicycle to his aunt's house two miles away. The snow was melting and he could not ride on his sled for the snow was melted and it was muddy.

John did not have any rubbers on so he was careful not to get his feet wet. On top of the hill there lived an old miser who was greedy for money. As John was passing there the miser called him in and asked him if he found a gold piece for he lost it. John said no and continued his way. He soon reached his aunt's house and stayed there for two weeks.

As he was riding over the muddy spot he saw the gold piece lying in the middle. In his hurry to get it he fell from the bicycle and got all wet. He returned to his aunt's house to get her advice. She told him to return it. He gave the miser his money and started home in a happy mood because he was honest. When he reached home he told his mother what he he did. "Well!" said John's mother, honest people are not always rewarded. I attend Gurleyville school and I am in the seventh grade.

MORRIS ROLLFR.

A GOOD SLIDE

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you of a slide I took. Saturday morning my niece, sister and myself wanted to go sliding. We took the sled and went up the street. When we reached the store I saw it was good sliding toward Putnam. So we started. We went alright until we reached the hospital hill. I did not want to go down the hill. My sister said, "Come on," so I got on the sled in back of her. We were not half way down the hill when we met two automobiles. We just steered into the ditch. We all fell off the sled. I could not help from laughing although Irene, my niece hurt her nose. When we got home I told my mother of it.

OUR 16TH PRESIDENT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth president of the United States. Abraham Lincoln was born on a farm near Hodgenville, Larue county, Kentucky, February 12th, 1809. He was a poor boy and had no early advantages. His father was Thomas Lincoln and his mother was Nancy Hanks Lincoln.

Lincoln followed various occupations like, farm laborer, salesman, merchant, surveyor, but in spite of all the early handicaps he educated himself. He began the practice of law, at Springfield in 1837. In 1834 he married Miss Mary Todd.

Lincoln took an active part in politics, his ideas in regard to the slavery question were very well defined, and when this question became a campaign issue he was nominated in 1860, by the Republicans, and was elected. At the end of his first term the campaign issue became largely one as whether or not the war should be fought to an end. Lincoln won on this issue and was re-elected, but shortly after the cessation of hostilities, and in the month following his second inauguration he was assassinated, while attending Ford's theatre in Washington by John Wilkes Booth, a crasy actor. He died April 15th, 1865, and was buried at Oak Ridge Cemetery, Springfield, Illinois.

THE LIFE OF WASHINGTON

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about George Washington. George Washington was born in Virginia, Feb. 22, 1732. When he was eleven years old his father died. George was the oldest of his five brothers, and he was very athletic and strong. When he was a youth he became a surveyor. He surveyed Lord Fairfax's whole estate. When he was 21 years old he was sent on a long and perilous journey.

He fought many battles and later he was made commander-in-chief of all the American Armies. At the battle of Yorktown he made Cornwallis surrender so that the Revolutionary War came to an end, after seven years of hard fighting.

Later he was made the first president of the United States. When he died the people all mourned for him for he was first in peace, first in war, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

JOSEPH WISNESKE, Age 13.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Dear Uncle Jed: Sixty-three years ago there was a war. Abraham Lincoln was then the president. He was a poor boy who lived in Kentucky. He did not have a good warm house like ours and a nice clean bed. His home was a log cabin and his bed a bag filled with dry leaves. He had three books. These he read many times. He did not go to school much and read at home evenings by the light of a log fire. As he had no paper he wrote on his mother's shovel with a piece of charcoal. The people called him "Honest Abe." He was elected president just before the Civil war. He freed the slaves in 1863.

AN INCIDENT

Dear Uncle Jed: Upon passing a short alley a few sharp whacks of a whip reached my ear. Looking toward the direction from when they came I was astonished to see a man holding a whip in his uplifted hand and about to lay across the back of the horse. A large crowd soon gathered and the driver spied a policeman. Immediately he dropped the whip to the ground and began patting the horse on the head. After a sound scolding from the officer and also a threat that he would be arrested if he was found acting that way again, the man rode away and the crowd dispersed.

LONGFELLOW'S LIFE

Dear Uncle Jed: Henry W. Longfellow was born in Portland, Maine on February 27, 1807. Portland where Longfellow was born was a little village, but now is a large city. Portland boys listened to the tales of sea captains and longed to sail on the ocean. Longfellow liked to visit his grandfather's home because there he could roam through the woods, and go hunting in the forest. Longfellow's father wanted him to study law, but Longfellow wanted to be a writer. Longfellow is called the home poet, the child's poet and the beloved poet. Longfellow lived to be a very old man. Forty of his poems have been set to music.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Meeting The Farmer

"Here's where Mrs. Cow lives," cried the little rabbit as the old stage coach stopped, all of a sudden, just like that, in the last story.

"Farmyard Place," shouted the kind gander conductor. So out hopped the little bunny and Uncle Dave Cory. Then with a hitch to his knapsack and a swing to his red stripped cane, the bunny boy hopped through the gate.

But, Oh dear me. Old Sic-em, the Kind Farmer's Dog wouldn't let Uncle Dave in. Wasn't that too dreadful for anything? Well, I guess yes, especially as he had come all the way from New York City to visit in Rabbitville.

And there stood the Kind Farmer man in a straw hat and blue overalls

"Oh dear, and Oh dear, What shall I do?
I never would have thought this of you.
This is Uncle Dave Cory, I'm proud to say,
Are you really going to send him away?"
"No, Siree Misterman!" cried a voice

And there stood the Kind Farmer in a straw hat and blue overalls.

At once Old Sic'em wagged his tail and barked joyfully as the Kind Farmer put out his hand and said: "Howdy, Uncle Dave. Come in and rest yourself."

Well, you'll be surprised to know how nice he was to Uncle Dave when he learned he had come all the way from the big city to visit in Rabbitville.

He told his wife to get out the apple pie and cookies, and while the good woman was placing the plates and paper napkins on the table, he read three jokes aloud from an old almanac.

Perhaps they would have eaten all the cookies and looked through the family album, if, all of a sudden, Cocky Doodles hadn't begun to crow on the kitchen doorstep.

"Holy Macheral!" cried the Kind Farmer wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, forgetting in his excitement the nice clean paper napkin at his plate, "Can you see through the keyhole? You must be standing on tiptoe." And would you believe it, if I didn't tell you? The little rooster answered:

"Oh yes, I see a little rabbit.
His cane and knapsack, too.
I'm sure his mother washed his face
And combed his curly queue.
He looks so very neat and trim,
And has so sweet a smile,
I'm sure that Uncle Dave will stay
And visit us awhile."

But dear me! It was growing so late the little rabbit could wait no longer. And it was a good thing he didn't for I guess Lady Love, his pretty mother would have been dreadfully worried for fear Danny Fox had caught him if he hadn't come home that night.

"Goor night, David Cory,
Any time of day,
You're as welcome here about
As flowers in hay."

said the Kind Farmer as Uncle Dave and Little Jack Rabbit hurried away.

COVENTRY

The Ladies' society held a meeting in the chapel Wednesday from 10.30 to 4 p m.

Mr. St. John, the music teacher and Miss Danehy, the school nurse, found the traveling so bad for their car after leaving the state road, Thursday, that they engaged J. R. Lee to take them to the other schools to be visited, with his team and sled.

Two more cases of chicken pox developed in District No. 8.

F. N. Turner spent Wednesday night and Thursday in Rockville with his brother Howard, who is very ill.

The Ready Helpers held a St. Patrick social Friday evening. The young ladies furnished boxes with lunch for two.

The March teachers' meeting was held Monday afternoon at the first district school.

Notice has been posted for the republican caucus Wednesday to elect delegates to the state convention.

The Gardner Hall Co. of Willington discontinued taking any more spool birches for this year having received the supply needed. Many of the farmers have availed themselves of the opportunity to dispose of their small birches for the past two months. The largest number of cords taken in was by Herman Shuff, of Silver street.

The severe storm of Tuesday brought to mind the one of 36 years ago. Many trees were blown down and telephones were out of order.

WOODSTOCK VALLEY

The worst blizzard in years struck the town Tuesday and Wednesday. Telephones were out of order and there was no mail.

Mrs. S. S. Carpenter was called to Hartford on account of the illness of her daughter, Miss Bessie L. Carpenter, a teacher in the public school. Clovis Carpenter returned to Worcester last week after spending two weeks in town.

RESOLUTIONS

At a Special Meeting of the Directors of The Aspinock Company held on March 15, 1924, the following minutes were adopted:

In the sudden and untimely death of Robert C. Johnson, Assistant Treasurer, The Aspinock Company has lost an officer faithful in the discharge of his duties and always interested to give of his best. He was unfailingly courteous and considerate, unselfish and modest, and was actuated by the highest ideals. To know him was to admire and respect him for the attributes of a thorough gentleman, which he possessed to an unusual degree. All with whom he came in contact have been deprived of a fine association with a noble friend. His memory will long be cherished with most affectionate regard.

As a mark of respect the Directors have voted to spread these minutes on the permanent records of the Company and cause them to be published in The Norwich Bulletin and Evening Record.

Attest:

PHILIP A. JOHNSON, Secretary.

FARM BUREAU HORSE SALE

STATE CAMP GROUND
NIANTIC AT 1.30 P. M.
THURSDAY MARCH 20

Thirty head of Horses, direct from North Dakota farmers, will be sold at Auction under a positive guarantee. The horses are accustomed to all classes of farm work and are mostly Percheron and Belgian breeding from 5 to 9 years old and weigh from 1300 to 1600 pounds. A committee appointed by the New London County Farm Bureau will inspect and hitch all the horses prior to the sale and will report on each horse at the sale. This is the THIRD consecutive year that the North Dakota Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Farm Bureaus of the Eastern States is holding cooperative sales of this kind. Practically every horse sold by us in the past two years has given splendid satisfaction. Ask your County Farm Bureau about our sales.

NURSING SERVICE COST INSURANCE CO. $1,953,000

Sickness among policyholders cost the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company $1,953,000 last year for nursing service alone. Over half a million cases were cared for by visiting nurses, working directly for the company or under arrangement with local nursing associations. They made 1,442,000 visits at an average cost to the company per visit of 80 cents.

Patients averaged 27 per thousand policyholders and 22-percent. of the total number visited were maternity cases. The ratio for maternity cases varied in different sections of the territory covered by the company's welfare work. In Canada, for instance 61 per cent. of the cases were maternity, while on the Pacific Coast only 13-per cent. were mothers or expectant mothers. In New York state, the average was 22-per cent.

The report, just issued by Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Second Vice President of the company, calls attention to the fact that during the fifteen years of welfare work, the Metropolitan has spent $15,681,000.

JEWETT CITY MAN SHOOTS HIS WIFE. IN HAND IN SHERMAN ST. HOUSE

Two shots heard in the Falls neighborhood Saturday night about 8 o'clock disclosed the fact that Mrs. Delia Selonski, 35, of Jewett City had been shot by her husband, Joseph Selonski, 32, a mill worker in that borough. The woman received two bullets through the palm of her right hand in a struggle in the hallway of the house, 8 Sherman street, from which Selonski escaped after the shooting, but was later arrested in Union square and locked up on the charge of assault with intent to kill.

Selonski offered but little explanation of his attack on his wife except to say that there was another man in the case. According to the police he seemed to be under the influence of a drug or liquor and threatened to kill himself after his arrest, in consequence of which a close watch was kept of him in his cell at police headquarters.

News of the shooting reached Capt. D. J. Twomey at police headquarters in a telephone message from Charles Barber, who runs a barber shop at 164 Sachem street, that he had heard two shots and had seen a woman run out of the house at 8 Sherman street with hand covered with blood. Officer Pounch and Gwazdowski were hurried up there in a jitney and Dr. Louis T. Casaldy was summoned to attend the woman. When the officers arrived the man was gone and no gun could be found, nor were any bullets located. Dr. Casiedy took the woman to the Backus hospital for treatment.

Selonski was arrested in Union square where he was inquiring for a jitney to take to Jewett City. From what was learned about the family differences, it was understood that the woman had left husband and several children in Jewett City about a week ago and had come here, living with a family on Sherman street. Her husband found her there Saturday night and they had a struggle in the hallway of the house during which she was shot. Because of her injuries the police did not consider it advisable to question her Saturday night at the hospital.

DENIED MOTION TO SET VERDICT ASIDE

Before Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court motion list Friday at New London, a motion to arrest a verdict in favor of the defendant in a suit brought by Mrs. John M. Callahan of New London against Mrs. Mary Farley of that city and New York, was overruled.

Mrs. Callahan sued for specific performance of contract for the sale of a piece of property on Pequot avenue, near Neptune park. The contract called for a 50-foot strip, but there was no way of determining whether the strip which Mrs. Callahan wishes to purchase consisted of the first 50 feet north or the first 50 feet south.

The petition of James G. Vozella of New London to change his name to James G. Lord was granted. Mr. Vozella's mother was divorced from Angelo Vozella in December, 1903, and allowed to resume her maiden name of Fanny B. Lord, and later divorced from William Murray, her second husband, and again allowed to resume her maiden name.

John Danko of Windham was before Judge Avery to show cause why he should not be committed to jail for contempt of court in not complying with a recent order of the court to pay alimony to his divorced wife. The case was continued from last Friday. Attorney R. M. Douglass of Norwich, representing Mrs. Danko, is confined to his home by illness, and the case was further continued. Judge Avery stated, however, that if Attorney Douglass will so request, the writ order Danko arrested and put in jail until he is ready to pay the alimony as ordered by the court.

The alleged failure of Frederick R. Knapp, of New London, to pay alimony of $3 per week, pending the hearing of the divorce action brought by his wife, Hazel N. Knapp, has resulted in her attorney instituting action to hold Knapp in contempt of court. In superior court on Nov. 9, 1921, Knapp was ordered to pay the above-named sum.

His wife alleges that he paid her a total of $18 and then ceased payments, and estimates that the amount he is now in arrears totals $339. The case was before Judge Avery and continued for a week.

Other motion list matters were disposed of as follows:

Ziminski vs. Kelley, plaintiff's appeal from ruling of clerk on bill of costs, postponed; Macpherson, et al., trustees vs. Ableman, judgment making temporary injunction permanent, off; Hrynko Bodnas vs. Anna Bodnas, alias—, order for payment of counsel fees and alimony pendente lite to defendant, order entered for $50, of which $25 in one week and $25 at time of trial; town of Norwich vs. Mary Donovan, et al, motion that the Norwich Savings Society be made a party defendant, off; Mersicata vs. Mersicata, alimony pendente lite, off; Gada vs. Cole, disclosure of defense or judgment, off; Hygienic Fibre company vs. Versailles Sanitary Fible Mills, Inc., order authorizing payment of expenses of counsel, order entered; Choman vs. Homan, bond for prosecution, $75 in two weeks; Shannon, et al vs. Silberman, et al., 1, disclosure of defense, if any, 2, if no defense, foreclosure and limitation of time for redemption, postponed.

The majority of us would have to work twenty-four hours a day if we were to love our neighbor as they do themselves.

Champ Clark's Daughter Candidate For Congress

Mrs. James M. Thomson, wife of Colonel Thomson, New Orleans publisher, and a daughter of the late Champ Clark, for many years Speaker of the House of Representatives and once a leading contender of the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Mrs. Thomson's name has been suggested by leading politicians of New Orleans to represent that city in Congress to fill the unexpired term of the late H. Garland Dupre. The former Genevieve Clark is one of the most prominent, as well as the most attractive, women in Louisiana society.

FOUND 11,000 ACCIDENTS DUE TO BAD DRIVING

Following the announcement that damage estimated at nearly eight million dollars was done by 17,000 motor vehicle accidents in Connecticut last year, of which at least 11,000 were due to bad driving, the state motor vehicle department has disclosed that it suspended the licenses of 1,236 operators during the year.

The suspension total for 1923 was nearly three times as large as that for the previous year, when 1,835 operators were deprived of the right to drive motor vehicles on the public highways of Connecticut, and nearly five times as large as the 1921 total, when there were 1,184 suspensions by the commissioner of motor vehicles.

Increased recklessness in the early part of last summer led police court judges to impose more jail sentences for the offense than ever before and, in an additional effort to check dangerous driving, the motor vehicle department inaugurated a policy of suspending licenses for first convictions for reckless driving. Consequently, over 1,000 of the total number of suspensions for the year were for this offense, and 778 were for driving while under the influence of liquor. Only $94 were suspended for the latter offense in 1923, while 110 licenses were taken in for reckless driving.

At least a dozen of the suspensions ordered by the commissioner are likely to have the effort of permanently disqualifying the operators involved for driving motor vehicles in Connecticut, as the suspension order may be reversed only after a hearing before the commissioner. These operators have been repeatedly involved in avoidable accidents for which they have been found responsible by the department, which has considered that the public safety demanded their removal from the highways as operators of motor vehicles.

FOUR INITIATED BY LOYAL SAMARITAN LODGE

Loyal Samaritan Lodge, No. 7874, I. O. O. F., M. U., of Baltic held its regular business meeting Thursday night. Four candidates were initiated and after the business session coffee and sandwiches were served. During the social hour the following numbers were given:

Son, George Hollingsworth of Norwich; recitation, Clancy's Wooden Wedding and Cohen on Prohibition, by Arnold Bewart; stump speech by William Flowers; song, Charlie Wouldn't Do It, Samuel Johnson; song, Otto Cromwell; jokes, Charles Barnes; English Ditties, Mr. Turner of Norwich; remarks; Frank Adams; jokes, Mr. Lake, Taftville.

Visitors were present from Osgood Lodge of Norwich. It was voted to hold the annual ladies night and anniversary celebration April 12, and a committee was appointed to take charge of the arrangements.

JUDGES SELECTED FOR COUNTY FAIR ENTRIES

The following judges have been selected to officiate at the New London County agricultural fair next September 1, 2 and 3.

Poultry: John H. Drevenstedt, Plandome, N. J., assisted by Hiram W. Shriver, of Groton, for poultry in the juvenile and senior departments.

Vegetables: Prof. Samuel Damon, R. I. state college, for juvenile and senior vegetables and garden truck.

Cattle, swine and sheep: Prof. L. V. Tirrell, New Hampshire state college, for cattle in senior department.

Pet Stock and Pigeons: Hiram Schriver of Groton for pet stock and pigeons.

Cake, Bread, Honey: Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan, Montville.

Flowers: Prof. Roland H. Patch, of Storrs.

The fair officials have also planned a change in the entertainment program which will add to the pleasure of those attending the fair. Arrangements have been made with the Northeastern Balloon company to have all ascensions made promptly at 4 o'clock in the afternoon (Standard Time).

Another meeting of the executive committee of the association is to be held Thursday morning at the office of Secretary Ross, when Mr. Brundage of the Connecticut Agricultural college will be present.

PICTURES AND ADDRESS AT Y. M. C. A. SERVICE

At the 4 o'clock service at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon moving pictures of an educational nature were shown, including "the story of a snowflake," Crystallization and "the life story of a pearl". Each reel was of real interest. The snowflake reel pictures the various beautiful shapes of the snow as it falls to the ground, and how the flake was formed. The reel on crystallization showed divers under water seeking the beautiful crystals, etc. The reel on the pearl showed how the pearl was formed because of an irritation in the oyster.

Hugh Kinder rendered two vocal solos, and the scripture was read responsively, after which prayer was offered. Between the reels General Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk in part as follows: I want to speak to you today on this topic, "Quiet Forces Oftimes the Most Effective and Powerful." Who can estimate the power of the sun; it warms the earth and purifies the air, and without the sun vegetation would wither and die; the great "King of Day" is very powerful and effective and yet it performs its great work absolutely silently! Electricity is at once useful, powerful and effective; it has turned the night into day and turns millions of wheels, and we could spend hours telling of its many benefits to mankind, and yet it moves with quietness. The modern miracle, the radio brings thousands of messages in speech and music and gladdens millions of lives, and yet in carrying its messages no one hears them until we capture them at our receiver sets in our homes. The snowflake moves noiselessly; it is a thing of beauty, as seen pictured on the screen; when everything is covered with snow, we think of purity; we say that there is little power in the snow, but listen; do you recall the occasion when after the great Napoleon has won many victories in warfare, he attempted yet another; he led his men against the enemy sure of victory; it began to snow and the result was that Napoleon by the avalanche of snow, and many of his brave soldiers perished. A human life lived quietly but surely for God, is usually much more powerful than the noisy life. I suppose those who knew the first president, of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. the late W. R. Burnham, would tell you that he was a most quiet man and gentle, and yet his influence in our city was great and is great today for all that is true and uplifting. It is said that "still waters run deep" and I suppose that quiet lives lived for God are the most deeply spiritual and therefore the most powerful. The world little cares for what we say, but they do not fail to take note of what we are in our daily lives. So let us each one follow the perfect example of the quiet Christ as he moved among men to help and to bless and our lives will count for much in the days to come.

FITCHVILLE Y GROUP SUPPER AFTER MEETING

The Fitchville Y. M. C. A. held a special meeting last week at their regular headquarters, Palmer Hall, Fitchville. One new member, Boyd Austin, was received and routine business was transacted. Following the business session the boys were served a three course supper by the social committee, Franklyn Nye, Albert Tolson, Fred Speerli, Martin Gilman and Ellsworth Powers.

The group had as guests M. J. Thompson, Frank Palmer and O. S. Maples of the Y. M. C. A. committee. Rev. J. Speerli, pastor of the Fitchville Baptist church, and C. S. Bailey, the county Y. M. C. A. secretary.

Social games were enjoyed. The Fitchville group stands high in the athletic contest being conducted by the county "Y" groups throughout the state. Ellsworth Powers and Franklyn Nye are leaders of the Fitchville group.

Five Baptized

Following the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church five people received baptism at the hands of Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church. Baptismal services will not be held again for at least two weeks owing to special services.

PAYS ELOQUENT TRIBUTE TO SAINT PATRICK

A congregation that filled every seat at St. Patrick's church Sunday evening listened with the deepest appreciation to an eloquent address upon St. Patrick by Rev. Joseph H. King of New Milford, a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy in 1898.

In recognition of the anniversary of Ireland's patron saint the altar lights and the lights on the angel statues were in green and the American flag was displayed on the gospel side and the Irish flag on the epistle side of the altar. For half an hour before the vesper service Organist Frank L. Farrell rendered a program of Irish airs, played with a depth of feeling that made an impressive appeal to the congregation.

Mercadante's Vespers were sung by the choir, the Veni Creator by Frank R. Murdy whose rich baritone was heard with fine effect, and the soloists included Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. Joseph Eilers, Miss Loretta Ballafleur, Frank G. Aubrey and Daniel Gleason.

Speaking of St. Patrick as the great spiritual general of the Irish nation, Father King said it was entirely appropriate that we should honor the memory of him who took from the fair brow of Erin the veil of infidelity. Into the Gethsemane of her darkness came the voice of one from across the sea, whose life was of exceptional interest, although the mists of conjecture shroud the exact time and place of his birth. On Tara's hill, amid her chieftains and her kings, her druids and her bards, he told the Irish of the vision that had come to him. It appealed to the imagination of Ireland which never yet failed to recognize a thing of beauty. Those Irish hearts were melted and as St. Patrick's voice rang through the island thousands of shrines arose in that one-time pagan land, a convent-alone glorious and complete and without the blood of a single martyr.

From the advent of Christianity began the golden age of the Emerald Isle, three successive centuries of peace, prosperity and learning till the nations of the world bestowed upon her the title Isle of the Saints and the Saved. These three hundred years of peace and sunshine revealed the genius and the capabilities of Ireland, but from the eighth century the history of Ireland has been nothing but an unremitting struggle against injustice. As no other nation, Ireland has been called upon to pass through the crucible of suffering at the hands of aggressors, but the spark of faith which Patrick planted has been kept alive in the Irish heart by her spiritual leaders. She never swerved, never despaired, or raised her voice against God, but bowed in submission, sustained by the strength of her imperishable faith planted in the Irish heart by Patrick fifteen hundred years ago.

Father King closed his sermon with an impassioned appeal that Ireland may again be united in faith and freedom, that the torch of her faith that has always shone so brilliantly may once more win her the title of Isle of the Saints, and that the Divine Father, in His justice, may grant her that crown of national liberty to which she has established her right by so many ages of unswerving fidelity.

Will Raise Methodist Budget

The annual canvass of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church to raise money for the church budget for 1924 is to take place next Sunday afternoon. John B. Stanton is in charge of the every-member canvass and members of the church have volunteered to act on the committee to call upon church members.

ACCUSED OF DRIVING WHILE UNDER INFLUENC

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, March 16.—Soon after 6 o'clock tonight, John Ward, 52 of Palmer street, accompanied by Edward Holt of 75 Mechanic street, was operating his Chevrolet coupe N-3091, Conn. of Lower Mechanic street and while just below the Belvedeir farm of Cash Miller he collided with the rear end of the White truck, N-5266, of the C. H. Gavitt company of Pawcatuck, as it stood by the roadside, where the operator, William G. Rose, 19, and helper were carrying a stove into the house of Harry Robinson. The Chevrolet had its radiator stove in and the right headlight and fender smashed. Mr. Holt received a cut over his right eye but not of a serious nature. Patrolman Charles W. Connors called Dr. M. H. Scanlon who gave his opinion that Ward was under the influence of liquor and also medical attention to his companion. The men were taken to the lockup on Liberty street, where Dr. William H. Hillard was called in to corroborate Dr. Scanlon. Ward was held on the charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor in bonds of $500 which was furnished by Fred W. Harvey. The case will come up in a special session in the Stonington town court this (Monday) morning in the town court room, Borough hall, Stonington.

Rosario Biando, 16, who was taken in Friday night by Sergeant of Police Ferguson when he was found to have taken a vest pocket folding camera from the drug store of Vars and Bros., was presented before a session of juvenile court Sunday afternoon. Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn placed the young man on probation for 18 months to report to Chief of Police Brown every Saturday. The amount of goods stolen by him from time to time was estimated to amount to $31.55.

Herbert Greene of Main street, was arrested Saturday night by Sergeant of Police Ferguson and Patrolman George Champlin. He was arraigned before Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn on Sunday afternoon on complaint of having in his possession intoxicating liquor. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs amounting in all to $27.80. He paid.

There was a Sat. Patrick's program Sunday evening at the Church of the Immaculate Conception with patriotic musical and literary numbers.

HUGHES HAD NO CONFERENCE REGARDING FIGHT FILMS

Formal Statement Made by the Secretary of State—Attorney General Daugherty Expects to Prove That Roxie Stinson Had Shown a Willingness "to Sell" Documentary Evidence "and Her Silence" for $150,000.

Washington, March 17—Secretary Hughes, mentioned by two witnesses before the Daugherty committee as having witnessed the showing of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films at the home of E. B. McLean, issued a formal statement today to say that he had had "no discussion or conference" regarding the films with anyone.

The statement follows:

"The statement that I had any discussion or conference with Muma or anybody else at any time either at Mr. McLean's house or elsewhere with regard to the fight films, is absolutely false. There is not a word of truth in it."

CHARGES ROXIE STINSON TRIED TO SELL "EVIDENCE"

Washington, March 17—Attorney General Daugherty notified the senate committee investigating him tonight that he expects to prove that Roxie Stinson, one of the star witnesses in the inquiry had shown a willingness "to sell," documentary evidence in her possession, "and her silence," for $150,000.

Witnesses whose appearance he has requested, Mr. Daugherty said, would testify that such negotiations were entered into in Cleveland on February 21, last, by Miss Stinson and a companion, A. L. Fink, of Buffalo, N. Y., they would testify further, he said that the later price was reduced to $50,000, but that the friends of the Attorney General who were approached on the subject refused to pay her "anything for the alleged evidence."

TESTIMONY BY FOES OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington, March 17.—Attorney General Daugherty's foes continued today to pile in testimony to connect him directly with the prize fight film conspiracy and the attorney general again struck back, this time with grave charges of blackmail.

The most direct testimony yet given before the senate investigating committee, in an effort to connect the attorney general directly with the conspiracy to show motion pictures of the Carpentier-Dempsey prize fight in violation of federal law while various "goats" were prosecuted and fined small sums, came from G. O. Holdridge, a former department of justice agent, who presented a witnessed report of a conversation he had had with Jap Muma, already identified in the inquiry as one of the owner of the films.

Holdridge quoted Muma as having quoted Attorney General Daugherty as having said to him in Washington:

"If you put this across you ought to get a big cut not less than 50 per cent."

On vigorous cross examination by the attorney general's counsel Holdridge conceded that he had nothing else to substantiate the charge that the attorney general was part of the conspiracy. Previous testimony has been that Jess W. Smith, the attorney general's late friend boasted that "we" could get $180,000 by protecting the fight film owners from prosecution, and that various sums of money were collected for Smith on that account.

Attorney General Daugherty's attack on his accusers was contained in a letter to Chairman Brookhart of the investigating committee. The attorney general said that he would prove by James W. Holcomb, Samuel Ungerleider and Henry T. Ellis, of Cleveland; and his brother, M. S. Daugherty, of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, that the prosecution's star witness, Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Jess W. Smith, has offered to turn over her papers and documents for $150,000 and leave the country, and that when that was refused she offered to take $50,000.

These negotiations, the attorney general said he would prove by the men he named, and whom he asked to be called as witnesses, took place in Cleveland, in February 21, 1924. Miss Stinson herself and A. L. Fink of Buffalo, N. Y., the attorney general charged, sought the meeting which culminated with a conference between Mr. Ungerleider, Miss Stinson and Fink.

When Ungerleider, speaking for himself, and the others declined to enter into the negotiations, the attorney general said his witnesses would prove Miss Stinson and Fink announced their purpose to go to New York and sell the papers and documents to others.

Corroborating in many particulars the previous testimony of Gaston B. Means, and Fred C. Quimby, Holdridge related a circumstantial story of his investigation of the alleged arrangements by which the fight films were exhibited in 1921.

Muma, correspondent of Edward B. McLean's Cincinnati Enquirer, at New York, again emerged from behind the scenes in a stellar role. Relating numerous conferences, in his investigation with Muma and others in the film transaction, Holdridge quoted Muma as the principal author of damaging charges against Attorney General Daugherty and also William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation.

Chief among the statements credited by Holdridge to Muma and which Holdridge finally reported, in June, 1922, to Burns, concerning the fight film affair, were,

The alleged statement by Mr. Daugherty that: "If you put this across you ought to get a big cut, not less than 50 per cent."

Another alleged statement by Mr. Daugherty to Muma that he should take the matter up with Alfred R. Urion, a local lawyer previously identified as a participant in the transaction.

An assertion by Muma that he had "things all fixed."

Alleged admission by Muma of a contract for the film exhibitions and passing of one check, in Urion's presence, for over $2,000.

SENATE OIL COMMITTEE TO RESUME HEARINGS TODAY

Washington, March 17. — With the oil committee getting under way again after a three-days' recess, the major line of senatorial inquiry will develop tomorrow into a double-barrelled affair.

Both the Daugherty and oil inquiries will be on in full blast at the same time, something that has not happened in many years, the proceedings of such spectacular character.

The oil investigators will go first into the records showing dealings in Sinclair oil stock by governmental officials after Teapot Dome was leased to Harry F. Sinclair by Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior.

Louis D. Bond, an expert accountant of the federal trade commission who has examined the books of brokerage firms, is to be called first and it is understood that he will report that he has found such transactions only by Attorney General Daugherty and Senator Elkins, West Virginia, both of whom have issued public statements regarding their dealings.

Price McKinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, also is to be called tomorrow. He will be questioned regarding testimony of E. L. Doheny indicating that Fall had planned to borrow $100,000 from McKinney before the former secretary sought the loan from the California oil magnate.

Henry Woodhouse of New York, also will be on hand and he may be called during the day. He has written a number of articles in which he has charged that the British oil interests have contracted with the Doheny companies for much of the oil output of California reserve No. 1.

The personnel of the oil committee was completed today with the election by the senate of Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, to succeed Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, who recently resigned as chairman and member of the committee because of ill health. Senator Lenroot expects to return this week from Southern Pines, N. C., where he has been recuperating.

WAYNE B. WHEELER REPLIES TO REPRESENTATIVE TINKHAM

Washington, March 17—"Three drunks are as novel a sight in Washington as an elephant in a country town," Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league said today in a statement replying to charges by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, that this city is more drunken than Paris."

Referring to statistics of arrests cited by Mr. Tinkham, Mr. Wheeler said, "Paris drunkards are not arrested unless they commit other offenses," while those here are nabbed on sight. The general crime rate in America has always been higher than in European countries, he added, because the European courts impose maximum sentences.

"Religious people are in politics to stay," he said. "The Christian men and women of America will not withdraw from the ballot box in favor of the saloonist and corruptionist, because Mr. Tinkham believes religion disfranchises citizens."

SUNKEN WRECKS TO BE EXPLORED BY DIVERS

Boston, March 17. — As soon as weather conditions permit a diver will explore two sunken wrecks found near Pollock Rip shoals after last week's storm, one of them believed to be the six-masted schooner Wyoming, of Portland, Maine. It became known today that arrangements have been made to bring a diver from the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., to investigate the hulks which lie in 30 feet of water.

Two boats from the Wyoming floated ashore at Nantucket, together with her name plate and lifebelts bearing her name. The finding of the boats, according to coast guardsmen, probably indicated that the crew abandoned the vessel only to have their boats swamped in the raging seas and all hands drowned.

The heavy seas of the last two days have prevented the coast guard cutter Acushnet from examining the wrecks, from one of which three and from the other two masts project above the surface. A lifebelt with the name Alaska or Alaskan was cast ashore on Nantucket Island and for a time gave rise to the belief that the two-masted schooner Alaska of Machias, Me., had been lost. This vessel is out on the ways in her home port. Today coast guardsmen said the two wrecks might be parts of the Wyoming, one of the largest sailing vessels in the world.

Their belief is that the Wyoming was bound from Norfolk for St. John, N. B., with coal, was at anchor when the storm broke and that the terrific pounding of the seas split her hull in two and sent her down. One section, it was said, might have drifted some distance. The two wrecks lie on their side, and will be blown up to clear the channel.

COMMONS VOTES AGAINST REDUCTION OF THE ARMY

London, March 17.—(By the A. P.)—The house of commons tonight defeated by 347 to 13 a motion by Labor's left wing to reduce the army by 15,000 men as a protest against what the movers regard as the militaristic army policy. The supporters of the motion urged that disarmament was the only way to secure peace.

The government speakers appealed to the movers not to press the motion to a division arguing that disarmament could only be attained by international agreement.

The debate was interesting only as showing how few labor extremists were prepared only to oppose the government.

ALL BIDS IN EXCESS OF APPROPRIATION GRANTED

Hartford, March 17—All of the eleven bids for the construction of a reception ward building at the Meriden tuberculosis sanitarium, opened today by the state tuberculosis commission, tentatively decided to award the contract to the lowest bidder, Louis A. Miller of Meriden, and consult the architect, Walter T. Arnold, of Meriden, with a view to curtail the plans so that the construction can be brought within the $365000 appropriated for it.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Condition of Prince of Wales

London, March 17—The prince of Wales wanted to return to London today from Aldershot, but it was announced officially tonight that he had been persuaded to remain there a few days more.

Territorial Limit for Fishery

London, March 17—In the house of commons today the government was requested to consult with the maritime powers with a view to extending the territorial limit for fishery purposes to thirteen miles. Premier Macdonald replied that the government was not prepared to consider an extension beyond the three mile limit, either for fisheries or "for any other purposes."

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house debated again Acting Secretary Roosevelt and the leasing of the naval oil reserves.

The Davis cup drawings were held at the white house with President Coolidge opening the ceremony.

Two proposals to limit presidents to one term under constitutional amendment were defeated in the senate.

The soldiers' bonus bill was assailed on the floor of the house by advocates of a full cash payment option.

Reports to the treasury indicated that income tax payments for this month would exceed those of one year ago.

Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, charged Attorney General Daugherty is being kept in office for his "supposed political influence."

Swift and Company was awarded a verdict in the court of claims for $1,077,386 in its suit against the government over payment for war-time bacon.

The long pending nomination of Walter L. Cohen, negro republican leader of Louisiana, to be comptroller of customs for the New Orleans district was confirmed by the senate.

The supreme court held the federal trade commission has no authority for unlimited inspection of books of corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

The court of claims dismissed twenty-eight suits brought for compensatio nas an outgrowth of seizure by the United States of German, Austrian and neutral-owned ships during the war.

It was learned that the Italian ambassador has indicated the readiness of his government to conclude a liquor treaty with the United States along the lines of that with Great Britain.

Gerald O. Holdridge, former agent of the department of justice, told the Daugherty committee the attorney-general was concerned in a conspiracy to exhibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films.

The state department made public a note rejecting the suggestion of France for the creation of an international agency to deal with questions arising out of relief credits during and just after the war.

Secretary Work in a report to congress, declared the Colorado fever a "local menace" and said the government should determine at once a definite plan for its control and conversion into a national asset.

President Coolidge wrote Anton Lang, the "Christus" of the passion play, in regard to the abrupt ending of the reception Saturday at the white house and the question was discussed on the floor of the senate.

IN FAVOR OF TRADE AND VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS

Hartford, March 17.—Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education, declared in emphatic language that he as commissioner, and the state board of education as the guiding body of public education in the state, are in favor of trade and vocational schools, in his address to the members of the Rotary club today at the Hotel Bond. He showed the amount of work being done in those schools and the amount of money the state is expending for the work, this being more than for any one type of school.

"There is no necessary antagonism between 'general' or liberal education and specialized, vocational, trade or technical education," he said. "It is a matter of relative emphasis and objective." All the public schools are an agency of the state to provide for individual growth and development, and to further the individual's social and economic worth. The schools have changed with national progress. Now there is less of the individualistic and more of the social in their outlook and emphasis. The aim now is not the 'all round man' but the man "the citizen,' the worker.'"

AMERICAN ARCHBISHOPS WELCOMED IN ROME

Rome, March 17.—(By The A. P.)—Rome extended a royal welcome in spirit to Archbishop Hayes, of New York, and Archbishop Mundelein, of Chicago, who arrived here this afternoon from Paris. It was to have been a royal welcome in form, as well, but the crowd which gathered to welcome the two prelates who are to be raised to the cardinalate was so great that it became necessary to conduct the archbishops away from the vast assembly, although the royal waiting room had been prepared for their reception.

Among those present to welcome the archbishops were Monsignor O'Hearn, rector of the American college, the Right Rev. Louis S. Walsh, bishop of Portland, Maine, the Rev. John J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare council, Edward L. Hearn, general commissioner for Europe of the Knights of Columbus, Monsignor Lugi Cossio, former auditor of the apostolic delegation in Washington, Monsignor Sebastianelli, of the Vatican secretariate, and Judge Moragn J. O'Brien, of New York.

AN EXPLOSION IN DRIFT MINE KILLS THREE MINERS

Ford City, Pa., March 17—Three miners were killed by an explosion in a small drift mine operating by the Equitable Gas Company, near here, late today. The bodies were recovered by a rescue crew from the Pittsburgh station of the United States Bureau of Mines. The three men were the only miners at work.

J. P. MORGAN AT MONACO; LEAVES TODAY FOR PARIS

Nice, France, March 17.—J. P. Morgan, the New York banker, arrived at Monaco today on board the steamer Lapland, from New York. His plans, as announced, call for his departure tomorrow for Paris.

Women lawyers, judges and justices of the United States number 1,-738.

New York Tribune to Absorb the Herald

Frank A. Munsey Has Sold to Ogden Reid—Combined Issue to Appear Wednesday.

New York, March 17.—The New York Herald, published by Frank A. Munsey, has been sold to Ogden Reid, and will be combined with the New York Tribune on Wednesday morning, Mr. Reid announced tonight. The purchase also included the European edition of The Herald, published in Paris.

The combined paper will be published under the name of The New York Herald Tribune.

Mr. Reid tonight issued the following statement which will appear in The Tribune tomorrow:

"The Tribune has purchased The New York Herald, including its Paris edition.

"Tomorrow (Wednesday) the publication of these combined New York newspapers will start at The Tribune's new building, Twenty-five West Fortieth street. This will unite two of the historic names in American journalism. It will establish one of the great publishing enterprises of the country.

"The Herald, founded by James Gordon Bennett in 1835 and owned by Frank Munsey since 1920, won its name by giving to journalism the first complete 'news service' in the modern sense. Under Mr. Munsey it gained a virile editorial policy and enormously increased its influence.

"The Tribune under Horace Greely and Whitelaw Reid has had in its 83 years of life a lasting effect upon the destinies of the nation.

"To this merger, too, are the individuality and tradition of another famous morning paper, Charles A. Dana's New York Sun, absorbed by The Herald in 1920, and perpetuating its name today in one of the strongest evening newspapers of the country. There is also included The Press, a pioneer in the reporting of American sports.

"On this historic foundation we hope to give our readers, old and new, a metropolitan newspaper of even greater power and excellence.

"The New York Herald Tribune in editorials, news and features will show, as did the great editors of its past, that a newspaper can serve its public not only with good writing, brevity and enterprise but also with conscience and courage."

Merger of The Tribune and The Herald, two of the oldest morning newspapers in the country, leaves the morning field to it, to The American, owned by William Randolph Hearst, and The World, published by Ralph Pulitzer. The Times, published by Adolph Ochs, and the illustrated Daily News. Mr. Munsey still has two separate dailies in the evening field, The Sun and The Telegram and Evening Mail.

The sale of the New York field was made by Mr. Munsey two decades ago with his purchase of The News which later abandoned publication. In 1912 he bought The Press, which he consolidated with The Sun which he had purchased with The Evening Sun in 1916.

His next purchase was the Bennett properties, The Herald and The Evening Telegram. He consolidated The Morning Sun with The Herald, first using a joint designation and later omitting the Sun. He then changed The Evening Sun to The Sun. Last summer he bought The Globe and merged it with The Sun. It was first published under the joint title but last week The Globe was omitted.

Mr. Munsey's next venture was the purchase in January of The Mail which he merged with The Telegram and publishes under a joint title. He shares the evening field with The Evening Post which Cyrus H. K. Curtis recently bought, Mr. Pulitzer's Evening World and Mr. Hearst's Evening Journal.

Yesterday Mr. Munsey announced that The Telegram and Evening Mail would stop issuing Sunday editions started during the war.

Mr. Munsey at different times has had papers in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington which he either sold or abandoned.

Mr. Munsey in a statement to Herald readers, said the permanent maintainence of the name of The Herald was a basic condition to his consent to sell the newspaper.

"The New York Herald and The New York Tribune should have been merged into one newspaper two or three years ago," he said. "There is every reason why this should have happened as the two newspapers occupied precisely the same field. In their political principles and in their view generally they were in accord, and each stood alike for worthwhile ideals in American journalism.

"The great obstacle to amalgamation has hitherto lain in the face that neither paper was willing to sell. Meanwhile the costs of newspaper publishing in New York have mounted higher and higher until today they are appalling. And the worst of the matter in the morning field is that the selling price of morning and Sunday newspapers has been held at a starvation price by the iron hand of divergent interests.

"With Mr. Reid, the continuance of his ownership of The Tribune was a deep sentiment and a duty, as it was a family heritage from his father, Mr. Whitelaw Reid. In our discussions from time to time about amalgamation, Mr. Ogden Reid urged that I had no such obligation to the New York Herald to continue it in my ownership as he had to The New York Tribune, to continue it in his ownership. In this position his reasoning was sound."

The amount of the purchase price was not made public and no responsible estimate could be obtained.

Just what provision will be made for the employes was not learned, but it was said at The Herald offices that as many as possible would be absorbed either by The Tribune or by Mr. Munsey's two afternoon newspapers. In the composing room it was pointed out that the Typographical union provides that preference shall be given those having the longest employment records.

Mr. Munsey, in an informal statement, said one of the reasons he had sold The Herald was his dislike for the "monstrous Sunday papers in which I never have been able to interest myself to any great degree. I am freed from this trouble in the evening field."

Big St. Patrick's Day Parade in New York

Upwards of 25,000 Men and Women Marched Up Fifth Avenue.

New York, March 17.—Cheered by scores of thousands of men and women in holiday mood who lined the sidewalks for blocks, 25,000 marchers today paraded up Fifth avenue in the annual St. Patrick's day procession.

Ideal weather, with the invigorating chill of early spring and brilliant sunlight, and the absence of untoward disturbances which occasionally have marred celebration of the day in past years, lent an air of radiant joviality and warmness to the occasion, and brought out the largest assemblage of spectators in several years.

Present and past members of the 165th. regiment of infantry, once the "Fighting 69th," led the parade. In the line of march were large detachments of police and war veterans, and representatives of many Irish patriotic and social organizations.

Before the procession started from Madison Squqare park, a pontifical high mass was celebrated in St. Patrick's cathedral with members of the 165th infantry in attendance. The Rev. (Captain) Matthew Gleason, fleet chaplain of the United States navy, delivered the sermon.

REPARATION EXPERTS DRAFTING CONCLUSIONS

Paris, March 17—(By the A. P.)—The two experts committees, headed by General Dawes and Reginald McKenna respectively, have now reached a point where they are beginning th draft conclusions. The second committee, after two sessions today, arrived at decisions on points that had remained in suspense and will begin work on the text, which it is hoped will be finished this week, with the exception of one part that will probably have to be drafted to accord with certain sections of the first committee's report. The two committees will consider this part of the report together.

Doctor Schact, president of the Reichsbank, is expected to return to Paris sometime this week to discuss a few points regarding the new German currency, but it is affirmed authoritatively that this does not mean there is any hitch in the experts' work.

Sir William Acworth, the railroad expert, is also coming back, not only because the committee finds the experts' report on the German railroads too long, and desires condensation.

The drafting committee will sit tomorrow morning, and the Dawes committee will meet in the afternoon to consider such suggestions as the former is ready to make regarding the text of the report, as well as to take up some questions connected with the financial problems.

Though the experts have ceased to predict when their report will be ready, they are still optimistic as to a full agreement on all vital points in the task they have had in hand.

DEFEAT OF ADVOCATES OF ONE TERM FOR PRESIDENTS

Washington, March 17—Senate advocates of a one term for presidents received a double defeat in that body today.

A resolution by Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, that future chief executives be limited to a single term of four years was defeated 70 to 4 and an effort by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, to make the term six years was lost later, 45 to 10.

The resolutions were both offered as amendments to a joint resolution by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, proposing a constitutional amendment which would eliminate the "short sessions," of congress by convening that body in January after elections.

Several senators opposing the one term proposals explained they did so to prevent that issue being confused with the purpose of Senator Norris' resolution and indicated they might support the plans of either senator Harris or Senator Willis, under different circumstances. Other opponents however, such as Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, declared the limitation upon the president's term would be an error unless sthe terms of senators and representatives were altered also.

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE HEARS TREASURY OFFICIALS

Washington, March 17—The senate finance committee continued today to build the ground work for its consideration of the revenue bill by further examinations of treasury officials as to the financial needs of the government. The hearings, which Chairman Smoot said had so far shown greater receipts must be gained had so far shown greater receipts must be gained under the bill than provided in the measure as passed by the house will be continued until late in the week. Attention was centered today on the soundness of treasury estimated as compared with past years.

Meanwhile the committee will receive the bonus bill, if passed tomorrow by the house. Senator Smoot said, however, the tax reduction bill would be kept before the committee, unless a majority vote of the member sput the bonus measure in order for immediate consideration.

Upon completion of the executive hearings of treasury officials the rate schedules will be taken up, probably the latter part of the week.

L. A. TOBIE APPOINTED STATE BANK EXAMINER

Hartford, March 17—State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne, announced today the appointment of Llewellyn A. Toble, of Bloomfield as a bank examiner, effective April 1. The appointment is to fill a vacancy in the commissioner's staff caused by the recent resignation of Clifford S. Burdge, who was elected treasurer of the Meriden Savings bank.

SALVATION ARMY TO START ANTI-CRIME MOVEMENT

New York, March 17—Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation army, announced today upon her return from a speaking tour through the western and southern sections of the United States, that she proposed to start an anti-crime movement, "resembling a national crusade." She declared there is an "appaling increase" of crime among adolescent youths in this section.

Washington, March 17—The American people in filing their income tax returns this month poured $377,848,840 into the federal treasury and nearly $100,000,000 additional is expected before the end of the month.

Reports were compiled at the treasury, today from al lof the 65 revenue districts, showing that the revenue collectors had actually received and deposited $256,507,516, and had received but been unable to deposit because of the last minute rush an additional $121,341,824.

The total of $377,848,840 augmented by payments in the mails and by others yet to be sent in is expected to amount to approximately $475,000,000 as compared with total payments of $465,772,015 received last year up to the end of March.

Actual and estimated collections as reported today at the treasur yby districts included: Connecticut $7,409,971; New Hampshire, $754,028; first New York, $5,447,391; second New York $57,180,615; third New York, $20,491,928; fourteenth New York $8,565,471; twenty-first New York, $3,254,388; twenty-eighth New York $7,626,792; Vermont $755,372.

VASSAR JUNIOR FOUND DEAD IN DAVIDSON HALL

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 17.—Muriel Demarest of Bloomfield, N. J., a member of the junior class at Vassar college, was found dead in her room at Davidson Hall today. College authorities tonight said that an examination made by Coroner John A. Card showed death had been caused by self-administered poison.

Miss Demarest, it was said, had been subject to nervous disorders for which she had been treated by local and college physicians. Two weeks ago she returned to the college after a short rest at her home and apparently had suffered melancholia.

This statement issued by the college authorities tonight said:

"Miss Demarest died in her room. • • • • From a self administered dose of poison, apparently taken with intent. • • • • So far as definite reason for her action can be surmised it seems to be the result of sudden depression arising from definite nervous disorder.

"She stood well in all her classes and had no cause to worry over college work," said a statement of Dean C. Mildred Thompson.

Conversation with classmates, reported to college authorities indicated Miss Demarest had been suffering from melancholia.

GERMAN STEAMERS FULLY BOOKED FOR PASSENGERS

Berlin, March 17.—Steamship lines having sailings from German ports to America are refusing to sell third class tickets for use during July and August. They say their steamers are fully booked for passengers who obtained emigration visas before January 1 but who could not get into the United States under the quota for the last fiscal year.

American consulates in Germany are discouraging registration until the immigration quota has been fixed as it is not desired to encourage Germans to sell their property or abandon their jobs until it is sure that they will be permitted to sail for the United States. One thousand persons registered in Berlin alone last week and there were heavy registrations in other cities.

More than sixty thousand persons desirous of emigrating to the United States have registered in Poland. The American consulates in that country are being overwhelmed with inquiries.

LABOR TROUBLE IN BRITISH SHIPBUILDING INDUSTRY

London, March 17—A national lockout in the shipbuilding industry is a prospective development of this week should the striking ship builders in Southampton persist in their refusal to resume work on the terms the employers have already offered.

The employers declaring they cannot wait longer, the ship building employers federation has summoned its executive to meet at Carlisle on Thursday and has invited the executive of the federation of engineering and ship building trades to attend the conference and discuss the situation. The employers' contention is that neither the local dispute nor the national demand for an advance in wages can be negotiated until the Southampton strikers resume work.

FINANCIAL MEASURES BEFORE FRENCH SENATE

Paris, March 17.—The senate today passed 69 additional articles of the government's financial measures, leaving forty others over for action.

Among the articles previously enacted by the chamber of deputies and accepted by the senate today was a regulation for keeping track of interest coupons. The old method had been criticised as to complicated.

M. De Lasteyrie, minister of finance, during the session announced that declarations for the income tax showed an increase of thirty per cent. over last year. Thirty-seven per cent. were declarations on interest derived from securities.

BERGDOLL HAS AGGREED TO RETURN TO AMERICA

New York, March 17.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted during the war as a draft evader, has agreed to return to America to serve his sentence in a federal prison, it was announced tonight by Norman Hapgood, editor of Hearst's International Magazine.

Bergdoll will return at the invitation of the American Legion which, through John Quinn, national commander, issued a statement tonight declaring the legion had been accused of attempting to kidnap Bergdoll and it was time to "show the world" that the organization stood for law and order.

BINGHAM TO PRESIDE AT REP. STATE CONVENTION

New Haven, March 17. — Colonel Hiram Bingham, lieutenant-governor of Connecticut, has accepted the invitation extended to him by State Chairman J. Henry Roraback, to preside over the republican state convention next month as temporary chairman. Colonel Bingham is in the south at present, but will return in a few days.

SUPPORTERS OF LAFOLLETTE ARE PLANNING THIRD PARTY

Washington, March 17—Definite plans for a third party movement were disclosed here today by friends of Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin.

Supporters of the Wisconsin senator, who is confined to his home by illness, said he had indicated a willingness to head an "independent" ticket in the event the republican convention nominates President Coolidge and adopts what he may consider to be a reactionary or ultra-conservative platform.

So far has the movement proceeded that investigation already has been concluded in the different states to ascertain feasable methods for placing a third party ticket, headed by LaFollette upon the ballots next November.

Those behind the movement are now looking for a running mate for the Wisconsin senator and their choice seems to be Associate Justice Brandeis, of the United States supreme court. The fact that democrats are under discussion for the second place is pointed to as indicating the non partisan character of the movement. The name of Josephus Daniels former secretary of the navy, also has been urged for second place.

Development of the third party movement already is causing politicians of the two old parties to calculate its probable effect upon the fortunes of their tickets next November and much speculation is heard as to the likelihood of its throwing the presidential election into the house of representatives through the failure of any of the candidates to obtain a majority of the electoral votes.

700 GERMANS APPLY FOR PASSAGE ON ZEPPELIN ZR-3

Friedrichshafen, Germany, March 17. More than 700 Germans who desire to migrate to the United States have applied for passage on the ZR-3 which is being built here at the Zeppelin works for the United States navy and which is to make a flight across the Atlantic upon completion. The trial trip in Germany will probably take place in May.

Only four American officers and thirty German engineers and technicians will be taken on the flight to the United States, the route of which will be along the Rhine valley, over Basle, Belfort, Bordeaux and Bermuda to Lakehurst, New Jersey. It is likely that American warships, 200 miles apart, will patrol the Atlantic while the flight is in progress.

FIRST LEG OF AROUND THE WORLD FLIGHT

Mather Field, Sacramento, March 17. —Completing the first leg of their 30,-000 mile flight around the world, the three army aeroplanes which left Clover Field at 9.32 o'clock this morning, landed at Mather Field at 2.05 p. m.

A group of six planes arrived at Mather Field at 2.02 o'clock and Lieut. Lowel Smith was the first of the world cruisers to land.

The machine piloted by Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the flight, landed momentarily near Merced, but resumed its flight after a few minutes, the other planes continuing on their way, according tl one of the fliers.

LEGAL BATTLE OPENS OVER RESERVE OIL LEASES

Los Angeles, March 17.—The first day in the legal battle between the government of the United States and the Doheny interests over the Elk Hills naval reserve oil leases closed after two court sessions which resulted in the appointment of two receivers to preserve the status quo in the debated territory.

Rear Admiral Harry H. Rousean was named at the suggestion of Alice Pomerene, government counsel, and J. C. Anderson, president of the Pan-American Petroleum company, a defendant, in the suit, was appointed by the court at the suggestion of Frederick R. Kellogg, general counsel for the oil company.

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICER SUICIDES IN SOUTH BOSTON

Boston, March 17.—Captain John J. Deeming, who had an honorable record as a non-commissioned officer in the war with Spain and as an officer in the world war, was found dead in his office at the army base at South Boston today. There were two bullet wounds in the body. Army officers expressed the opinion that he had committed suicide, as indicated by a note addressed to his superior officer which said he was going to kill himself because of worry over private affairs.

STREET RAILWAY STRIKE IN SANTIAGO, CUBA

Havana, March 17.—A few cars were operated over the lines of the street railways in Santiago today by men brought into the city to take the place of strikers. The cars were operated under the protection of rural guards. Strikers during the day cut high tension wires at four places, but these later were repaired.

The most disastrous fire in South Coventry in many years took place about midnight, Monday morning, when the two story wooden building with basement on Mason street, occupied by William F. Wood & Son as an eye glass lens factory was burned to the ground, with all of its contents.

It is believed that the fire originated in the boiler room, as when discovered the flames were bursting from the windows of the second floor. The shop had been idle for a long time, but the Wood concern was planning to start operations again within a short time.

When the flames were first seen, word was sent to the Tracy-Elliott company mills and the whistle of that plant was blown, calling out the firemen. Volunteers secured the fire hose and soon had two streams of water playing on buildings across the street belonging to the Kingsbury Box Shop company, as it was evident that there was no hope of saving the Wood plant. All efforts were directed to keeping the fire from spreading to other structures. The volunteers did fine work.

Clarence B. Hoxie owns the building and it had been leased by Wood & Son for the past fifteen years or more. Mr. Hoxie stated that at this time he was unable to estimate his loss on the structure. William Wood said that he had quite a stock of material on hand in the destroyed building but that he carried no insurance. The plant was built of wood 100 by 50 feet and was one of the land marks of South Coventry.

The corrected figures on file at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton show that the grand list for 1923 for the town of Windham is $17,228,394 an increase over 1922 of $287,867.

Six appeals were made to the board of relief which held four meetings and one joint session with the board of assessors. Apparently the dissatisfactions were more general last year, as there were thirteen appeals at that time.

At the completion of their work January 30, the returns of the assessors of the valuation of taxable property was $17329,894. 142 persons were granted exemptions by the board of relief to the amount of $100,702 as compared with 153 last year for a total valuation of $116,165. These persons included blind property owners, soldiers, sailors, etc. The number of lists reduced by the board of relief other than those mentioned above was seleven, totaling $4,095. The number of lists increased by the board of relief was twelve amounting to $1,080. The total reductions amounted to $104,189 leaving the corrected list figure at $17,286,164.

The total corrected valuation of resident lists is $15,419,284; non residents $1,776,880.

A 12 mill tax has been levied on the above total, which will bring $233,846, plus approximately $63,000 from various sources including school tuition, state school grant, personal taxes, dog licenses, etc., which will amount to a revenue of $322,000 or $37,000 more than the budget for the year, which is $274,600. It is planned to use the excess money toward paring off the town debt. Taxes are collectible during April.

The fourteenth annual Old Folks' concert is to be given at the Methodist church under the auspices of the Y. L. Choir. Eighteen numbers will be sung by a chorus of forty voices, under direction of Edward F. Cross who has been in charge of the concerts for the past decade.

Music will be by the Osterhoudt orchestra. Principals and chorus members will appear in costumes of the revolutionary period. John Farrell of Hearts will introduce feature numbers with his Fraternity Four, Dr. C. H. Kingsbury in baritone solos. Mrs. Ruth Herrick Williams in soprano numbers, Charles B. Jordan in tenor selections. Mrs. Charles H. Beebe will read and there will be saxophone solos by Ephriam Perkins who will also be heard in saxophone duets with Claude Ide. Randall Steward will sing. John Heap and his double quartet from the Baltic Men's club will be another attraction.

The funeral of Mrs. Esther A. Sanderson was held at her home, No. 75, High street Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. F. O. Williams was the officiating clergyman. The body was placed in the receiving vault at Willimantic cemetery. Members of the family acted as bearer. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Funeral services for William C. Latimer were held Monday afternoon at his home in South Coventry, at two o'clock. Prayer was offered by Rev. Charles G. Johnson. Burial was in Nathan Hale cemetery. The bearers were: Dr. Charles L. Higgins, Louis A. Kingsbury, Louis W. Daniels and Albert E. Harmon. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

Information was received here that Mrs. Philip Mann, aunt of Mrs. J. Edmund Hurley of this city, had died at her home in Oakland, Calif. Funeral services were held last Monday with Rev. Harry S. McCready, formerly pastor of the local Congregational church, officiating. Mrs. Mann died from heart failure and infirmities of old age. Mr. Mann is confined to his bed by illness.

Huge Scheller, 78, died at the home of Mrs. Charles Blumenshield, of Hampton, Sunday. He was a bookkeeper and resident of Brooklyn N. Y. The body was forwarded to that city Monday morning where burial took place in Evergreen cemetery. Mr. Scheller was a man of liberal education and he spoke several languages fluently. He leaves a daughter in Indiana, a son and a brother, both of Brooklyn. Mrs. Scheller died about eleven years ago. Local arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

The old Thread City Quartet, Joseph La Fleur, John B. Pickett, Frank H. Gallup and George W. Williams held a reunion Sunday and friends who heard the members again join hands and sing in unison were unanimous in the opinion that the same harmony and appreciation of melody are possessed by the singers as in the old days.

Joseph LaFleur who left these parts some twenty-four years ago is probably the most interesting member in the eyes of those who knew him in his prime. The old singer was formerly a blacksmith in this city and baseball was his hobby. Stories are told of the terrific speed with which he could hurl a ball, one of these being when he threw a wild pitch and the ball struck and knocked over a horse, making the animal dizzy for over an hour.

LaFleur now relies on his son Henry to carry on the family "mound" honors. Young LaFleur is now making good in the baseball field and has signed up with Ira Thomas' prevue sport team of the Texas League for the coming season. The entire LaFleur family is musically inclined. A few years ago the family featured in a musical act, playing the Central Connecticut circuit.

Richard R. Murray, of Stafford Springs, was the unanimous choice for district commander, at a meeting of the members of the American Legion from Windham and Tolland counties, held in the town hall here Sunday afternoon. State Commander E. P. Armstrong of Waterbury was in charge of the session which had for its purpose the perfecting of a bi-county organization. Seventy-five legionnaires and other ex-service men were present.

Other officers chosen were: Vice district commander, John Riordan of North Grosvenordale; adjutant, Arthur Rainville of Danielson; assistant adjutant, Howard W Daniels, South Coventry; treasurer, Dr. W. P. S. Keating of Willimantic; assistant treasurer, Joseph Burton, Danielson; chairman of speakers committee, Thomas A. Beckett, Danielson; vice chairman of speakers' committee, C. F. Doherty, Stafford Springs; service chairman, E. A. Warren, Danielson; vice service chairman, Dr. W. P. S. Keating, of this city; athletic chairman, Lucien Lambert, Danielson; vice athletic chairman, Roy W. Downer, of Willimantic; civic chairman, Alfred L. Reed, Danielson; vice civic chairman, James B. Fullerton, of this city; membership chairman Richard R. Murray of Stafford Springs; vice membership chairman, Philip Duhamel, North Grosvenordale; Americanization chairman, Frank J. Pelletier, North Grosvenordale; and vice Americanization chairman, William G. Frese of Amston.

The next district meeting will be held in Stafford Springs on Sunday April 13. Posts were represented from Willimantic, Danielson, Stafford Springs, South Coventry, North Grosvenordale and Amston.

Commander Armstrong expressed the belief that the bonus bill, which is to be brought before the house for consideration today (Tuesday) will be enacted.

Mr. Armstrong made a strong appeal to those present to get out and revive the interest of the members and that of the community in their local posts. Dr. W. P. S. Keating, local commander pointed out that the election of officers is to be held this week and he asked for the cooperation of the local members in increasing the membership of the local post.

Commander Armstrong then delivered an address on the bonus question.

Committees were appointed to assist in the establishing of re-establishing of posts on Columbia, Somerville and Pleinville. The district organization is to work in two groups one comprising posts in Willimantic, South Coventry, Stafford and Amsten. These groups will hold separate meetings at regular interva's and then the entire organization will meet. The meeting of group one will be held in South Coventry, March 24. The other group will comprise the other posts in the eastern part of the district and they will hold their first meeting at Putnam.

Several counties in the district have organized or are about to organize a woman's auxiliary and father's council.

The figure of the grand list of the town of Coventry in connection with the revaluation of the town's taxable property last fall as ordered by the tax commissioner, William H. Blodgett was totalled Monday morning.

The figures show that the grand list was increased $459,685 over the list of 1923 which was $1,029,536. About half of the amount of the increase was made by the board of relief over the increase of $239,467 made by the board of assessors.

The return of the board of relief to the selectmen was $1,617,906 with abatements for various reasons of $128,375 leaving the actual list $1,489,231.

The abstract book is being made out and will be turned over to Tax Collector Miss Esther E. Vinton.

The board of equalization had recommended an increase of ninety percent over the grand list of 1922 but the officials of the town of Coventry are satisfied with the forty-eight per cent increase due to the fact that the tax rate has been reduced from twenty-seven to twenty mills.

Of the 650 taxable lists of the town 250 are for $2,000 or more. The largest taxpayer in the First district of the town is Thomas F. Flaherty assessed for $15,259. Perkins L. Lathrop, assessed for $9,309 is the largest taxpayer in the second district. The largest taxpayer among non-residents is Mrs. Susan D. Catalini, daughter of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Catalini is the wife of the Italian counsellor at Washington, D. C. Coventry's taxable manufacturing property is comparatively low, the total being under $150,000.

Rosaire Spinato was haled into police court Monday morning on a charge of intoxication but he pleaded not guilty, claiming that all he had to drink was near-beer. Deputy Judge Curtis Dean was of the opinion that it must have been "mighty near" the full percentage. Officer Arthur Hurley arrested Spinato on Main street as he went spinning about the sidewalk with both arms stretched out. Officer Grant Bombria who witnessed the arrest testified against the accused. Judge Dean imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $12.15, which was paid.

E. J. Manemann appointed permanent member of Engine Company No. 1 at the last regular meeting of the board of aldermen, started his new duties Sunday. At present Mr. Manemann is on Chief James J. Tighe's platoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Schell, of North Windham, entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker, Miss Doris Tucker and Miss Doris Esterbrooks, in celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker's 27th wedding anniversary.

District Deputy T. Frank Cunningham of this city assisted in the exemplification of the third degree of the Knights of Columbus at Moosup Sunday afternoon.

Miss Louise VanZandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. VanZandt of Chestnut street spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chivers of Norwich.

MYSTIC

Service at St. Mark's Episcopal church Sunday morning was in charge of Prof. George W. Woodward, Lay Reader, of Westerly, in the absence of the rector, Rev. J. P. Beauchamp, who is in New York city on account of the illness of Mrs. Beauchamp, a patient in Booth Memorial hospital where she recently underwent an operation on her throat from which she is recovering as well as can be expected.

The auction bridge match between teams of Mistuxet Club of Stonington and the Mystic Hook and Ladder Co. Friday evening at the rooms of the Mistuxet club in Stonington resulted in the defeat of the Mystic 11,584 to 10,168, a defeat of 1421 points.

Local republicans will go to Stonington Wednesday evening to attend the republican caucus in Borough hall, at which time delegates to the republican state convention and congressional district convention to be held in Hartford April 2 and 3, will be elected, also delegates to the republican national convention, and for the appointment of a state central committee, as well as for the election of a town committee for the ensuing twe years.

Mrs. Albert Haley, who has been spending the winter in Middletown, Conn., came home last week.

There is no improvement in the condition of Hiram Clift, who has been ill for many weeks at his home on Broadway.

Phoebe Packer Rathbun Tent, Daughters of Veterans is to meet on Wednesday evening.

There was a large attendance at the Baptist church Sunday evening at the first of the evangelistic services to be held during the next two weeks under the direction of Rev. J. M. Currie, of Melrose Highlands, Mass. The singing of the special chorus under the direction of Byron Hatfield of New York was an inspiring part of the service.

C. Lyston Morgan of Chicago is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Morgan.

Cornelius Donohue of New York was the week-end guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Donohue.

Mrs. Jennie J. Davis has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. H. O. Williams in Old Mystic.

Miss Violet Adamson has returned to New Haven after spending the week-end at her home here.

J. A. Schoonover was in New York Sunday, calling on his father, A. H. Schoonover, a patient in a hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. James Langworthy and daughter of Hope Valley, R. I., were callers here Saturday.

Mrs. M. E. Colegrove, Mrs. Lizzie Gracie, Mrs. Audrey Gracie, Miss Talsie Bitgood and Mrs. Bannon, all of New London, were recent guests of Mrs. E. V. Whiting.

Hans Schliffer spent the week-end in New York.

Daniel Farnham of Brooklyn, N. Y., was a caller here last week.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church is to meet this afternoon.

Fred Denison of Westerly is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Elwood Latrop.

Mrs. Mary Briggs has returned from a visit with relatives in Boston.

William Kaime has returned to New York after spending the week-end at his home in the village.

Christopher Moran is confined to his home on Broadway by illness.

Mrs. Marion O. Pomeroy has returned after an absence of several weeks spent in Springfield, Mass., and other places.

PLAINFIELD

John Albro received a complete surprise Saturday evening by a gathering of neighbors and friends on his birthday. To make the celebration complete, he was further surprised by the coming of his son, Everett Albro, with his family, from Danielson and his two daughters from Boston, Mrs. Bessie Paulson and two daughters and her sister, Mrs. Charles Patton and her husband. Mr. McMannus also accompanied them from Boston. It was a delightful evening spent to honor the father who was presented a nine-pound cake with his name on it and the proper number of lighted candles.

The body of Mrs. Mary E. Braman, who formerly lived in Moosup, was brought here Saturday and entombed at Evergreen cemetery.

Twenty-eight days are required to hatch eggs of a turkey.

Grip Left You a Bad Back?

ARE you getting over a cold or grip only to find yourself a victim of backache? Are you suffering headaches, too, dizzy spells, a dull, tired, worn-out feeling and annoying kidney irregularities? Then don't delay! Physicians agree that a vast number of the worst cases of kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system is alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are often overwhelmed with the rush of new work and fall behind in filtering the blood. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailment sets in. Don't risk neglect! Help your weakened kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Home folks gratefully tell their experiences. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Norwich Folks Found Relief:

E. S. BENNETT, Carpenter, 465 E. Main St., says: "My back ached a great deal. Stooping and lifting seemed to aggravate the pains. I saw Doan's Pills advertised and got a supply. One box quickly relieved the trouble. I recommended Doan's as I feel sure they will help others."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mr. Bennett said: "Although I haven't had to use Doan's Pills for a number of years I still believe they are reliable."

MRS. BERNARD NEESON, 84 Union St., says: "My kidneys were weak and didn't act properly. I had rheumatic trouble through my back and hips and when I bent over, I was so lame, I could hardly straighten. It seemed like my back was ready to give out. Doan's Pills cured me and I haven't been troubled since."

ALBERT P. DUNHAM, 8 Durkey Lane, says: "Bending over and walking so much as I have to do at my trade as a spinner worked hard on my back until my kidneys gave out. I suffered quite a while with constant pains in the small of my back just over my kidneys. When I bent over sharp pains shot through my back that fairly took my breath away. I had to get up a number of times to pass the kidney secretions. A couple boxes of Doan's Pills from the Lee & Osgood Drug Co. cured the trouble."

Every Druggist has Doan's 60c a box.

WESTMINSTER

Miss Bonita Dusinberre came with her mother, Mrs. Kinne, and is spending a few days here with her grandparents, the Johnsons.

Miss Julia Green is spending a fortnight's vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green.

Several weeks ago the citizenship department of the W. C. T. U. offered through Miss Sarah L. Hadley, the local superintendent of this department, a cash prize of $5 to the pupil of the school in town, submitting the best report and essay, as determined by three out-of-town judges of the contest. The contest is open to all, beyond grade 2. The time of the local contest expires April 1. The local judges, the teacher, a child elected by the school, and one other, have a month for their work; the essay and report they decide to be best having to be in the hands of the town committee (personnel to be announced later) by May 1. Fifty (50) credits are to be allowed for the best essay, considering the subject matter, spelling and English; which will include clear thought and its expression, with the correct use of paragraphs, punctuation, etc., as its aids. Fifty (50) credits are allowed for the best report showing good citizenship; made evident by the acts, public and private, which repeated form the habits and character of a good citizen and include Bible study and church attendance. The public acts have to do with church, school, town, state, nation and internationally in such channels as through the Red Cross, Near East Relief, etc. The private acts have to do with the home, also when one is alone.

The sickness of a large number of pupils, the weather and roads, made impassable by drifts, caused a number of the schools of town to give up their sessions for several days the past week.

Joe Manse returned from the Day Kimball hospital, at Putnam, last week, after a serious operation for appendicitis, some weeks ago. He is said to be doing well.

Mrs. Lillian Frink, who, earlier in the school year, gave a course of talks on American Citizenship in the school at the green, has, by request, commenced giving a similar course in Westminster Hill school, and will resume as soon as weather and road conditions make the trip less difficult. Mrs. Frink has the teaching ability which, combined with her legislative experience, peculiarly qualifies her for this important work.

The rural carrier, William Linke, was obliged to omit Westminster Hill and vicinity from Monday to Friday, because of bad weather and drifted roads.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The spell of weather with dormant telephones, experienced in this section last week, prevented any accumulation of news, but the week-end saw telephonic connection reestablished. Some of the lines were out of commission for several days.

Saturday, March 15, Mrs. Hale Bennett celebrated her birthday by entertaining her daughter's family at a roast goose dinner. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bennett and children, John and Helen, and Edward Palmer.

Mrs. C. C. Frink, Mrs. Clinton Frink, Mrs. William Wright, Mrs. Sager and Mrs. Waldo attended the meeting and chicken pie dinner of the W. C. T. U. held Thursday with Mrs. Fred Kinne, at Canterbury Plains. On Clinton Frink and Mr. Wright also availed themselves of this opportunity to get a good dinner and took in that part of the day's program.

A social of the C. E. and community took place at the Hawes home, Friday evening. The young people enjoyed several lively games as well as the "eats" which followed.

The Ladies' Aid society meets today (Tuesday) with Mrs. Fred Safford.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance of Plainfield, whose tragic death occurred Friday night, were well known in this town and the news of their fatal accident caused almost overwhelming sorrow.

Mrs. Dorrance was of Canterbury ancestry and when a child her parents at one time lived in the house now occupied by Mr. Wiggins, while Mr. Dorrance spent several years of his youth in Westminster. Both had always retained their interest in Canterbury and many people here feel a sense of personal loss in their sudden and untimely death.

GURLEYVILLE

Miss Arlene Dunham was home from Storrs over the week-end.

Miss Alfreda Walker is home from Northfield, Mass., for the spring vacation.

The recent snow storm drifted some of the roads full.

There is to be no services in the church, Sunday next, the 23rd, but there will be services March 30th conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. M. Pickop.

Rev. E. M. Pickop left Monday to attend the New York East conference at Brooklyn, N. Y.

My Secrets

Of beauty are yours now, if you wish
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I made myself a famous beauty, and that beauty brought me glory. I have kept that beauty to a grand old age. After 40 years in the limelight, I still look a girl of 19.

These facts are due to help I found through years of world-wide searching. They are, I believe, the best beauty helps in existence. No one I know has, in other ways, attained any like results.

So I have had these helps prepared and placed where all may get them. And I hope to see them bring to millions the benefits I got.

Just four will do

These beauty helps comprise 32 different factors. But great experts have combined them in four preparations. And all are sold at modest prices which every girl and woman can afford.

One is my White Youth Clay. A cream, refined clay, vastly more efficient than ordinary clays. A clay perfected by French experts through 20 years of scientific study.

My White Youth Clay brings a new complexion, rosy, clear and clean. It corrects all lines and wrinkles. No one who once tries it will ever go without it. It costs 50 cents and $1.

Youthful bloom

My Youth Cream is a cold cream like nothing else you know. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. French experts have embodied in it the best skin helps they know.

Apply it after the clay. Also use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Keep it ever on the skin to feed and whiten, firm, soften and protect. The price is 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser, now used by leading beauty experts the world over. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. And the dirt and refuse nothing else can reach comes with it. Great beauty experts charge $2 for it. Mine sells for 75 cents.

The hair you envy

My glorious hair is due to my Hair Youth. It is heavy, silky, lustrous, and grows finer every year. Falling hair, dandruff and gray hairs are unknown to me.

My Hair Youth is applied with an eye-dropper, directly to the scalp. It does not drench the hair. It keeps the scalp like a well-kept garden where hair roots can flourish. It costs 50 cents and $1 with eye-dropper.

All druggists and toilet counters supply these preparations, exactly as I use them. My Beauty book comes with each. They will, bring you rich rewards. If you want more beauty, longer youth, these are the best ways science knows to get them. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

$10,000 Lifebuoy "Mother and Children" Contest

The Picture of Health

Hear, you mothers of tomorrow's men and women, is true Beauty—the beauty of motherhood and of lovely children.

America is full of just such groups as this—happy, attractive mothers and sturdy, healthy children. Real "Lifebuoy families." For Lifebuoy Health Soap plays an active part in promoting the health of American mothers and their children. Its pore-cleansing, skin-purifying power has protected the health and beauty of millions.

This beautiful picture provides the inspiration for a new kind of beauty contest—the $10,000 Lifebuoy "Mother and Children" Prize Contest. The makers of Lifebuoy cordially invite every mother of beautiful, healthy children to enter the contest and win a generous cash prize and a magnificent portrait in oils to hang in her living room; also a visit to New York at our expense.

Read carefully the conditions of the contest

1 Every photograph submitted must show a mother and her child or children.

2 Each photograph submitted must have attached the entry blank coupon below, or a similar written consent to the reproduction of the portrait of yourself and your children in announcements of contest winners. It should be accompanied by a letter, although this is not a requirement, stating the contestant's impression of Lifebuoy based on experience prior to the first announcement of this contest.

3 Name and address must be plainly written on the back of each photograph submitted. Any number of photographs may be submitted.

4 The contest closes May 1, 1924, at Cambridge, Mass. Photographs will not be considered eligible unless received on or prior to that date.

5 Prize winners will be announced not later than September 1, 1924.

6 Mail photograph and letter to Lifebuoy "Mother and Children" Prize Contest. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

If you win 1st, 2nd or 3rd cash prize, you will also be invited to come to New York at our expense to pose in the studio of a famous portrait painter for a rendition in oil of your winning photograph. This painting becomes your own.

FIFTY-SEVEN CASH PRIZES IN ALL

9 National Prizes—48 State Prizes

The winners of First, Second and Third Cash Prizes will be invited to visit New York at our expense to have their portraits painted by a famous artist

These magnificent paintings, worth at least $5000, will become the property of the winners in addition to cash prizes

THIS is a contest of Health Beauty. The prizes will be awarded to the most attractive, healthiest and happiest family groups judged by the photographs submitted.

There are lovely children everywhere—in tiny hamlets and congested cities. Their mothers are so busy protecting, nursing and training youngsters, that they have no time to pose as professional beauties, yet it is the gentle sweetness of a mother's face which has inspired great artists of all ages.

It is our ambition to gather together the most wonderful collection of photographs in the world—a collection which includes every charming mother and her lovely children in the United States.

Just by entering your favorite photograph of yourself and your children—a snapshot enlarged or a professional photo—you may win one of these prizes:

9 NATIONAL PRIZES:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| First Prize | $2500 | Third Prize | $500 |
| Second Prize | 1000 | Six Prizes each of | 200 |

$4800 IN STATE PRIZES

A special prize of $100 will be given for the best photograph submitted from each State of the United States. National prize winners are not eligible for state prizes.

Oil paintings by famous artist are in addition to cash prizes

And, in addition to the cash prizes, the winners of First, Second and Third Prizes will be invited to come to New York at our expense to pose for painting in oils in the studio of a famous portrait painter.

These splendid paintings will become your very own—to hang in your living rooms—testimony to future generations that you and your children were judged the most attractive in this great country.

These authorities on Health Beauty have accepted the responsibility of selecting the winners:

U. S. SENATOR ROYAL S. COPELAND
(Distinguished Author & Exponent of Health Measures)

MRS. OLIVER HARRIMAN
(National President, Camp Fire Girls)

MR. HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY
(Famous Portrait Painter)

It is suitable that this great national contest should be conducted by the makers of Lifebuoy Health Soap because it is doubtful if any other single thing has contributed so much to the health and good looks of American children and mothers as Lifebuoy.

Lifebuoy not only removes germs from hands and face and purifies the skin, but its gentle antiseptic lather is graciously soothing to delicate skin and promotes its natural health beauty.

Read the conditions carefully. Select your favorite photograph and send it with a letter telling us briefly why you esteem Lifebuoy.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A call has been extended by the Baptist church of Danielson to Rev. C. J. Armstrong of North Billerica, Mass., to become pastor. The call was extended following a meeting of church officials held a few days ago. The pulpit of the Baptist church has been vacant since Rev. J. W. Houck left last September to take up new duties in New York. Rev. Mr. Armstrong preached here recently and made a very favorable impression. He is a graduate of the Newton Theological seminary and is married.

Discussing leadership in business life in a recent address, F. W. Litchfield, vice president and factory manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company said that the balloon tire, manufacture of fabric for which, is making business better for fabric mills in Killingly, has come to stay.

Tracing the history of tire development from the days of the bicycle and buggy types Mr. Litchfield showed in his address how the clincher tire was introduced and later the straightside tire and eventually the bringing out of the cord tire, which is giving more mileage and more comfort at a lower cost.

"The last step in this progress," Mr. Litchfield says, "is the balloon tire, and this step is another one in the oversizing principle which Goodyear has long insisted upon as allowing of lower pressure, more comfortable riding, longer life of automobiles through the reduction of vibration. The high pressure tire is doomed and it is only a question of time until it will go out as the old-fashioned tire went out."

Monday morning the funeral of John B. Lacas was held from his home on Broad street, with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. The church was draped in mourning for the solemn high mass of requiem of which the officers were Rev. Joseph Deschaud, M. S., Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., and Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S. There was a large congregation and relatives and friends, including a delegation from Rose of Lima council, K. of C., of which Mr. Lacas was a member. The body was entombed at Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Pierre Gareau, Jeremiah Elliott, L. J. Fournier, Amos Morin, Pierre Lamont and Ovila Morandа. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Monday morning at 11 o'clock, a solemn high mass of requiem was sung at St. James' church for Mrs. Bridget McLaughlin, who died at her home in Hampton. Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., and Rev. Karl Fuchs, M. S., Hartford, were officers of the mass. The body was entombed in Holy Cross cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Such a terrible mess of weather immediately followed mention in this column of the blizzard of 1888, that it seems a bit foolhardy to call attention to the fact that a full moon comes Thursday with the advent of the vernal equinox, not that writing about the weather influences it in any known degree, but because weathermen aver that a full moon coming exactly on the date of a change of seasons is apt to mean ructions of the elements.

Beginning April 9, Prof. M. A. Honline, of Pasadena, is to give a five days' religious education institute at the Westfield Congregational church here. To perfect plans for the event, a committee made up of Miss Hattie Godding of Danielson, Paul Roper of Moosup, Cecil Butler of Plainfield, Mrs. C. G. Lawton of Brooklyn, C. D. Sharpe of Putnam, Lorne Greig of Dayville, Claude Moran of East Killingly, Rev. John Carter of Attawaugan, Miss Nancy Whittaker of Goodyear, Rev. Mary McComber of Central Village, Rev. Wilbur E. Newton of North Grosvenordale, Miss Ellen Keyes of Pomfret, Rev. Henry Baker of Woodstock and Rev. F. E. Abbott of Eastford has been appointed. Prof. Honline will lecture two hours each of the four-week day evenings of the institute and two hours on the Sunday afternoon that will mark the close of the institute.

James E. Smith, of Killingly, can prove to one through the medium of a Whig Almanac he possesses that back in 1845 the noted Henry Clay was arguing for proportionate distribution among the states of revenue from the sale of public domains, and that times have not changed so much, notwithstanding the present hullabaloo about oil land concessions and some other little incidents of the kind.

It would appear from the almanac that Mr. Clay was desirous of becoming president about that time, and was presenting himself as a member of the whig party, which was bucking the democrats, who, it appears, have been in politics for some little time, though there are periods when, scanning the records, one would hardly believe it.

Mr. Clay has the main planks of his platform set forth on the outside front cover of the Almanac, issued by the thousand and distributed, it is assumed, among the electors of the republic, then numbering about 20,000,000 souls.

Snow barriers that were of necessity piled up in clearing the business section after last week's great storm have so narrowed down the area open to travel as to cause congestion of traffic at times and danger of accidents. The snow banks also make it more or less difficult in getting about and there was a feeling finding expression among business men Monday that the snow should be removed At the rate it has been disappearing since last Wednesday some of this snow will be here until well into April.

Telephone service has been restored to nearly normal in the Danielson division, after a week of intensive effort on the part of a big force of linemen sent into the territory to aid the local force.

Putnam, High school's basketball team will be here this (Tuesday) evening for the last scheduled game of the season with Killingly High school. Killingly has a win to its credit over Putnam for this season. There is sharp rivalry between these teams so most important on the entire schedule. There will be a big turnout of the game is looked upon as one of the Killingly fans to root for the success of the home team.

A sight worth seeing is the snowbanks over in the Dark Lantern hill section on the Providence road. Where the snow is drifted and has been cut through and piled up along the sides of the highway it is two feet above the top of a car. Sergeant Albert S. Field, officer in charge of the Danielson state barracks, obtained some good camera views of the snow banks Monday.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill had not decided Monday afternoon as to when the inquest will be held heard relative to the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance at a grade crossing at Plainfield Friday night, but he hopes to hear witnesses some day this week.

Republicans of Killingly will name Wednesday their delegates to the state convention that is to nominate the state's delegation to the republican national convention in Cleveland and all of the voters of the town will be interested in Wednesday evening's meeting to pass upon the budget and fix the tax rate for this year.

Erwin E. Bennett returned Monday to his home in Woonsocket after visiting for several days with friends in Danielson.

The Crusaders' society of the Baptist church is to meet at the church this (Tuesday) evening. Mrs. Charles W. Hale will present the first chapter of the new study book, For a New America. Following the study period there will be games and refreshments.

Bernard Smith spent the week end at his home in Whitinsville.

A dance at the state armory St. Patrick's night was a relaxation for that period in the Lenten season for numbers who attended.

Thursday afternoon at 4.29 spring will officially arrive, but there isn't much about the weather to indicate it this week.

A retreat for French-speaking men of the parish will begin at St. James' church this ((Tuesday) evening and will continue evenings during the week. Next Sunday will be general communion day for men of the parish.

John C. Merman of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

Some cars are said to be temporarily out of service during the night season because headlight equipment does not meet the requirements of the state motor vehicle department.

Stores here were closed from 9 until 10 o'clock, Monday morning, during the funeral of John B. Lacas.

Henry McDermott returned to Woonsocket Monday after spending the week end at his home in Danielson.

After a comparatively short illness the death of Edwin F. Appley occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Friswell of Attawaugan, Monday evening about 6 o'clock. Mr. Appley was a native of Canterbury, born May 3, 1835, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Appley. Mr. Appley was also resident in Jewett City. He is a widower and is survived by two daughters and one son.

PUTNAM

A battalion of unemployed, estimated by observers to number between 300 and 400 men, stormed down upon the representative of a floor-laying concern with headquarters in New Haven, when he arrived here Monday morning, to direct the work of laying new floors in the Powhattan mill, at the head of Providence street, this plant purchased at auction last fall from the Nightingale-Morse corporation for the H. K. H. Silk company, with other plants in this city.

So surprising and of such proportions was the onslaught that the floor concern man beat a hasty retreat to the mill office, stopping only long enough to declare, "There's nothing doing today, boys; but be around tomorrow."

A help wanted advertisement in this paper and in other publications in Southern New England brought about Monday morning's gathering. It was an unpretentious advertisement, set solid and occupying only five lines of space, but it was seen by hundreds who are seeking some employment, as the winter draws to a close.

As early as 7 o'clock Monday a line of those who hoped for work was forming in the vicinity of the Powhattan mill. The waiting men grew in numbers until well over 300 were on hand by the time the representative of the contracting company arrived, shortly after 10 o'clock. Included were several union carpenters from Worcester, but they lost interest in the enterprise when they learned it was not to be a closed shop job. Numbers of out of town people were on hand, hoping to get a job.

One who looked the crowd over with some care said that few of those present could qualify for the gruelling work of laying hardwood floors, or even assisting in such an undertaking. They were mostly textile workers, out of work and anxious for any kind of employment to tide them over until conditions brighten in an industry in which they have spent their lives.

The floor-laying job is an undertaking of size and involves the putting in a new and double flooring throughout the Powhattan mill. The first floor will be of hard pine, laid over the present floors and shimmed up where the old floors are worn or uneven. Over this floor another new floor of maple is to be laid. There is 88,000 feet of floor space to be covered, including the ells and entries. The contract price is in the vicinity of $17,000.

The floor laying operation about to be undertaken is the first large expenditure contracted for by the H. K. H. Silk company, and is an evidence that the new owners are to put the plant in a high condition of repair, before proceeding to manufacturing operations there. The interior of the mill has been painted, this work contributing in a large measure to the spic and span appearance the mill will have when the work upon it is completed.

In the superior court at Willimantic today (Thursday) Attorney Charles L. Torrey of this city will appear as counsel for State Police Officer Harris J. Hurlburt, of the Stafford Springs barracks, Officer Hurlburt appearing as defendant in an action brought by Even G. Chappel, of Chaplin, in which false arrest is charged and damages of $1,200 asked.

This interesting case has developed out of an incident concerning a horse. Officer Hurlburt, assigned to duty as a state police officer in July of last year and stationed at Stafford Springs, was ordered on or about September 13 of last year to investigate a complaint of Mrs. Herbert Huntington, of the town of Mansfield, that Charles Nichols of that town was driving around with a horse that greatly resembled one missing from a pasture at the Huntington farm.

Mrs. Huntington is represented as stating that the family horse was turned out to pasture with the cows, in April, there being no work for the horse to do. For a time the horse would return to the stable on the place at night in company with the cows, but after a time failed to do this. This did not worry the members of the Huntington household for they knew there was ample feed in the far-flung pastures of the farm.

The spring season gave place to mid-summer without the horse returning to the barn on the Huntington place and eventually there came a day when someone appeared at the Huntington place and said that Nichols was using the Huntington family horse.

In due time this led to Nichols being haled into court. Nichols testified that his son and son-in-law traded for the horse with Eben Chappel of Chaplin. Chappel in turn claimed he bought the horse in a trade from Ernest Lincoln of Willimantic, and Lincoln in turn established buying the horse on March 18 of last year from Burdick and Nye of Westerly. Burdick and Nye have admitted selling a horse to Lincoln that answered the description of the Huntington horse, a bay with certain definite markings.

After hearing the case against Nichols, the justice reserved decision and directed that the horse be taken on the following day to the Huntington place to see how he would act—as to being familiar with the place and knowing people who were there. Mr. Nichols had the horse at the Huntington farm the next day and the horse, when released, promptly mingled with the cows. Later in the day he made his way to the barn, walked into the structure, took a sharp turn to the left and entered a stall that had always been used by the Huntington family horse. Not finding anything to eat in the manger, the horse turned about and came out and stood in the barn door, as it is claimed by persons about the Huntington farm, their horse was in the habit of doing.

At this, Mr. Nichols failed to hold the place of central figure in the affair. Chappel next claimed the attention of State Officer Hurlburt. He went and interviewed Chappel, and asked him for a real statement of facts about the horse. He found Chappell near the latter's home cutting a load of wood, and asked him if he would go to the Stafford Springs barracks with him and make a statement. Chappel agreed to do this and went along with the officer, where he made his statement, slept at the barracks over night and the next morning was taken back by Officer Hurlburt to his Chaplin home.

On this incident the false arrest charge is based. The state will claim in court today that the officer at no time had Chappel under arrest and did not so represent to him. The case is so unusual as to attract considerable attention.

In the meantime the skeleton of a horse has been found in an isolated section of the Huntington farm. There are indications that the skeleton was of a horse dead for several years, but this does not appear to be clearly established.

In the city court Monday morning the case of Dorina Richards, wife of Joseph Richards, was continued for two weeks. Mrs. Richards is charged with violations of the liquor law. Her husband, similarly accused, was very heavily fined and given a jail sentence when presented in the city court last Friday morning and is now at Brooklyn.

Considerable damage was done by a fire that broke out just before one o'clock Sunday morning in a building of the estate of Mary E. Chase, on Church street, occupied by the Chase Printing company. Night Officer Spancey, covering his beat in that part of the city, saw smoke issuing from the building and pulled in an alarm. Captain Jarvis and other officers who were at the police station, not far away, ran to the burning structure, which at one time was a barn, and succeeded in saving the automobile of Dr. G. T. LaMarche, stored therein for the winter. Difficulty was experienced in getting out the car, from which the tires had been removed, and the machine set up on jacks. The roof of the building was badly damaged and there will be considerable loss on the contents, which included equipment for a small job printing plant. The printing business was conducted by Waldo E. Chase.

Today (Tuesday) brings the first of the auction sale days in which the big plant of the Manhasset Manufacturing company, its tenement houses and other properties in this city will be sold to the highest bidders. On this auction hinges the future of the largest of Putnam's industrial concerns. For that reason there will be acute interest in the sale, which will continue here for the next three days. Parcels No. 1, 2 and 3, in the auctioneers' list includes the mills. These, it is expected, will be offered at the opening of the sale this (Tuesday) morning.

City Commissioner Herbert J. Smith of the water department, was reported Monday as resting more comfortably after having reached what appeared to be a crisis in his serious illness during Sunday.

County Agent F. L. Davis and other officials of the Windham County Farmers' association will be at Plainfield today (Tuesday) to attend the funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance, killed in a grade crossing accident at Plainfield Friday night. Mr. Dorrance was the second president of the Farmers' association and for several years was a member of the executive committee of the organization.

With the trout fishing season opening two weeks from this (Tuesday) morning fishermen who love this sport are giving attention to the matter of taking out fishing licenses, required for the first time in Connecticut this year.

There were various social events in Putnam Monday evening in observance of St. Patrick's day, an event of importance being the program given under the auspices of the Catholic Women's Welfare council.

It was stated Monday that the Sewer building, in course of construction throughout the winter, will be ready for occupancy in from two to three weeks.

Putnam High school basketball team will go to Danielson this (Tuesday) evening to meet the Killingly High school team, which defeated Putnam High in a game played here, a number of weeks ago.

HAD HIS WIFE SLAIN AS SHE KNELT IN PRAYER

Pueblo, Colo., March 17.—Mrs. Belle Janssen, whose body was found in a trunk at Ogden, Utah, Saturday, was slain as she knelt in prayer, Fred Jenssen, her husband, told the Pueblo police here today. Janssen admitted he had hired a Mexican to kill her.

Denver, Colo., March 17.—Captain of Detectives Rinker, announced that Fred Janssen, arrested at Pueblo, admitted his identity, but declared a Mexican killed his wife, whose body was reported found in a trunk in Ogden.

MARCH'S CHANGEABLE WEATHER
One may expect many changes in March and should be prepared for coughs and colds. The slight cold, if neglected, may develop into a serious illness. With the first sign of a cough or cold take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the old reliable family cough remedy, excellent for coughs, colds, hoarseness. John R. ### DEFEATING FARMERS' BILL.

Inasmuch as there was more than one bill for the relief of the farmers of the northwest it doesn't mean that because the Norbeck-Burtness bill has been defeated that efforts to obtain legislation of a similar, or perhaps more far reaching character will not be continued.

There was opposition to the defeated bill because it was regarded as socialistic in character. It failed to get support from others because there were farmers in the very section for which the relief was intended who were against it. There was a refusal to aid it because it was maintained that it did not go to the root of the matter and that the relief which the farmers desire should come from a better market rather than the production of crops for an already overstocked market. It lacked votes because there was a feeling that the bill served only a class, that others there entitled to quite as much assistance if any was to be given, and it gained opposition because of the precedent that was being established.

If this bill was not able to get an affirmative vote in the senate it is difficult to see how one that will involve a greater outlay on the part of the government for the purpose of reaching a similar end is going to fare any better. It would seem to be that the fate of the defeated bill foretells the action that can be expected on the others.

It doesn't seem to be that the farmers need any additional means of getting into debt. It doesn't seem that the country ought to be made to market all the wheat that is produced or to buy all the surplus and call it an a loss just because there have been adverse conditions. Once such a policy should be established it would mean that other lines of activity would seek similar treatment. Make the same as an amendment was sought to the bill for the purpose of benefiting the southern cotton raisers in the provisions of the measure.

There has been a refusal, however, to give special aid to one class but today the inconsistency of congress may be revealed by its eagerness to provide a much greater sum as a gratuity to another class.

PUNISHING DOPE HANDLERS.

No sympathy can be wasted upon those who have been caught, convicted and heavily sentenced for smuggling, peddling or illegally dealing in dope. By their very acts they have earned the contempt of humanity and when such individuals are placed where they will remain for some time under restriction it can be appreciated that there is reason for satisfaction.

A federal judge in disposing of three dope peddlers gave them ten years each in Atlanta penitentiary and fines of $5,000 each. It means that they are going to be prevented from engaging in that kind of business for some time to come even though their sentences may be shortened by good behavior. But it also should serve as a lesson to others who are similarly engaged. The unfortunate part of it all is that real punishment is dealt out in some cases and leniency in others, when the offense is the same. Those who go into the business of handling narcotics against the law do so for the handsome financial returns that are possible. They care nothing whatever for the havoc they are helping to cause. They know the demand for dope by the addicts and they are ready not only to serve them but to encourage others in the use of the stuff. Though they are contributing to the demoralization of humanity they have no conscientious scruples. The ease with which they can command big money is a sufficient enticement.

Enforcement of the anti-narcotic laws deserve every attention, and those engaged in the enforcement work should get all possible support. There is need of making it thoroughly understood that it is an undesirable business, and there is every reason for surrounding humanity with that protection which it deserves. Enforcement is one of the ways of preventing the increase in the use of dope. Possibly it may not cure the addicts, but that is a matter which should be attended to in another way. When it is made so uncomfortable for the illicit dealers in narcotics that they give up the business a real service will be rendered to mankind.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

While the number of cars being manufactured is increasing each year, it is also the fact that the number of accidents and the number of stolen machines is greater each year.

Stealing automobiles is a business with some people. They have figured out with what ease the cars can be disposed of, how readily they can be consumed, how easy it is to get away with them and they do not overlook the fact that whatever they realize is clear gain. How extensive the business has become is shown by figures compiled in 26 cities of this country which show that there were 19 913 cars stolen therein during the year 1925 which was 2,000 more than in the previous year, and this in spite of the fact that 31 per cent of them were recovered in 1925 where but 77 per cent were regained in 1924.

Recovering a stolen car, however, doesn't always cause the degree of satisfaction that might be expected. Much may depend upon the circumstances, but those who steal them have little or no regard for the car except that they have a customer for it. In their get away they are disposed in many instances to treat it rough, this being true when cars are taken solely for purposes of transportation. Recovered cars may be anything from the condition in which they were when taken to a mass of junk. It is not to be expected, however, that the recovered car is going to be as good as when it was stolen except in few and unusual instances.

For the stealing of horses there was necessity for imposing severe penalties. Automobile thieves have been doing a much bigger business than the horse thieves ever thought of doing. Perhaps in view of the number and the way in which they are left along streets and highways, it is a wonder that more are not stolen. It is cooperation on the part of authorities that makes the recovery of so many possible. More cooperation on the part of the owners with the authorities by locking the machines might decrease the chances of the meter car robbers.

THE LAW LYNCHING RECORD.

Because lynch law resulted in only 23 deaths last year does not necessarily mean that lawlessness of that character has taken a permanent slump. It is to be hoped that it has but more than one year's record will be necessary to convince.

The need has long existed for an aroused public sentiment to come to the rescue of those states where too great laxity has prevailed in respect to lynchings. Frequently it has been insisted that the mob rule did not reflect the better sentiment of the state, but the fact that it continued to exist indicated that the better sentiment was not in control and hat it was exercising a passive influence.

Encouragement over the marked reduction in such cases of violence during the past year seems to be justified. It was not obtained without the display of much additional courage on the part of authorities or the realization of the need of getting away from barbarous practices. Nevertheless it shows what can be done and establishes an improved record which there ought to be a desire to continue to lower until the indicated disrespect for law and order is entirely eliminated.

It will unquestionably be a long time before those states which have held such a prominent place in the list of lynching states reform to the extent that no lynchings take place therein. It is nevertheless the goal to which they should aspire for their own and the country's good. The unfortunate part of these years of few lynchings is that they are too often followed by a greatly increased number in the next year. It remains to be seen whether a change for the better is actually underway.

READING THE HANDWRITING.

Long and persistent efforts have been made in many states for the elimination of the billboard nuisance. There are those states which have obtained relief after hard fights. There are states where the erection of billboards in the highways are prohibited and there are communities which insist upon respect for the rigid restrictions which they have established even when the boards are erected on private property. Following favorable legislation some states have witnessed campaigns of destruction, so eager have the people been to get rid of the despoilers of scenery.

One naturally wonders what the example of the oil company in California in going to have in its decision to remove the billboards which it has erected at much expense along the system of state highways. That company recognizes that there is a growing public sentiment against such structures and believes it is wise to act before that form of advertising becomes a detriment rather than a benefit. Unquestionably the company feels that it is going to get better advertising out of acting in keeping with the desires of the people than by attempting to go contrary thereto and insist upon maintaining the billboards.

This indication of reading the handwriting on the wall should make its impression upon others who have sought publicity in such a manner. There is a growing desire to keep the natural scenery unmarred by any such obstructions, and this is particularly so when there is a constantly increasing number of users of highways. The sentiment has changed from what it was a quarter of a century ago. More and more is there a desire to get out into the country for the purpose of seeing and enjoying the non-disfigured country.

Connecticut being swindled to the extent of two million dollars only piles up the proof that this is one of the Barnum states.

When Charles Schwab says the hysteria in Washington is having a harmful effect upon business conditions he unquestionably voices the sentiments of many.

It is estimated that five billions will be needed to wipe out all the grade crossings in the country. But the deplorable list of deaths at such points could be wiped out by the exercise of just a little care.

It was represented in the lower house of congress that an eight per cent profit for Henry Ford in connection with nitrate production at Muscle Shoals was fair. Still it is claimed that the guarantee of six per cent to the railroads of the country is too much.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., March 17th.—Not much is heard just now about the approximately one hundred proposed constitutional amendments that have been filed in senate or house. The judiciary committees at both ends of the capital are swamped with amendments and a few hearings have taken place, but for the most part but little interest or activity has been roused. Even the so-called equal rights measure has attracted but little attention and the fight which is sure to develop when it comes to the front, seems to be indefinitely postponed.

The amendment proposing a change of date for the incoming of an administration and congress coupled with a change of the date of inauguration got a set back so far as the old argument of "better weather" is concerned when the fourth of March turned up bright and smiling, with spring like temperature, that fitted the "coming in like a lamb" tradition to a tee. But a few days after Washington found itself completely shut off from the outer world through the big storm that encircled it, but only touched the hem of Washington's own garment.

Although but a couple of inches of snow lay on the ground here and quickly melted Washington was completely isolated from telegraph and telephone communications through the severe storm that raged in a circle of which this city was the pivot, and then the friends of a later inaugurations date came into their own.

But the question here today is not so much when a president shall take his office as how the next president is likely to be elected. There is no gainsaying that the fear that the next election will be made in congress and not at the polls in November. The talk of a third party with LaFollette as its leader does not die down, and in that case the electoral college would not be able to swing the necessary votes to any one of the three principal candidates, thus throwing the election into senate and house, with the result a matter of doubt.

The proposed coalition of democrats and insurgent republicans was thought to spell the election of the democratic candidate, but now that McAdoo seems out of the running conditions have changed. The insurgent element in congress represents the labor and the farm vote, and apparently McAdoo also represented that vote. With new candidates in view, the coalition has faded and no one can at this moment safely predict the result of a congressional election of President and vice president.

It has been a week of New England to the front. Tilson of Connecticut led the forces that held out against the changes in the Mellon bill; Moses of New Hampshire is ranking member on the Daugherty investigating committee, White of Maine has been appointed chairman of the committee to investigate the shipping board; Keyes of New Hampshire is the man who holds the purse strings for the senate investigations, being chairman of the committee on contingent expenses under which the long list of investigations are listed; Peter Tague of Boston has been selected by the warring street railways associations of the capital as their member of the arbitration board which is to determine whether the wages of the shopmen shall be increased; and Senator Brandegee of Connecticut is chairman of the senate judiciary committee before which all the long list of constitutional amendments must be first acted on before finding their way to the full senate and house.

The great iron gates that shut off the office entrances from the street to the White House were thrown wide open Saturday to admit the group of Passion Players from Oberammergau. And the sidewalk was lined with hundreds of people waiting to catch a glimpse of the famous players as they came to the White House to be received by the President. Camera men by the dozen snapped them as they slowly filed up the granite steps and through the door of the White House offices; men and women craned their necks; newspaper men crowded round and the scene was typical of American interest in folk from over sea. But this little band of players created something more than ordinary interest; 'twas like a bit of sacred history; a sort of mid-lenten story that did not lose its force even though the players were clothed in "everyday" garments and chatted freely among themselves while waiting for the president to greet them.

The contested postmastership for Bridgeport comes up this week before a sub-committee of the senate post office committee, and the men who protest the appointment of Conner must "show cause," else the nominee of the president, who also has the backing of Merritt of that district, will unquestionably be confirmed by the senate, following a favorable committee report. The post office committee requires the burden of proof to rest with the objectors in all instances.

Republican leaders here predict that the splendid vote cast in the New Hampshire primaries for solid Coolidge delegations will be the forerunner of similar votes by primary or convention in every New England state. Senator Moses, who was slated to head the ticket, though declared for Coolidge, would not pledge, and lost out to a man practically unknown in New Hampshire politics showing the strength of the Coolidge sentiment. The next greatest surprise after the Moses defeat, in the minds of political leaders here, was the turning down of Gordon Woodbury, democratic, as delegate to New York convention and putting in his place a man entirely unknown in political circles and so obscure that even the people of his own small town ask who he is. Woodbury was assistant secretary of the navy under Wilson, is popular, rich and charitable. In fact, he stands high in both local and national democratic circles, and just why he suffered the same fate from democrats as did Moses from republicans is something that keeps folks guessing out here.

Postmaster General New has issued regulations regarding the display of the flag on postoffice buildings. He believes those governing the war department should be conformed to as far as possible with civilian service. He especially stresses the importance of keeping flags flying from morning till night, when they should be hauled down, and also states that postmasters, who have flags that are torn or worn should obtain new ones from the department by requisition. The statement by the postmaster general that hereafter postoffice inspectors will take note and report the conditions and use of the flag on buildings they are inspecting, will go far towards making the new regulation effective.

Mrs. E. A. Harriman, formerly of New Haven, is chairman of the Chaumont Unit of the American Women's Legion, and is providing a series of lectures for the benefit of that organization. They are held at the Cosmos club and the speaker for March 27th is Congressman Tilson of Connecticut who will talk on the subject of "Taxation." Col. Tilson is a member of the ways and means committee and is an authority on the subject.

The newspaper men who were on hand when President Coolidge received his old friend "The Village Blacksmith" of Northampton, said the greeting was something like this, "Hello Cal!" "Hello Phil"—then the door closed and all that was overheard were hearty laughs and what seemed to be the buzz of a chummy talk between the two men. A few minutes later the president called for a photographer and said he and Mr. Gleason "wanted their pictures taken together" and in an instant cameras were aimed at the two Massachusetts men and a photograph of the simple life will be handed down to posterity.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

At a meeting of the Dix Amica Adeline Holling told me that she and Holly were hoping to take little Nanny down to Atlanta to see her Great-Aunt Holling.

"Of course, you hate perishing to show off that precious child to her southern kinfolk," I said sympathetically.

"Yes, but I don't know whether we shall be able to make it. Leaving our house is quite a problem. We have a man to keep the furnace going, but there are all my beautiful furs and my Persian cat, Hercules."

"How would you like to have me go out to Birchcopse and stay in your house while you're away?" I asked with sudden inspiration.

"That would be asking too much of you, Lucile."

"On the contrary, I should adore ten days rest in that lovely quiet place. I should have some of the girls out frequently, and I should not be timid, for I know you stay alone when Holly has to be away."

"You're awfully kind," said Adeline in a doubtful tone. "I'll speak to Holly and I'll let you know what he says."

As Holly has always shown a real fondness for me, much more so, indeed, than has Adeline, I was not surprised to have her tell me that very evening that he said it would be just the thing for me to act as chatelaine during their absence, and not to let myself get lonely.

I had one or another of my girl friends with me all the time at first, and we planned several little parties, but Saturday and Sunday were the only days I could entice any men out to that remote suburb. The distance made it impossible for evening affairs. We did have a jolly time over Sunday. I secured Louise and Canby Fuller for chaperon duty, and Dexter Haines, Billy Farwell, Ted Smith, Ursula Moore and Beatrice Morley made up the week-end party. We danced and played mah-jongg and the boys did most of the cooking. It was really a great lark. On Monday, after all the high jinks were over and I was alone in the house, for I could persuade none of the girls to stay, I was frightfully dull, and I wondered why Adeline did not have any intimate friends among the neighbors, who would pay me some attention. Of course, Adeline has lived in Birchcopse only a short time, and, like so many foolish young mothers, she has devoted every minute to her baby. I felt so dreadfully distrait that I could not see how I should ever live through the three days until the Hollingses came home. As it happened, I did not have to, for when I returned that afternoon from the city, where I had gone to divert myself, I found a note under the door. It was from the wife of the furnace man, informing me that he had fallen and broken his arm, and could not take care of the fire.

"Well," I said to myself, "I didn't contract to shovel coal and carry ashes, and as I don't know any one to do it, I'll just fly home."

I took Hercules to the house next door. The maid said that none of the family were home, but I thrust the cat into her arms and hastily told her that I simply had to leave him with her, as I was obliged to go to the city.

This morning I was surprised to hear from Adeline over the telephone. "Oh, are you home already, dear?" I asked.

"Yes, I got nervous about things, and we came a day earlier than we had planned. If we had come three days earlier, it would have saved us a lot of sorrow, Lucile," she said acidly.

"Sorrow?"

"You may be interested to know that our pipes all froze and burst, and that the living room ceiling is falling down after the flooding it got. I don't see, Lucile, how you could have inserted the house when it was left in your care. I told Holly in the first place that I thought you—"

"But Adeline, it wasn't my fault that the man broke his arm. You couldn't expect me to run a furnace. I've never done work like that."

"I never had until the first time, myself," she answered curtly. "You might at least have tried to find some one to do it. And poor darling Hercules is lost. I don't suppose the maid next door knew how to treat him, and he strayed away. I'm dreadfully distressed about him!"

"Oh dear," I said, "why don't you sell that lonesome place, and come into town where life isn't so complicated?"

"I'd sell it rather than leave it in your charge again," she said. I am really astonished at Adeline's lack of savoir faire. — Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Prof. Frederick Soddy, who has attracted attention by declaring that if the world continues to pervert the inventions of science to destructive purposes, as the nineteenth century did, "civilization in the twentieth century will commit suicide," is a noted scientist who for the past five years has filled the Lee professorship of inorganic and physical chemistry at Oxford University. He was born in 1877 and received his education principally at the University of Wales and Merton College, Oxford. For two years (1900-1902) Prof Soddy served as demonstrator of chemistry at McGill University, Montreal. In 1914 he was awarded the Cannizzaro prize at Rome, and one of his more recent awards was the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1921. In one of his noted lectures he suggested the revolution in man's existence which will follow the finding of the secret of the artificial transmutation of the elements, a goal now before science as the result of the discovery of radio-activity.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Much Difference.

A young man was rooming with some friends in the outskirts of the city. One evening he took their son with him to church. On their return they were making preparations for bed when the young man noticed his vaccination scar. Thinking to test the knowledge of the boy, he asked him whether he knew what the scar was.

"Sure!" was the reply. "It's where you were vulcanized."

The Days of Real Sport.

He was brought up in the country and was much impressed with the wild west show when it came to the nearby city. For weeks the boys played cowboy and Indian.

The day before Thanksgiving his mother sent him out to kill the turkey that had been fattened for the occasion. With bowie knife in hand he faced the task, and he tells the story as follows:

"I opened the door of the coop and as the turkey came out I grabbed him by the neck with one hand and started to cut his head off with my knife. Immediately that blamed turkey got busy with his feet. After about five minutes my clothes were almost all torn off and I let go of him and we both ran. I went one way and he the other.

"The turkey got on a high fence and voiced his indignation in no uncertain terms. My little brother got the old muzzle loading shot gun from the house, took careful aim, fired and brought down the bird. The hole made by the shot was as big as my fist.

"A moment later my mother, attracted by the sound, appeared on the scene and—well—mother caused me to make more noise than the turkey had made."

SPIRAL FIRE ESCAPE AT SEASIDE SANATORIUM

An appropriate step towards safeguarding the lives of the 65 children and about one-fourth as many attendants at the Seaside Tuberculosis sanatorium, under the superintendance of Dr. John F. O'Brien at Niantic, was taken by the state tuberculosis commission in authorizing the construction of a skilfully designed fire escape which not only embodies clever engineering methods but shows a decided degree of adaptability to that particular purpose.

The fire escape is a spiral model which, besides being compact in design, serves a purpose which under the circumstances, scarcely another model could fulfill. There are many patients in the institute who are almost continually confined to their beds and are unable to walk about. The spiral chute makes it possible to convey the children safely to earth from any floor after they have once been placed into one of the inlets and allowed to slide to terra firma. The chute is carefully constructed so that all joints are smooth and so that there are no rough projections by which the children may be scratched or otherwise injured, for the sanatorium children wear only their trunks and sandals. There are three inlets to the escape, one for each of the floors except the first.

Fire drills are held every other day and under Dr. O'Brien's system it is possible to clear the entire building in anywhere from three to five minutes, the time varying with the circumstances under which the drills are held and the number of attendants present since 35 per cent of the children are bed patients and must be carried from their beds to the inlets.

The fire escape consists of a huge sheet steel cylindrical shaft six feet in diameter and forty feet high. The chute slants at a thirty-five per cent grade, gradually decreasing its pitch at the bottom so as to check the velocity around the last coils at the bottom so that the children are brought to almost a standstill and are able to step out of the outlet. The escape is attached to the building on the south side facing Niantic Bay and may be seen from Crescent Beach.

The fire escape drills have proven to be a very popular source of diversion to the most active of the inmates who have already evinced a desire to negotiate the distance from the building to the ground as frequently as they are permitted to.

KLANSMEN GATHERING IN HERRIN FOR PROTEST

Herrin, Ill., March 17.—Gathering of the Ku Klux Klan in Herrin tomorrow to protest against what they term "the unrighteous verdicts" of the special grand jury which indicted S. Glenn Young, its paid investigator, and others, was announced from various pulpits in Southern Illinois last night, and will bring twenty-five thousand persons here, church leaders declared today.

Those Pearly Smiles

Do what they do—millions of them
Fight the dingy film on teeth

There is a way to whiter teeth, to greater beauty, sweeter smiles. You know that if you look about.

Millions are using a new way of teeth cleaning. They combat the film, which other millions leave.

Go now to your dealer and ask for a free test of this new-day method.

Most teeth are unclean

Most teeth are coated more or less by film. You feel it now—that viscous coat. Leave it, and it soon discolors, forming dingy coats. That is how teeth lose luster.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So well-brushed teeth may suffer.

Film causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

A serious matter

Film is a serious matter. So dental science has long sought for ways to fight it. Two have been found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

PAT. OFF. Pepsodent REG. U.S.

The New-Day Dentifrice

A tooth paste based on modern research. Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

Dainty people of some 50 nations now employ this method, largely by dental advice.

This test will show

This test will bring you other new effects, equally important. Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva.

So these great factors, there to combat mouth acids and starch deposits, are given undisputed effect. That means great new protection.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how much brighter are the film-coats disappear.

This test will be a revelation. You will always want in your home these benefits and delights. Cut out coupon now.

10-Day Tube Free
At your store this week

Insert your name and address, then present this coupon this week to any store named below. You will be presented with a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent.

If you live out of town, mail coupon to The Pepsodent Company, 1104 So. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, and tube will be sent by mail.

NORWICH TOWN

"Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men." II Corinthians 3:2, was the text of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at the Sunday morning worship in the First Congregational church.

Rev. Mr. Bailey was the officiating clergyman at the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms, giving the same talk as that of the morning. He was assisted by Mrs. Frederick Rose, Mrs. Charles Schwenk and Mrs. Leonard Lovett who furnished the singing. Herbert L. Yerrington accompanied at the piano.

Robert Avery was the leader of the Congregational Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening. The topic assigned to this meeting was The Bible in All the World; How It Is Sent Forth, and What It Does. Ps. 43: 1-5.

Mrs. James B. Aldrich returned to her home on West Town street, on Thursday, after passing nearly six weeks in Westboro, Mass., where she tenderly cared for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alvin A. Ford, during her last illness. Rev. Mr. Aldrich returned home with his wife having been called to Westboro the early part of last week, because of the sister's death.

Thomas H. Bachsler gave an address at the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning, during the hour for worship, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich being ill. As the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening Mrs. James B. Aldrich was the leader, ably treating the topic, The Bible in All the World; How It Is Sent Forth, and What It Does.—Ps. 43: 1-5.

At the Sacred Heart church Sunday afternoon, the usual Lenten devotions consisting of the Rosary, Litany and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, took place at 2:30.

At 7:30, Monday morning, the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan, celebrated an anniversary requiem high mass, for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Caroline Carden. The choir sang and at the close of the mass Miss Mary Buckley sang Abide With Me. Miss Elizabeth A. Malone was in charge of the musical part of the mass. The large attendance included relatives and family friends.

Miss Jessie E. Hyde of Washington street will be the hostess Wednesday evening, when Ever-Ready Circle of the King's Daughters holds a meeting at her home.

Roswell J. P. Brown and son Kenneth, of Oneco street, spent Sunday in Mystic where they visited Mr. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brown. The elder Mr. Brown is confined to the house by illness.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically, from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals, with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

ST. PATRICK'S CELEBRATION BY A. O. H. DIVISIONS FILLS STATE ARMORY

One of the most successful dances held in this city in recent months was the St. Patrick's night dance of the armory Monday evening under the auspices of the four local divisions of the Ancient Order of Hiberians, Divisions 1, and 2 and Divisions 13 and 54, Ladies' Auxiliary. Over 650 people crowded the armory floor for the modern and square dances, Herb Smith's orchestra furnishing their usual high standard of music. The evening was opened with two old time songs given by Edward T. Connelly, by special request. Then followed a delightful concert programme by the orchestra.

A feature of the evening was the drill given by the degree team of Division 54, Ladies Auxiliary, under the direction of Cornelius T. Crowley, who trained the team. The 13 members of the team dressed in white with green belts and yellow and green bows, delighted the large crowd with the various figures formed during the drill. The figures, all of which were originated by Mr. Crowley were the flying cross, the anchor, the wheel, the Shamrock and the letters A. O. H. The members of the degree team follow:

Margaret Peterson, captain; Charlotte Bellows, Mary Shea, Mary Roach, Bridget Dwyer, Nell Nagle, Nellie Moore, Mary Langlois, Julia Brock, Julia Pratt, Margaret Brown, Rose McCormick, Catherine Coughlin, Anna Connell, Eva Hyde, Mary Fallon, Madeline Way, Mary Cox, Edith Wegrevy, Margaret Flaherty, Bridget Williams and Nellie McCarthy.

Modern and square dances were then enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, Cornelius T. Crowley prompting for the square sets. Green carnations were sold by flower girls prettily gowned.

An Irish breakdown by John J. McCarthy Mrs. Bernard Keenan and Mrs. Nellie Moore made a decided hit with the large crowd.

The committees were as follows:

General committee: Edward J. Sullivan, chairman, Michael O'Connor, Martin V. Burke, Peter D. Sullivan, M. J. Malone and James J. Quinn.

Ring Division Reception Committee: John F. Murphy, Daniel J. O'Neil, Joseph F. Monohan, Timothy C. Murphy, Daniel T. Shea.

Second Division Reception Committee: John W. Burke, J. D. Pfeiffer, F. J. Murtha, F. J. Harper and E. W. McNerney.

Division 54 Arrangement Committee: Mrs. Julia Brock, Miss Margaret Caples, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Miss Nellie McCarthy and Miss Annie Bellows.

Division 54 Reception Committee: Miss Elizabeth Fitzgerald, Miss Nellie Leahey, Miss Anastasia Dingivan, Miss Nellie O'Neil, Miss Mary McCarthy, Miss Nellie O'Brien.

Division 54 Flower Girls: Miss Catherine McCaffery, Miss Mildred Langlois, Miss Catherine Brooks, Miss Ella Fournier.

Division 13 Arrangements Committee—Mrs. Mary E. Hartie, Mrs. D. Sullivan, Miss Anna Edward, Miss Mary Maloney, Miss May Nolan.

Division 13 Reception Committee: Mrs. Mary E. Hartie, Mrs. Fred LaFontaine, Mrs. Elisabeth McCormick, Mrs. Lucien Bissonette, Mrs. Charles Mumford.

Division 13 Flower Girls—Miss Catherine Brennan, Miss Agnes Dunn, Miss Alice Fox, Miss Agnes Kilroy.

Floor Committee—Martin V. Burke James J. Quinn and Edward J. Maloney.

Doormen—Daniel J. O'Neil and Peter D. Sullivan.

Ticket Office—James J. Dutton.

Men's Coat Room—Michael O'Connor, Joseph Cox and Edward McNerney.

Women's Cloak Room—Mrs. William Sharkey and Miss Mary Macey.

SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT BY LEGION AUXILIARY

Some twenty-five members of the Woman's Auxiliary to Robert O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, enjoyed a get-together supper and entertainment Monday evening at Buckingham Memorial.

Shortly after six o'clock the members were invited into the dining hall where they were seated about the tables, which formed a hollow square in the center of the room. The tables were prettily decorated with red, white and blue streamers, the center pieces being gilded baskets filled with pink rosebuds, arranged by Hawkins the Florist. At each place was a St. Patrick's favor, a green hat filled with candy.

The menu served consisted of:

Grape Fruit Cocktail
Chicken Pie Mashed Potatoes
Green Peas Olives Celery
Parker House Rolls
Cake Assorted Cookies
Ice Cream Coffee

Following the supper a fine entertainment program was carried out. Mrs. Morgan Cronin favored with a group of solos, which were rendered in splendid voice. The work of Miss Gladys Pratt at the piano was also worthy of commendation.

One of the feature groups on the program was the Beau Brummel dance interpreted by Master Grant Benson who was dressed in appropriate costume. Helena Crandall also in costume gave the second number of the group At Dawning, a beautiful dance which was cleverly executed. Mrs. Harry Stebbins played the accompaniment for both dance numbers.

A group of readings followed the dance numbers, Mrs. William Manning as usual keeping her audience in good humor with her witty and well rendered numbers. The closing number was a piano solo, Elizabeth Waltz, rendered by Master Denison.

The affair was one of the most successful held by the auxiliary and was arranged by the following committees: supper, Mrs. George Fraser, chairman, Mrs. Herbert Willey, Mrs. Alvin Fairbanks and Miss Evon Broadhurst; entertainment, Mrs. William L. Fletcher, Mrs. John B. Oat and Mrs. William R. Denison.

FIRST BAPTISTS ENTERTAIN CENTRAL BAPTIST Y. P.

Members of the Young People's society of the Central Baptist church were entertained at a social given on Monday evening at the First Baptist church by the Young People's Union of that church.

Over 85 young people were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Games were played and refreshments were served. The feature of the evening was a debate on the subject, Resolved; that refreshments should be left out of socials. The affirmative was taken by members of the First Baptist church and the negative by the visitors from Central Baptist church. The negative side easily won the debate.

The committee in charge of the program for the evening comprised Miss Lillian Sandberg, chairman, Miss Justine Briggs, Miss Edna Jones, the Misses Marguerite and Celeste Copeland and Lawrence Brewning.

YOUTH FOUND DEAD IN BED MONDAY MORNING

Francis Henry Curran, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Shea, was found dead in bed at his home, 241 Yantic street, about 9 o'clock Monday morning. The boy was afflicted with a weak heart and had not been in the best of health for some time. He was about as usual Sunday but was seized with a heart attack some time during the night, probably brought on by acute indigestion, this being the cause of death given by Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve. After conducting an investigation Dr. Gildersleeve gave Undertakers Shea & Burke permission to remove the body.

The boy is survived by his mother and his step-father, John Shea, who is employed at the Richmond radiator plant on Thames street.

DOCTOR'S MACHINE WAS BUMPED BY TROLLEY

As Dr. Clarence G. Thompson was pulling away from the curb in Franklin square to turn into Bath street Monday evening about 7.45 o'clock in his automobile, the machine stalled across the Franklin street trolley tracks and was hit in the rear by a trolley car coming into the square.

The left fender of the doctor's machine was bent, but he stated that he considered it an unavoidable accident when he reported it at police headquarters. He was dazed for a minute by the shock of the crash.

Miss Leibowitz Somewhat Improved

Some improvement was reported at the Backus hospital Monday in the condition of Miss Irene Liebowitz of Hartford, who had her skull fractured and suffered other severe injuries in an automobile accident at Norwich Town Sunday afternoon.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL HOLDS UP SEWER ASSESSMENT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 17—The city council at its meeting this evening receded from the position it had taken as to assessing the owners whose property it was claimed would be benefitted by the extension of the Parkway outfall sewer. The amount was large and the property owners referred to were expected to pay about 15 per cent of the expense. The compensation board, composed of William Gunn, Jr., George Watters and Fred Burrows, had fixed upon assessing property owners, but the council this evening took a back track and the report of the compensation board was tabled for further investigation. F. V. Chappell, representing property owners, including his mother, protested against the assessment in writing. Councilor Fox supported the protest in that he said he understood that the property of the several owners was to be benefitted by the extension whereas it appears that no benefit whatever is to come to that property but that on the other hand the extension is for the benefit of private owners using Pequot beach for bathing purposes. He pointed out that the property owners had once paid for their sewer privileges and that they had been supplied with all the facilities needed. The users of the beach are the parties benefitted, he pointed out. Councilor Gragan also was of the opinion that the property owners should not be asked to pay again. He said that if the city wanted increased sewer facilities the city should pay for it.

When the report of White and Alexander, auditors of the accounts of the city, was presented there was a claim made that the expense of the city was greater now than ever in history. The statement was made by Councilor Fox and he held that while the millage had been reduced the assessed valuation of property had been increased and that had not back taxes been collected and used that the cost of the administration of the city's business would be five mills greater than it is now. Mr. Fox asked for information as to the exact millage necessary to conduct the city's business. He held that if the city had paid as it went instead of issuing bonds that the mill rate would be increased 6 mills and but for the payment of back taxes due the rate would be 34 mills. He again asserted that the expenses of the city were greater now than ever in the history of the city.

Councilor Whiton differed with Mr. Fox and said the cost of operation of the city was less than heretofore. He said that because the taxes were not paid that the city had to borrow. He said the city had reduced its outstanding floating debt.

Councilor Fox reiterated his statement that the city's expense was greater now than ever before and said that the valuation of the city property had been increased $6,000,000 in two years and that with the fact that the city had paid experts $4,000 to find a way to lower the taxes. He said that last year the assessed valuation of property was increased $5,000,000 and that this year another $1,000,000 was added. "We are to get to the end of this collection of back taxes some time he said and then another boost in the tax rate will be necessary.

Engelbert Bauter, a non-member of the council, asked to be heard and he took the side of Mr. Fox, claiming that the method of the city in the shifting of funds and the using of back taxes as income was wrong. He held that the interest on those back taxes alone could be counted as income. He laid great stress on the use of back taxes to carry on the government of the city.

The council did not act upon the petition of Meyer Hollandersky for the privilege of rebuilding the property partly destroyed by fire a month ago at 153-159 Bank street, and it withheld action on a petition for a gasoline station at Bank street and Jefferson avenue on the ground that the city might want and was negotiating for the land on which it is proposed to put the gasoline station. The Hollandersky petition was referred back to the city manager for further report. The council also considered the taking of a portion of the Smiddy property at the corner of Bank and Tilley streets in connection with improvements there. Councilor Whiton explained the situation and while saying that the cost of the contemplated changes would be considerable he thought the matter should be considered now. A petition for the erection of a gasoline station on the Lawrence property on Main street just north of Federal street was granted when it was represented that such a station would not interfere with the extension of North Bank street in case the city should decide to begin that work.

Medical Society Met

The Norwich Medical society held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at the home of Dr. J. J. Donahue, 47 Perkins avenue. After the meeting, Dr. and Mrs. Donahue entertained the members at luncheon.

METHODISTS WILL HOLD 94TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The 94th annual session of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which includes the Methodist churches in this part of Connecticut, will be held at the Mathewson Street church, Providence, beginning Wednesday morning of next week, and continuing until the following Monday noon Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, D. D., LL. D., will be the presiding officer.

This session will be of unusual interest and importance, especially to the Methodist churches of New England, from the fact that in May of this year the quadrennial session of the General Conference will be held at Springfield and delegates, both ministerial and laity, to that session will be elected.

Few Pastor Changes Expected

One of the unusual features of the session will be contained in the annual report of District Superintendent Ida LeBaron of the Providence District, in which it will be announced that practically every one of the 42 churches composing this district have invited the present pastors to return for another year. Dr. LeBaron states that he has never experienced such a spirit of church unity since he has been in the ministry. In consequence of this, it is more than probable that there will be very few changes in the pastorates of the church on this district.

While the sessions of the conference do not officially begin until Wednesday morning, preliminary meetings will be held on Tuesday, when the annual conference examinations will be held at 10.30 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock the board of examiners will hold a meeting. In the evening the anniversary of the Epworth League will be held at 7.30 o'clock, at which Rev. V. V. Sawyer, will preside. The address will be given by Dr. W. E. J. Grats.

Bishop Hughes will open the conference session at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning with a communion service, followed by the organization of the conference and the introduction of business. At 11 o'clock the annual memorial service for members of the conference who have died during the past year will be held, at which Rev. J. H. Buckley will preside. The address will be given by Rev. J. J. Bartholomew of Pawtucket.

Norwich Pastor to Preside

Conference business will be resumed at 2 o'clock, with Rev. E. C. Bass, D. D., of Providence, presiding, when the annual sermon will be preached by Rev. R. A. Colpitts. Rev. J. H. Graham of Norwich will preside at the institute hour, which is scheduled for 4 o'clock. In the evening Bishop Hughes will deliver a lecture on "Three New England Preachers from the Same Town."

Thursday morning, following devotional exercises, the conference will settle down to business, which will be conducted in accordance with the regular church discipline. At 11 o'clock Dr. Diffendorfer will report for the committee on conservation and advance and in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the annual conference executive session will be held in the vestry of Grace church.

Women's Meetings.

On the afternoon of Thursday the anniversaries of the Women's Missionary Societies will be held, that of the Foreign society beginning at 1.30 o'clock, with Mrs. William H. Thurber of Providence presiding and Bishop F. B. Fisher, D. D. of Calcutta, India, as the speaker. The Home Missionary society will hold its anniversary beginning at 2.30 o'clock, at which Mrs. F. W. Coleman will preside and the speaker will be Mrs. William B. Oliver, chairman of immigrant work.

At 4 o'clock the annual meeting of the Rural Ministerial association will be held, at which Rev. H. H. Crawford will preside. This is one of the most interesting of the several auxiliary meetings held during the annual conference. In the evening at 7.30 o'clock the deaconess recognition service will be held, with Rev. Ira W. LeBaron presiding. The speakers will include Dr. D. W. Howells of the general deaconess board, and Deaconess Miss Ethel V. Glandon. At the hospital hour the speaker will be Dr. N. E. Davis of the board of hospitals.

The conference session will be resumed Friday morning, following the devotional period at 9 o'clock, and an hour later the annual meeting of the Laymen's Association will be held at Grace church, and will be presided over by its president, J. D. R. Oldham of East Providence. At 2 o'clock there will be a joint session of the ministers and laymen. The anniversary of the conference claimants will be held at 3 o'clock, and the institute hour at 4 o'clock will be presided over by Rev. L. C. Harris.

Missionary Meetings

Rev. J. J. Bartholomew of Pawtucket will preside at the anniversary of the Home and Foreign Missionary societies in the evening at 7 o'clock, when the speakers will be Dr. H. D. Forsyth on "Our Home Field," and Dr. Titus Lowe on "World-Wide Methodism."

Saturday there will be conference sessions at 9 o'clock and again at 2, and at 4 o'clock the annual reception to Bishop and Mrs. Hughes, the ministers wives and the deaconnesses will be held. This will begin with the educational supper at the church, followed at 7.30 o'clock by the board of Sunday schools, with Rev. Joseph Cooper presiding, and Dr. F. D. Bovard as speaker. At 8.30 o'clock at the educational anniversary for East Greenwich Academy and Boston University, the speakers will be Rev. Joseph C. Nate of Boston University and a representative of the Boston School of Theology.

Conference Love Feast

On Sunday many of the ministers attending the conference will occupy pulpits in various churches of Providence and vicinity, while at 9.30 o'clock the annual conference love feast will be held, followed at 10.45 o'clock by public worship at the Emery Majestic Theatre, when the sermon will be preached by Bishop Hughes. Ordination of deacons and elders of the Mathewson Street church will be the programme for the afternoon at 2 o'clock and at 7.30 o'clock the anniversary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals will be held at the Emery Majestic Theatre, Rev. R. A. Colpitts presiding. The address will be by Rev. R. V. Johnson.

The final session of the conference will lopen at 9 o'clock Monday morning, and after the completion of business the appointments will be announced by Bishop Hughes.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY GIFTS AT BACKUS HOSPITAL

The patients, nurses and employes of the William W. Backus hospital were generously supplied with ice cream on St. Patrick's day by the Knight's of Columbus. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H., No. 54, kindly remembered the entire institution with a generous donation of cake. St. Patrick's day napkins were furnished by the holiday committee of the Woman's Auxiliary of the hospital.

AUTOMOBILE LOST WHEEL IN CRASH AT BRIDGE

An automobile driven by William P. Riordan of 16 Laurel Hill avenue lost its left rear wheel this (Tuesday) morning about 1.30 o'clock when it was run into at the Laurel Hill bridge by a car driven by Charles Pallocha of Thamesville. The latter was coming off the bridge to go into Water street and the other car was turning from Shetucket street to cross the bridge. Both cars were reported to be on the right of the road, but Pallocha did not see the other in time to avoid hitting it although he put on his brakes. The wishbone on his car was broken by the smash.

The police auto had to pull the Riordan car off the trolley tracks and Pallocha was summoned to appear in the city court when it was found that he was driving without an operator's license and had never had one.

SAYS N. E. DAIRYMEN ARE IN LOSING GAME

"The man who invested $20,000 in the dairy industry in New England today will lose his money in five years, unless there is a decided improvement in the market," Senator McLean told the senate at Washington, Friday, just before it voted down the Burtness-Norbeck bill, which both Connecticut senators and most of the others from New England opposed.

Mr. McLean further told the senate: "With regard to dairying, and especially with regard to the production and marketing of milk, I wish to call attention to the fact that the situation in North Dakota is no more serious than it is in New England.

"A meeting of the Dairymen's Association of New England was held at Boston last week. The dairymen are well organized and have their co-operative selling organizations; they have had years of experience; but they are now selling milk that costs them 3 1-2 cents a quart for 6 1-2 cents. So the farmer who goes into the dairy business at this time in a commercial way is bound to find a glutted market."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARTY AT HOME OF MRS. N. C. DISCO

A very successful St. Patrick's day party was held Monday from 3 to 5, at the home of Mrs. Nelson C. Disco, 210 Broadway, nearly one hundred attending.

There were over twenty-four tables of whist and bridge. On the tables were pretty green and white baskets holding home made candy. The flowers were daffodils. Dainty favors of Irish lasses in typical green costume were provided.

Mrs. Disco was assisted by Mrs. Frank T. Sylvia, Mrs. Frank L. Farrel and Mrs. James J. Dutton. Later Mrs. Farrell sang several charming Irish songs, being accompanied by Mrs. Bernard C. Coyle.

Mrs. Farrel was in charge of the bridge, Mrs. Frank Sylvia having charge of the straight whist tables. The scorers were Misses Rose Driscoll, Millicent Disco and Agatha Murray.

RESERVED DECISION ON REMOVING STONINGTON TREES

The county commissioners have reserved decision after giving a hearing on the protest over the removal of some trees on Water street, Stonington. The commissioner also visited the place where the trees stand and gave particular attention to the present condition of the street and curb line.

The appeal was taken from the decision of Tree Warden Vargas given Jan. 21 by Mrs. T. W. Cutler, Rev. F. R. Sanford, Miss Mary Burtch and F. D. Burtch.

Those who spoke in favor of the removal of the trees were Warden C. B. Crandall, William P. Bindloss and Dr. James H. Wilcox.

Those who were opposed to the removal were Attorney E. H. Hewitt, H. R. Palmer, Mrs. F. F. Dodge, James P. Gilmore, E. S. Stonton.

SOCIAL EVENING HELD AT TAFTVILLE MAENNERCHOR

An enjoyable social was held at the Taftville Maennerchor club on Monday evening by the Maennerchor gym class. Games were played and dancing enjoyed. Prizes were won during the evening by Richard Troeger and Miss Margaret Heibel, second prize going to Henry Beibel and Miss Mina Krauss. Refreshments of sandwiches, assorted cake, fancy cookies and ice cream were served.

Those having charge of the arrangements were the Misses Mina Krauss, Louise Krauss, Anna Volkman and Freida Bauer.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

DELANEY-CLARKE BOUT STOPPED IN EIGHTH ROUND BECAUSE OF STALLING

Newark, N. J., March 17. — The twelve-round bout between Jack Delaney, Bridgeport middleweight, who conquered Paul Berlenbach at Madison Square Garden last Friday night, and Jackie Clarke, of Allentown, Pa., here tonight, was stopped in the middle of the eighth round by chief boxing Inspector Platt Adams who declared himself "dissatisfied with Clarke's showing."

Inspector Adams ordered the money of both boxers to be held up and announced that he and State Boxing Commissioner Bugbee would investigate the fight.

Delaney was leading in points at the time the bout was stopped. Both fighters sparred cautiously for the first three rounds, neither having the edge. Delaney then took the aggressive and led Clarke for the remaining four and a half rounds but neither fighter showed a tendency to mix it.

By the time the fourth round began, the crowd that filled the armory had begun to boo the fighters and the din grew steadily in volume until the bout was stopped.

The boxers were escorted from the ring by a squad of policemen, and the crowd, after hearing Adams' announcement, dispersed quietly.

Later, in his dressing room, Delaney declared that Clarke had not attempted to fight, while Inspector Adams said that the Allentown boxer simply was in the ring to stay the limit.

Berlenbach, whose string of twenty-three successive knockouts was abruptly terminated by Delaney last week, was introduced from the ring. R was announced that he would meet Harry Kroen, of Akron, Ohio, in a 12-round bout on March 31. The fight will be a preliminary to the McTigue-Stribling bout in the Newark armory on that date.

RICKARD TO APPEAR BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

New York, March 17.—Tex Rickard, internationally known boxing promoter, was subpoenaed late today to appear before senate committee investigating the department of justice.

Rickard's name has been mentioned in connection with revelations of an alleged deal involving motion pictures of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Rickard, who staged this bout at his arena in Boyles' Thirty Acres, Jersey City, three years ago, announced that he would leave tonight for Washington, prepared to take the stand tomorrow. The promoter said that he had nothing to conceal and was ready to lay before the senate committee any facts concerning the films in his possession.

INJUNCTION ASKED TO KEEP CARDINALS OUT OF PARK

St. Louis, Mar. 17.—An injunction to keep the St. Louis Nationals from "trespassing" in Sportsman's park, the baseball field they have used here for several seasons, was asked in the circuit court of today by the St. Louis Americans' management.

Hearing of the case went over until Tuesday.

The Browns charge the Cardinals with failing to provide liability insurance, to protect property and employes from loss. They allege that the Cardinals were given thirty days notice, but failed to comply with the provisions of their lease, and consequently the lease was forfeited. The Cardinals have answered that their failure to make payment on the lease, and to meet other conditions, was due solely to an overaight.

They declare the sportsman's park is the only suitable place here obtainable for playing.

TWO FAST GAMES IN MILITARY LEAGUE TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 17.—Two contests are scheduled for the Military league Tuesday night. The first game between the New London Independents and Battery A will not get under way until 8.30, one hour later than the games in this league are supposed to begin. The second game, the 85th Brigade Headquarters five and the Tabs will furnish the excitement.

There are two teams in the league that are in a tie for second place in the standing, these being the Battery A and 85th Brigade Headquarters outfits. It is expected that the deadlock that now exists will be done away with. The 85th Brigade Headquarters have been inactive for about two weeks now and the Tabs, with Taylor leading the offensive drive, may surprise the guardsmen and send them down to a defeat.

The deadlock which now exists in the Intermediate Church league between three teams will be played off beginning with Tuesday night. The first game will be played with the Methodist juniors opposing Groton. On Saturday night, Groton will play its last game in the playoff for the league leadership when this team will attempt to take the first First Congregational five into camp. The last game of the series will be played on next Tuesday with the First Congregational and the Methodist juniors.

Tuesday night's game between the Methodist Juniors and the Groton five should prove to be a good game throughout. The last game that these teams engaged in was decided in the Groton boys' favor by a 15 to 17 score. A contest as close as this is again expected. The game will be played at the Y. M. C. A. at 6.15.

FRANK BARBER WILL ENTER BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIP

Frankie Barber of Danielson, claimant of the bowling title of Eastern Connecticut, has entered in the Eastern Connecticut bowling championship tourney which will start next Monday night. The entry of Barber in the tournament brings much satisfaction to the bowling fans of the eastern part of the state as there has always been more or less doubt as to the real bowling champion. The winner of the tourney will be the undisputed champion and will hold that title for one year.

With Barber's entry there will be seven in the tournament and an attempt is being made to induce Hallisey of New London to enter. New London is the only city in the eastern part of the state that is not represented.

THE MARY WINS POWER BOAT SWEEPSTAKES

Havana, March 17.—The Mary, owned by Colonel E. H. R. Green of Terrell, Texas, and driven by Charles F. Chambers, New York, today won the first international sweepstakes for power boats, defeating Baby Cub and Mambisa, belonging respectively to Commodore H. W. Lyon, New York, and Antonio M. Puente, Havana.

First place in the gentlemen's runabout class was won by Willgold, owned by Captain J. A. Williams, Buffalo, New York.

The races were run over a mile course off the Malecon, Havana's seafront drive, and thousands of spectators from the drive watched the fast craft as they cut their way through the rather choppy water.

Cuban and American power boat enthusiasts declared tonight that today's races were the prelude to what promised to be an important international event next year.

PADDOCK IS REINSTATED TO AMATEUR STANDING

Boston, March 17.—Charles W. Paddock, the California sprinter, is free to try for a place on the American Olympic team. President William C Prout, of the amateur athletic union, today announced Paddock's reinstatement after a suspension for several months because of his competition abroad.

"Personally," said Mr. Prout, "I am very much pleased that the A. A. U. in the Paddock matter has taken the position that it has always taken in such matters and that is a big, broad, fair position. The Paddock matter has been given a great deal more attention than the ordinary case than comes before the A. A. U. for decision, due to the fact that Paddock was used without his knowledge as an instrument to demonstrate what some people hoped was the fact that the position of the A. A. U. had been weakened. The A. A. U. during the various controversies that have raged during the past two years has demonstrated that its position is stronger today than ever before."

In a prepared statement Mr. Prout said that there was entire agreement on the part of four members of the special committee, which investigated the case, that Paddock should be reinstated. These members were Prout himself, Frederick W. Ruben, of New York, Sam Goodman, of San Francisco, and Robert S. Weaver, of Los Angeles. As to the fifth member of the committee, Verne R. C. Lacey, of St. Louis. Mr. Prout said that he "unfortunately has not had a similar opportunity of obtaining information and I fear may have a sterner attitude in the matter because of his long experience as district attorney in St. Louis."

The statement said that the expenses of Paddock's illness in England when returning from the Olympic games of 1920 were a proper charge against the Olympic committee of that year, but that Paddock had agreed to pay over to the committee any sums which it might think still due. Paddock, the statement said, had withdrawn his criticisms of the A. A. U., its officials and its athletes and had stated that the criticism had been "because of a lack of knowledge of the true fact."

As to Paddock's lecture tour, the statement added that a careful investigation had shown that he could not be said to have capitalized his athletic fame in this way. It pointed out that he had taken special college courses to prepare him for lecturing, had been a lecturer for seven or eight years and "is and has been a lecturer by profession for some time."

FEW UPSET IN FIRST DAYS PLAY FOR TENNIS TITLE

Brooklyn, Mass., March 17.—Victories for the four seeded players and a general absence of upsets marked the opening of the seventeenth annual National Women's indoor tennis tournament, the first round of which has completed on the Longwood covered courts today.

Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Miss Martha Bayard, Miss Lillian Scharman and Miss Leslie Bancroft, the seeded players, won their first round matches in straight sets, with comparative ease.

BLACK GOLD WINS RICH PURSE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, March 17.—Black Gold won the $15,000 added money Louisiana derby today at Jefferson park. Brilliant Cast, was second and Rinkey, third. The distance was a mile and an eighth and the time was 1:57 2-5. The value to the winner was $14,750.

Black Gold paid 9 to 5; to 4 to 5 and 2 to 5.

Brilliant Cast 6 to 1, and 3 to 1 and Rinkey even money.

SISLER NOT DISCOURAGED WITH HIS SHOWING

St. Louis, Mar. 17.—Although he went hitless in four times at bat in an exhibition game with Mobile, Georgia, Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Americans, declared today he is not discouraged with his showing.

"I saw the ball well," Sisler said. "I guess I was trying too hard."

Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Nationals, is said to be negotiating with the Boston Braves in an effort to secure an experienced catcher.

Coolidge to Throw First Ball

Washington, Mar. 17.—President Coolidge today accepted an invitation to throw out the first ball at the opening game of the American League season here April 18 between Washington and Philadelphia.

Leyden Captain of Colgate Boxers

Hamilton, N. Y., March 17—Peter Leyden, Jr., of Astoria, L. I., star 115 pound boxer of the Colgate university team today was elected captain for next year. Leyden has been a member of the team for two years. In the match with Pennsylvania he won in his class, then entered the 125 pound bout and scored a technical knockout.

MICKEY WALKER'S MANAGER DOING WELL AFTER OPERATION

Newark, N. J., March 17—Jack Bulger, manager of Mickey Walker, welterweight boxing champion, who underwent an operation for acute appendicitis at St. Michael's hospital, this morning, was reported tonight to be "doing very well." Bulger's condition was reported as critical during the day but an improvement set in later.

New London Sport Comment

Well, the Industrial League made its valedictory Saturday night. The only thing that marred a most successful season was the failure of the J. N. Lapointe team to put in an appearance on the Y. M. C. A. court, to oppose the league-leading Ship and Engine team. The tool makers had a good chance of breaking the long string of victories hung up by the ship workers in regular matches in this league, but when the Lapointes did not appear for their scheduled game the Ship and Engine gained its eleventh victory—going through the schedule without losing a single contest.

With the Industrial league now officially over, a challenge is expected to be issued forth from Jack Russell, manager of the Ship and Engine five winners of this league, to the winning team of the Military league. When the proposed challenge to the winner of the Military league, was brought up at a recent meeting of the Lidustrial league managers, favorable comment was passed on this question. But while this proposed series for deciding the city championship is expected to take place in the near future if the plans that are under ways at present are formulated, the opinion expressed by the members of the Mebs quintet who are expected to win out in the Y. M. C. A. House league, does not show that that team is entirely favorable to this plan for deciding the city champion. They think, that the Mebs should also be allowed to enter in this tournament. Much interest is being shown in this proposed elimination tourney to decide the city champion and it is also rumored that the Submarine Base would play the winner.

With the winning of the Eastern Connecticut interscholastic basketball title by the Chapman Technical high quintet, the members of that team are now receiving congratulations from their many friends in the city. But while it was the players of the team that won the title, credit for producing a winning team can not be denied E. S. Taylor, coach of Chapman Tech. It was his fine coaching from the very start of the season that enabled the Tech team to enjoy its most successful season in basketball, winning the majority of nearly thirty games that this team played in.

Schoell Outclasses Eagan.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 177.—Frankie Schoell, local welterweight, outclassed Joe Eagan of Boston, recent conqueror of Jimmie Slattery, here tonight, winning every round of a 10-round bout. Eagan was the mark for slashing rights and a fast, stinging left while he failed to find a solid punch on Schoell. Schoell weighed 152 pounds and Eagan 161.

Celtics After Games.

The Taftville Celtics, by virtue of their victory over the Baltic Bantams, claim the amateur title of Eastern Connecticut and would like to arrange games with the Plainfield Buddies or any team averaging 130 pounds. Call 1173-3 any evening between 6.30 and 7 o'clock.

FIRPO, TIRED OF BOXING GAME, WILL QUIT RING AFTER BOUT WITH REICH

Buenos Aires, March 17.—Luis Firpo, champion heavyweight of South America, announced today that he intended to abandon his career as a boxer after his meeting with Al Reich. Firpo and Reich are to fight a fifteen round bout here April 6.

Firpo said he was sick and tired of pugilism and the notoriety that went with it. He had made enough money, he declared, to satisfy him and he wanted to retire and live his own quiet life.

His decision to quit the ring, Firpo went on, had been reached notwithstanding pressure to the contrary on the part of numerous friends in the boxing world. He received only today from Tex Rickard an offer of a half million dollars for matches with Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey. He said he told Rickard's agent here that he was not interested in the offer.

"Do not think I am saying this just to make sensation," Firpo told The Associated Press. "I am tired of boxing a sensation. I am tired of manager, trainers and promoters and of this whole boxing game."

Asked if he was sincere about giving up the chance for the world championship, Firpo said: "I don't care about meeting Dempsey or anyone else. I am fed up with boxing, and championships. I want to live my own life. Everywhere I go people follow me; they besiege me in my house and office and everywhere, and most of them want to get something out of me.

"The requests I have received for financial aid total $700,000 and those I have helped are thankless. I have made enough money to satisfy me. What I plan to do after the Reich fight is to go to Europe for a rest and to attend the Olympic games; then perhaps I will go to Australia and Japan.

"I assure you I am perfectly sincere."

Firpo added that he would never forget the hospitality and friendly treatment he had received in the United States.

Firpo did not appear for his public training this evening.

Firpo did not appear for his public training this evening. He said he would train privately at a suburban hotel for the fight with Al Reich, and would not appear in public more than twice or thrice, "just to satisfy them," as he explained.

The South American champion asserted that his manager, Hugh Gartland planned to return to the United States May 10, but that he would not accompany him. Gartland could not be found tonight for an expression of his views on the statement of Firpo, which created a sensation in sporting circles.

PRES. COOLIDGE MAKES FIRST DRAWING IN DAVIS CUP

Washington, March 17.—President Coolidge reached into the original Davis cup today, on St. Patrick's day, and drew out a slip on which was written the name of Ireland. The ambassadors of other nations then drew names from the cup in alphabetical ordered and completed the first drawing over to be held at the White House for the great international tennis matches.

The entry list for the cup total 23 nations, seventeen in the European zone, and six in the American zone, which, with the United States as the challenging nation, brings it up to 24, a record for the games.

Drawing for the European zone resulted in two nations, Belgium as the British Isles, going into the first round, with seven byes in the upper half of the second round and eight byes in the lower half. France and Spain were picked by experts as the semi-finalists in the upper half, with Switzerland and Denmark strongest in the lower, and New Zealand a dark horse.

Ireland and France are in the first bye; Holland and India, in the second; Argentina and South Africa, in the third, and Spain will play the winner of the first round match between the British Isles and Belgium. In the lower half Denmark was drawn with Hungary; Italy and Rumania; Austria and Switzerland, and New Zealand with Czecho-Slovakia.

Canada was drawn with Cuba, in the American zone; Australia with China, and Japan, which drew a bye in the upper half, will play the winner of the Cuba-Canada match. Mexico drew the lower half bye and will meet the winner of the Australia-China match.

In the American zone, Japan and Australia are considered the strongest teams, but they cannot meet until the semi-final round owing to the luck of the draw.

The winner of the European zone and the winner of the American zone matches will play in this country the first week in September, the winner of this inter-zone match to challenge the United States for the trophy. The challenge round will be played at the Germantown cricket club, Philadelphia, September, 11, 12, and 13, one week after the intersone match.

In the drawings today the ambassadors or ministers of all the nations, except Italy and Mexico were present, these two nations being represented by attaches or charge d'affaires. After the ceremony Dwight H. Davis assistant secretary of war and donor of the cup, entertained the representatives of all nations at luncheon.

The United States lawn tennis association was represented by George W. Wightman, of Boston, the president of the association, and Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the committee of management for the Davis cup and former president of the association.

Tunney Outpoints Delaney.

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, outpointed Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul, in a fast 10-round bout here tonight, in the opinion of newspapermen. Tunney's rapid and vicious body punching varied with occasional left hooks to the head giving him the victory.

Suggs Beats Curtin.

Fall River, Mass., March 17.—"Chick" Suggs, of Newport, R. I., won from Irish Johnny Curtin, of Jersey City, on a technical knockout here tonight in the seventh round of a ten round bout. The men are bantamweights.

Buff Gets Decision.

Baltimore, March 17.—Johnny Buff, of Jersey City, former world's bantamweight and American flyweight champion, was awarded the decision at the end of his 12-round bout with Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, tonight.

Tendler Beats Marchant.

Philadelphia, March 17.—Lew Tendler of Philadelphia, stopped Ted Marchant, of England, in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. Tendler weighed 140 1-2 and Marchant 141 1-2.

Bantams Want to Enter League.

The Baltic Bantams are anxious to enter the amateur basketball competition which is to be conducted under the auspices of the Norwich Y. M. C. A.

English Soccer Results

London, March 17.—Games played in the English football association here today resulted as follows:

First Division—Burnley 3; Manchester City 2.

Second Division—Portvale 1, Southampton 0.

WILLIMANTIC CELEBRATES ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Willimantic, March 17.—The twentieth annual St. Patrick's day entertainment held under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hiberians, Monday evening, at the Gem theatre, was attended by a capacity audience and was a decided success in every way. An afternoon performance was also largely attended. The program was under the able direction of Mrs. Eileen Racicot. She was assisted by a committee composed of Mrs. Ellen Lynch, Misses Nellie Cannon, Margaret Flaherty and Mary McCarthy. The number probably the most appreciated, was the appearance of a Thread City quartette. This quartette is listed as one of the famous old timers in the annals of the musical history of Willimantic, and the boys displayed remarkable ability to join voices in pleasing harmony after years of separation. Songs of long ago were sung, closing with picture explanation by Miss Agnes C. Welch. All the other numbers were heartily applauded and were as follows. No. 1, Opening number, The Music Master's Night Mare, Mrs. Mary Mathieu, Rise Welch, Florence Coutu, Agnes C. Welch, Virginia Haggerty, James Healy, Patrick Dillon, Leroy Howlett, John Shea and Walter Costello, interlocutor; Dance of the World Winds, Alice and Margaret Connelly; I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen, the Mathieu Trio; Ethel and Claire Mathieu in Roses Bloom dance; Theresa Shea and Lew Tracy, singing and dancing comedians; Baby Gude, toe dancing; Good Old Name of Kelly, Virginia Haggerty and chorus consisting of Evelyn Fournier, Elizabeth Jenkins, Jennie Kirby, Emma Doyle, Dorothy Ahearn, Margaret Colgan, Helen Grimley, Ruth Costello, Pauline Doyle, Agnes Gaudreau. No. 2, Bert and Betsy Rose in a comedy skit entitled, The Checker, with songs and dances. No. 3—Thread City quartette, John R. Pickett, first tenor; F. J. LaFleur, second tenor; George W. Williams, baritone; M. M. Gallup, basso; Songs of Long Ago, picture explained by Agnes C. Welch. No. 4, The Geralds, Jipsy Serenaders, playing on 33 mandolins at one time, the only instrument of its kind in the world. The act was as played in all Keith's theatres. In private life the Geralds are Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald of Gerald park, Lake Wamgaumbaug, South Coventry. No. 5, Photoplay, Mae Murray in The Next Best String. Music was by the Gem theatre orchestra.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Apple Duck Woman

"It's a lovely bright morning, sure's you're born,
There goes Cocky Doodles' little tin horn.
Wake up, little bunny, or else you'll pay—
That chauffeur for standing outside there all day."

sang Bobbie Redvest just outside the little bunny's window. Now, wasn't that nice? If he hadn't that dear little bunny might have slept all day and forgotten that Uncle Dave Cory was waiting to be introduced to the nice kind apple duck woman who came every noon time to the Rabbitville Daily News Building.

"Have you a lettuce sandwich, or a clover lolly pop?"

With apple and pears and rsaberry tarts,
And yellow bananas and peppermint hearts,
On which there is printed in pretty red ink
Bits of valentine verse. Now let me think.
Oh, yes, here's one I'm sure you will like—
The lollypop's sweetest when mellow and ripe
And clover tops nicer when sprinkled with dew,
But nothing is sweeter nor neater than you.

There now, I did remember one verse, but you just wait till next Valentine's day. Maybe I may persuade that nice Duck Apple Woman to send all you little boys and girls who read this story a lovely peppermint Valentine heart.

"What will you have, little rabbit?" she asked, for by this time, although I forgot to mention it sooner, the little rabbit had dressed himself, eaten his breakfast, hopped over to the Pumpkin Hotel for Uncle Dave Cory and down to the Rabbitville Daily News.

"Have you a lettuce sandwich or a clover lollypop?"

"Yes, my little Jack Bunny," answered this kind Duck Apple Woman, handing him everything he had asked for. Wasn't that nice of her. But, Oh dear me. When Uncle Dave gave her ten pennies she wouldn't take them. No Sirreebus. She handed them back and said:

Copper pennies are no good.
They won't buy bread and honey.
Pay me in rabbit carrot cents—
I use that kind of money.
Where you live a Lincoln cent
May buy a pound of tea,
But in this lovely Rabbit Land
It isn't One, Two, Three!"

"What shall I do?" asked poor anxious Uncle Dave Cory and maybe he was a little ashamed at having no real money with which to pay for all these good things. But, don't worry little boys and girls, I'll tell you who paid for them in the next story.

Does the Most Beautiful Mother in America Live in Norwich

Norwich is famous for her pretty girls. It has one of the best school systems in the country. We are proud of our churches. Our police and fire departments rank among the highest.

But one national honor may escape us unless the mothers bestir themselves.

Eminent Judges are shortly to select from thousands of photographs the most beautiful mother and her children in the United States.

This Contest is being conducted by the makers of a famous health soap. The prizes offered are both generous and unique. The first, second and third prizes are $2,500, $1,000 and $500, respectively. There are a lot of smaller prizes and also a special prize of $100 for each state.

But in addition to cash prizes, there is a special inducement which should be irresistible to any attractive mother of attractive children. The winners of first, second and third prizes will be invited to visit New York at the expense of Lever Bros. Co., makers of Lifebuoy Health Soap, there to pose in the studio of a famous portrait painter for magnificent portraits in oils, worth at least $5,000 each.

These wonderful portraits, the loan of which will be eagerly sought by museums and art exhibits all over the country and which will be reproduced by hundreds of newspapers and national magazines, will become the absolute property of the prize winners, to hang in their living rooms.

Norwich should win at least one of these portraits.

AT THE PALACE

Large audiences greeted Marty Dupree and her snappy company of musical and comedy stars at the Palace theatre on Monday in their return engagement of a week. Miss Dupree brings her company to Norwich for the second time this year by popular request, her first appearance being such a success that Norwich people want to see the company in an entirely new show.

The show for the first half of the week is entitled "Teapot Inn" and is a laughable, rollicking comedy in which a number of the new song hits and dance numbers are introduced in a snappy and catchy way. Miss Dupree's company is well known to Norwich people and needs no comment to inform the public that every member is an artist. Everyone knows Bennie Drohan, Frankie Murray, Lew Caron, George Brown and others that appear in the revue and they surely get by in Norwich in their merits.

The bill is supplemented by a feature picture "Women Men Marry" picture dealing with the problems of married life. A Pathe News weekly and comedy complete the bill.

What Is Going On Tonight

Norwich Scale club meets in Thayer building.

BREED THEATRE

Would you like to see Rome, the city of the seven eternal hills? Would you like to visit Mt. Vesuvius, Italy's death-belching volcano? Would you like to enjoy the charm of Sorrento, the jewel of Italy's north—Naples, with its bay of blue—ancient Troy, the town of narrow torturous streets?

You don't have to visit Italy to see these natural grandeurs. They form the setting for Lillian Gish's greatest dramatic triumph, The White Sister which is showing at the Breed theatre all this week. Inspiration Pictures determined to bring the fascinating beauty of Italy back to America by means of the screen.

The White Sister was chosen as the first film to be reproduced entirely overseas. It has been the outstanding artistic triumph of the present motion picture season and the work of Lillian Gish, the screen's greatest artiste, in the leading role, has been characterized as better than anything she has ever done in the past.

The picture is a Henry King production for Inspiration Pictures, and is distributed by Metro.

BROADWAY THEATRE

It frequently happens that many shows favorably commented by newspaper critics fail to gain the support of the public. Occasionally the opinions of both playgoers and critics agree and in such an event we have an amazing success such as "Up She Goes", William A. Brady's musical delight which comes here following its long and happy run in Boston.

"Up She Goes," which comes here to the Broadway for one night only, Monday, March 24, was proclaimed by E. F. Haskins, critic of the Boston Advertiser as being "the best musical show that has wheeled into the Hub this season." Its record in Boston where 150,000 people saw it, proved that.

STRAND THEATRE

Living up to all advance reports the program at the Strand Theatre the first half of this week proved to be the best program ever offered to Norwich theatregoers.

The Vanderbilts in an offering entitled "Rehearsing for the Million-aire's Ball" starting off the program with an excellent routine of acrobatics.

An artistic vaudeville treat offered by Charlie and Lillian Gerard turned out to be a vocal and instrumental treat.

Lela White's Entertainers, minus a de luxe in Bits of 1924 filled in great in third spot. The best of comedy songs and steps were featured and scored an instant hit.

Lew Rose and Joe Fenner in "Two Gentlemen from Nowhere," Nowhere is evidently the land of fun and these two boys certainly are masters.

The Steppers are great dancers. These four dancers covered the field of dance of yesterday, today and tomorrow to the delight of all.

The photoplay shown featured Carmel Myers in "The Love Pirate."

NAME THE MAN

More than ordinary interest attaches to the announcement just received of the forthcoming presentation of Victor Seastrom's first American-made motion picture, "Name the Man!" at the Broadway theatre soon. This is Sir Hall Caine's novel, "The Master of Man," adapted to the screen; it was selected by Mr. Seastrom after consideration of all available material.

The invitation extended by Goldwyn to Mr. Seastrom, who sometimes has been called "the Griffith of Sweden" and who long has been recognized as one of the dominant personalities of the European screen and stage world, to come to the United States and make use of the far more elaborate machinery and the more varied talent offered by the highly specialized American studio, caused a stir of comment everywhere that people turn to the screen for entertainment. The splendid simplicity of the Swedish actor-director; his noteworthy success in making pictures under the handicaps imposed by the conditions in his native country where players only are available for pictures during the short northern summer when the speaking stage is on holiday, where studio equipment is more or less limited, and funds for production not overly adequate, had won him world attention.

Then he came to America, and while he was widely quoted, it might be discovered by anyone who took the trouble to sum up all the words attributed to him, that he really said little except that he felt rather humble in such a great and splendid country—that he certainly was going to do the best he could.

THE ELSHUCO TRIO

The last concert of the Connecticut College series will be given in Bulkeley auditorium by the Elshuco Trio, Monday evening, March 24th. Because of the small seating capacity of the auditorium there are not many unsold tickets available for this concert. Public sale begins at Starr Broth

NEW LONDON POLICE SERGEANT SUSPENDED, CHARGED WITH DRINKING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 17.—Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Frank Wentworth, of 36 Masonic street or 49 Bank street, to be returned to the owner. The license was suspended several months ago when the motorcycle, with sidecar attachment in which Wentworth's brother and Robert Moriarty were riding, overturned in Waterford, all three being laid up for some time in a local hospital.

The funeral of Mrs. Alice M. Millerrop, wife of Albert W. Millerrop, was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at 46 Shapley street. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Center, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

James Sherry, 82, of Waterford, died at his home this forenoon, after an illness of many weeks. Mr. Sherry is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. A. J. Perkins, and Misses Margaret and Catherine Sherry and two sons, Thomas and Owen Sherry, the last named a resident of Westerly. Mr. Sherry was a native of Ireland, but had resided the greater part of his life in Waterford, where he had been employed many years as foreman at the Booth Brothers' quarry.

Edward Grover of Norwich, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson and infant son of Lyman court, Mrs. Frank Lewis of Canterbrook, Mrs. Walter Bach of Broad street, Mrs. Lillian Paulie of State street, Master Kenneth Tucker of Groton, Henry Tyler of State street and Dennis McEwan of Washington street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Arthur S. Roe and Susan J. Roe have sold a building lot on Squire street to William H. and Helen J. Moosbrugger.

Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr., has sold a house and lot on Willetta avenue to George H. and Viola Young.

Donald McLoughlin, of 477 Williams street, reported to the police late yesterday that while he and his wife were walking across the Thames river highway bridge earlier in the day a man, apparently a foreigner, accosted McLoughlin and attempted to assault him.

Antonio Sammastaro, 7 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Santo Sammastaro of 26 Denison avenue, died at Home Memorial hospital Sunday.

Sergeant of Police Nelson Smith was off duty today, being confined to his home on Rogers street by a severe cold.

Police Sergeant Charles Hammond was suspended early this morning, by Captain of Police Charles A. Pisney, who charged that the sergeant had been guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer, in drinking while on duty. Hammond denied the accusation and his denial apparently was well taken for City Physician George P. Cheney, who was called to the station house by Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe for the purpose of obtaining expert opinion as to the sergeant's condition, declared that Hammond was sober and displayed no signs of having indulged in strong drink. However Dr. Cheney would not commit that the officer had not had a drink or two. Upon the assertion of Lieutenant Beebe that he believed Hammond had been drinking and upon his own observation, Captain Pisney ordered Hammond to turn in his revolver and wreath, which the officer did. Hammond was to have reported off duty at 11 o'clock and as is his custom, appeared at the station house a short time before that hour. It was then that the question of Hammond's sobriety came about. Hammond's fellow officers declared that they had observed him making his tour of duty throughout the night and that they had not observed any signs of drink upon the officer.

City Manager William A. Holt will undoubtedly give the officer a hearing before the expiration of the week.

John T. McDonald was before the police court this morning, charged with intoxication. He acknowledged that he was drunk on Howard street Sunday, when Officer Babcock found him and advised him to go to his home, if he had one. He declared that he was employed at Lawrence hospital, but he was also emphatic in declaring that he would go there when the notion took him. His condition was such that the officer that he would go there on the order of command or that he would go to the lockup for his condition was not such as to warrant his roaming the streets. McDonald tackled in with the officer and that meant that the guardian of the peace used his stick on Mac's head. Then the latter realized that he was tackling a job that he could not complete. In court it developed that MacDonald was in court last November for the same offense he was accused of today and that then leniency was shown to him and he was let off without paying any penalty. That was not the case today, so he was fined $5.

Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church, received the surprise of his life Sunday evening, near the close of the service, when a group of the hooded klan, known as the Ku Klux, marched into the church and up the main aisle and there stood while the congregation was singing the closing hymn. The leader of the group then stepped out from the others and addressed the pastor the purpose of the klan and announcing the presentation of a gift of money to the church and the cause of Christianity. Pastor Chase addressed the leader and made inquiry as to whether the klan was anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish. The response was in the negative. Pastor Chase pointed out that it was generally supposed that the klan was antagonistic to the church of Rome and to the Jewish race. He also said that the contribution of the Jews to the world was greater than was that of any other race. He called attention to the fact that the leading characters of the Old Testament were Jews, and mentioned Abraham, Jacob and Isaac. Still the klan declared that they were not antagonistic to the Jews. The pastor accepted the purse, which contained $50 and said it would be used for the benefit of the church. The visit of the klansmen was not generally known about till today.

Mrs. Minnie G. Rose, 67, wife of John Rose, of Clement street, Waterford, died this morning at her home after a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Rose is survived by a sister, who resides in Portugal and by eight children: John, Emanuel, Alexander, Minnie, and Mary of Waterford; Joseph of New London, the Misses Mary and Minnie of Waterford, Mrs. Elizabeth Eldridge of New London and Mrs. Annie O'Connell of Providence.

The body of Ira Y. Allen, whose death occurred at his home in Somerville, Mass., last week, was brought to Groton Sunday afternoon for burial in Groton cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church.

Miss Hester Farrell of Linden St., Lewis Pine of Mountaine avenue, Mrs. William Mills of 24 Maple avenue and Mrs. John Hughes of Waterford, were patients discharged at the Home Memorial hospital.

Private funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Bertha M. Haley, wife of John R. Haley of Center Groton, at the Haley residence. Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Eliza B. Taylor, 82, died this morning at her home in Niantic, Mrs. Taylor, who was the widow of Erwin Taylor, had been in ill health many months. She is survived by five sons, James Taylor of New London Sidney and Frederick Taylor of Niantic and Edward and Harry Taylor of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scanlon have returned from their wedding tour and are located at 79 Crystal avenue.

Michael Joseph Holland of 60 Chicago avenue, Groton, is scheduled to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer a charge of violation of the traffic laws. Holland was ordered into court by Traffic Officer John Courtney when that officer detected Holland's automobile parked on Bank street for a period longer than is permitted by ordinance, 30 minutes.

Stanton Latham, formerly of New London, now residing in Springfield, Mass., and Miss Mildred Seaholm, also of Springfield, were married in that city Saturday afternoon, at the First Congregational church. Mr. Latham is a son of the late Daniel Latham, a former New London business man and a grandson of Rear Admiral Oscar F. Stanton, U. S. N., retired, of Granite street. Mr. and Mrs. Latham will continue to make their home in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton N. M. Lathrop and family have returned to their home on Montauk avenue, having spent a month with relatives at Miami, Fla.

Pioneer Hose company of Groton was called out this afternoon in response to an alarm for a brick stable fire a short distance south of the plant of the New London Ship and Engine Company. The dead grass was fanned by a high wind and it was feared that the fire might communicate to nearby buildings. The fire was extinguished by the application of chemicals.

Samuel Brenner, whose matrimonial troubles were aired in the police court recently when his wife caused his arrest, charged with breach of the peace, which resulted in the accused being disciplined, experienced additional trouble Sunday, when his brother-in-law, named Bruckner, residing in Norwich, appeared at the Brenner home and was in the act of removing articles of furniture to a van apparently with the intention of causing the goods to be taken to Norwich. Brenner appealed to the police, once he discovered the purpose of his brother-in-law. The matter was referred to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Frank G. Cronin, who instructed the police to order Bruckner to cause the furniture to be placed back in the house. Bruckner did so and was advised that if the property in question was owned by him the proper course for him was to obtain a writ of replevin. This he has failed to do at this time. Since Brenner's prosecution in the police court he and Mrs. Brenner have been living apart.

William Babcock of Howard street, this city, employed by the Southern New England Telephone company was in the Groton town court this morning, charged with violation of the automobile law in operating a machine with defective brakes. He was fined $9 and costs by Judge Cornelius C. Costello, but the costs were remitted. Babcock was arrested Feb. 29th following the automobile he was in charge of colliding with a trolley car of the Groton and Stonington line. Babcock informed the court that he took every possible precaution against hitting the trolley car.

Ettore Ceccerelli of 89 Smith street, New London, was scheduled to stand trial for reckless driving, but, because of the inability of state policemen to be present at the session, Judge Costello ordered the case continued until the 31st inst. Ceccerelli's automobile was in collision last month with an automobile, operated by Arthur Winslow of New Londen and owned by the Flanders garage.

State's Attorney Hadlai A. Hull continues to improve daily. Although the improvement is not rapid, it is believed that within two or three weeks Mr. Hull will be able to take out of door exercises.

Venthe this evening went to a residence on West street where a party was in progress and created annoyance to those enjoying the function. So great did the annoyance become that the police were appealed to that the rowdyism might cease, but by the time an officer reached the place the youths had disappeared.

"They almost melt in your Mouth," said a visitor watching the baking of macaroons in the Brooklyn bakery of Drake Brothers, a few days ago. Said the head baker, "That is because all of the ingredients are well-mixed and every cake is like every other cake which is baked by these bakers who take pride in all of their work. Their eyes are awake to any possible imperfection

COLUMBIA

Herbert Little of Moodus, was a visitor in town over Sunday, at the home of his brother, Alonzo Little.

Those who have sugar maple trees have been collecting the sap, which began to run a short time ago.

Miss Eva Collins has been afflicted lately with an attack of neuritis in her shoulder, but it has not been sufficient ly severe to detain her from business.

Westcott Rice has the mumps.

Sunday morning there was a large attendance at church considering the roughness of the weather. The subject of the pastor's sermon was Christ came in the fulness of time, dwelling upon the childhood and manhood of Jesus, applying it to the youth and manhood of today. The Christian Endeavor society was ably led in the evening by Miss Lila Seeley, of Chestnut Hill.

The officers of Columbia Congregational church held a meeting at the parsonage Friday evening, at which among other matters, the subject of the preservation of the ancient and valuable records of the church was considered. During the past twelve years they have been kept at the home of the clerk of the parish, A. A. Latham of Chestnut Hill. It was thought best, however, that they should be kept in a fire proof vault, if possible and upon investigation it was found that they can be kept at the State Library under control of the Historical Society of Hartford. The subject was referred to the church members Sunday morning and was approved by them. As the parish is over two centuries old, occupying now its third church building, many of the records are interesting and valuable and in some cases what we in this generation might consider ridiculous. Among the records is one regarding Timothy Hutchinson who was charged, on August 1st, 1738, before Rev. Dr. Eleazar Whitlock, the pastor and a church council with laughing and irreverent deportment in the public worship of God. Several witnesses testified that they saw Hutchinson smile or laugh, which was admitted by Mr. Hutchinson, who testified that it was during Mr. Wheelock's sermon, when he said, "That their very horses groaned to be delivered from the service of their fates . . . by throwing their abusive riders to hell," which Mr. Hutchinson claimed referred to himself and a lady friend riding with him. The council found him guilty of smiling and laughing in the public worship of God, and required him to make a public acknowledgment of his guilt and ask the forgiveness of the congregation. After demanding a new trial which was denied, and delaying for some time to comply with the requests of the council he finally complied with their demands, asking for the charity and prayers of the congregation and the forgiveness of God.

The Porter and Little saw mill that has been sawing timber for the Robinson boys has been moved to what is known as the Brainard West place. The men found much difficulty in getting through the town roads. The had to furnish own help to break through the snow drifts.

People living on cross roads have to get to the state road the best way they can, to meet the doctors, then carry them in their teams to go south on account of the town roads not being freed from drifts.

WINDHAM

Representatives of the National Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey and Ayreshire Association are to hold a meeting in the interest of the pure bred bull campaign, in the new school house Thursday evening, at 7.30.

The fortnightly bean supper of the L. A. S. is to be in charge of Mrs. A. W. Clifford.

Windham was not as hard hit by last week's storm as towns northeast, but the gale blew down George Rood's silo and tore down half of a large maple in front of Miss Josephine Bingham's and one or two small pines at R. G. Watrous. Only a few inches of snow fell and the state road scraper had the highway opened by Wednesday morning.

A community service is to be held in St. Patrick's church each Saturday during Lent, at 6 p. m.

Misses Clara and Sarah Johnson were in Norwich Sunday to attend the funeral of their nephew, Robert C. Johnson.

Kenney Lathrop of Brown University, Providence, was at home over Sunday.

The C. E. meeting Sunday evening was led by Carl Josephson. Eden Cook and Clarence Beckwith sang a duet. Miss Charlotte Lathrop was the pianist.

Mrs. Alfred Harvey has returned, after a few days' visit with her mother, Mrs. Martin, in Providence.

WESTERLY

John Ward of 35 Palmer street, Pawcatuck, was in Stonington town count Monday morning at 9.30 before Judge William A. Wheox, on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna. Following the collision of his Chevrolet coupe on Lower Mechanic street with the truck of the Charles M. Gavitt Co., of Pawcatuck, at which time Patrolman Charles W. Conners of Pawcatuck was called and found Ward under the influence of intoxicating liquors. There were two counts in the writ, a charge of reckless driving on the highways, which was pulled; and one of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Mr. Ward, through his attorney, John F. Gallagher, waived the reading of the complaint and pleaded not guilty. William Surber, who lives in lower Pawcatuck, testified that he saw the defendant in his automobile a few minutes after colliding with the rear end of the Gavitt truck and said that he was drunk.

Wilbur Vars, 18, of Lower Pawcatuck, testified that he did not see Mr. Ward at the time of the collision and could no tidentify him when pointed out in the court room.

William Rose, residing at the Vars place on Lower Mechanic street, said he was in the cottage owned by Robinson at the time of the collision and when he came out found the cars together with the oil tail light of the truck of which he was the driver out. Ward called his attention to the fact that the tail light was out and when he stooped over to light it he kicked him, witness testified that Ward was drunk and he could smell liquor on his breath.

Police Patrolman Charles W. Canors testified to receiving a telephone call soon after 8 o'clock about the collision and on visiting the place below the farm of Cash Miller asked Mr. Ward if he was the driver and received an affirmative reply. In answer to question if he was drunk Ward replied that he was not. Patrolman Connors went to the telephone and called Dr. M. H. Scanlon to examine the driver for intoxication.

Monday, March 17th, was St. Patrick's day, the birthday of the apostle who gave Christianity to Ireland, over 1400 years ago.

Throughout the United States, citizens of Irish descent observed the anniversary and a number of social affairs were held in Westerly Monday evening.

The local lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose a dance at the town hall and another dance held at the Lorraine Community club. A private ball held at the Rhode Island hotel with music by the Wittstein orchestra of New Haven.

Exercises commemorating the anniversary were held Sunday evening at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and Monday evening a St. Patrick's program was presented at Burdick's hall, Bradford, under the auspices of St. Vincent's church.

A large assemblage attended the annual St. Patrick's service Sunday evening at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The preacher was Rev. Charles M. Cunningham, an associate editor of the Providence Visitor, who gave a very interesting address on Ireland Ever True to Her Ideals. Miss Helen Keenan, a student at the Massachusetts Conservatory of Music in Boston gave beautiful violin selections and there were other numbers by local performers, including, the church choir, Miss Helen Gaffney, Miss Edna Keenan, Miss Madeline Sutcliffe, Martin H. Spellman, Miss Eleanor Daly and Misses Rose Bannon and Louise Frechette. Mrs. Frank G. Ahern was accompanist.

In third district court at its last session Clerk M. Walter Flynn read the folowing docket: New write, Mary Noyes Rogers vs. Harry Deutch. Continued one week; State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, compl't, vs. Frank Terranova. Continued one week.

Judge Michael J. Turano called the case of Eagle Waste and Metal Co. vs. Abraham Caplin, a case which was begun in 1917. Attorney S. H. Davis for the defendant said he had just been called in the case and did not think his client understood the conditions of his case. Attorney Ferguson thought cause should be shown why he should not be judged in contempt of court.

Direction was given Attorney Davis to take a citation issue to the defendant for him to show why an attachment should not be made, and the case was continued.

Edwards vs. Maine was called by Judge Turano. George W. Maine, the respondent in the case is employed in a grocery store in Norwich and testimony has been given in district court that he received $18 a week and his cigarette money. His wife and four children continue to live in Hope Valley. When Maine was before Judge Turano Feb. 18 he was asked if he could not give his wife $8 a week and his reply was that he thought he could do better later. Attorney Roche said that the town of Hopkinton was continuing to contribute to the support of the deserted wife and four children, and asked if he wanted to continue in their support. Maine said that in the spring he thought he would be able to do better and Judge Turano continued the case eight weeks in May had with the admonition that Maine try to reach the $8 mark.

One hundred and fifty members of Westerly Cycle Club, their guests, the members of the bridge tournament teams of the Mystic Hook and Ladder Co., of Mystic, the Misquamicut club of Stonington and Westerly Masonic club of Westerly gathered at Masonic hall, in Pawcatuck the other night for the twenty-ninth anniversary banquet and entertainment.

Music was supplied by the club orchestra. The tables were set in U shape the length of the hall with the head table opposite the hall platform. At the head table were seated President Bernard J. Christy, Vice President Frank E. Collins, Secretary Ernest E. Gelly, Pool Captain Joseph Law, Director Alan A. Palmiter, Past Presidents Edwin W. Taylor and banquet committeemen, Ronald C. Dove, Robert Brundett, Thomas H. McGowan, John E. Law and Messrs Payne.

Following the banquet, Harry McGowan of the Waiters' Company, Boston, announced the program, every number of which was enthusiastically received.

William Gallagher is recovering. While at work the other morning at the press works of the C. E. Cottrell and Sons Co., in Pawcatuck, fell from the top of a press on which he was working and suffered painful injuries. The ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps took the injured man to his home at 37 Railroad avenue. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon attended Mr. Gallagher and found him suffering to his back, right arm and the top of his head.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Vars were in Boston Monday.

Mrs. Reuben W. Austin left Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Carl Peavey and infant daughter in Columbus, O.

Miss Cora M. Chapman who has been spending the winter at Orlando, Fla., is expected to arrive at her home here on or about March 25th.

Reuben W. Austin was in New London Monday.

A meeting of the Westerly republican town committee is to be held in the town hall this (Tuesday) evening.

A stated convocation of Palmer Chapter, No. 28, R. A. M., was held in the Masonic rooms Monday evening.

Glaziers have finished putting in the glass of the windows on the top floor of the Broad street side of the new Washington Trust building. Monday a gang of plasterers arrived in Westerly to begin work.

In the Rhode Island Regents club recently formed, Mrs. Samuel H. Davis of Westerly, formerly a state regent, has been elected an honorary vice president. Mrs. Allan L. Thompson, the present regent of Phebe Green Ward chapter, D. A. R., of Westerly, is one of the charter members of the new club.

About 2:15 Monday afternoon, two alarms, No. 33 on the Westerly Fire department bell were sounded for a brush fire outside of the fire district limits. The fire apparently started on the Reuter farm off East avenue and the strong westerly winds drove the flames through the underbrush toward the Oaks Inn on the Shore road. Crossing the Pond road the fire burned over the Damarel Farm and toward the club house of the Winnapaugh Golf club. The R. I. One's truck, with Chief Egger and a dozen or fifteen men responded. Samuel H. Davis an officer of the golf club left the fire and came to Westerly and returned with volunteers to protect the clubhouse.

ROAD SOCIETY

Mrs. J. Parker Johnson returned to her home in Springfield Sunday.

Leon Sprague and helpers are cutting wood for the farmers about here.

Amos Hewitt has gone to New York, Philadelphia and Washington for a stay of some weeks.

Richard Wheeler of Putnam spent the week-end at his parents' home.

Miss Esther Billings was tendered a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan Saturday evening and a delightful evening was spent.

The Misses Prudence Fish of Groton and Isabella Fish of Providence were guests Sunday of their aunt, Mrs. Eliza P. Noyes.

News have been received from Mrs. Beede Ludwig who is at Orlando, Florida.

Miss Miner has been at George Denison's in Quinebaug for several days this week.

There was no session of school at Quinebaug on Thursday because of illness of the teacher, Miss Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Billings of Mystic and daughter were callers at Mrs. S. N. Billings and Maple Lawn Sunday.

The storm this week put many telephone lines out of commission and once the small man, Horace Babcock, was unable to make his usual trip. The roads were getting to their worst in this month and when the mud settles all will appreciate better conditions.

RUGS—At Pre-War Prices

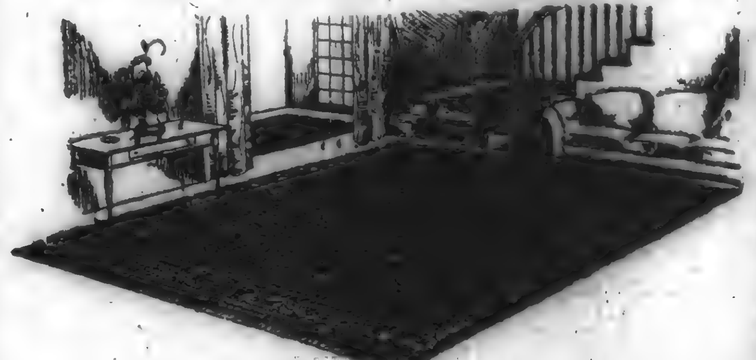
TODAY WE BEGIN THE GREATEST SALE OF RUGS WE HAVE HELD IN RECENT YEARS



Upwards of 200 Rugs are included in this offering—a wonderful selection — in practically every wanted size—and in the choicest patterns.

This Sale is brought about by the Alexander Smith & Sons' recent Auction Sale of Rugs and Carpets, held in New York. In order to meet Auction Sale Prices, other manufacturers offered unusual values. We bought liberally at the Auction Sale—also from other reliable manufacturers.

They are practically the same grades that we have in stock and although the Auction Rugs are not yet delivered, we are placing our own stocks on sale at once, on the basis of the very lowest prices quoted at the Auction, or by any other manufacturer.

The result is—the lowest prices we have quoted on these Rugs since pre-war days—a real merchandise achievement, that we will share with our customers, giving them all the advantages of our purchasing ability.

HERE ARE THE PRICES!

And please remember—every reduction quoted is from our low selling prices — actual reductions, that mean positive savings, ranging from $1.11 on a small size Rug all the way up to $22.50 on a beautiful 9x12 Wilton Rug.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

DECLINE IN STOCK PRICES

New York, March 17—Stock prices declined sharply today in response to expected attacks by bear traders. Losses in the active industrials ranged from 1 to nearly 3 points with standards offering stubborn resistance to the late trading when they yielded to the rest of the list. Losses in other groups, however, were held to fractions or less. Total sales approximated the million mark for the first time in a month.

Explanations for the decline found plenty of ammunition for their attack, including the decision of the house ways and means committee to report a $2,000,000,000 bonus bill, reports of unfavorable trade developments affecting the oil, motor, rubber, tobacco and silk companies, stocks which bore the brunt of the selling pressure. Inability of operators on the long side to attract a public following recently on the strength of several constructive news developments, also was an important contributing factor.

Circumstantial reports that the leading automobile companies were curtailing a large part of their output after preparing for sharp curtailment in production brought about heavy liquidation in the motor group. The Chandler was hammered down more than 3 points to 98 1-2, a new low on the movement while Chandler, Willys-Overland preferred, Hudson and Nash, Marrow preferred, dropped a point or so. The accessory stocks were not even harder, Stewart Warner alone registered down five points to 51, a new 1924 low on unconfirmed reports that some important contracts would not be renewed. Stromberg Carburetor lost six points; Bosch Magneto four and Hayes Wheel 2 1-2.

Among the so-called pivotal stocks, U. S. Steel common broke below 101 for the first time in nearly 2 months, closing at 100 3-4, off 1 7-8. Baldwin, at 121 1-8, off 1 3-4, and American Can at 113 1-4, off 2 1-4, on cancellation of the Pan-American Petroleum dividend, while generally extended, brought fresh selling into issues and the other oil shares. Cosden, Standard of New Jersey, Marland, General Asphalt, Texas and Royal Dutch dropping 1 to nearly 3 points while Firestone in the rubber group, Kelly-Springfield touched a new low as the weakness of the tobaccos was associated with the departure for Europe of George Whelan, one of the leaders in the industry and an important market operator. American Sugar, and the tobacco products issues broke to new lows.

Strength and activity of Erie and Reading and Chesapeake and Ohio, on expectation of favorable outcome of developments in the anthracite situation, featured the rail group. Prompt and enforced recessions of a point or more in Wabash preferred A and Northern Pacific and Western.

A drop in the call money rate from 3 to 2 1-2 per cent., the lowest since last September, caused a sharp flurry of short covering around the close. An easier tone also was noted in the time money market with funds offered at 4 1-4, but brokers were disposed to pay more than 4 per cent. 30-day loans being arranged at the lower figure. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

French francs moved to higher levels for the seventh consecutive day, the ruling rate being just below the five cent. mark. Belgian francs rallied sharply in sympathy, but other European rates were irregular, apprehensions over a coal strike causing a slightly reactionary trend in sterling.

CURB MARKET

New York, March 17—Encouraged by the inability of operators on the long side to get the public into the market, bear traders resumed their campaign for lower prices in today's curb market, hammering down quotations in all sections of the list. Oils, which have the largest speculative following, were the hardest hit. Prairie Oil and Gas broke, 8 points while most of the other active issues fell 2-5 points including such leaders as Standard Oils of Indiana and New York, Vacuum and Imperial of Canada.

Dubilier Radio, which advanced more than six points last week establishing new 1924 highs practically every day, finally yielded to short selling, dropping to 29 1-2, or 3 1-2 below Saturday's top price. Other radio stocks yielded in sympathy. Motors declined in sympathy with the reaction in those issues on the "big board." Jordan holding firm in response to reports of large sales and improvement in the company's cash position.

Mining shares yielded with the rest of the list. But the fluctuations were generally unimportant.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 17—Uneasiness over the ultimate fate of the bonus bill, which will come to a vote in the house of representatives tomorrow, retarded activity in today's market and exerted a restraining influence on prices. Tax exempt government issues were benefited by the prospect of limited tax reduction, despite the probable necessity for new government financing if a bonus measure is enacted. Other bonds developed no definite trends, expect where special influences were at work.

Liberty issues gave the best display of group strength, with an unusually large turnover in the fourth 4 1-4s which advanced 6-32 of a point. High grade railroad obligations also attracted a fair demand.

The features of trading today were liquidation of Kelly-Springfield 8s, which were under selling pressure as a result of uneasiness over the company's 6 per cent. preferred dividend and further recovery of the Wilson & Company issues following publication of a favorable earnings report.

Using the revival of the bonus measure as a pretext for selling, speculative interests hastened to take profits in bonds which have recently shown exceptional strength. Punta Alegre Sugar 7s, as a result, lost almost three points, and St. Paul, Norwolk & Western and public service of New Jersey issues were forced lower.

The action of bond prices, dealers asserted today, probably will be governed closely by the progress of bonus legislation.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 17—Corn and oats took a decided upward swing in price today, and helped to rally the wheat market. Blizzard weather likely to curtail the movement of corn and to delay the seeding of oats was the chief stimulating factor. All grain closed firm, corn 3-4c to 1 1-4 a 1 3-8c net higher, May 78 5-8 to 78 5-8 a 3-4, with oats 3-4c to 1 1-8c up, and wheat showing 1-8c to 3-8c advance, may 106 1-2 to 106 5-8 and July 107 3-8 to 107 1-2. In provisions the outcome was 2 cents to 7 cents decline.

Highest prices of the day in the corn market and in oats and wheat as well came just before the close, evidence having developed that selling in expectance of a fall in values has been considerably overdone. The fact that a liberal increase of the corn visible supply total failed to have much effect toward depressing the corn market did a good deal to make sentiment change in favor of the buying side. From the outset, too, commission houses were purchasers on standing orders to take advantage of downturns. Besides, there was a dearth of liquidating sales. Rural offerings meanwhile were small, and with oats showing independent strength the last hour of corn trading was largely a losers' rush to buy grain back.

In the wheat market, some purchasing was based on possibilities of a better foreign demand resulting from assumed likelihood of a reparations settlement. Some advances in quotations at Liverpool counted also as a bullish influence here. On the other hand, wide spread snow fall were deemed a benefit to the domestic winter crop and were an evident weight on values.

Provisions were easier owing to big receipts of hogs here, 74,000 head, equalling the record for this time of the year.

HOPKINTON

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Hopkinton Baptist church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Alonzo P. Kenyon at her home in Maple court, Ashaway. Light refreshments were served and plans were made for future work.

Owing to the ill health of Mrs. Arlene Mills, who has had charge of the Hopkinton post office for several years, the office has been moved to the residence of her son, Walter F. Mills, next door, and Mrs. Mills will stay there until she recovers.

Mrs. Sarah F. Larkin, 70, wife of Henry A. Larkin, died Saturday at her home on Maple avenue, Ashaway, after a few days' illness.

Alonzo F. Kenyon visited Saturday with his sister, Mrs. Benjamin F. Clarke, of the Shore road, Westerly. Mrs. Clarke has been ill for several days.

Rev. William L. Burdick, D.D., whose wife died suddenly a week ago, is expected to arrive in this country from South America, March 21. The funeral of Mrs. Burdick was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was conducted by Rev. A. L. Davis, assisted by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D.D. The body was placed in the receiving vault of the River Bend cemetery, Westerly, pending the arrival of the husband.

The funeral of the oldest resident of this town, Mrs. Hannah B. Matteson, aged 101, was largely attended Saturday afternoon in the First Baptist church, Hope Valley. Rev. O. F. Wedeman, pastor of the Six Principle Baptist church, Wood River, of which she had been a member for 83 years, officiated, assisted by Rev. Daniel L. Bennett, of West Greenwich, Rev. Warren Dawley, of Richmond, and Rev. James Struthers, of Hope Valley. Mrs. Sarah Welch and Miss Lillian Budlong of Ashaway sang Lead, Kindly Light and Abide With Me, with Miss Hazel H. Crandall, of Hope Valley, accompanying. The body was placed in the receiving vault in Pine Grove cemetery. She is survived by a son, David E. Matteson, of Grass Valley, California, a daughter, Mrs. Carrie Greene, of Hope Valley, a granddaughter, Miss Nellie M. Nichols, of Hope Valley, with whom she resided at the time of her death, and other grandchildren and nephews.

But put off until to-morrow the clothes you do not need to-night.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Although many places in the state report a slackness of building operations, Norwich does not seem to be hit as hard as a number of the other cities. During the past week five applications for new buildings have been filed with Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton and permits granted. The total valuation as estimated by the owners is approximately $15,000, bringing the total valuation for the first two weeks to nearly $60,000.

Included in the permits granted during the past week is one for a two-apartment house on North Main street and another for a bungalow on Hamilton avenue. This makes five new houses for which permits have been granted in the last two weeks. Besides the new houses planned contractors are working on other houses in various sections of the city.

At the Norwich State Hospital where three new buildings are to be erected work will be under full swing by the first of next month. It was expected that the work would start on Monday and in two weeks the work would be well underway.

Contractor P. F. Sweeney has started the work of remodeling the front of the store at 10 Broadway occupied by J. F. March. A new plate glass front will be installed.

The Connecticut Engineering company is planning to start work as soon as possible on the new warehouse for the Richmond Radiator company on South Thames street. The warehouse will be 258 feet long and 50 feet high.

The foundation work for the new bungalow on River avenue for Louis J. Bruette has been started, the excavation work having been nearly completed.

The following were the permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton during the past week:

To Michael Ahearn to erect a garage for William McMahon on Kinney avenue. The garage will be of frame construction with novelty siding and composition roofing. It will be 18x20 feet.

To Charles W. Burton to erect a two-tenement house on North Main street for himself. The house will be 29x36 feet with stone and cement block foundation. The superstructure will be of frame with slate-surfaced shingles. The interior finish will be of hard wood and plaster. Each apartment will have six rooms and bath.

To F. F. Sweeney to alter the front of the store at 10 Broadway for Harry Land. There will be an entirely new plate glass front with new entrance. The store is occupied by J. F. March.

To E. W. Salisbury to erect a frame garage on Hamilton avenue for Mrs. F. M. Carter. The garage will be 12x18 feet and covered with composition shingles.

To E. W. Salisbury to erect a frame bungalow on Hamilton avenue for Mrs. F. M. Carter. There will be a stone and cement foundation and there will be five rooms and bath. The exterior will be shingled and the interior done in hard wood and plaster.

NEW LONDON

Ground has been broken for a residence to be erected for Elisabeth DeHotman on Nameaug avenue. The contract for its erection has been awarded. The house will be 30x27 feet, of frame construction, two stories high, arranged for seven rooms. It will have steam heat and other conveniences.

The permit has been issued to J. D. and L. K. Pettigrew for the erection of a frame cottage on Alewife avenue. The house will be 18x24 feet, and will be built at a cost of about $2,000.

A garage and gasoline station is being built by Ernest Ford at 486 Williams street. The garage will be 50x100 feet, and the gasoline station will be 12x16 feet. The combined cost of the two buildings will be about $4,500.

A brick storehouse will be erected in the rear of 136 Bank street for Charles R. Stoll. The structure will be 30x50 feet, two stories high, of mill construction. The contract for the erection of the building has been awarded. The cost of the construction will be about $5,000.

William R. Golding has taken a permit for a two-family house which he is to build at 96 Thames street. The house will be 24x42 feet, of frame construction, and will cost about $6,000. The work will be done for the owner by the day.

William A. Harvey, 811 Ocean avenue, is finishing the house erected by him on Quaker Hill for Fred Benway.

Application for Building Permits

J. D. & L. K. Pettigrew, cottage, Alewife avenue $2,000.

Irving Colby, garage, 76 Lincoln avenue $400.

E. C. Ford, garage and filling station, 458 Williams street $3,500.

Charles R. Stoll, storehouse, 136 Bank street $5,000.

Wm. R. Golding, dwelling, 96 Thames street, $6,000.

Helen Patterson, business building, 44 State street, $40,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 8; estimated cost of building, $57,100.

WILLIMANTIC

The Parker-Elliot Coal Co. is planning the erection of a trestle and coal buildings on land recently purchased by the company which has a frontage of 440 feet on the Central Vermont Railroad.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 30 sales of real estate as compared to 19 sales for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $37,235 and $67,075.

There were eight sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to 11 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $38,650 and $66,300.

THE STATE SITUATION

The record of building permits for the past week as issued in the larger centers of the state do not show a continuation of gains over the previous years made in recent weeks according to the Commercial Record. The figures show a total of 156 permits granted, for buildings costing $511,827, these figures comparing with 106 permits in the second week of March, 1923, when the cost of buildings was given as $609,995, and 129 permits granted in 1922, the cost of building being $647,754.

CHIEF SCOUT MESSAGE COMING OVER RADIO

Chief Scout Executive James E. West will deliver a personal address to all Scout Leaders in the United States on Tuesday, March 18th, about 9 p. m. eastern time. Unusual facilities are afforded by Westinghouse Pittsburg station with the cooperation of all Westinghouse stations in the country.

Frank Mousley, Eagle Scout, formerly of Troop No. 6, Trinity Methodist church of this city, now in Stockton, California, holds the record in his county for knot tying. Mousley tied 8 knots in 33 seconds.

Troop No. 16, Greeneville Congregational church won first place at the council rally for attendance, discipline and appearance. This is pretty good for a new troop organized in November. William H. Latham of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is acting as scoutmaster. This troop reorganized after a lapse of two years.

FARM BUREAU HORSE SALE

STATE CAMP GROUND
NIANTIC AT 1.30 P. M.
THURSDAY MARCH 20

Thirty head of Horses, direct from North Dakota farmers, will be sold at Auction under a positive guarantee. The horses are accustomed to all classes of farm work and are mostly Percheron and Belgian breeding from 5 to 9 years old and weigh from 1300 to 1600 pounds. A committee appointed by the New London County Farm Bureau will inspect and hitch all the horses prior to the sale and will report on each horse at the sale. This is the THIRD consecutive year that the North Dakota Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Farm Bureaus of the Eastern States is holding cooperative sales of this kind. Practically every horse sold by us in the past two years has given splendid satisfaction. Ask your County Farm Bureau about our sales.

TAFTVILLE

The Bells of Shannon, a sparkling Irish comedy with its scene laid in Shannon, Arizona, was the title of the play presented Sunday evening by the Sacred Heart Dramatic club in Parish hall, to a crowded house. The play itself afforded an opportunity for all taking part to show their dramatic ability, and the plot was interesting from the time the curtain rose until the end of the third act. William Carew, as Father McBride, the Shepherd of St. Anthony, had the difficult part of the parish priest, which he carried extremely well. James Hanlon, as Humming Andy McBride, brother of the clergyman and town sheriff, had the audience with him from the start with his droll bits of humor. James Murphy made a very capable Dr. Fellows, the town physician. The part of Patrick, the man of all work, was handled very creditably by John Sullivan, whose makeup and brogue almost convinced the audience that he was from the Old Sod itself. John Murphy played the part of Keen Henshaw, the town gambler and general bad man to perfection. Thomas Corcoran acted the part of Dawson, the haggard man from the hills, excellently. One of the heaviest roles in the production was that of Delia Magnihan, the housekeeper, played by Miss Kathryn Hasler. This part called for a great deal of ability and Miss Hasler practically "lived" it. Honora, the heroine, who in the end became the sheriff's bride, was taken by Miss Margaret Hasler in a fine manner, especially during the "tense moments" of which the play had a generous supply. Mrs. Murphy, the neighborly Irish lady was Miss Nora Murphy, who pleased the audience with her handling of that role. Between the acts there were dancing specialities by Fred Dugas, and vocal selections by Miss Elizabeth Corcoran and Miss Nellie Brown. The furniture for the play was loaned by Plaut-Cadden Co., and the stage arrangements were by Fenton & Carroll. Music was furnished by the Ideal orchestra. Candies in green baskets were sold by some of the young ladies of the club between the acts. The hall was prettily decorated with United States and Irish flags, and large baskets of flowers were used at each corner of the stage. The committee in charge of the production was Miss Agnes M. Dougherty, Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Kathryn Hasler and Miss Nora Murphy. The proceeds are to be given to the Sacred Heart church.

Miss Dorothy Wood has returned to her studies at the State Normal school in Willimantic, after spending the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family of South Second avenue.

The Community Sewing class met Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree of Boodyear, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family of North Third avenue.

A very successful pool tournament has just been concluded at the Lafayette club, valuable prizes being awarded to the following members: Conrad Ducharme, Azarie Gauthier, Emile Panguay, Arian Gaudette, Conrad Tessier, Arthur Gaudette and Herve Heroux. A new tournament is being organized and the first game will be played Wednesday evening with the Taftville Football and Social club. Next week the Lafayettes will meet Chip Dugas' team which claims the championship of Eastern Connecticut. The Lafayettes have never been defeated.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parent, who have been at the Ponemah house for the past several months, have left town for Detroit, Mich., where they will make their home.

John Doak of Terrace avenue has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

The Ocawasin Camp Fire Girls met Monday evening at the home of Miss Helen Campbell of Norwich avenue. Friday afternoon, several of the members attended the ceremonial meeting in the Community house at Norwich.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose has returned from a few weeks' stay in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Paulhus of Willimantic have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Molleur of Providence street.

Joseph H. Buteau of Baltic was a business caller in the village on Monday.

Harry Bell of North Fourth avenue has resigned his position with the Ponemah company because of illness.

Spring examinations are in progress in the Wequcanoc school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold DeCelles of Lisbon have moved into the house formerly occupied by the late Mrs. Nicholas Krause.

Joseph Bryant of Ocanm, is spending a few days at his home recovering from burns on his arm, which he received from machinery belts at a mill in Goodyear.

Joshua Taylor of Baltic has been a recent visitor in town.

GIVEN MAXIMUM FINE FOR VIOLATING MOTOR VEHICLE LAW

Seymour Bohara, 19, who lives at the Falls, was before the city court Monday morning on a continuance of his case since his arrest on the night of March 4th when he knocked down and ran over with his automobile Miss Jane Reagan who resides in the Marguerite building on Burnham square. Miss Reagan was crossing the square at the time she was struck and did not see the car before it hit her. She was badly bruised and is still a patient at the hospital where she was taken immediately after the accident.

Bohara was fined $100 and costs in court for evading responsibility and $25 for not having his driver's license with him at the time of the accident. The evidence was that he had driven away after hitting the woman and had failed to report the occurrence, but his arrest was caused by a man who saw the woman hit and pursued Bohara up North Main street until he caught him. At that time Bohara claimed he was on his way to report at police headquarters but he did not do so and was arrested later in the night at his home.

In addition to the fines and costs he was given a sentence of 30 days in jail, which is suspended for a year. He paid the clerk of the court $137.46.

Furnished Bonds.

Joseph Selonski of Jewett City, who shot his wife in the hand Saturday night at 8 Sherman street, this city, was presented in court on the charge of assault with intent to kill and murder. The case was continued to March 31 and the bond was fixed at $7,500, which was furnished by Albina Nofie of Jewett City.

Harry A. Cohen of Hartford, who was driving an automobile that hit a pole at Norwich Town Sunday afternoon, throwing out Miss Irene Liebowitz of Hartford, who suffered a fractured skull and other serious injuries, was before the court and the case was continued to March 24 to await the result of the injuries. Bonds were fixed at $5,000, which were furnished by Mr. Cohen's cousin, Julius Cohen of Hartford.

A Taftville man was fined $5 and costs for intoxication, paying $17.13, and a breach of the peace case against another man was nolled on the payment of $5.

A New London man who works in a Norwich paper mill, charged with intoxication, had his case continued for a day.

A continued carb against a Norwich man which was heard in chambers was nolled because of the unreliable testimony given by the girl who accused him.

HANDLED 300 INCOME TAX RETURNS DAILY

Deputy revenue collector George M. Charbonneau closed two particularly busy weeks Saturday night when the last one of the income tax reports was filled in before him at his office in the county commissioners' room at the court house. For the final rush the department assigned Mr. Stiles of the New Haven offices to come here and help out in the last two weeks.

When the Norwich office was working at top speed in the last few days, Collector Charbonneau estimated that they were handling about 300 returns daily, which was at the rate of one in every two minutes of the office hours. There was a considerably larger number of returns sent in through the Norwich office this year than last.

BOY SCOUT TROOP HIKED TO MOUNTAIN

Troop No. 1, United Congregational church, with Scoutmaster A. L. Peale hiked to Deatur mountain at Gales Ferry Saturday. Some of the Scouts made the trip by bicycle. This interesting mountain is marked by a monument commemorating an event in the War of 1812, when Lieutenant Stephen Decatur removed the cannon from his boat in the Thames and hauled them up to the top of the mountain, in order to fortify the mountain from an expected attack of the British.

Scouts Benjamin Phillips and David Bloom, Troop No. 7, took a 14 mile hike to Pitchville Sunday.

EVENING OF WHIST ON SCOTLAND ROAD

Mrs. Charles E. Schwenk of Scotland Road entertained the ladies of Scotland Road at four tables of whist Saturday evening.

The following prizes were awarded: first H. Wilcox and Mrs. Hull second Miss Bernice Underwood, and Miss Emily Wilcox. Consolation to Mrs. Allen Gathem and Fred G. Ross. Ice cream and cake were served.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS TO RECEIVE MERIT BADGES

The court of honor for the awarding of merit badges for the Norwich Boy Scouts will be held at city hall, Friday, March 28, at 7:30 p. m. This is a public event which all friends of the scouts may attend.

It is expected that an inter-city meet will be held this spring between the Norwich scouts and the New London scouts.

Grace Church Services

At Grace church, Yantic, there will be holy communion at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning with litany and address at 7:30 in the evening.

Eight and a quarter million dollars will be lost to New York state through the recent 25 per cent reduction in the income tax.

J. ALDEN WEIR'S PICTURES ON VIEW IN NEW YORK

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, is holding a public memorial exhibition of the work of the painter Julian Alden Weir, a summer resident of Windham, who died in 1919. The exhibition comprises 77 paintings in oil, 22 water colors and 33 prints. Some of these are the property of the museum, while others have been loaned by prominent collectors and art institutions.

Julian Weir was New York born and bred. He was a member of the Society of American Artists and one of "The Ten American Artists," who seceded from it in the early nineties. He was president of the National Academy of Design from 1915 to 1917.

William A. Coffin, in introducing the exhibition writes as follows:

"In his earlier years, in New York, he produced some notable canvases wherein we see individuality. His portrait of his father, Robert W. Weir, N. A., painted in 1879, is an excellent example, vigorous in a well-composed depiction. Portraits of this period show a restrained color scheme with fine blacks and firm drawing. The essentials are what Weir learned in the Atelier Gerome at the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

"Idle Hours, the large picture in permanent collection of the museum, painted in 1888, shows a further development in the art of Weir in that we see him depicting effects of light from a large window enveloping the figures, but the real Weir had at that time not appeared.

"He always painted landscapes and phases of country life at Branchville and Windham in Connecticut. The Christmas Tree is a good example of his genre painting, showing true sensibility. The Donkey Rise is, in many respects, the best of his figure subjects.

"The night pictures, street subjects, are notable and belong to a comparatively late period. The motives were observed from the painter's apartment at Park avenue and Fifty-eighth street, looking down on the lighted highways with their electric signs. The artist had by this time—1910-1919—become trained to remember his impressions, and these pictures show that he had reached complete maturity.

"Weir was an accomplished painter in the water color medium. Two Dogs and Fireside Dreams, painted between 1885 and 1887, a series of English subjects in 1913, other sheets in Holland and Venice, all testify not only to his skill in the handling but to his individual quality as well. He was an etcher, also, as many good painters are.

"His medals and other honors received for his works form a long and important list. His presidency of the National Academy may serve well as an example of his conscientious and unselfish devotion to the interests of American art, for, although his health at the time was so genuine that he often shouldered duties that another might have shifted to other officers."

GIVEN SURPRISE ON 16TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A delightful surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus D. Harris in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary. Many gifts were received and music was enjoyed. Piano selections were included by George Farrell and solos by George Rigby, Paul Duquette.

Talbot, Union-Sunday school, Laurel Hill, Dr. F. S. Wilcox, Julian L. Williams.

BERT LUCAS ON HIS WAY TO VISIT CUBA

Herbert W. Lucas of this city, who has been at Miami for several months, left Florida Sunday for Cuba. Last week, while this section was in the grip of the near-blizzard, he writes that it was cold at Miami, 411 on Tuesday and 38 Wednesda, with high winds but no snow. He says it was the coldest they had for ten years and he found it comfortable to wear and overcoat all day.

NEW TREATMENT RIDS YOU OF RHEUMATIC PAINS QUICKLY

No Medicine to Take. Results Guaranteed by Local Druggists

The well-known physicist, Alessandro Volta for whom the electric volt was named, has made a scientific discovery that produces marvelous results with the most stubborn and agonizing cases of rheumatism, where the old-fashioned risky internal drug treatment has failed.

This famous discovery, which revolutionizes old ideas about the cause and proper treatment of rheumatism, is an external remedy, intended to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet.

The eminent Italian scientist has compounded a powder called Volta, that is intended to be a powerful and active Uric Acid solvent. This marvelous powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to be absorbed almost immediately into the blood, thus acting upon certain poisons now definitely determined to be the cause of most rheumatic agony.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and in Italy, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with an unqualified guarantee of relief from the use of the very first package or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout, or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists as, Lee & Osgood Co., George G. Engler, Frank Eggleston.

POETRY

And So It Was

There were long days when there was nothing said,
And there were long nights where there was nought
But silence and exterminating thought
Between them like a field unharrowed.
Antipathy was now their daily bread,
And pride the bitter drink they daily fought
To throw away. Ruhama was all they sought,
Of hope, colder than moonlight on the dead.

Wishing the other might at once be sure
And strong enough to shake the prison down,
Neither believed, although they strove together,
How long the stolid fabric would endure
That was a wall for them, and was to frown
And shine for them through many sorts of weather.
—Edwin Arlington Robinson in The Bookman.

In Memoriam

Sequoia Gigantea,
"Father of Forests,"
Sprung from a seedlet
In the Year One.

With rugged serenity
You've blasted Eternity—
The night stars are wondering
Where you have gone.

We know by the size you grow
This world of ours was new
When Nature planted you
On the Pacific.

But where shall the eagle nest
Now that you've bowed your crest?
Something's gone from the West
Along with your passing.

You of the kingliest birth—
Mightiest plant-child of Earth—
All that your fall seemed worth
Was a "news item."

For we are ruthless folk
And e'en though your heart be broke,
Forgive, pray, the pigmy stroke
That sent you crashing.

There'll be no more of you.
God broke the mould of you.
Peace to the soul of you,
Sequoia Gigantea!!

NEW STORIES RELATED TO THE SENATE OIL COMMITTEE

One Story Was That Attorney General Daugherty, on the Day the Sinclair Lease of the Teapot Dome Was Announced, Changed His Margin Account in Sinclair Oil Stock From His Own Name to That of W. W. Spaid—Expert Accountant Tells of Oil Stock Transactions by Members of Senate and House.

Washington, March 18.—Attorney General Daugherty and Albert B. Fall figured separately in two new chapters written today into the record of the oil committee as the senate investigators renewed their long public quest for all of the facts connected with the leasing of the naval oil reserves.

One story was that on the day the Sinclair lease of Teapot Dome was announced officially, Mr. Daugherty changed his margin account in Sinclair oil stock at a Washington brokerage house from his own name to that of W. W. Spaid, a member of the firm, who then was carrying a large account for Jess W. Smith, personal friend and confidant of the attorney general.

The other chapter had to do with still another apparent attempt by Fall to conceal through the statement of an oil friend that he had obtained $100 000 from Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, late in 1921 when he enlarged and improved his New Mexico ranch holdings.

Besides the dealings the attorney general had in oil stocks, the committee obtained from its expert accountant, Louis F. Bond, detailed accounts of transactions in oil stocks by two senators, Curtis of Kansas, assistant republican leader in the senate, and Elkins of West Virginia, and five members of the house, including C. Bascom Slemp, now secretary to President Coolidge.

Both the stock transactions and the story of Price McKinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, that Fall sought to have him agree to say he had loaned the former interior secretary money will be followed by the committee. Members regard McKinney's statement today one of the most important that has been developed in connection with the oil leases.

Identifying himself as an old friend of Fall, McKinney, a mine owner, testified that late in 1923 he had received a letter from the former secretary, "asking me if I would state that I had made the loan for the purchase of the ranches of property bought in New Mexico."

The witness said he had not answered the letter and that Clarence C. Chase, son-in-law of Fall, had called upon him at Cleveland a day or two after Thanksgiving day, which was November 29, to take up the subject.

"I think I did most of the talking," he said. "It only got started, and said, 'I have not made such a loan, and I could not say that I have.'"

Asked if he had the Fall letter, McKinney said he had destroyed it "when Mr Doheny testified that he himself had made the loan."

At the time Chase visited McKinney the committee was seeking the source of the funds which Fall evidently had received and the latter was preparing to come to Washington to testify according to telegrams placed into the record. There is evidence of a conference between Fall and Chase at Columbus in early December after which the former secretary went on to New York and then to Atlantic City, where Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, agreed to say that he had loaned Fall $100,000 instead of giving him unused checks aggregating $100,000.

Around the time of his call on McKinney, Chase, for whom a subpoena was issued today, was in communication from Cleveland secretly with counsel to Harry F. Sinclair. From Chicago, December 1, he sent to Zevely at Washington, this telegram:

"Will be delayed in arrival account going to Cleveland from here."

From Washington two days later, Chase wired Fall that he would meet him in Chicago, adding the word, "important."

On the same day Fall wired Zevely here that he was preparing to come to Washington to testify and added:

"Chase should have reached Cleveland Sunday night. Are you in touch with him? Notify him."

Zevely on the same day sent a telegram to Chase, who then was enroute to Chicago, saying: "Immediately upon arrival in Chicago, call me telephone Main 6562."

Turning to the stock accounts of Attorney General Daugherty, who has publicly denied that he had any connection with or knowledge of the Sinclair lease, the committee learned from Bond that the first entry was on November 7, 1921, and that the account remained in the attorney-general's name until April 18, 1922, when it was closed and "transferred to W. W. Spaid, No. 4".

"I want to call the attention of the committee to a rather notable instance," remarked Senator Walsh, of Montana: "That the Daugherty account was changed from his own name to the name of Spaid on the 18th of April, 1922, which was the very day that official information was given out from the department of the interior of the execution of the Sinclair lease."

The Daugherty transactions detailed by Bond were the purchase of 100 shares of Pan American Petroleum (Doheny) on October 9, 1922, and their resale on October 11, 1922, at a net profit of $543.50; the sale of 500 shares of Sinclair Consolidated on October 9, 1933, and the repurchase of the same amount on October 27, 1922.

Bond testified that Daugherty had these 500 shares on hand on January 4, 1923, the time limit placed upon his examination of the books. The attorney general in a recent public statement said he had sold all of his Sinclair holdings in the fall of 1923 at a net loss to him of $25 a share.

In another statement tonight, Mr. Daugherty declared there was "nothing improper, suspicious or profitable" connected with the transactions and that he had never tried to conceal them.

"It will be observed," Mr. Daugherty's statement said, "the testimony confirms completely what the attorney general said in his letter to senator Willis under date of February 22nd, which letter is a part of the Congressional Record, advising the senate, congress and everybody, of the amount of oil stock that he had bought and paid for prior to his becoming attorney general, and had thereafter sold at a substantial loss. The stock was purchased long before the leases in dispute were made. The transaction was not speculative in any sense, and even though it had been, the purchase had not been prompted by any information he had or supposed he might have in connection with oil leases substantially made. There was nothing improper, suspicious or profitable connected with the transaction and he has never tried to conceal it. Though known long, it is now again used to keep suspicion and gossip going and to produce headlines."

TESTIMONY AT SENATE DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION

Washington, March 18.—Threading its way through a bewildering maze of charges and suspicions, the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty today heard testimony about deals in liquor, lotteries and motion picture films; subpoenaed two cabinet officers to appear before it; and was again rebuked by Mr. Daugherty for the character of the evidence it had admitted to its official records.

The principal witness of the day, William A. Orr, of New York, in part confirmed and in part denied the story of previous witnesses about an arrangement to exhibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight pictures without prosecution. He then contributed another thriller to the committee's long list of sensational episodes by admitting that he had paid at least $6,000, collected from various drug companies, to Howard Mannington, a friend of the attorney general, for the purpose of keeping certain liquor cases out of "court."

The two cabinet officers summoned to testify were Secretaries Mellon of the treasury and Weeks of the war department. They will be asked about various statements made in previous testimony, but their testimony is expected to deal largely with liquor permits, handled through the treasury, and with the Standard aircraft case, in connection with which Gaston B. Means has testified that he received $100,00 for Jess Smith.

Along with the two members of the cabinet, the committee subpoenaed several other officials and former officials of high rank. They included Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair, Elmer Dover, former assistant secretary of the treasury; Assistant Attorneys General John W. H. Crimm and Henry W. Anderson; H. H. Votaw, prison commissioner and brother-in-law of the late President Harding, and James A. Finch, pardon attorney in the justice department.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house passed the soldier bonus bill, 355 to 54.

The senate confirmed the nomination of Curtis D. Wilbur to be secretary of the navy.

The navy department announced a program by strict economy for future future administration of naval oil lands.

Attorney General Daugherty issued another statement summing up his activities in the department of justice.

President Coolidge decided to ask the agricultural credit corporation to assist northwestern wheat growers to diversify their crops.

The department of agriculture said the agricultural outlook for this year indicated that farmers were undertaking a normal production program.

Arbitration treaties between the United States and sixteen other American nations were favorably reported by the senate foreign relations committee.

The senate approved a constitutional amendment which would have newly elected congresses and presidents take office in January following their election.

Oil, Daugherty and related subjects were debated in a senate flare-up with Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, sounding a warning against the abandonment of legislative duties for "grand jury" proceedings.

The senate oil committee went into details of transactions in oil stocks, obtaining from an expert accountant's reports of such by Attorney General Daugherty and members of the senate and house.

The Daugherty committee examined Will A. Orr, former private secretary to Former Governor Whitman of New York, chiefly in relation to prize fight films and whiskey withdrawals; heard Maco Stewart, a Texas attorney, charge failure to prosecute lotteries and summoned secretaries Mellon and Weeks to inquire into the machinery of communicating confidential information between departments.

FOUR MEN ON TRIAL FOR SWINDLING IMMIGRANTS

New York, March 18. — Four men went on trila today, charged with having swindled immigrants of $131,000 by selling them stock in a hole in the ground near Yonkers, N. Y., upon promises that it would yield $10,183,000,000 as a platinum, gold and silver mine.

The defendants were promoters of the Iridio Platinum Gold company, Inc., and included Dr. J. E. Spencer, a former American vice consul to Russia, K. S. Shevchenko, V. Chernikoff and L. Sidorkin, who claims to have been a colonel in the old Russian army and a close friend of the late Czar Nicholas.

BRIDGEPORT HIGH GIRLS TO HAVE STORE EXPERIENCE

Bridgeport, Conn., March 18.—Girl students in the Bridgeport High school to the number of 350 are to have actual experience on the Tuesday of Easter week at the store of a local drygoods concern, by filling positions in the sales force through the executive offices. The experiment has been arranged by the Girls Student league of the school and the store management will cooperate.

Mrs. Roosevelt Sails for Home

Genoa, Italy, March 18.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of former President Roosevelt, left here today for New York on board the steamer Conte Rosso.

Singapore Naval Base Scheme

London, March 18.—(By the A. P.)—Explaining the government's position with regard to the Singapore naval base scheme in a statement which he read in the house of commons today, Premier Macdonald said the argument for the base was contrary to the Washington agreement and was not sound. The government had abandoned the scheme, he declared, because it was convinced that if proceeded with it would exercise a most detrimental effect on Great Britain's general foreign policy.

KNUTSON AND HULL HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Washington, March 18.—After a preliminary hearing of more than five hours in a crowded little Virginia court room, Representative Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, and Leroy M. Hull, a 29-year-old government employe, today were held for the grand jury on grave charges preferred against them by two Arlington county police officers.

Judge Harry R. Thomas withheld temporarily issuance of a formal order, holding the two men for the grand jury in order to give them opportunity to arrange new bond. Each had been held in $5,000 bond for the preliminary hearing, which the court refused to reduce on motion of State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Virginia, as defense counsel.

In addition to Senator Ball, Knutson was represented by Representatives Larson and Newton, both of Minnesota, and Thomas C. Bradley, Washington attorney.

Four witnesses were heard during the day, John Wise and John R. Burke, the officers, who made the arrests on the night of March 9 on a road on the outskirts of Washington; Louis Zimmerman, brother-in-law of Burke and driver of the officers' car when the arrests were made, and Harry Woodyard, jailer.

Wise, the first witness, testified as to the conditions under which the arrests were made when he and Burke came upon Knutson's car parked about 150 feet from the main road. He told of "offers" made to him by Knutson to "settle out of court," saying the "offers" were refused.

Replying to direct questioning by commonwealth's attorney, William C. Sloth, Wise said he was unaware at the time that Knutson was a member of congress or whether he was a democrat or republican." Attorney Bradley objected, but was overruled by the court after Gloth had declared an attempt was being made by some to infer the arrests were the result of a "frame-up."

Declaring proof of the charges had been established, the state's attorney rested after Wise's testimony, but was not with replied by defense attorneys that in view of the seriousness of the charges against the two men, all witnesses should be called.

Representative Larson declared the charges involved "the honor of the congress of the United States" and that it was the "ethical obligation of the prosecuting attorney to call every witness." Gloth took offense at what he said was an attack on his fairness and charged Larson with "attempting to revolutionize the criminal practice of the state, "because one of the accused "happens to be a member of congress."

Wise, who was then cross-examined by the defense, repeated his story, and Burke and Zimmerman, also called by the defense, described the circumstances of the arrests substantially as did Wise.

Harry Woodyard, jailer of Arlington county, the last defense witness, testified he had charged the men on the books with a "felony" on advice of Sheriff Howard Fields, after the latter had talked the matter over with Wise and Burke, and that the records were in his office.

The defense asked that the records be brought into court, but Judge Thomas refused to grant the request and expressed the opinion that they had no bearing on the case.

After a strenuous appeal by Mr. Ball for a reduction of bond from $5,000 to $2,000 Judge Thomas ruled the former amount was not excessive for such cases and held Knutson and Hull on that bond for the grand jury. The next grand jury session in Arlington county is set for April 21.

MANY ALLEGED DIAMOND ROBBERIES ARE FAKES

Chicago, March 18.—After juggling such terms as "eight million dollars worth of diamonds," "ring of diamond thieves" and "psychoanalysis" the police, state's attorney and private detectives today released a woman and two men for questioning in connection with the investigation of methods of collecting insurance on diamonds. ### FRENCH GOVT QUERIES ARCHBISHOP HAYES

[illegible] March 18.—The French government, through Cardinal Dubois, Archbishop of Paris, has forwarded to Archbishop Hayes of New York, a copy of a printed circular, issued by the "American Aid Society, 125th Street, New York city," which, purporting to bear the approval of Archbishop Hayes, appeals for funds for the relief of sufferers in Germany.

The government is anxious to learn whether Archbishop Hayes really approved the document, which, bearing in the upper left hand corner the words, "Approval of Archbishop Hayes," violently condemns the alleged cruelty of the French to German women and children in the Ruhr, and desires to get the archbishop to disavow the letter if it is spurious.

Soldier Bonus Bill Passed by the House

Vote Was 355 to 54 After Forty Minutes' Debate—Had Voted Bonus Twice Previously.

Washington, March 18.—The house today for the third time in four years passed a soldier bonus bill. The vote was 355 to 54, and was taken after forty minutes' debate.

Twenty speakers took the floor during the brief period, however advocates of a full cash payment option assailing the rule under which the bill was taken up, which limited debate and prevented the offering of amendments. "Dis-hards" of both parties declared against the measure on principle, while proponents argued it was a measure which could become law.

The measure provides for paid-up 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans entitled to not more than $50 in adjusted service credit. Provisions of the old bill for vocational training and farm or home aid are eliminated.

The insurance provision is somewhat different from payment certificates proposed in the old bill and because of these changes the measure faces an involved situation in the senate. Members of that body have asked time to study the new bill, while others already have prepared different proposals. The finance committee to which the measure will be referred, is now occupied with the tax reduction bill.

Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, who introduced the bill, reminded the house during the short debate preceding the vote that the two previous measures had not been enacted into law, "for reason known to all," and insisted this measure "will and must become law."

When asked by Representative Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, whether he had conferred with President Coolidge as to the prospects for the bill becoming law, Mr. Green replied that he had not added that he did not know the president's attitude toward the measure.

The bill, after passing the house and senate was vetoed by President Harding.

The vote today showed 32 more than the two-thirds necessary to pass a bill over a veto.

Although veterans, particularly on the democratic side, bitterly assailed the measure because it failed to carry an option for full cash payments, only twenty democrats and 34 republicans voted against it. Analysis of the vote showed 177 democrats, 175 republicans, and the three independents voting for the measure. Four members voted present and nine did not vote.

The maximum cost of the bill is estimated at $2,119,000,000, spread over twenty years. The highest annual cost would come in the first year and is estimated at $135,000,000. Mr. Green declared the cost of the measure could be met by appropriations and would require no additional taxes. The bill provides for an appropriation not to exceed $100,000,000 for next year to meet the cost of the measure, if the estimated maximum expenditure should be necessary the first year, the additional amount could be drawn from the treasury surplus, Mr. Green said.

Representatives Treadway, Massachusetts; Tilson, Connecticut, and Mills, New York, republican members of the ways and means committee, argued against passage of the bill, declaring it threatened future tax reduction and was "unsound economically."

A further provision of the bill is that loans up to ninety per cent. of the current cash value of the policies may be made on them after two years from date of issuance.

The basis of adjusted compensation provided in the old bill is preserved—$1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service. The first sixty days cannot be counted in figuring the service credit.

VATICAN VISITED BY THE AMERICAN PRELATES

Rome, March 18—(By the A. P.)—Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago, who are to become members of the sacred college at the approaching consistory, made their first of numerous visits in the round of such calls that must be made before their formal elevation.

Late this afternoon the American prelates visited the Vatican where they saw Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, with whom they talked over various details of the preparations for next week's private and public consistories. It is expected that they will have an official audience of the pope shortly, possibly tomorrow.

Aside from the official calls, the archbishops today also made a number of unofficial visits. Archbishop Mundelein renewed numerous old acquaintanceships of his college days in Rome. Both he and Archbishop Hayes spent a couple of hours shopping and being fitted for the vestments they will require as princes of the church.

$5,000 PAID IN ADJUSTMENT OF CLAIMS AGGREGATING $32,500

Danbury, Conn., March 18.—Settlement out of court was effected today of suits in which damages claimed aggregated $32,500, brought against Herman Schroeder of Woodhaven, L. I., by administrators of the estates of Charles H. Tyler, his wife, Nina F. Tyler, and Archie Hewell, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., and by Max Simon, of Danbury. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler and Hewell were killed and Simon injured last summer by the overturning of Schroeder's automobile, in which they were riding. It was stated that $5,000 was paid in adjustment of the various claims.

COMPENSATION AWARD OF LUMP SUM OF $5,128.45

Waterbury, March 18.—In the first award of its kind since the amendment to the state compensation act, Compensation Commissioner Frederic M. Williams today gave Mrs. Katherine M. Tehan, widow of the late Police Lieutenant Finton Tehan, a lump sum award of $5,128.45. Lieutenant Tehan was fatally injured January 24 when he was struck by a truck while engaged in traffic work here. Prior to the last session of the legislature, policemen and firemen were not eligible to receive compensation, as they were not employes under the meaning of the law, but were appointed. The law was amended to include firemen and policemen.

Banker Morgan Has Praise for France

Believes French Government Has Taken Necessary Steps to Stabilize Her Economic Situation.

Nice, France, March 18—(By the A. P.)—J. P. Morgan, the American financier, today in an interview printed in the Eclaireur said that France had taken the necessary steps to stabilize her economic situation, and that Americans had confidence that if the people of the country stood together France soon would be invincible in the economic domain.

Mr. Morgan sailed this evening for Naples, where he said he would join his steam yacht Corsair for a cruise. "I am extremely pleased to learn that your senate has ratified the new taxation measures," Mr. Morgan is quoted by the Eclaireur as having said. "It is quite understood that Germany must pay you. For the moment she does not. The businessman who was unable to secure payment from his debtors would go bankrupt, no matter how just his claims. But France has taken the necessary steps for stabilization in the face of all contingencies.

"We have absolute confidence not only in the resources of your country but even more in the intelligent and industrious population which after astonishing the world in the war, now is giving a magnificent example of how to win peace.

"If the ruling classes only make a similar effort France soon will be invincible in the economic domain. In any case we shall always be at her side and sustain her when necessary, because we know we can count upon her as the champion of right.

"General Pershing on stepping on the soil of France said: 'Lafayette we are here' and behind him stood all America in arms. We have proved that the financial world often represented as sunk in selfishness can remember. My further stay is after the war of 1870 and it was with admirable unanimity that the big bankers of the United States answered the appeal to help you vanquish the coalition formed against your franc.

"Nothing justified a panic, for your national wealth has increased to formidable proportions during the past two years. But your enemies counted upon succeeding in shaking the confidence of the country. There were then in existence more than sixty billion francs in treasury and credit national bonds payable at short notice, without any other means of meeting them than by recourse to the printing press. When a country embarks on that course, it is impossible to [illegible] we saw with what confidence your country resisted that attack, and that instead of imitating Germany, when the mark began to drop, all citizens of France accepted the necessary sacrifices. We were proud of our former comrades in arms.

"Let France continue in this course, and before two years have elapsed she will have reconquered, from the economic viewpoint, the preponderating situation she enjoyed before the war. I shall be sincerely happy, for I love your country, which is beautiful, industrious and honest."

"Les bones," Mr Morgan added with a smile: "Even the hotel business, which occasionally is subject to calumny."

KISSED FACE OF WIFE HE HAD MURDERED

Denver, Colo., March 18.—Fred Janssen, confessed slayer of his wife whose body was found by a railroad expressman in a trunk at Ogden, Utah, last Saturday, stooped and kissed the face of his dead wife this afternoon when he was taken to the county morgue.

After identifying the body and explaining in detail how he had beaten her to death with a hammer he pulled back as he was being led away and again kissed the woman he had confessed he killed.

Janssen today admitted his story of the employment of a Mexican to kill his wife, was untrue and then confessed his part in the crime. He told of slaying his wife with a hammer last Thursday night at their home here, and then of secreting her body in the trunk, where it was discovered at Ogden.

Janssen's visit to the morgue was part of the trip in which he led detectives to the hotels and rooming houses where he spent his time from Friday morning when he checked the trunk containing the body of his wife to the time he left the city Sunday.

The district attorney announced today following the confession that charges of first degree murder would be filed against Janssen probably tomorrow.

BRANFORD FIREMAN WAS SUFFOCATED TO DEATH

Branford, Conn., March 18.—George Vickstrom, a volunteer fireman, was suffocated to death, two other firemen overcome, and property damage unofficially estimated at $75,000 to $100,000 caused by a fire, which completely wrecked two frame business blocks on Main street early today and threatened for a time to spread to other structures. Firemen from Stoney Creek, Short Beach, East Haven and Guilford aided the local firemen in saving the post office block, a moving picture theatre and the Masonic hall, which were endangered. The Totoket hotel, a brick structure, was badly damaged by smoke and water.

COOLIDGE LEADING IN NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARY

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—When 67 precincts in 14 counties had reported, the count in the North Dakota presidential primary stood: Coolidge 5,732; Johnson 2,647; La Follette 686. The count indicated little success for the sticker campaign to put La Follette's name on the ballot.

Bismarck, capital city, gave the president a plurality of nearly two to one over Senator Johnson, who in turn had a corresponding margin over La Follette, the vote in that city, all precincts reported, giving Coolidge 971; Johnson 493, and La Follette 236.

WILL EXTEND NO IMMUNITY TO GROVER BERGDOLL

Washington, March 18.—War and state department officials today jointly announced that the Washington government would enter no agreement to extend immunity to Grover Bergdoll, as an indictment for his return from Germany. The government has taken no part in steps to have the draft evader return.

WOULD HAVE PRESIDENTIAL TERM BEGIN IN JANUARY

Senate Has Approved, by a Vote of 63 to 7, a Constitutional Amendment That Newly Elected Presidents and Congresses Take Office in January Following Their Election—If Adopted in House the Amendment Will Go to the States For Ratification.

Washington, March 18.—A step toward adding another amendment to the Constitution was taken today when the senate by a vote of 63 to 7 adopted a joint resolution to have presidents inaugurated the third Monday in January and new congress go into office the first Monday in January after election.

The resolution which was offered by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, now goes to the house where, as in the senate, a two-thirds vote is necessary for adoption. If approved by the house, it will then go to the states for ratification.

Explaining provisions of the proposed amendment Senator Norris in a statement said:

"First. The congress elected in November will go into office on the first Monday in January following, and a session of congress will then begin. This means that as soon as congress is elected it will commence its official duties without delay instead of waiting thirteen months before its members are actually sworn into office as under present conditions.

"Second. It abolishes the existing short session. Under present constitutional provisions a congress assembles in December after election and runs until the fourth of March when it expires by limitation. It is in this so-called short session of congress that all kinds of jokers creep into the laws.

"Third. Under the present Constitution if the people fail to elect a president, and the election is thrown into the house, it is the old congress that elects the president and not the new. The amendment will reverse conditions, and in such a case, the president will be elected by the congress fresh from the people.

"Fourth. Under the existing Constitution if the people fail to elect a president at the election, and it is thrown into the house and the senate and if the house and senate should order such conditions fail to elect a president, there is no provision of the Constitution which provides who shall be president and there is no authority given congress to provide by law who shall be the acting president. This amendment confers upon congress the power to provide by law who shall act as president in such an emergency."

Having disposed of this amendment, the senate took up without delay a resolution of Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, providing for another one. This resolution proposes that ratification of constitutional amendments must be completed by three-fourths of the states within six years of their approval by congress and was made the unfinished business over the objection of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, and several other senators who insisted that farm relief and the bonus should have right of way.

The Wadsworth proposal includes also a provision that congress, on request of two-thirds of the state legislatures, shall call a convention for amending the Constitution. Another provision is that any state may change its vote up to the time when three-fourths have ratified the amendment under consideration or until one-fourth have rejected it. The final section states "that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate."

SIR ESME HOWARD AT THE PILGRIM SOCIETY DINNER

New York, March 18.—America will unquestionably feel the impulse to work for permanent peace in Europe on which a large measure of her prosperity depends and will not leave Europe to stew in her own juice," Sir Esme Howard, new ambassador of Great Britain to the United States, declared tonight at the Pilgrim Society dinner, at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. It was his first public address since he has assumed his post at Washington.

The cutomary Anglo-American nature of the function was given a broader international flavor by the presence among the speakers of Ambassador Jules Jusserand of France and Ambassador Don Juan Riano Y Gayangos of Spain, while among the hundreds of listeners to their addresses and those by John W. Davis, former American ambassador to Great Britain, and Frank L. Polk, former assistant secretary of state, were citizens of many other European nations. The addresses were broadcast by radio.

A cable message from King George of England, expressing his appreciation of the accomplishments of the Pilgrim society on behalf of Anglo-American friendship was read as was one sending the good wishes of the Prince of Wales.

Secretary of States Hughes, in a message expressing regret at his inability to attend the dinner, joined in greeting Sir Esme whom he called a long known and highly esteemed friend who "represents so admirably the continuance of the tradition of friendly intercourse between the two great peoples, whose amity is the cornerstone of all hopes for world peace."

KLANSMEN IN HERRIN UNDER MORE THAN $3,000,000 BONDS

Herrin, Ills., March 18—Williamson county's warfare on bootleggers went to the civil courts today where constitutional procedure won in the initial skirmish with a law enforcement program sponsored by adherents of the Ku Klux Klan.

S. Glenn Young, paid klan leader in dry raids, which aroused the county and resulted in rioting, was placed under bonds aggregating $100,000 when arraigned today before Judge E. N. Bowen, on 65 indictments charging assault with intent to murder, rioting, falsely assuming offices and other charges. Seventy of his aides in the drive to "clean up the territory" were placed under bonds totalling more than $3,000,000. All were bound over for trial in June.

Arraignments followed a protest parade by klan supporters of Young in which "indignant citizens' thrice passed the court house while Judge Bowen was awaiting the appearance of the defendants.

PROGRESS OF AROUND THE WORLD AIRPLANES

Eugene, Ore., March 18.—The army around-the-world airplanes completed the second leg of their journey when they landed here just before four o'clock this afternoon.

Major Frederick L. Martin, commander, and Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith landed here after flying from Mather Field, Cal.

Lieut. Leigh Wade, who started with them, was forced to land at Cottonwood, Calif., and has not been heard from by Major Martin, who said he was unaware of the reason for his landing.

The fliers will remain in Eugene overnight, jumping to Sand Point, near Seattle, Wash., tomorrow.

The third plane piloted by Lieutenant Wade which was forced down at Cottonwood, Calif., on account of a broken water line, arrived here at 5.23 p. m.

"CUSTOMER" EQUALLY AS GUILTY AS BOOTLEGGER

Philadelphia, March 18—The purchaser of illicit liquor was held equally guilty with the seller today by Federal Judge Thompson who imposed a fine of $50 on William C. Kirner, of Sandusky, Ohio, one of the "customers" of Isaac Bullfant, alleged head of a gigantic mail order bootleg scheme. Twenty-two alleged customers of Bullfant recently were indicted separately on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF RETURN OF BERGDOLL PREMATURE

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 18.—Commenting on dispatches from Germany, stating that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American arch-slacker, had declined that he had entered an agreement to return to the United States, John Quinn, national commander of the American Legion declared that he feared the plan to have Bergdoll end his long exile had been disrupted by premature publicity.

Commander Quinn, who was in Cincinnati to speak at a St. Patrick's day celebration and who was to return to Indianapolis today, admitted that the legion had used every lawful means of persuasion to induce Bergdoll to come back and serve his sentence, and expressed disappointment over the developments.

"This last attempt to 'bring Bergdoll' back was worked out by Garland Ferrell, chairman of the legion's Americanization committee and myself," said Quinn. "We sent a representative to Bergdoll, urging him to give up his residence in Germany, which not only was embarrassing the government of the United States, but the government of Germany.

"But our representative was instructed absolutely to use no force, to break no laws. He was instructed to depend absolutely on persuasion."

WILBUR CONFIRMED AS SECRETARY OF NAVY

Washington, March 18—Selection of Curtis D. Wilbur, chief justice of the supreme court of California, to succeed Edwin Denby as secretary of the navy was approved today by the senate in an executive session of less than ten minutes. There was said to have been no debate on the nomination and no roll call asked when the motion that he be confirmed was made by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican leader.

President Coolidge upon being informed of the senate's action immediately notified Judge Wilbur by telegraph and, it is understood, expects the new member of the cabinet to come to Washington as soon as he can conveniently arrange to do so.

The new secretary is to take up the duties of the office where they stood when Secretary Denby resigned, no outstanding policies awaiting his attention and even the appropriation bills having been framed for the new fiscal year.

In the interval of little more than a week since Mr. Denby left office the department has been under the direction of Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

Mr. Wilbur comes to his new office not unfamiliar with navy problems, having been graduated from the United States naval academy in 1898 and always having maintained his interest in the sea, notwithstanding his active life at the bar and on the bench.

SENSATIONAL RECOVERY IN PRICE OF FRENCH FRANC

New York, March 18.—In its sensational recovery from a new low record for all time established ten days ago, the French franc today crossed five cents to a new high price for the year at 5.08 cents. The previous high level of 5.04 1-2 cents was reached on January 2. After that date the francs declined almost steadily until March 7, when the climax of the foreign offensive against its forced the quotation down to 3.45 cents.

While official verification was lacking, it was reported in the financial district that the French government has as yet found it unnecessary to use any part of its $100,000 credit to bolster up the currency, the buying coming entirely from speculative and commercial interests. One of the interesting features in connection with the recovery of the franc is the fact that the overnight gain in the demand rate invariably has been about ten points, reflecting accumulation of orders from abroad.

DENIES PETITION OF CONNECTICUT COMMUTERS

Hartford, March 18.—The public utilities commission at the conclusion of the hearing today on the petition of Connecticut commuters against the increase in commutation rates of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad denied the motion to suspend the rates, giving "lack of information" as their reason.

The case of Eben G. Chappell of Chaplin, versus State Policeman Harris J. Hulburt was taken up at the special session of the Windham county superior court held in this city Tuesday, Judge George E. Hinman on the bench. Damages of $1,250 are claimed by Chapell for an alleged false arrest, as the result of which plaintiff claims that he suffered distress and mental trouble for several days. The action dates back to September 26, 1923 when a case was tried before Justice of the Peace George K. Andrews of the Mansfield town court and Charles T. Nichols of Mansfield was presented on a charge of harboring a horse not his own. A fruitless effort had been made to prove that the horse was the property of Mrs. H. O. Huntington, of Mansfield. The animal was at one time turned over to Mrs. Huntington but some time after the carcass of another horse had been found on land owned by Mrs. Huntington, the horse was returned to Nichols and he was acquitted by the Mansfield court.

State Policeman Hulburt, who investigated the horse case, was of the opinion that Eben Chapell knew more about the animal than he cared to testify, as he had sold it to Nichols. Chapell had purchased the horse from Ernest Lincoln, of this city.

Chapell was first to take the witness stand. He said that he was 22 a teamster and farmer. He related the incidents relative to the Mansfield town court case, September 24. On the afternoon of that date he was driving a load of wood in the town of Chaplin when State Policeman Hulburt and Grand Juror Frank M. Millard drove up from behind and ordered him to stop. He complied with the request and Officer Hulburt questioned him about the horse, asking him to make true statements. The officer then commanded him to come to the state police barracks at Stafford Springs. Witness abandoned his team by the side of the road, went to his house and after washing up, went with the officer to the barracks where he was again questioned and he signed some kind of a paper. He claimed that he knew nothing about the alleged stealing of the Huntington horse. The plaintiff then described his state of mind that evening, after he had returned home. He claimed that he became so worked up and nervous that he could not do any work for about a week. He left home for Stafford Springs late in the afternoon and when the officer offered him supper at Stafford he was so upset that he could not eat. Chapell said that he had been troubled with asthma since he was fifteen months old and that at the present time his health was as good as at any time in his life.

Members of the Chapell family then testified to the physical condition of Eben Chapell. Frank W. Chapell, Jr., father of the plaintiff, said that he had seen his son crying bitterly on the day in question and when witness asked the officer what the trouble was he was given a gruff answer. He then told the officer that if bonds were needed he would furnish them, but received no reply.

He said that when his son left for Stafford he was crying and appeared downhearted and tired the following morning. Witness then took his son to Attorney Harvey in Willimantic and showed him Eben's condition. According to the father, Eben could not work for over a week and did not regain his normal state of mind in three weeks. In the opinion of the elder Chapell the boy's condition was caused by the trip which he made with the officer. He then said that the boy was afflicted with asthma. He testified that the officer did not produce any papers when he took Eben away with him.

Mrs. Eva R. Chapell, mother of the Plaintiff, Everett L. Chapell and Frank E. Chapell, his brothers, testified to the physical condition of Eben, which was aggravated by asthma.

Ernest E. Lincoln of this city told where he bought the horse and said that he had later traded the animal to Eben Chapell.

Henry Martin, 18, of Chaplin, who was on the load of wood with Eben Chapell when the officer stopped him told of the conversation which took place as far as he could hear it. He said that the officer did not have a warrant when he asked the plaintiff to come to Stafford Springs with him. He alleged that the officer had warned Eben Chapell not to say anything about it, but did not know what was being referred to.

Merritt Weiss gave evidence that he heard that Eben Chapell had been taken to the Stafford Springs barracks and he called up the station about 10 p. m. and asked if a bond was needed but was told that it was not an arrest that had been made although certain papers were likely to be served.

This testimony closed the evidence for the plaintiff.

State Policeman Harris J. Hulburt testified that he had been a member of the state police department since June 15, 1922. He had been summoned to investigate the Mansfield horse mystery case by a party who claimed that they had reason to believe that a horse then in the possession of Charles Nichols was the property of the informant. In due time a warrant was made out for the arrest of Nichols and September 24, the case was heard before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews. A number of witnesses testified. The case was not entirely cleared up, as the horse had been taken to the Huntington farm and allowed to mingle with the stock as a unique method of determining whether the horse would appear at home or not. Mrs. Huntington claimed that she owned the horse and that he was the one which had disappeared from her place some time before. The officer was of the opinion that Eben Chapell knew a great deal more about the mystery horse than he told in the Mansfield town court hearing, so he went to Chaplin the following day to find young Chapell. Later in the day he met Chapell and after telling him of his mission he asked him to tell the truth about the affair. He wanted to know how long Chapell had had the animal and how he had secured it. Chapell was then asked to come to Stafford Springs and sign a statement. Chapell was perfectly willing to go and told the officer that as soon as he had washed up he would be ready to start. At the Chapell house no reference was made by the father relative to furnishing a bond, as there was nothing in the case which required a bond. Young Chapell was not under arrest and no warrant was served. At no time did the officer notice the young man appear distressed in any way, nor was there any evidence of tears. Chapell told the officer that he wanted to give him all the assistance he could in the matter. After arriving at the barracks the witness and Chappell talked the matter over for one and one-half hours before the statement was drawn up and signed by the plaintiff.

Chapell was then told that he might go home or remain until morning if he chose. He decided on the latter course and was taken back to Chaplin the next day by Officer Hulburt. Chapell appeared to be taking matters for granted and displayed no signs of depression.

Officer Hulburt denied that a writ had been made out for Chapell's arrest. Chapell was simply asked to come to Stafford Springs to make a statement about the horse and he consented to do so.

Grand Juror Frank M. Millard of Mansfield, when called to the witness stand, said that he was with Officer Hulburt on the trip to Chaplin and overheard considerable of the conversation between the officer and Chapell. He did not at any time hear that the plaintiff was [illegible] anything concerning the horse in any way against any right of anxiety.

Recess for luncheon was then taken. When the session was reopened the signed statement of Eben Chapell was read, in substance it was to the effect that without any pressure or intimidation he stated that he traded a cow, valued at $60 and a pony valued at $20 for a horse, with Ernest Lincoln, and that the sale or transfer was made on or about May 6. He only had the horse in his possession a few days having purchased the horse about April 28.

Mr. Lincoln had told him that he had bought the horse in Webster, Mass., and told how fast he had driven it home. "I knew that Lincoln was lying and I never since believed that the horse was the one owned by Mrs. Huntington," was a sentence in the statement.

Sergeant Russell I. Harmon, in charge of the Stafford state police barracks said that he saw Eben Chapell at the barracks while he and Officer Hulburt were engaged in conversation. He did not see the slightest sign of distress, grief or excitement on the part of Chapell.

Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews who presided over the court in which Nichols was tried for having in his possession a horse not his own, testified that during the trial Eben Chapell had told a number of conflicting stories which would lead to the belief that true facts were lacking.

Frank Davis and Ernest E. Lincoln appeared in the role of "dead horse experts" at the conclusion of the case. They claimed that they were members of the party that searched the Huntington property and found the carcass of a horse mired in a swamp. They believed that the horse found had been dead all summer.

The court and counsel agreed that briefs be filed in the case and returned to the court in Putnam, Friday morning. Judge Hinman then ordered court adjourned until Friday morning at 11 o'clock, at Putnam.

Attorney Harvey appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Putnam for the defendant. Announcement was made at the opening of court that the case of Louis J. Coriarty vs. Ike Rosen, both of Willimantic, had been withdrawn by the plaintiff.

Ernest Bellevance, local jitney driver was in the police court Tuesday morning, to answer to a charge of assault on Fred Thompson, an employe at the New York lunch, on Railroad street. The alleged act was committed Monday night. Bellevance pleaded guilty saying that when Thompson put his hand in his (Bellevance's) pocket he thought it time to call a halt and he struck. Judge Frank H. Foss imposed a fine of $2 and costs, amounting to $9.15.

Thompson was asked by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Fenton to tell his story. The plaintiff said that he was struck on one occasion and asked Officer Arthur Hurley to make Bellevance leave him alone. He did not want his assailter arrested. Bellevance was sent home, but in twenty minutes he was back in the restaurant and when he again struck the plaintiff he was placed under arrest by Officer Lariviere, who saw the affair.

Thompson was a little worried about leaving the court room as Bellevance had threatened to knock every tooth out of his head when they got outside.

Judge Foss said that this would be rather an expensive method of getting vengeance.

Mrs. Marguerite P. Marks, 32, who died at her home in Colchester Monday night, was born February 3, 1892 a daughter of Kolorat Mesal Howbe, of Germany. She leaves eight children, Henry and Albert of Malden, Mass., John of Naugatuck, George of Akron, Ohio, Pete of Michigan, Fred of Colchester, Mrs. F. Palmer of this city and Mrs. William Clifford of Norwich. She had eighteen grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Jennie E. Page, [illegible] died at her home on Windham Road, Mansfield after a [illegible] was born in Willimantic, a daughter of Andrew and Jane Wheeler. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. [illegible] of Colchester, Mrs. [illegible] of this city and [illegible] Whitehouse of Abington; two grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. [illegible] Bompon of Abington and Mrs. [illegible] Baker of this city.

The funeral services for Mrs. Candace Carpenter Buell, widow of William H. Buell, were held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Herbert Walker, at Manchester Green, at 2 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. Burial was in the West cemetery, Columbia. Mrs. Buell was born in Coventry, January 20, 1853, a daughter of Ralph and Sarah Root Carpenter. She had resided in Columbia for many years and was well known in that community. She was a member of the Congregational church and the West Street club, in Manchester.

"Al" Lillibridge of the Norwich club was introduced as the champion pinochle player of the world, selling automobiles as a side line, at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary Club, Tuesday noon. The attendance was excellent, only two members being absent.

Communications were read with regard to the New Britain district conference in April and also relative to the Toronto Conference. A. E. Greene was selected to attend to the matter of popular songs for the local club members on the conference. At a suggestion of District Governor George Cooper, James P. Bath, Charles Alpaugh and Charles W. Hill were appointed a committee to secure gifts of materials manufactured in this city to present to Guy Gundaker, president of Rotary International and First Vice President Everett W. Hill of Oklahoma City, who will attend the New Britain meeting. One of the members suggested that "wet goods" be sent as a locally manufactured product.

A letter of appreciation from Harry W. Standish was read for flowers sent by the club after the death of his father, George G. Standish.

Ray Parker and George Hickey led in the community singing and John Ahern then organized his paper instrument band for a few selections. John mounted a chair and with wild gesticulations led his musicians into the halls of fame.

"Charlie" Pomeroy, who sometimes bears the cognomen of "Shortie" had something to say about the hard times which the western agriculturalists are experiencing. Charlie secured his information from one of the men here for the sale of a bunch of North Dakota horses. This particular man said that he was pleased to find one person in New England who was honest. He purchased a remedy for an ailing horse from the New Englander who told him that the concoction would show definite results within three hours. The salesman was right—within that time the animal had left for its happy foraging grounds. In comparing the luxurious living of the country and city people Charlie said that although he did find more silver, more china and other pretty things on a city table, he never found the quantity and quality of good things to eat on these tables as he did out in the country. There was some excuse for this statement however as his fellow members claimed that Charlie's constitution calls for much nourishment and he has been known to eat the flowers off the plates in his ambition to get enough. Adjournment was taken at 1:15 o'clock.

The boy's department supper and social was held at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock. Some seventy-five boys were present. Charles W. Hill, chairman of the boys' department committee presided. The feature was the carrying out of a surprise program in charge of physical director Leroy Dissinger and Earl E. Russell.

The local Church-Read Company store was closed for an hour Tuesday afternoon, during the funeral services of James Read, father of one member of the concern, F. Frank Cunningham, local manager, attended the funeral in Danielson.

A party of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Wesley G. Ide, 835 Valley street, Willimantic, Monday afternoon, March 17 to help her celebrate her birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Kimball of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyman of Eagleville and Mrs. Edward Hansen, Mrs. Arthur Watrous, Mrs. Albert Montie, Mrs. William Generotis, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ide of Willimantic. Tea was served by the hostess and a pleasant afternoon was spent by all.

Estate of Diana Stanton. Release to guardian, John C. Stanton, received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Court adjourned at 3.45 p. m.

A session of the Stonington probate court for Pawcatuck was held for the first time in two weeks at the office of the probate court, 34 West Broad street, Tuesday afternoon. Judge Frank H. Hinckley presiding. The usual business was transacted.

In Stonington town court Monday, in the Ward case, driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Dr. M. H. Scanlon of Westerly testified that Patrolman Connors called him to Lower Pawcatuck to decide on the condition of the driver and on arriving at the location of the automobile collision with the Gallett truck he found the driver to be drunk and as Mr. Ward said he was not, Mr. William H. Hillard was called and both made a further examination at the lockup on Liberty street.

Dr. William H. Hillard testified to Ward's examination at the lockup and said he was of the opinion that the man was intoxicated and the odor of liquor was detected on him at that time. The state rested its case and Attorney John F. Gallagher moved that the prisoner be discharged, saying that no evidence was given to show that the defendant was driving in an intoxicated condition. Prosecuting Attorney McKenna declared that conclusive evidence had been given to show the man was in an intoxicated condition and that he was the man back of the wheel.

Judge William A. Wilcox found Ward guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and fined him $150 and costs.

Attorney Gallagher appealed the case to the common pleas session of the superior court for New London county.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson D. Main of Westerly were Providence visitors Monday.

Mrs. Edward W. Murphy was in New York city on business Tuesday.

J. E. Baggs has returned to his home in Westerly, after passing the winter months in Miami, Fla.

JEWETT CITY

A large delegation of the residents of Sylvandale, Lisbon, met with the board of electric light commissioners of Jewett City at the March meeting, Monday evening, for the purpose of taking up with this board the erection of a new line for the purpose of lighting the different residences of that section with electricity.

A short line for this purpose has supplied very few of the houses in that section for the past few years, but was not convenient for all the residents to have this privilege. While there has been a great deal of discussion in the past why some should have this privilege and others not, it was thought best to bring this matter to a head, so this meeting was arranged with the result that there will be a new line established along the highway from Lisbon bridge to the bend, as far as the residence of Mrs. Patrick Wallace. It was also agreed at this meeting that this line could be established on a five-year basis whereby the residents would have the privilege of paying for this line at the rate of 20 per cent a year for five years or in one payment, just as they see fit, with the understanding that the Jewett City electric light commission will have jurisdiction over the line and that it would be turned over to them at the end of this five-year period or when fully paid for and they would stand the upkeep, repairs, etc., on this line from the time it is constructed, and that each resident will pay equally his share of the cost of construction, the Jewett City electric light commission to receive all revenue.

This line will be erected at the earliest possible moment and it is hoped that the officials of the town of Lisbon will install a few street lights, so badly needed, in this vicinity, at the same time.

Twenty-one women have signified their desire to become members of a Women Voters' League. The dues are $1 a year, 50 cents to be kept in the treasury and 50 cents goes to the national league. This entitled each member to the Women Voters' Bulletin, which is sent once a month, and once a week during important elections. Reasons for joining the League of Women Voters are, to make intelligent citizens—to better conditions under which women and children live and to strive at all times for higher political ideals. The league answers political questions of puzzled women. It has no political ambition and is not a political party. It has no jobs to give away, and is not the tool of any political party. It urges women to join the political party of their choice, and to work inside the parties. A meeting will be held late to organize. The temporary officers are: Chairman, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox; secretary, Mrs. R. F. Cheney and treasurer, Miss May Driscoll. Any woman who wishes to join may leave her name at Gardiner's, or with the treasurer. By paying the dollar dues this also makes it possible to have the best informed speakers without any charge, excepting traveling [illegible]

The local council of the Knights of Columbus has decided to give a minstrel with an augmented cast shortly after Lent. The best talent of the town has been selected and a chorus of thirty male voices has been secured. The committee in charge, of which John Leclaire is chairman, is planning to present the biggest and most elaborate show of its kind ever seen in town, especially in regard to scenic effects and stage decorations. Scenery has been secured from a large concern in Boston which specializes in scenery for such productions. Rehearsals are now under way.

After a very short illness the death of Edwin Fitch Appley occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter E. Friswell of Attawaugan Monday. Mr. Appley was born in Canterbury May 5, 1834, the youngest of a family of 11 children. He was the son of Chester and Sarah Fitch Appley. He was united in marriage with Mary J. Brown of Canterbury in April 1859. She died January 1, 1896. He is survived by three children, Chester Appley of Norwich, Mrs. Walter E. Friswell of Attawaugan and Mrs. George E. Geer of Jewett City. There are six grandchildren, Mrs. Fred A. Henry of Bristol, Mrs. Charles T. Armstrong, Mrs. Lewis A. Gift, Geo. E. Geer, Jr., Chester S. and Chauncey A. Geer all of Jewett City, and ten great-grandchildren. In his younger days he followed the water for several years. Later, he was a very successful farmer in both Canterbury and Lisbon. Mr. Appley had held several town offices in both Lisbon and Canterbury. He was always interested in the welfare of the community and lived up to the Golden Rule.

At St. Patrick's dance, under the management of the Pachaug orchestra, was successfully conducted Monday night at Pachaug for the benefit of the grange. Owing to the bad condition of the roads, the attendance was not so large as usual. But a small sum was added to the fund, making a total of $167.45, raised since January 1 to the credit of the Pachaug orchestra and their assistants. A good time was reported by all present. Driscoll's orchestra furnished the music and James E. Crary prompted.

This (Wednesday) evening the Methodist of Jewett City hold the final church night of the conference year. The program is as follows: 7, choir rehearsal of Easter music; 7.45, address by Herbert L. ## Why Is It?

WHY is there more argument about coffee than any other item of diet. Coffee has always needed defense—one of the few articles of diet that does.

No doubt exists about the fact that coffee contains caffeine, a drug which doctors prescribe as an emergency stimulant for the heart and nervous system; and many coffee drinkers know from experience that for them, coffee causes nervousness, headache or stomach trouble.

Since so many people, including health authorities, have reason to question coffee drinking, can you afford to risk your health with it—when you can have a safe mealtime drink, such as Postum?

You will like the delicious flavor of Postum. It fills every requirement of a hot drink; and many former coffee drinkers even prefer it to the best coffee.

With Postum as your mealtime beverage, your system free of caffeine, and your sleep sound and restful, you'll realize that Postum has established its genuine value in health and comfort.

DANIELSON

Nearly $12,000 in back taxes have been collected by James R. Walsh since he assumed the duties of town tax collector the past fall. This is an excellent showing and represents well toward 50 per cent of all back taxes that is likely ever will be collected, as some of the accounts are regarded as worthless.

As to the back taxes remaining unpaid, it may be said that there are thousands of dollars in this account that are collectable and that will be collected. It has been suggested that drastic action, even to the extent of selling property covered by tax liens may be resorted to, if all other persuasion fails. In some instances there are unpaid tax accounts of people who can well afford to pay and will not do so—accounts of people who have ample funds, but who pay no attention whatsoever to demands for payment. The general family of taxpayers in Killingly who pay their assessments promptly would relish seeing sharp action taken in such cases. Maybe they will have their wish before the present financial year comes to an end.

Friday of this week, the Service battery basketball team will meet the Headquarters battery team of New London, one of the fastest amateur outfits in eastern Connecticut and champions of the New London Military league. The game is to be played on the armory court here.

The battery team, under the coaching of Corporal Gordon Gale, former Wesleyan star, has developed into a very fast combination and have lost but two out of fourteen games played. The team includes, now that the high school season is at an end, Stanley Keech, flashy forward of Killingly High, Bill Armington, Trade school star, L. Poirier, Gaudreau and Burton, all very fast men.

Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 the funeral of John E. Reed was held from his home on Hawkins street with services at St. Alban's church, Rev. Leonard Richards in charge. The entire front of the church at this service, attended by relatives and many friends, including a delegation from Moriah lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., was banked with beautiful floral remembrances.

Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Edwin H. Keach, D. Fred Kenworthy, Charles A. Tillinghast, W. K. Litch, Charles S. Bill and Irving W. Davis, members of Moriah lodge. At the grave the Masonic burial service was conducted by Frank S. Kennedy, master of Moriah lodge, and Burdette C. Hopkins, acting as chaplain. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A special period of the Lenten season opened at St. James' church on Tuesday evening, when the retreat for the French-speaking men of the parish was begun, with a large number in attendance. The retreat will be continued this evening and for the next two evenings. Meeting the obligation of the church to receive communion during the Lenten season or at Easter time, all those making the retreat will comply with this regulation at the close of the retreat. Other similar retreats for other sections of the parish will be continued during the remainder of Lent.

It's an ill wind that does not blow good for someone, and with this comment it may be cited that the garages in all the territory hereabouts have been beneficiaries of damage caused to cars that labored their way through the snow banks that came with the storm of the past week. The strain on many cars was too great to be withstood and the repair bills upon them will aggregate hundreds of dollars. In addition there will be other repair bills later for cars that were damaged by the unusual strain to which they were put, but haven't showed the effects of it as yet.

This (Wednesday) evening brings the annual financial meeting of the town—the meeting at which all electors may have their say on the budget and as to the tax rate to be fixed. The selectmen have prepared a detailed statement of what will be required to meet the town's expenditures, this being set forth elsewhere on this page this morning.

The budget as prepared forecasts a reduction in tax rate from 24 1-2 mills, paid last year, to 18 mills this year.

Attention is called to the fact that while there will be full and free opportunity for discussion of each and every item, that the law requires appropriations sufficient to pay the bills of the town, so the tax rate at least will have to be sufficiently high to meet expenditures, all other considerations notwithstanding.

Killingly has arranged its affairs so that the budget meeting does not come until mid-March or thereabouts, though the financial year that the budget covers started on October 1 of last year. This means that large percentages of all the appropriations asked for, or nearly all, have already been expended. This is a consideration that will have to be taken into account in fixing the tax rate.

Storms and late season cold weather notwithstanding, frost is slowly working its way out of the ground. Excavations made this week in Danielson show about 16 inches of frost in the ground, whereas there was 30 inches in the same localities two weeks ago.

Another period of mud is at hand off state highways, the snow having worn away or melted, allowing frost to work out. Motorists are warned that tire chains are a necessity all through this territory, on other than state highways.

PUTNAM

PROVIDENCE MAN BIDS $475,000 FOR MANHASSET PLANT

Putnam, March 18—When William Muir, of Providence, bid $475,000 for the entire Putnam holdings of the Manhasset Manufacturing company, at the opening of the auction here on Tuesday morning, he left the impression that this bid eventually will be decided as the best offer the auction will bring forth for this valuable property and that it will top the aggregate for bids received, piecemeal, for lots and parcels of the property.

Mr. Muir appeared on Tuesday to be more or less a mystery man, but the impression is usually well informed circles appeared to be that he represents a group of interests heavily interested, as stockholders, in the Manhasset Manufacturing company.

If his bid of $475,000 appears to the receivers for the company to be more advantageous than the aggregate all the bids as made for each of the parcels and lots of the property offered for sale here, it will be recommended to the superior court of the county for approval, and if the court approves, the Muir interests will take over the property.

The editor of one of the most known textile publications in New England stated after the Muir bid had been put in, the editor being in attendance at the sale, that Muir was acting for responsible interests who have held conferences for some time relative to the purchase of the Manhasset properties here and that at a meeting held in Providence last week a definite agreement was reached and that Tuesday's bid was the result. If these interests get the Manhasset property here, they will at once set out to establish a textile industry that will be a great asset to Putnam, this on the word of one who attended the Providence conference of the past week. It is definitely stated these interests will not engage in the manufacture of automobile tire fabrics, but in an entirely different line of cotton textile production.

Following the announcement of the terms of sale, Tuesday morning, it was made known that the entire property, mills, tenements, land, water privileges, power plant, etc., would be offered as one parcel. The highest bid would be noted. Then the property would be offered in lots, allowing bidders to make offers for any one of the five mills, for the machinery separately, for land separately, for dwellings separately.

The receivers will pass upon all bids and make a recommendation to the superior court as to which shall be approved, in the best interests of the stockholders.

At the opening of the sale, Auctioneer James Hurley, of Providence, stated that he had received a bid, with ample security, of $435,000. This bid was filed just prior to the opening of the sale. Starting with this as a base, bidders quickly ran the offer up to Mr. Muir's final of $475,000 and there all bidding stopped short.

Auctioneer Hurley then proceeded to the second stage of the sale—offering parcels of the property, instead of the whole. Parcel No. 1, included the original mill with its additions, power plant, water privilege, etc. Not a peep was brought forth on this proposition excepting a joking bid of $1,000. Silence greeted the offering of other parcels, including mills No. 2, 3, 4, 5 and no one would bid for pairs of these mills, or in any grouping. Not a real bid for the mills was made. Thereupon Mr. Hurley started through his schedule of lots of machinery and other equipment and will so continue today and for the next two days.

It was held by observers that, no offer having been received for any of the mills after the sale by parcels began, there is no chance of the offers that may hereafter be received for machinery, other equipment, land and tenements houses aggregating the unit offer of $475,000 made by Mr. Muir for the interests he represents.

If this forecast proves correct, the Manhasset company's plant will change ownership intact and will be preserved for this city as a splendid industrial property capable of contributing in a forceful way to the general prosperity of the city—and not split up into parcels, as many have feared might come about.

A mortgage of approximately $100,000 is on the property, but payment of this mortgage, under the terms announced, will be met out of the proceeds of the sale, so that the offer of $475,000 will represent all the bidders will be required to invest or obligate themselves for, in taking over the roperty.

When the sale opened about 300 persons were on hand. Numbers of those present were Putnam people, but there were many mill men there, representing manufacturing concerns in nearby territory, and concerns located in other textile districts. There were men seeking bargains in the lots of machinery to be offered, others who were, interested in other equipment, still others who might buy the tenement house properties and others interested in houselots and a score and more other parcels and lots announced to be included in the sale. These prospective buyers came from many sections of New England and even points beyond.

Close of the auction by lots and parcels will be awaited with special interest.

Well worth while opinion Tuesday appeared to be that the $475,000 unit bid will win.

County Commissioners E. H. Cortis, John A. Dady and Urgele LaFrance and County Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather were in Putnam Tuesday and visited county institutions in the territory.

Numbers of high school students were at Danielson Tuesday evening to attend the Killingly High school-Putnam High school basketball game, the last of the season.

Several from this section attended the funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance at Plainfield Tuesday afternoon.

Ex-service men are interested in the prospect of the headquarters company of the Forty-third division being located in this city and the indications are that numbers of young men will enlist if the opportunity is presented.

A Girl at My Age

Because of a French-type clay

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For 40 years I have been a famous beauty. I am a youthful beauty still. On the stage I play young girls' parts, and I look like a girl of 19.

Many years ago French experts taught me the use of clay. That clay multiplied my beauty—made me the rage of New York.

Then clays were crude and muddy, as many clays are still. Since then, French experts have perfected clay. They have made it white and clean and dainty. They have added factors which bring manifold effects.

I now use that perfected clay, and call it my White Youth Clay. I am an example of what that new-type clay does for women.

You must use clay

No girl or woman who cares for beauty can now omit her clay. No girl can keep her best without it, no woman can keep her youth. The users of clay, with their rosy, clear complexions, stand out in every crowd.

Clay purges the skin of all that clogs it—the causes of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes. It brings blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights.

Clay makes plain girls beauties. And older women, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years.

Clay firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Look at me—a miracle of old-age youth. That could never have come without clay.

The best is yours

Now I bring you this new-type clay which France perfected for me. If you are a clay user, the multiplied results will amaze you. If you don't use clay, the quick results will astound you.

You owe to yourself a test.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth — my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

I am doing this to serve you — to bring you greater beauty, longer youth. Go learn how much they mean to you, starting with my Youth Clay. Edna Wallace Hopper, 538 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Raymond Gates of the Connecticut company and Berton Brown of the S. N. E. Telephone company have been working overtime the past week on repair work made necessary by the storm.

George Phillips was a business caller in Danielson Saturday.

There was no session of the local school Wednesday on account of the storm. School was in session Thursday and Friday, but owing to the condition of the roads only five pupils were present Thursday and six Friday.

Grant Slater spent a part of Thursday with his cousin, Ruth Coffey.

There was no service at the church Sunday as condition of the roads was such that few would have been able to attend.

People who tapped maples some days ago have taken in their sap buckets to wait for warmer days.

The storm of Tuesday and Wednesday put an end to outside work excepting breaking out roads. Nearly every able-bodied man in the place was pressed into service and joined the shovel brigade in an effort to open roads to traffic. Part of the mail route was covered each day but the milk truck did not make a trip until Thursday and then it went through Moosup. Practically every telephone went out, busses were off schedule and the whole place presented a state of isolation. Most roads are now open, telephone service is restored and things are slated to move along once more.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Coffey of Mechanics street, Danielson, gave a reception and dinner at their home, Sunday, in honor of the marriage of their daughter, Nellie, and George Nuttall, which took place the 7th of March. Among local people attending were Mrs. P. H. Coffey and children Ruth, Francis and Beatrice.

EKONK

After having spring-like weather the near-blizzard of Tuesday and Wednesday was unexpected and an unwelcome visitor. It will be some time before the drifts will be cleared away and the roads be in good condition again.

On account of the bad traveling the Community meeting was postponed until April.

Miss Potter, with Florence, Laura and Evelyn Gallup, visited at E. B. Gallup's, on Sterling Hill Saturday afternoon.

A number from here went to Oneco Saturday to see the two trucks of the state highway department hoisted from the water where they went through the bridge which gave way under them Wednesday afternoon. Traffic has been greatly hampered since the accident.

There was no church service Sunday on account of the bad traveling. Sunday school was held on Sterling Hill with 17 present.

Charles Gardner, who was injured when thrown from his wagon is improving.

A chimney fire at the home of B. Byron Gallup one evening last week caused quite a commotion for a few hours. Mr. Gallup was ill and unable to go outdoors but kind neighbors saw the blaze and quickly rallied with ladders and chemicals and put out the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Gallup expressed gratitude to all who assisted in subduing the blaze.

Friends here of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance were shocked and grieved to hear of their tragic death Friday evening.

William Carr received word Sunday afternoon from Newport, R. I., of the death of his cousin, Mr. Johnson.

BALTIC

At the annual English tea party held, Saturday evening in Sprague Hall, supper was served to 400 patrons, many of whom were from Willimantic, Norwich, Taftville and surrounding places. After supper an entertainment was given by a troupe from Willimantic.

Monday evening, March 17th, an old folks' concert and social were given in Sprague Hall to an appreciative audience under the auspices of the Rev. Father Hailey assembly, C. L. of C., assisted by members of Monsignor Synnott council, K. of C. The opening chorus was followed by Come Back to Erin, Colleen Bawn, Swanee River, Old Kentucky Home, Old Black Joe, by the entire company, Cousin Jedediah by Mrs. J. Worth, P. Brennan, Mr. Prudie, Mrs C. F. Charon, Mrs. D. Brennan, P. Maurice; chorus by entire company. Just a Girl That Men Forget by John and Earl Pappineau and Miss Margaret Sullivan; sketch, the Hobo by Mr. Lachappel, song, Just a Little Bit of Green by Walter Milner.

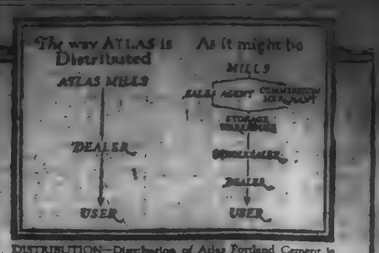
Laughing song by Mrs. C. F. Charon, song, Ten Thousand Years From Now, Miss Rose Barrie, song Grandma's Advice by Miss Myrtle Buteau, Miss Mayme Pappineau and Miss Alpina La Croix; song, Mother Machree by Mr. Ovilla Arpin. A dance, The Waltz of Long Ago, was given by Miss Myrtle Buteau and Mrs. Joseph La Croix.

Then followed a song, That Old Gray Bennett by Mrs. J. Woods and Mr. Paul Brennan, assisted by the company seemed to be what was needed to satisfy the house as they acted the parts as did the old folks of long ago. The closing selections were: All Praise to St. Patrick, Long Long Trail, Auld Lang Syne. Columbia the Gem of the Ocean. Those taking part in the chorus were: Misses Alping and Ida LaCroix and Ida Treault, Teresa and Margaret Sullivan, Myrtle Buteau, Rose Barrie, Julia Delaney, Mayme, Rose and Blanche Pappineau, Rianna Gaucher, Mrs. William Bouchard, Mrs. F. M. Gauthier, Miss D. Brennan, Mrs. D. Keise, Mrs. E. Pappineau, Mrs. E. Gapping, Mrs. A. Lemoine, Mrs. C. F. Charon, Mrs. J. Woods. Music for the council was by Mrs. E. B. Case, piano; Miss R. Cronin, violin. Members of the K. of C. assisting in the chorus were John and Earl Pappineau, W. Milner, P. Maurice, Mr. Frugie, C. F. Charon, J. Conway, G. Sullivan, J. Cronin, O. Arpin, J. Lemoine, A. Roy, P. Brennan and Mr. LaChappell. A playlet entitled, the Misses Pringle's Leap Year followed.

CHILD CRUSHED BETWEEN TRUCK AND BARN DOOR

Waterbury, March 18.—Antonio, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Goncalves, died at St. Mary's hospital today of injuries caused by being crushed between an auto truck and a barn in a door yard near his home at 25 25 River street. Police, who heard of the accident several hours after it happened, are searching for the truck driver, who is said to have backed into the barn, not noticing that the lad was in the way.

ECONOMY—Despite unprecedented demand, Portland Cement remains the most economical building material. Comparison of prices of building materials and Atlas Portland Cement. Source: Building material prices from U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Atlas Portland Cement prices from the records of the Company.



DISTRIBUTION—Distribution of Atlas Portland Cement is direct and economical through close cooperation of efficient local dealers. A straight line is the cheapest distance between two points.

ATLAS EFFICIENCY and DISTRIBUTION Insure Building Economy

THE cheapest of all products undergoing a complete manufacturing process is made available through simplified economical distribution to the user.

Between the Atlas plants and the user there is but one distributor—the building material dealer—and the directness of this marketing serves to bring Atlas to the buying public cheaper than any other method devised.

The Atlas dealer with his warehouse and yard storage safeguards building operations through an ample supply of materials, and with his trucks and general facilities he can make prompt emergency deliveries. Back of the Atlas dealer is the Atlas reserve storage capacity, greater than the output of the entire nation twenty years ago.

Thus, the one building material having the widest variety of uses, making possible rapid construction and providing fire-safety and permanence for any building, is brought to the user a few bags, or thousands of bags, through a distribution method that sustains building economy.

Ask your dealer for Atlas Building Helps

Through its dealer, Atlas supplies free books on concrete construction, written by Atlas Engineers recognized nationally as authorities. You are also invited to consult these Engineers on any building problem without charge.

If your dealer can't supply the book you want, write our nearest office.

IN a period of advancing costs, the price of Atlas has remained consistently low. Today it is cheaper than it was thirty years ago. All Atlas plants, operating under one central control, make only one grade of Portland Cement—the best that science and skill can produce—and every member of the operating group takes pride in helping to maintain Atlas as—

MEETING FOREIGN TRUSTS.

In the effort to give protection to ourselves through anti-trust legislation have we placed unexpected obstacles in the way of advantageous buying in other countries? If we are to accept the statement of Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce we have and steps ought to be taken to see that they are removed.

Secretary Hoover directs attention to the fact that we are now subject to foreign trusts and combination in the purchase of eleven important commodities and as the result are forced to pay an exorbitant price for such raw materials as nitrates, iodine, crude rubber, sisal, coffee, tin, potash, mercury, gutta-percha, quinine and quebracho for tanning. This country buys these materials to the extent of a half billion dollars a year and buys at the figures set by the foreign trusts which hold them in control.

Not so long ago the wisdom of legislation that would permit exporters of this country to combine for the purpose of selling their goods was adopted. It is the belief of the secretary that some such similar legislation should be enacted permitting importers to combine for the purpose of buying more advantageously than can be done by the individual, and it is this matter which Secretary Hoover calls to the attention of Senator Capper, pointing out as he does so that whatever can be done in getting better prices from the foreign trusts will result to the benefit of the ultimate consumers in this country.

There are such things as good combinations and bad combinations. It is not the object of the secretary to speak for the latter. The aim is to relieve the country as far as possible from the grip of foreign monopolies by fighting trusts of combinations with combinations properly regulated.

The proposition is one that cannot be given a cold shoulder. All the commodities enumerated are important. It may be possible to develop production elsewhere but the need of relief before such a thing would be possible is now being pointed out.

ROOSEVELT NAILS ATTACK.

Somehow the impression has been gained in Washington that anything goes that attacks upon government officials can be made without regard for the truth and that the mere say so establishes the fact, slanderous though it may be.

This at least seems to have been the plan under which Congressman Stevenson launched his attack upon Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department. He evidently sought to injure and he didn't take the natural precaution to learn whether he was right before making his attack. Somehow it would seem as if he didnt care much whether he was right or not so long as he could injure an official of the navy department and the administration. It was the worst kind of political mudslinging dragged in by the heels.

Resentment under the circumstances was to be expected. That Colonel Roosevelt should become indignant and issue a statement which demonstrated the injustice of the attack and which showed the facts as they are was natural. Colonel Roosevelt quickly demolished the charges made by the South Carolina representative, showed that he had had no connection with the Sinclair Oil company for a number of years, having sold out during the war, that stock held by his wife had been sold at a loss before the leases were signed, that his appeal in behalf of his brother for employment was two years before he became identified with the navy department, and that these facts had been made clear in testimony months ago.

That he had no difficulty in causing Congressman Stevenson to declare that he would accept the correction simply shows upon what flimsy ground the charges were actually based. Talk and gossip seem to have been put forth publicly, on the floor of congress as facts and apparently for the purpose of injury. The great harm of course comes from the fact that it is always difficult for the correction to overtake misrepresentations of such a character. Any such tendency to give the wrong impression should be kept under restraint ryan by members of congress.

GIRDLING THE GLOBE.

Even though the Shenandoah is not to make its trip to the north pole there has been no reason to hold up the making of a great big circle around the pole by American aviators. At least the attempt is to be made and the fliers are already on their way. A trip around the world by airplane has not as yet been accomplished. It is an undertaking that will require much time, plenty of skill and substantial machines. It is an ambitious effort but only what might be expected in view of the progress that has been made in aviation and the desire that exists among nations to outdo each other.

Because the flight has been started does not necessarily mean that it will succeed. Aviators from other nations have undertaken it without coming very near to the goal.

It is to be noted that the route laid out for the flight by army airmen is one that allows for easy progress. The fliers are not to be pressed and they are not to be asked to undertake any unreasonably long distance flights. This explains why the crossing of the Pacific is undertaken by way of Alaska and that of the Atlantic by way of Iceland, Greenland and Canada. The day may come when the hopping across these oceans may be no more than a cross country trip but it is not wise under existing conditions, and the foolhardy is guarded against in the itinerary of the quartette of pilots.

This is to be a demonstration of what American aviators can do and what can be expected of them in the future as the result of the natural development of the use of heavier than air machines. There will be no disgrace if they are obliged to give up, even as others have. There will be plenty of adventure and there should be practical results obtained from the plotting of an airplane course that will girdle the world. Clearly evident is it that there are American aviators who make the start with confidence on their part and on the part of those they represent that the feat can be accomplished.

IT CAN'T AND IT CAN.

A few days ago the president told congress that immediate action ought to be taken for the reduction of income taxes that it might take effect before the payment for last year became due. Congress practically ignored it. Its leaders said that it could not be done.

Within a week of that time the house has not only reported out a bill that calls for the payment of a bonus, totalling over two billion dollars to able bodied war veterans, but it has acted favorably upon it. This we are told by the head of the ways and means committee is legislation that must and will be passed.

This is serving notice upon the country of course that congress is not very much interested in the matter of cutting taxes but it is deeply concerned over the piling up of the expenditures and extending taxation over a much longer period than would otherwise be necessary. Congress has up to now been playing horse with the proposition to give the taxpayers of the country some relief from the burden they have been carrying. It has taken up the matter against its will and because of it threatens to force the country to accept a bigger tax out than the conditions warrant or else to deprive it of any, and in addition keep the taxes higher than they need be for many years to come.

When congress tells the president and the country that it can give no attention to tax reduction and then proceeds to take action that means a raid upon the federal treasury there is no mistaking where the burden of such responsibility is certain to rest. Those who had the courage to stand up against such an unjustified gratuity must be regarded as looking out for the national welfare instead of catering to class legislation which is expected to carry political advantages with it, or is being used to pay political debts.

THE SALE OF THE HERALD.

No one is certain any more as to what may happen to the New York papers overnight as far as ownership is concerned. Some of the old timers have gone to the wall. It had been supposed that the end had been reached when the Herald absorbed the Sun, after the Press had been disposed of in the morning field and when the combinations were made among the evening papers.

Frank Munsey had played a leading role in the changes which have taken place within the past few years. He obtained possession of the Herald following the end of the Bennett control and since then the unbelievable has repeatedly happened. Mr. Munsey has bought wherever opportunity seemed to offer a chance. His aim has been to reduce the number of New York papers printed in English and he has succeeded. Likewise he has been successful in the upbuilding of the Herald.

Now Mr. Munsey has furthered his policy of reducing the number of papers in the metropolis but this time he does it by selling instead of buying. The purchase of the Herald by Ogden Reid of the Tribune means the joining of two newspaper octogenarians, both of which are strong and influential. If unity in this case means added strength the combined papers have an even more promising outlook than might have been the case otherwise.

It is impossible to overlook the fact that Mr. Munsey states that economic reasons are at the bottom of the change. When he says that "the costs of newspaper publishing have mounted higher and higher, until today they are appalling," he discloses the experience of many another.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Some of the roads are already disclosing what season of the year it is.

Rear Admiral Plunkett seems to have become an apostle of F. A. Vanderlip.

The man on the corner says: Those who want little here below are not in the oil business.

Calling Washington the wettest city in the country is sure to make many of the others jealous.

Just because Be Kind to Animal Week doesn't come until next month that forces no one to wait that long.

Somehow there isn't the same desire for eggs when they are cheap that there is when they cost a fortune.

If you've gotten an interesting story to tell, or a hunch, you'll probably find some committee at Washington that will give you a hearing.

The Standard Oil company is to remove 1306 billboards on the Pacific coast. After the kind of advertising some of the competitors have been getting it probably figures it needs no other help.

When Colonel Hayward serves notice that all liners which he surprises are violating our laws even as the Ordunna did, will be treated as the Ordunna has been he will either put a stop to it or force the violators to be more cautious.

VANISHING PEACE

"Ah, ha!" rudely barked the cynical man when he discovered his hopeful friend reading the suburban real estate ad. "Got the bug?"

"In the spring," the hopeful friend told him happily, "I expect to be located at Languishing Crest or Hoopla Park, far from the roar of the great city, out where there is nature and fresh radishes, real neighbors and time to commune with my soul. I am going to have space, air, quiet and green grass if I bust up getting it."

"My poor, deluded, effervescent optimist!" began the cynical man with relish. "There once was a great west, affording hundreds of wild acres per each rollicking pioneer. Anywhere he looked there was nature, great chunks of nature unmarred by the hand or presence of man.

"Likewise, there once were suburbs where the hectored city dweller could dash when he found he could stand no more of what he had been getting all these years. Out where the village fathers were real fathers to the populace, where the neighbors brought you jelly when you had a cold and women paid real calls; where they read the Chicago papers with a casual interest unmatched by the feverish manner in which they grasped the village weekly, which had the full account of Mrs. Judge Jipps' tea from 4 to 6 and the account of what was decided about paving Artichoke street beyond the track.

"Why, the same crowd of men filled up the second car of the train to the city so long that the conductor knew them as he did his own family. A new person moving in brought all the elements of a pleasant revolution. The people had garden seats out among the lilacs and rose arbors, unless the mosquitoes had a convention.

"Maybe you think you're going to find something like that at Hoopla Park, but I am here to open your eyes. Hoopla Park may look just like the place that I have been describing, but in a second you are going to wink and when you open your eyes you'll find it all gone. A clump of factories will have sprung up to the leeward, there will be the bang and rattle of a trolley line on the next street and traffic cops will be as plentiful as your pet radishes.

"Sixteen phenographs will be yawping in the apartment building put up right on your lot line, there will be a delicatessen store across the street in what was that delightful wooded ravine lot and the merry riveting machine will be riveting on the steel girders of the garage with which the Fantasy Brothers are covering half the next block.

"Last week you lived in a suburb and this week you are swallowed up by the octopus.

"What chance has Languishing Crest with its brook and woods when they tell us they are planning for the days when Chicago shall take in Aurora and Racine, Michigan City and everything else handy? Why, Chicago is incoiling in every direction like a watch spring suddenly released. The determined person who insists in the face of this upon reading on the outskirts will be coming to work in an airplane express everyday unless he just week-ends at home, and anyhow there won't be any outskirts. He'll find the edge of the city spilling right into the front yards of other big cities, until he won't know whether his address is Chicago, or St. Louis, or Detroit, or Omaha. They'll have blade of grass in the museum to show the wondering children and a stuffed cow where the wild elephant now stands. They can't go downtown because they are already there and the latest generation will grow up with the naive idea that food arrives from heaven in tin cans.

"You go to grass!" growled the hopeful friend. "While you were talking I found the very ad I had been searching for and I'm going out now and clinch the deal!"

"Well; a prophet always does get kicked in the face," the cynical man admitted with resignation. "Say, I hope you don't forget to ask me out when you are moved and settled! I'd like to see a suburb before they're extinct!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Moorefield Storey, who today enters upon his 80th year, is a Boston jurist of international prominence, long identified with reforms, within and without his profession. His education was received at Harvard College and the Harvard Law School. He got his introduction to public life as private secretary to Charles Sumner, then United States senator from Massachusetts. Mr. Storey was one of the founders of the National Municipal League, an organizer of the Anti-Imperialist League, a vice-president of the National Civil Service Reform League, and has spoken and written for it repeatedly; and he has been president of the American Bar Association. Harvard University honored him with election to its Board of Overseers, and the American Academy of Arts and Science has made him a fellow. As a lawyer Mr. Storey has figured in many cases of national and international importance.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE TENNESSEE'S ADVENTUROUS CRUISE

She rides proudly at her North River anchorage, does the U. S. S. Tennessee, and why shouldn't she, her gobe all say, for she broke even her own established record while on her way to join the Pacific fleet enroute to the West Indies.

Nor is that all, according to a bulletin from John Oliver LaGorce at the headquarters of the National Geographic Society, which recounts something of the ship's remarkable adventures on her recent coast to coast swing from Puget Sound, through the Panama Canal, thence to Culebra Island, and up to New York.

The Tennessee's is a story of ocean to geography, able seamanship, a sad touch of tragedy and the usual achievement of breaking her own speed record after she had seen active service for three and a half years and just passed through two severe storms," continues the bulletin.

"She started on February 1, a Friday (worse luck, the sub-gobs all said.) On February thirteenth the terrific seas washed a seaman overboard and despite every effort of rescue he was lost. An hour later the sea smashed into splinters a huge life boat which was lashed fast 35 feet above the water line.

"All of which occurred in a 'moderate gale.' And landlubber would call it a terrific storm. However, it blew only—and note the 'only'—about 45 miles an hour. The wind would have to pass 48 miles to be even a 'strong gale.' Nothing less than 75 miles an hour officially is a 'storm' according to a Navy log book scale, and after the wind reaches 90 miles, it is set down as a 'hurricane.'

"Later, on February 17, the ship did encounter an official 'storm'—whereupon she battened down her hatches, was obliged to close her ventilators on deck, making it pretty stuffy for 1,400 men below, let out her engines to a pace that would have produced 19 knots in a calm sea, but only made 14 knots in the teeth of the 'storm' and then, as her log with usual Navy brevity concludes, 'steamed as before.'

"It was on her trip down the Pacific Coast from Bremerton, Washington navy base, that the Tennessee made her annual four-hour high speed run, required by the Navy Department of each battleship each year. In her original trials she had developed 21.81 knots; imagine the pride of her officers and crew when the 'Rebel Ship,' as she is lovingly called in Navy circles because of her southern state name, showed 21.23 knots in her record run.

"A battleship is about the best beloved bit of mechanism in all the world. If a seaman isn't handy to tell you why, Kipling or William McFee can be referred to at your public library.

"Any community of 1,400 souls develops plenty of civic spirit; but when Uncle Sam takes 67 officers and some 1338 men and puts them all where they most want to be, doing what they most want to do he has an enthusiastic sea-going village—a Happy ship.

"Every village has its grocery store and the Tennessee's 'grocery' stocks up about 270,000 pounds of food for its 'shelves' on a thirty-day cruise. It needs 1,800 pounds of salt, more than 6 tons of sugar, and 18 tons of flour, and comparable amounts of some four score other commodities to feed its officers and crew.

"The Tennessee' is one of six of our electrically driven battleships. Her machinery consists of oil burners, and motors.

"Not only is she propelled by electricity but any housewife would envy the electric equipment of her kitchen and laundry. She has 3 electric bake oven an electrically driven dough mixing machine, an electrically driven potato peeling machine, and even the butter is sliced by an electric slicer!

"The Tennessee is commanded by Capt. Luke McNamee, U. S. N. known to every Washington correspondent during his two years as director of Naval intelligence, later one of three American members of the Allied naval commission and also a naval adviser at the Versailles Peace conference and at the Washington Disarmament Conference. Her Executive officer is Commander H. A. Baldridge who next to the captain is the responsible officer aboard. Her machinery is in charge of Commander Y. V. Woodward, U. S. N., who reconditioned for war service the machinery of the giant German liner, Leviathan. Commander Woodward was the Leviathan's chief engineer during her war commission.

"On her recent remarkable trip the Tennessee sailed from the Bremerton Navy Yard and touched at San Francisco and San Diego. She went through the Canal, joined the fleet in Vieques Sound off the little island of Culebra where 145 ships of war were in rendezvous and on the second day of the grand maneuvers further distinguished herself when she was in command of a combat division by receiving orders times from the Commander-in-Chief of the entire battle fleet the envied signal 'well done.'"

CHILD TRAINING

Interesting Your Children in Books

By Helen Gregg Green

The other day Aunt Emmy Lou and I made a call at Hildegarde's. We found her sitting cross-legged on the floor with her nine-year-old son, Jim.

Beside them lay an open book, a pile of dried moss, stone, some small branches, crayons, a few Indian arrowheads, and some sheets of heavy manilla paper.

"What in the world—?" we exclaimed in one breath.

"We are making scenes from White's Boy's Life of Daniel Boone," Hildegarde explained, after Jim had left.

We looked amazed, I suppose, for Hildegarde continued, "As a child I learned to detest books and reading of all kinds. I came from a home where the reading of a book was a solemn rite, performed with a solemn countenance. Mother and father never seemed to have time to discuss any of the books we read; they simply handed them to us from dusty library shelves with a 'Here's a book that will teach you many things you should know, so run along and absorb its contents.' I would run along, all right, but often I hid the book under a rock.

"When Jim was a little chap I made up my mind he should love his reading. His father and I often read the book he reads, so we can discuss it with him afterward. Sometimes we dramatize the scenes in a book together. If we have other books that will help him to understand more thoroughly the one he is reading, we leave then lying on the library table where they will be sure to catch his eye."

"Well, my dear, you are wise," Aunt Emmy Lou approved, "and you also seem to have made a study of keeping Jimmy interested in the right kind of books."

"Indeed we have," Jimmy's mother smiled back. "His teacher tells us he is the best posted boy in the school."

Aunt Emmy Lou and I went away thinking what a wise little mother Hildegarde was and wondering why we didn't all try so good a plan.

Why don't we, I wonder? Aren't books, after all, the real foundation of education? Don't we all know wonderfully brilliant people who are not college or even high school graduates? Ask any of them to what they attribute their success, and they will answer, "My education came from books."

Books! There are thousands of them available to all of us. Teach your children to love them.

Stories That Recall Others

Rewards of Another Kind

A farmer and his spinster daughter came to the city for a visit. The daughter went to her father's room in the morning to see that his tie was properly tied, and that he was neat for breakfast. She found both windows tightly locked.

"Why, father," she began, "you didn't have any ventilation last night."

"I left that there door open," he nodded at one now shut.

Visions of a porch from which her father might have fallen came into the daughter's mind. She opened a door and looked into a closet, which was between her father's room and that of his host.

"You couldn't get much air," she began.

The old man chuckled. "Not much air, he agreed, "but a whole lot of information."

STATE TRAFFIC CENSUS ON SHORT-HAUL COSTS

Increased development of inter-city motor truck transportation in Connecticut has raised the question of comparative costs of operation of automobile and rail haulage and this is one of the problems that the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is trying to solve through the aid of a traffic census just completed in co-operation with the state highway department.

The prime motive of the survey of highway transportation is to secure data concerning the character of travel over the roadways which will enable engineers to suit the particular road's foundation to the peculiar needs of traffic over the highway.

Speaking of the situation created by the evolution of the motor truck in transportation, J. Gordon McKay, highway economist of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, in a preliminary report of the Connecticut experiment, says:

"Some of the promotion literature advocates the increased development of highway inter-city transportation of freight without basic evidence as to whether this new transportation factor should be a supplementary or competitive agency to existing transportation systems, and is usually colored by a desire to create or extend markets for the sale of the instruments of highway transportation.

"The rapid development of motor transport organizations engaged in the transportation of freight during the war period of rail congestion was the real beginning of inter-city trucking. This recent expansion of highway freight transportation has directed the attention of railroad operations to this new 'so-called competitor.' Particular attention is directed by the railroad management to the taxation of the railroad investment, a portion of this revenue being used for the construction of highways, paralleling rail lines, which it is pointed out by the rail management, provides a right of way for a competitor.

"The enthusiastic promotor of inter-city transportation of freight by motor truck insists that the motor truck will relieve the rail lines of an unprofitable short haul of less-than-carload freight and reduce operating and terminal charges. As a matter of fact the terminal problem is confined to a limited number of cities and is not applicable to the country as a whole. The rail terminal freight costs of New York City are the exception rather than the rule. The elimination of less-than-carload freight transportation in the short haul zone may be desirable, but it will not necessarily reduce the fixed and operating expenses of rail freight stations already in existence as long as industries in its tributary area continue to originate rail car-load freight, and passenger and passenger, express and mail service must be maintained."

Recording the thermometers for registering maximum temperatures up to 150 degrees Fahrenheit are in use at some of the United States weather bureau stations in the desert regions of southeast California.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Little Jack Paid

"Extra! Extra! Daily News! All about the little bunny. The Old Duck Lady wouldn't take David Cory's money."

Goodness me! Everybody bought a paper then and there and everywhere. They wished to learn why the Apple Lady was so generous! Some people thought she was bashful, some didn't think at all; others were just curious. But after reading twice over the Rabbitville Daily News they all agreed she was right, for, in Bunny

Land, how could she buy anything with a copper cent. Yes, indeedy, she was a careful lady duck with a little duck boy at home for whom to buy shoes and stockings.

But, dear me, I almost forgot that I promised to tell you in last night's story who paid the apple woman. It was Little Jack Rabbit. Yes sir, it was he. Mighty nice for Uncle Dave Cory as well as the Apple Lady, don you think so?

The Apple Lady has a shawl
That's nice and warm and yellow.
She sits outside her little stall
And sells sweet cakes and Jello.

Inside a little glass top box
Are chewing gum and lollypops
Besides her apples and her pears,
She sells nice sugar coated wares.

"I think you have a nice store," said Little Jack Rabbit as he looked up at the Apple Duck Lady as she sat on an empty box in front of her little stall on the street corner of Lettuce avenue and Cranberry street.

"Glad you like it, little bunny," she answered.

"Timmy Chipmunk has a little store in the Shady Forest," went on the little rabbit. "He sells all kinds of nuts, Oh yes, he does, Chestnuts, walnuts, acorns and popcorn."

"What are you doing here, you small Jackie Rabbit?"

"David Cory is to talk to the bunny children at Turnip Hall," answered the little rabbit.

"Maybe I'll bring my kiddie," laughed the Apple Lady. "He reads about you every night in the Rabbitville News. He says you are some bunny. And your Uncle Lucky, too. That old gentleman rabbit knows a thing or two, and maybe three.

"I'll tell him what you say," laughed the little bunny. "Maybe he'll send you a ticket to his circus when it comes to Turnip City. Would you like one?"

"I've never been to a rabbit circus although I've been to a rabbit party," answered the Apple Duck Lady. But I'll go. Just to see your dear old uncle in his old wedding stovepipe hat and pink vest."

Then she gave the little rabbit a peppermint stick and away he hopped into tomorrow's story without rubbing his toe.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good-feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

Mothers You Can Prevent Children From Taking Cold

Next Time They Come in Wet and "Sniffling" Rub This Vapor Salve over Throat and Chest.

When children come in from play with feet wet, noses blue and hands like lumps of ice, you feel sure that they are "in for a cold."

But the next time try Vicks. At bedtime rub this vaporizing salve well in over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

The body heat releases the ingredients —Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc.—in the form of vapors, and these vapors go directly to the air passages, stimulating the mucous membrane to repel germ attacks.

At the same time Vicks increases the circulation of the blood thruout the chest region, thus helping to prevent any congestion developing.

If applied in time, Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start and its use doesn't disturb the child's digestion as constant internal dosing is so apt to do.

TWO GRASS FIRES AND AUTOMOBILE ON FIRE

Three calls made business for the fire department Tuesday. At 1.21 p. m., the men put out a grass fire on Thernon avenue, which had been started by sparks from a locomotive on land of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. At 5.20 p. m., they were called to the rear of 103 River avenue for a grass fire, started by sparks from a locomotive. The blaze was also communicated to the roof of a barn owned by Mrs. Annie M. Cobb, burning a few shingles. A line of hose was laid by the firemen.

At 7.29 p. m., an automobile owned by George Fraser took fire at the rear of 37 Lafayette street from a short circuit. Three gallons of chemical were used by the firemen.

WOULD HAVE CONGRESS RESUME LEGISLATION

Washington, March 18.—Predicting that unless there was a change in policy, tax legislation and relief measures generally would fail of enactment, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, told his colleagues today that the time had about arrived when we should dissolve ourselves as a grand jury and pause the business of legislation.

NEMROD GROTTO MINSTRELS PROVIDE FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Snappy jokes exchanged between the end men and the interlocutor, meritorious solos and good chorus numbers featured the minstrels put on Tuesday night in Grotto hall on Broadway by Nemrod Grotto for the ladies' night programme which had an attendance of about 400 of the prophets and their friends.

The cast was headed by Interlocutor Raymond C. Brittin; pages, William H. Prothero and Lloyd Thompson; tambourines, Bruce F. Rogers, Harold Dahl; bones, William E. Corey, Leslie V. Manchester; premiers, R. Day Fillmore and James D. Jones.

The chorus numbered H. E. Hoffman, R. Thoma, Harold Dahl, William Stinson, William Dunstan, John O. Johnson, with a ladies' chorus whose members were the Misses Bertha Hahn, Marion Royce, Gertrude Doerr, Helen Barrett, Adelaide Christman, Dorothy Campbell, Mildred Peckham, Eunice Taft, Mildred Kloss, Cecile Stevens, Mildred Mellor, Susie McNeely, Miss Breen.

For the minstrel part of the evening, in which encores were frequent, the musical numbers were the following:

Opening chorus, Miss Eunice Taft and company; "When All the World Forgets You," Harold H. Kramer; "Stingo Stango," Wm. E. Corey; "Not Gallagher Nor Shean," the two Pages; "Rollin' Bones," Bruce F. Rogers; "Dream Melody," Miss Eunice Taft; "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No Mo'," R. Day Fillmore; "On the Back Porch," James D. Jones; "That's a Lot of Junk," Leslie V. Manchester, closing number by the entire company.

The orchestra comprised: Tyler Gilbert, violin; Claude Leathers, saxaphone; Albert Van Wagenen, drums Kirk F. Ricketts, piano.

The programme concluded with A Bit o' Scotch, Alexander Finlayson; I Yust Kum Over, Thure Wm. Dahl; A Few Minutes of Jazz, Gertrude Doerr; Rogers and Leathers, saxaphonists.

Ice cream and wafers were served at the conclusion of the programme and the orchestra played for dancing to close the enjoyable evening.

The successful programme was carried out under the direction of a committee consisting of Raymond C. Brittin, chairman, Day Fillmore, William Tannar, Kirk Ricketts and William Shanley, with Fred G. Prothero, director of the minstrels.

Announcement was made of the beginning of the rehearsals for Marcheta, the play which the Grotto is to give, and the director, Mr. Wilkinson, promised that it would even exceed as an attraction The Glorious Girl that was given last season.

SOMERSET LODGE WORKED DEGREE FOR ST. JAMES

At the communication of St. James Lodge, No. 22, F. & A. M., held Tuesday evening at Masonic Temple, officers of Somerset Lodge, No. 24, worked the third degree. There was a large representation of members of both lodges and not a few out of town brothers were present.

Following the work, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, W. M., master of St. James lodge, thanked the officers of Somerset lodge for their splendid work during the evening.

After the meeting members and guests repaired to the banquet hall where light refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

William Blackstone Chappell, N. F. A. '22 is a member of Yale Glee Club which is to sing in New London Friday evening.

Mrs. Allen Cleworth and Mrs. W. Russell Baird have returned from Stamford; where they were guests last week of Mrs. William D. Baird, Mr. Baird joining over the week-end.

Her friends here will note Mar. 20th the 104th birthday of Mrs. Anna Hakes, a native of Preston, mother of Mrs. Charles W. Gale, of Pinehurst, Norwich. Mrs. Hakes of late years has made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Treat, of Pasadena, Cal.

Tourists from Norwich who have been enjoying the season together in meetings in California are Mrs. Hugh H. Osgood, Mrs. Edward D. Fuller, with Mrs. Walter Feller, now of New Jersey, Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard and daughter, Mrs. Huntington Lee, of New Haven, and Mrs. Jenny Darling, (formerly Mrs. Adam Reid.) For the greater part of the time the Norwich visitors have met at Los Angeles.

BIG HOUSE APPLAUDS ST. MARY'S PLAYERS IN CLEVER COMEDY

EDWARD T. CONNELLY
"Daddy Larkin"

As their annual mid-Lent entertainment for the benefit of St. Mary's Memorial church, St. Mary's Parish Players presented before a very large house at the Broadway theatre Tuesday evening, a three-act comedy, Making Daddy Behave. Seldom has an amateur production in Norwich been so well received. The theatrical, which was under the personal direction of James E. Murphy, principal of the Greeneville grammar school, was excellently staged. In fact it surpassed some of the professional productions that have been seen in Norwich theatres. The members of the cast are to be complimented on the splendid showing they made and they well deserved the hearty applause showered on them by the delighted audience. As a laugh getter Making Daddy Behave was a decided success for from the time the curtain rose for the first act until the final curtain of the comedy there was not a dull moment.

Edward T. Connelly, the well known tenor vocalist, and an old time professional minstrel man, carried the role of "Daddy" Timothy Larkin, a wealthy California lumber man, whose set views regarding the marriage of his two daughters and mother-in-law, got him into all kinds of trouble. A harmless little love affair, as he thought, which he carried on by mail with an unknown shirt factory girl, involved him in a predicament that finally resulted in his giving way to the demands, financial and otherwise, made upon him by the various members of his household. It took the combined efforts of his lawyer, John St. Claire (James E. Murphy) and his mother-in-law, Grandma Tilden (Mrs. James E. Murphy), to rescue him from the very embarrassing situation in which he found himself when confronted with the "harmless little" love letters which he had written to the unknown object of his affections.

Catherine A. Lee and Margaret E. Purdon carried the roles of "Tim's" daughters, Peggy and Marian, who were greatly displeased with their father's interference in their love affairs. They made it very plain, much to the annoyance, that they were going to choose their own husbands—and they did. Nicholas Spellman was a happy selection for the part of Byron Cleveland, "Tim's" secretary, who was very much in love with Peggy. One of the most difficult roles in the case was that of David Standing, The Stranger, whose Shakespearian English was much too flowery for Tim and his family. This role was most creditably carried by Henry J. LaFontaine. He had much difficulty in understanding the modern slang phrases, but proved an apt scholar under the guidance of Marion and Windham, the family chauffeur, which latter role was carried by Napoleon A. Kerouack. After the "stranger" had won the hand of Marion, it developed that he was the choice "Tim" had made for her. However, it was as much a surprise to "Tim" as it was to Marion. Retta Sheehy was an ideal selection for the part of Ardita, the factory girl, whose movie aspirations really caused most of the trouble "Tim" found himself in when she suddenly appeared on the scene with several batches of love letters and with financial demands to provide her the means of carrying out her plans. She finally eloped with Windham, the family chauffeur, who appropriated all of "Tim's" clothes, leaving only a bathrobe.

HENRY J. LaFONTAINE

The selection of Horace F. Corning for the part of Alberts, the English butler, could hardly have been improved upon. He carried his part to perfection and it developed that he was as much involved with Ardita as was "Tim", but clever work on the part of the family lawyer saved him from the wrath of his wife, Mrs. Alberts, which role was taken by Margaret M. Murphy. Molly V. Driscoll appeared as Mrs. McLaren, who persisted in a financial settlement from "Tim" as heart balm.

Donnelly, Mrs. Charles Mumford, Mrs. Chester J. Ryan, Miss Margaret C. Counihan, Miss May C. Nolan, Miss Mae J. Riley, Miss Mary E. Spellman, Miss Catherine A. Lee, James J. Brady, Michael J. Cascoran, George H. Dolan, Joseph A. Donnelly.

Executive committee: Business manager, Rev. Wm. A. Keefe; stage manager, Edward T. Connelly; director, James E. Murphy; music and dances, Henry J. La Fontaine; prompter, Miss Isabelle W. Leonard.

Cornelius J. Downes, Edward J. McNerney, John T. McKenna and Joseph A. Donnelly took tickets at the doors and the altar boys of St. Mary's Memorial church distributed the programmes.

Between the second and third acts Rev. W. A. Keefe, business manager for the theatrical, took occasion to publicly thank all who in any way assisted in making the production a success and called attention to the fact that the show will be repeated again this (Wednesday) evening.

The executive committee issued a statement acknowledging courtesies shown by the Plaut-Cadden Co., Hawkins, the Florist, Manager A. Davidson of the theatre and the theatre ushers.

Among the clergy in attendance were Rev. W. A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's church, Rev. Myles F. Galvin of St. Patrick's church, Rev. U. O. Bellerose and Rev. Henri Chagnan, Taftville; Rev. William H. Kennedy, South Coventry; Rev. Frederic R. DesSurreault of Occum, Rev. Charles H. Kelly of Willimantic and Rev. Frederick M. Coholan of St. Mary's church.

Extra trolley service was provided by the Connecticut Co., after the performance.

CHURCH CROWDED FOR PLAINFIELD FUNERAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, March 18.—Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance were held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock in the First Congregational church. The church was crowded to the door and into the halls, by those who had come to honor the dead and to show their sympathy for the bereaved family. The pulpit and platform were banked with most beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Henry Leach, organist, played for the services and the choir sang, "Nearer, My God to Thee". "Face to Face" was sung by James Royle.

A fitting tribute was paid to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance, by the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss.

There were many relatives and friends present from out of town, those identified with the interests of Mr. Dorrance and those who had known and loved Mrs. Dorrance.

The bearers were, Charles Grant, Walter P. Lathrop, William F. Hall, Jason P. Lathrop, Charles E. Hopkins, Charles Dodge, William Goggeshall, of Warren, R. I., and Arthur G. Skinner.

Burial was in the family lot in Plainfield cemetery.

Professors and friends from Storrs college who attended the funeral were Richard E. Dodge, B. W. Ellis, H. H. Garrigus, R. E. Begg and A. G. Skinner.

The senior class of the High school attended the services in a body. The Plainfield Grammar school was closed for the funeral.

Rev. William C. Prentiss, pastor of the Congregational church, who conducted the services, pronounced the following eulogy.

Tribute to Henry Dorrance and Sarah Frances Dorrance: We are gathered here today burdened by a common sorrow. In the sudden affliction and in the tragic character of the passing of our friends, We are akin to a great company of those who are this day sorrowful and broken-hearted, crushed by a great loss and overwhelmed by a deep and impenetrable mystery. Here, apart from the noise and rush of the busy world, we meet to honor the dead and to pay a fitting tribute of love and esteem to the memory of a brother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance have fallen on sleep as did their fathers of old and they, too, have been gathered with the faithful and now belong to the ages. At a moment's notice, they are summoned from the active scenes of life to enter together the mysteries of the beyond and to begin the great adventure of the soul. Already they are in the midst of wider and more wonderful experiences, more beautiful friendships and greater achievements. Out of the fitful fever of life into the hilltops of God's own country where there is no shadow, no pain and no sorrow.

It is not well to dwell much on the character of the passing of our friends and it is unwise for us to feel that a strange thing has happened to the afflicted home and the saddened community. Under the most peculiar and trying circumstances, loved ones are called out of this life into the larger life and service and of the great tomorrow. The call comes to the most devoted, faithful souls sometimes amid suddenness, sometimes after long, lingering suffering of body and mind. It is the mystery of it all. It is the mystery of death, but no less of life. Who can explain the bucket of water at the spring or the flight of the bird in the sky. Now, if there are any lessons to be learned in the passing of our friends, let us heed them; if there is carelessness to be avoided or danger to be averted, then let those in authority see to it that Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance died not in vain, but that the sacrifice of these precious lives may mean less danger and disaster for the lives of coming generations.

We pause today amid our work and care, to pay a tribute of love and esteem to a brother and sister. We are so constituted that such lives cannot drop out of their places in the community, or cease to go in and out of our homes, without leaving behind a sense of great loss. Men and women cannot live even two score and a half of years, fill the various relationships and meet the ever-increasing obligations of life, the more tried and sweeter relations in the home, without leaving behind regret, sadness and loneliness. Sad and broken are our hearts today and unbearable this sense of loss as we miss these two friend, familiar figures on our streets, ... public assemblies and in the place of worship. They graced many a time and place by their quiet and unassuming lives, they honored many a position of trust and responsibility by faithful, efficient and untiring service, they were always good neighbors and true friends, exhibiting the old-time dignity and hospitality, but most of all they graced the fireside of their own home where they were the devoted, faithful and loving parents.

Mr. Dorrance was a man vital to and interested in the best life of the community. He has often been honored by his townsmen with positions of trust which he always filled with fidelity. He represented the town of Plainfield in the legislature, has been on the town school committee, on the board of selectmen and at the time of his death he was one of the board and secretary and treasurer of the Cemetery association. Mr. Bessette, the chairman of the board of selectmen tells me that Mr. Dorrance has not missed one session of the board, where his counsel was valued and appreciated. It is unnecessary for me to call attention to his identification with some of the larger agricultural interests of the state, he being an official of the Windham County Farmers' association, selling agent of the Providence and Willimantic Milk Producers' association and president of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association. He was often at our state agricultural college in which he was deeply interested and where he was well known and appreciated. I shall never forget a visit to the college which I made with Mr. Dorrance the past summer.

It was my privilege to make a short friendly call on Mr. Dorrance late in the afternoon of Friday, where I saw him at his best. It was there that he read me a clipping relative to public interests, referred to Grange of which he was an honored member, spoke of matters pertaining to the Lincoln club of which he was chairman of the welfare committee, and mentioned the board of selectmen in terms of appreciation.

Mr. Dorrance was a man of fine mind, of good judgment, of strong and positive convictions, with a marked sense of justice and, withal, a good and kind heart. While he was progressive, yet he was one who loved the old landmarks, and it is due not a little to his wish and influence that this church, of which he was a faithful member since 1892, was restored so largely along old Colonial lines.

Mrs. Sarah Frances Dorrance was a most remarkable woman whom to know was to love and highly esteem. She was never strong and because of this her achievements are the more wonderful. Although most unassuming, she had a brilliant mind and an artistic temperament; both as an author and as an artist, she has done work that will abide. In research work and on genealogical data, Mrs. Dorrance was an authority, and she was often a familiar figure in the state library at Hartford, and in the offices of our town clerks, searching the records of the past.

As historian of this church of which she was a loyal and active member since 1885, she has given us two histories and other valuable historical addresses. There was probably none either better versed in the history of this town than Mrs. Dorrance. Turn to the history of Windham county and you will find the work of her pen and nature books are adorned with her art. Her literary ability was well known, not alone in the Woman's club and in the Library association of which she was last year acting president, but in wider circles she was known as a writer of ability.

But her greatest achievements were in the realm of a true and noble womanhood. Hers was a beautiful friendship, tested and tried by the years, through which she found the opportunities for the richest and largest service. Her charcater was of the highest type, with lofty ideals and unfaltering faith.

Mrs. Dorrance will long be remembered in this community with affection as one who gave freely of her best with rare self-denial and untiring devotion. Her chief task was as homemaker which she filled with rare qualifications with wisdom and with fidelity and with a sweet and unselfish spirit.

We shall think of Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance as those whose lives were devoted and consecrated to the best in life, rich in ministry for others, and full of kind and lovely deeds, whose greatest achievements were their characters, rich, strong and beautiful, marked by simplicity and high ideals. They were faithful to their home, devoted to their church loyal to their community and keenly alive to the highest interests of mankind. They have left the world better for having lived in it and have gone to enrich another world by a larger servic.

In the new opportunities and possibilities for our beloved friends in the hilltops of God lies the secret of the mysteries in this sorrow of ours, and here, also, is found much of the comfort for those whose loss is the greatest and whose burden is the heaviest.

WESTERLY FIREMEN FOUGHT BAD BRUSH FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, March 18.—Sparks from a chimney this morning set fire to the roof of the house at 138 High street, occupied by William C. Mudge and family. Charles Mudge, who was in a sleeping room on an upper floor, heard the crackling of the flames on the roof above and rushed out to turn in the fire alarm from Box 64, High and Pleasant streets. The apparatus of the Westerly fire department responded. Ladders were raised and the hydrant's stream was directed on the blaze which burned a hole in the roof. The damage resulting was not great.

Alarm 33 was sounded again at 11.30 this morning for the threatening brush fire which burned all Monday night and by a change of wind placed the Oak's Inn on the Shore road in danger. The R. I. 1 truck, which was already at the scene of the brush fire, returned to Westerly and, taking on more men, returned in time to prevent the fire from catching the barn and sheds at the rear of the inn. At one time 60 men, some of whom had gone down by automobile, were engaged in beating the fire back of a stone wall. Westerly Fire Chief George Egger and Pleasant View Fire Chief Charles Lamb personally directed the operations. The fire crossed the shore road to the east of the inn and burned down to the edge of Brightman's pond. Back fire was set and the spread of fire toward Pleasant View prevented. The Watch Hill department responded with their truck and the men taking station near the Dameral house on the shore road beat the flames back at this point. The Westerly truck returned to the station at 3.30 p. m. A large brush fire could be seen burning near Green Hill near Point Judith.

Recovers From Injuries

Mrs. Lester Smith of East Main street has recovered from a fall she received last week, cutting her knee quite badly.

The elections held throughout the republic of Santo Domingo passed off without the slightest disturbance.

PROGRAMME OF INTERPRETIVE DANCING FINELY GIVEN

Mrs. Edward Andrews held her annual recital of classical interpretive dancing at the Palace theatre Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, with a large attendance of friends and relatives.

The opening number was The Fairy Garland by Dorothy and Mary Stewart, Elizabeth Noyes and Mary Gertrude Chapman in ballet costumes. They played with a long garland of smilax making many beautiful tableaux.

The programme continued as follows:

Speed (Schubert), Dolly Edmunds, in Grecian costume expresses by beautiful leaping turns and bursts of speed. The intensity and recklessness of our high pressure era and the fall which ends the dance is a symbol of its danger; Aurora, Alice Higgins, in costume of the dawn, carrying flowers which she scatters over the earth; the wreath, Myrtle Fuller, in Grecian costume, weaves a chain of flowers into a wreath with which she plays charmingly, finally placing it on her pretty head; The Scimiter (Amini), Susanne Higgins, in Turkish costume, gave a most attractive and beautiful dance with a crescent sword; La Mort de Papillon, Betty McKeag, in butterfly costume, gave an enchanting little toe dance to most expressive music by Bergmuller; The Moths and the Flame, by Emily Bidwell, Louise Evans, Florence Congdon, Alice Lord and Eleanor Smith. They wore costumes of the gray moth, and were most graceful as they fluttered around the flames, into which they finally fall. Moment Musicale (Schubert), sportive playfulness and joy were in this dance which was performed in a dainty sprite like manner by Dorothy Prentice, and Marion Mitchell in Grecian costumes, carrying Greek flutes.

Coming thro' the Rye, by Kindergarten class in aprons and sun bonnets and overalls and hats was danced with childlike simplicity by Ralph Sinay and Elmire Bullard, Robert Bartlett and Evelyn Burbank, Billy Nicholson and Ilva Ranger, Nancy Greenman and Florence Smith; The Swedish Doll, by Mildred Chapman, very quaint, both as to dance and costume; Dixie, an adorable interpretation of southern frivolity and of the most irresistible tune in the world by Eleanor Brown in costume of 1865. One of the most enjoyable numbers was the Bamballna from Wild Flower, danced by four coupies.

During intermission an exhibition of ball room dancing was given by the Misses Emma Thompson, Beatrice Leonard, Louise Higgins, Irene Broadhurst and Carolyn and Betty Zumbro. They danced the new French tango and Mah Jongg.

Winter' day dance, containing most attractive and technical steps by Barbara Tingley, Blanche Lathrop, Mary King and Doris Brown. The girls had snowballs concealed in their muffs which proved a diversion; The Blue Veil, a lively dance imbued with lady-like charm by Ethel Parkhurst in Oriental costume; Japanese lantern, in Japanese costumes carrying lanterns, one of the most picturesque dances by Beatrice Eggleton, Alice Woodman, Beatrice Babcock, Eleaner Sargent, Lorna Hoffman, Elsie Backus, Carolyn Noyes, Johnny Harris, Agnes Greenman, Elsie Jacobson, Ruth Rodoski, Geraldine Pierce; Golden Basket, a series of graceful pictures strung together from the strains of a beautiful Chopin waltz by Esther Gilbert in Grecian costume carrying a golden basket of flowers; The Slave Girl, a very striking dance with two painted noiseless tambourines in an effective array of pictures by Lois Latimer in Oriental costume; Cherries, Sarah Tingley in cherry red costume danced with grace and ease this gay and animated dance to music by Brahms; Arcadia, by Ruth Brown, in Grecian costume, a graceful artistic dance, to music by Kullak.

The programme closed with Le Tambourine by Sherod Ingalls and Elizabeth Hodge, Paul Latimer and Betty Hitchon, Billy Leonard and Carolyn McCormick, George Ranger and Beatrice Smith, John Tingley and Eunice Ingalls, Billy Finlayson and Marjorie Finlayson.

The pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. Mary D. Hodge and Miss Gertrude Platt and the ushers were Miss Contance Chapman, Emma Thompson, Betty and Carolyn Zumbro, Louise and Irene Broadhurst.

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY BY CLARA BARTON TENT

Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Veterans, celebrated its seventh anniversary Tuesday evening at its regular meeting at the Buckingham Memorial with a large attendance of the membership and Sons of Veterans as guests.

After the meeting had been opened by the president, Mrs. Genie Evans, a historical sketch of the National Alliance, Daughters of Veterans, and of Clara Barton ten was presented in an especially interesting way by Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, past department president. She described the objects of the organization, its extension through various states of the union by the institution of tents and the growth of Clara Barton tent which has reached a membership of close to 100.

An enjoyable programme of violin, piano and vocal numbers was given by the F. O. B. trio after which refreshments were served.

The Daughters of Veterans sewing circle met Tuesday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial, the members working upon articles for their Christmas sale.

EXPERTS COMMITTEE IN PLENARY SESSION

Paris, March 18 (By the A. P.)—The first committee of experts spent the entire time of its plenary session today in going over the work of the sub-committee which is drafting a report to the reparation commission on the question of Germany's economic and financial situation.

It now appears that the report will be ready for the reparation commission at the end of March, or, in any event, not later than the first days of April.

A portion of the French press is pessimistic regarding "fundamental differences" existing between the members of the first committee, which is headed by Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes. One paper said today that there were differences of opinion "not only between the delegates of the different nations but between members of the committee representing the same country, such as General Dawes and Owen D. Young." This, however, was denied in committee circles, where it was averred that an agreement had been reached on all the important points at issue.

An official spokesman for the French foreign office also deprecated the report of dissensions in the committee, saying "the opinions expressed in the French press do not reflect those of the French government." He added that the government's opinion was that the prospects of a solution of the situation were bright.

The drafting of the report, however, is proving a greater task than had been imagined. It was said today the report would be a most voluminous document.

The second committee, headed by Reginald McKenna, former British chancellor of the exchequer, met twice today.

This committee could present its report within three or four days were it called upon to do so.

MYSTIC ALL-STARS HANG UP FINE RECORD FOR BASEBALL SEASON

(Special to the Bulletin)

Mystic, March 18.—The seasons record of the Mystic All-Stars which has just been compiled exclusively for the Bulletin, shows that this team had one of the best records of any junior basketball team in this section of the state. The Mystic team finished the season with 15 victories out of 17. In playing this amount of games, Mystic opposed some of the best teams in Mystic, Westerly, Stonington, Noank and New London.

The only defeats handed to the Mystic outfit was by New London teams. The seniors at Chapman Tech won from this team by a 24 to 16 score. On the following week the First Congregational team was engaged in a game with the All-Stars and hung up the second victory at the expense of that team. Other teams that were played by Mystic were easily defeated and in three or four of the contests some large scores were rolled up.

The Mystic All-Stars were made up of the following: Stuart, Taylor, Kinsmouth, P. Gray, R. Radiconi, Dick, M. Radiconi, J. Gray. Kinmouth was the high scorer for the season's play. W. Dick managed the team.

The season's record follows:

PRINCETON AND COLUMBIA DIVIDE SWIMMING HONORS

New York, March 18—Princeton and Columbia divided honors tonight in the intercollegiate swimming and water polo contests Princeton winning the swimming meet by 49 to 14 and Columbia taking the polo meet by 31 to 15. The polo victory gave Columbia the lead in that sport.

A new intercollegiate indoor record for the 440 yard swimming distance was set by John Hawkins of Princeton with a time of five minutes 18 1-2 seconds, 8 seconds less than the previous record, also made by Hawkins.

Princeton won all the swimming events except the 150-yard back stroke, which was a dead heat between Millison of Columbia and Draper of Princeton.

CASTLE TO SUCCEED KING ON STATE COMMISSION

Waterbury, March 18. — Governor Charles A. Templeton today announced that he would appoint Acly W. Castle of this city a member of the state athletic commission to succeed Moose King, boxing instructor at Yale, when the latters term expired on July 1. Castle is at present secretary of the commission but is not a member.

GROTON TAKES LEAD IN N. L. CHURCH LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 18.—The first game in the play-off series in the Intermediate Church league was held Tuesday night on the Y. M. C. A. court. Groton, by getting an early lead, defeated the Methodist Intermediates by a 19 to 11 score. By this victory, Groton now goes into first place.

The Groton five set a terrific pace from the very first whistle, and were able to pile up an early lead that proved disastrous to the Methodist boys. Try as the Methodists would to overhaul the team from across the river brought them not much reward for their efforts, for the Groton team had the word determination written in every movement. This determination to win coupled with fine playing on the part of the Groton five gave them a hard earned victory. The victory gained by Groton is one of significance as the Methodist five had Linkletter, forward of the Chapman Tech five in its lineup.

Taylor and Crouch, by launching a successful drive in the first half that netted the Groton five 14 of their 19 points, were important cogs in this team's victory. The guarding of both Latham and Marquardt was good. Marquardt's guard work especially stood out as a feature of the Groton victory. He held Linkletter, the speedy Chapman Tech forward, to but three field goals.

For the Methodists, Linkletter played the best game. He also accounted for the majority of the baskets made by his team.

TWO UPSETS IN N. L. MILITARY LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 18.—Two surprises were registered in the games played in the Military league at the state armory Tuesday night. The New London Independents gained a 13 to 10 victory over Battery A in the first contest of the evening and in the second game The Tabs surprised the 85th Brigade Headquarters by taking a fall out of that team by a 23 to 12 score.

Both games were hotly contested from the first whistle. In the first game the New London Independents upset the dope bucket by sending Battery A down to a defeat. The second game, the Tabs' victory came as the result of some good basket shooting by Taylor. The lineup and summary:

YOUNG COULON WINS BOUT AT HARTFORD BENEFIT SHOW

Young Coulon of Taftville won his three-round bout with Harry Doyle of Rockville at the Olympic Fund benefit show at Hartford on Tuesday evening. Young Coulon outclassed Doyle in all three rounds easily earning the decision. In the second round Coulon dropped Doyle for the count of five and had the Rockville boy groggy for the remainder of the round. Coulon fought a hard fast fight all the way.

"Y" HOUSE LEAGUE CLOSES THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 18.—The Y. M. C. A. House league will come to a close Wednesday night. Some of the fastest games in the city were played in this league during the past season. As a headline for the last games of this league, the league-leading Mebs will take on the Acmy five at 7.30, and one hour later the Clerks and the Dormats will fight it out.

The Acmy five has an opportunity to make considerable trouble for the league-leaders if they can gain a victory on Wednesday night. Should they be successful in winning out, three teams will be in a tie for first place, the Mebs, Leather Pushers and the Acmy. Another round will be necessary to determine the victor.

The Clerks in their game with the Dormats have a chance to vacate last place in the league standing. A loss on the other hand will mean permanent occupancy of the cellar position for the Clerks. The two teams are well matched and another record crowd is expected to attend.

The games will be played on the Y. M. C. A. court.

MANAGERS TO MEET TONIGHT TO FORM LEAGUE

Managers and captains of lightweight basketball teams in Norwich and vicinity are requested to meet with Physical Director Brits of the local Y. M. C. A. tonight relative to arranging a championship series to determine the basketball champions of Norwich and vicinity. Already a number of teams have expressed their desire to enter the tourney, and team representatives are invited to meet at the "Y" tonight at 7:15.

FIRPO DETERMINED TO QUIT BOXING GAME

Buenos Aires, March 18.—(By The A. P.)—Notwithstanding that scores of Luis Firpo's friends and admirers sought throughout the day to persuade him to change his mind, the South American heavyweight declared to the Associated Press correspondent tonight that he intended to stand fast by his resolution to abandon fighting altogether.

New London Sport Comment

The Bulkeley high school baseball squad with the exception of the pitchers and catchers will not work indoors this season. This has been the custom for the past three or four years at Bulkeley, but the new Bulkeley mentor, Robert Aldrich does not think that an early work out will benefit the squad. The first practice of the season will be called before another week is over.

The New London Ranger Soccer team will have its hands full when it opposes the New Bedford All-Stars composed of the best players in the Industrial leagues in the Bay state city. The game will be played at Caulkins Park and a large crowd is expected to attend.

It is a good thing that New London possesses a man of sporting propensities like George Fisher the local florish. Much credit should be given Mr. Fisher for his cooperation in promoting Industrial sports in the city for the past season. Another man that emulates Mr. Fisher is Jack Russell who is one of the busiest men in the city. It would take a whole page to begin telling what Russell has accomplished in the way of sports.

Chapman Tech will wind up its basketball season Thursday night against Stonington high. An easy victory should result for the Red and Black judging from the past performances of these teams.

In Friday's issue of the Bulletin, a selection, of a first and second All-Industrial team will be made by our representative who has been covering the Industrial league since it began.

Siki Recovering.

Havana, March 18.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese fighter, who recently had an attack of pneumonia, has so far recovered that he was able to resume training today.

Jois Lombardo, who claims the featherweight championship of Panama, will meet Carlos Fraga, featherweight champion of Cuba, in a fifteen round bout here next Saturday night.

Wanderers to Play Stonington.

The Baltic Wanderers will play at Stonington on Friday evening. The Wanderers have signed Harris and Rousch to play center and guard respectively. The Wanderers with these two new players have a strong team that will give Stonington a hard rub.

Record Gets Doubtful Decision.

Boston, March 18—Eddie Record, of Nashua, N. H., received a judges' decision, which was questioned by newspapermen at the ringside, over Jack Sharkey, of Boston, in a ten round bout here tonight. Sharkey, according to the writers, took seven rounds. Record scored a knockdown in the eighth.

BACON ACADEMY LOSES TO CONG. CHURCH TEAM AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 18—The First Congregational five was an easy victor over the Bacon Academy quintet of Colchester, at the First Congregational chalked court, Tuesday night by a 46 to 24 score. The game failed to produce any thrills and at times was poorly played.

Bacon Academy was outclassed at the very first whistle and with the termination of the first half it looked like the Church team would have an easy time of it throughout. However with the beginning of the second half, the visitors began to show some signs of life and a short offensive drive netter that team eight points before the First Congregational five could get into the scoring mood themselves. But it was only for a short period of time that the visitors attempted to make things interesting for the home team before that teams forwards got into action from then there was nothing to it. Basket after basket was made by the winners until their total reached 22, then this team began to take things easy. At half time the score stood 20 to 7 in the First Congregational boys favor.

Prince, Silva and Hutchison were the outstanding performers for the winners. This combination was hard to stop once it got into action.

Stebbins and Shedcoff for the Academy did good work.

The lineup and summary:

NEAR RIOT DEVELOPES AT PARIS BOXING SHOW

Pris, March 18—(By the A. P.)—A near riot developed tonight at a boxing show over the decision of the referee at the finish of a fifteen round bout between Fred Bretonnel and Paul Fritsch, lightweights.

Previously Ted "Kid" Lewis had won the main bout of 15 rounds on points from Francis Charles. Lewis displayed but a shadow of his old time welterweight form.

Bretonnel and Fritsch fought like wildcats throughout the entire 15 rounds on points from Francis Charles. Lewis displayed but a shadow of his old time welterweight form.

Bretonnel and Fritsch fought like wildcats throughout the entire 15 rounds and both were on the verge of a knockout at the finish. Bretonnel had a slight advantage in seven rounds while Fritsch led in seven. The other round was about even.

Immediately after the referee rendered his decision, which the followers of Fritsch considered was against their man, some of the spectators began bombarding the referee. The police interfered and attempted to arrest the disturbers. A free for all fight developed, and in the rush of panic stricken spectators, who were trying to reach the exits, many women were trampled. Several persons were arrested.

Some of the spectators who are close followers of the boxing game expressed the opinion that the disturbance would go a long way towards the killing of the sport in France.

TIGER FIVE GOES INTO SECOND PLACE WITH COLUMBIA

New Haven, March 18—Princeton defeated Dartmouth, 33 to 17, here tonight in an intercollegiate league basketball game. By winning tonight's game Princeton will share second place in the league with Columbia. Tonight's game was the play-off of the protested game by the Tigers which was played two weeks ago at Hanover, the Tigers alleging that the winning goal made by Dartmouth was thrown after the referee had sounded his whistle for a foul. The protest was allowed and the game ordered played over. As Dartmouth's gymnasium was engaged it was agreed to play at Yale.

Princeton led all the way, Cleaves starring for Princeton with four field goals and one foul goal and Friedman for Dartmouth with three field and two foul goals.

FINAL ROUND IN MEN'S LEAGUE TONIGHT

The final round in the men's championship volleyball league at the Y. M. C. A. is scheduled for tonight in the "Y" gym, with the following games scheduled:

7.45, Giants vs. Senators; Yankees vs. Pirates.

8.30, Braves vs. Cubs.

Following the above games, the pending game between the Cubs and Giants is to be played.

Present team standing:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cubs | 8 | 1 | .888 |
| Giants | 7 | 2 | .778 |
| Braves | 8 | 4 | .667 |
| Yankees | 7 | 5 | .584 |
| Senators | 3 | 9 | .250 |
| Pirates | 0 | 12 | .000 |

FIRPO'S RETIREMENT SETS PUGILISTIC CIRCLE AGOG

New York, March 18.—Luis Angel Firpo's announcement that he would retire from the ring after fighting Al Reich, an American, at Buenos Aires next month came as something of a bombshell today in pugilistic circles, where its effect on the year's fistic program was the chief topic, in some quarters there was skepticism over Firpo's assertion, and a belief that sufficient financial inducements would influence the giant Argentine to change his mind.

William McCarney, Firpo's American representative, who arranged an extended exhibition and fighting tour of the United States and Canada during the summer, late today had received no direct word from Firpo and was holding his program in abeyance until receipt of advice from the South American.

Tex Rickard, under whose guidance the colorful South American climbed spectacularly in six months from obscurity to a record-breaking title fight with Jack Dempsey, was in Washington and his associates would make no comment. Rickard, it was believed had obtained Dempsey's consent to a return match with Firpo next September here but cable reports last night said the Argentine rejected Rickard's latest fight bid, a $500,000 offer for bouts with Harry Wills and Dempsey.

Should Firpo carry out his announced intention, however, latin color to the fistic program would not be lacking. Ermino Spalla, Italian holder of the European heavyweight title, who was knocked out in 14 rounds by Firpo recently, and Quintino Romero-Rojas, promising Chilean heavyweight, have accepted Rickard's offer for a series of matches here. Rojas may make his debut in May at Madison Square Garden against Floyd Johnson, of Iowa.

FLOTILLA FIVE TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM ESSEX TEAM

(Special to the Bulletin)

Essex, March 18—Playing before a crowd that taxed the Essex town hall to its capacity the Submarine Base five downed the stubborn Essex town team here tonight by a 25 to 24 score. It was the fastest and best played game yet to be seen at the town hall. The spectators were on edge throughout the contest. The Base led all the way and only once Essex threatened to take the lead away and that was in the final half.

Before the home team could get into the lead Greene and O'Hare for the Base accounted for enough points to give the gobs a good lead which they maintained throughout the remaining playing time. Greene was the high scorer for the Base with Compton a close second.

PROMINENT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR DIES AFTER OPERATION

New York, March 18.—Elwood S. Brown, vice president and executive officer of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, who has been active for years in the development of physical education and athletics, particularly in the Far East and South America, died today at Englewood, N. J., hospital.

Mr. Brown suffered a heart attack two weeks ago after a game of hand ball. He apparently was recovering when a blood clot developed in his left leg, necessitating an amputation, the effects of which he did not survive.

DEMPSEY THINKS FIRPO'S TALK A LOT OF HOKUM

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 18.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion doesn't take much stock in press reports of Luis Angel Firpo's contemplated retirement. "That's a lot of hokum, I think," he said after seeing the reports.

"It looks like a publicity scheme and perhaps a move toward increasing his demands for future fights in the United States," Dempsey said.

"The shrill cry of the American eagle is too tempting for any fellow who can 'sock' like the 'wild bull of the Pampas.'"

DEMPSEY DENIES INTEREST IN THE FIGHT FILMS

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 18.—Jack Dempsey declared today that neither he nor Jack Kearns, his manager, has had an interest in the Dempsey-Carpentier fight picture since it has been exhibited, and he does not anticipate being called to testify before the senate committee investigating irregularities in its display.

"Kearns and I disposed of our interest in the films to Tex Rickard and Fred Quimby, film producer, before the picture was made," he said.

How Do The Celtics Get That Way

Manager "Red" Burelle of the Army-Navy Seconds would like to know where the Taftville Celtics get that stuff about winning the Junior championship. Just because they trimmed the Baltic Bantams is no sign that they are chmapions by any means. And on top of that when the Celtics played the Bantams there were two A-N men in the Celtic lineup. If the Celtics want to play the Seconds they can have the opportunity at any time.

CUBAN PITCHERS REPORT AT RED'S CAMP

Cincinnati, March 18.—Adolfo Luque and Pedro Dibut, Cuban pitchers reported to Manager Jack Hendricks, of the Cincinnati Nationals at Orlando, today.

The game which was to have been played today by the Columbus and Cincinnati teams was cancelled on account of a muddy field, dispatches stated.

"Y" Team to Play at New London

The local "Y" Seniors basketball team is scheduled to meet the New London "Y" team at New London in the state championship series, Saturday night of this week. The "Yers will meet tonight for their final practice for the game and are confident of downing the whalemen, and this placing in the finals when they go to place at New Haven at a later date. The locals won from New London on the Norwich floor recently.

Olympic Tryouts

New York, March 18.—Sectional tryouts to select candidates for the American Olympic Gymnastic team will be held in April and May at Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and either Los Angeles or San Francisco, according to announcement tonight by Roy E. Moore, of New York, chairman of the Olympic and A. A. U. Gymnastic Committees.

Attention Laurel Hill Crescents

The Battery B Five would like to play the Laurel Hill Crescents at the State Armory this (Wednesday) evening. This game would finish up the series between the Crescents and the Battery, each having won a game.

All-Stars Challenge Wanderers

The Taftville All-Stars would like to know what is the matter with the Baltic Wanderers that they refuse to play the All-Stars. If the Wanderers really wish to play basketball they should communicate with the manager of the All-Stars.

Capablanca Held to Draw

New York, March 18.—Jose R. Capablanca of Cuba, world's chess champion was held to a draw today by edward Lasker of Chicago in the 1st match completed in the third round of the International Chess Masters' Tournament. It was the third straight draw for the titleholder.

Vick Traded to Cards

Houston, Texas, March 18—Catcher Enrie Vick, former Michigan university football star, and catcher for the Houston club, last season, has been traded to the St. Louis Cardinal nfor Shortstop Johnny Mane, an infielder drafted from the Southern league last season.

Pete August Gets Verdict

New York, March 18—Pete August of Bridgeport, Conn., won the judges' decision tonight in a ten round fight with "Pep" O'Brien, of New York. August weighed 144 pounds and O'Brien, 137 1-2.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

At New Haven: Princeton 33; Dartmouth 17.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The world record for continous club swinging is 167 hours.

The record distance walked in one hour was 6 miles, 439 yards, by G. K. Larner in 1905.

All Confederate war veterans in Dallas are presented with season tickets by the local baseball club.

At the University of California more than 500 men are enrolled for boxing and about an equal number in swimming.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PLAINFIELD FASHION SHOW BY PORTEOUS & MITCHELL

The Porteous & Mitchell company of this city has arranged to present a fashion show, with living models at the Community House, Plainfield, on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. Some of the garments that will be modeled are direct importations from Paris.

Coming to Broadway Theatre

"Name the Man!" the first Victor Seastrom production since the director came to the Goldwyn studios from Sweden, will be seen at the Broadway theatre.

Included in the cast are Conrad Nagel, Mae Busch, Patsy Ruth Miller, Hobart Bosworth, Creighton Hale, DeWitt C. Jennings, Evelyn Selbie and many other well-known players.

The story was adapted to the screen by Paul Bern, from the novel entitled, "The Master of Man," by Sir Hall Caine, and was Victor Seastrom's first production under a contract the Swedish director signed with the Goldwyn studios.

The picture was enthusiastically acclaimed by critics and public, and had long runs at large theatres in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco and other of the largest cities in the United States.

BREED THEATRE

A motion picture reviewer reasels having wasted adjectives on other film features when he is confronted with such a picture as the Henry King production of The White Sister, in which Lillian Gish is now appearing at the Breed theatre. Here is a motion picture achievement that deserves and demands the use of all the praise it is possible to bestow for nothing finer has ever reached the screen. It is perhaps the finest dramatic offering ever turned out as a motion picture, and everyone concerned in its making, distribution and presentation is to be complimented most highly.

Miss Gish is magnificent. No actress of this generation on stage or screen has carried the flame of sheer genius into her acting as does the frail little star of The White Sister. One has to hark back to the thrilling intensity of a Duse and the sensational emotionalism of a Bernhardt for comparison.

Nowhere in the long list of screen plays has there ever been so convincing and thrilling a love epic as this romance of a girl and her young soldier lover. Ronald Colman, who plays opposite Miss Gish, is the "find" of the screen year—a handsome, dashing hero.

In filming Marion Crawford's story, Director [illegible] took a company to Italy. Studios and laboratories were established, and then began the making of what should prove one of the truly great productions in cinema history. Mr. King has brought to life the characters of Mr. Crawford's novel and filmed his story in the exact locale in which it was set.

A Democratic primary will be held in Georgia today to express preference for the presidential nominee and to select delegates to the national convention at New York. The names of William G. McAdoo and Senator Underwood are the only ones appearing on the ballot.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE ELSHUCO TRIO

The concert by the Elshuco Trio in Bulkeley auditorium next Monday evening will round out an even dozen concerts given by the college since the inauguration of its annual concert series three years ago. Incidently it will mark the close of the most successful season thus far, and the organization chosen for the concert is in every way worthy of the final position in the best season's offerings.

It has been and will continue to be the policy of the concert committee to present only artists and organizations of first rank and to cover as broad a field as possible. For the past few years the field of chamber music has been without a first class trio. Two years ago William Willeke organized the Elshuco Trio in order that the great wealth of music literature for violin, 'cello and piano, in combination might have public hearings.

The organization is young in years, but the individuals composing it are seasoned musicians devoted to their art, and because of this, each one is making a real personal sacrifice in order to keep this form of ensemble music before the public. Tickets at Starr Bros. tomorrow.

"Mercedes" at the Broadway Theatre Thursday

Mercedes, the remarkable mystic who with his partner, Mlle. Stantone is an astounding vaudeville fiddle. Their puzzling mystery, "The Musical Enigma" is a native of the Chatto of Chicago one of a large family of Musicians, his father having been a favorite musician of the court of Imperial Russia, but driven out by the persecution of a rival musician. The little boy early developed a love for music and showed talen. When he was but six years old his father taught him to play the violin and the boy threw his heart and soul into trying to master the instrument, but when he was ten years old the family very poor, were forced to add the boy to their bread earners. So he went to work in a mill and worked ten and twelve hours a day, work that was torture to the sensitive little musician. His only comfort in those days was Nellie Stantone, a little playmate and school fellow who would play upon the piano while the boy would accompany her upon the violin. Then one day when Mercedes was eleven years old he met with an accident at the mill which crushed one of his fingers. Blood poison set in and for days and days the little fellow's life was despaired of. When he was better, the first thing he asked was to be taken to see Nellie Stantone, and hear her play upon the piano. All through his illness he had been haunted by the music of Gounod's "Ave Maria."

"Play me that piece, Nellie," he asked as he lay on the couch in the Stantone home. "It's haunted me."

And before he could name it, the girl had flown to the piano and was playing it. The boy stared at her in amazement. That's funny, how did you know I meant that one, he asked.

"You told me," she said, and he was equally astonished when he denied he had named it.

Four other big time acts are on the same program, including a feature picture.

Seats for "Up She Goes" Go On Sale Tomorrow

Seats for William A. Brady's musical delight, "Up She Goes" will go on sale at the Broadway on Thursday morning.

This musical comedy comes Monday, March 24, following its season's run in New York and a long and happy engagement at three theatres in Boston and it comes here with the same excellent company headed by Nancy Welford. Others in the cast include Frederick Graham, Fannie Rice, Marguerite Farrell and John Barker.

The tale of the piece is simply that of a young couple who want to build a hope, settle down and get married. Too much advice makes this harder than it should be. It is by the authors of "Irene."

Mail orders now accepted.

Bill Hart at the Strand Thursday

The first fifteen years of Bill Hart's life were spent in the real and rugged west of frontier days. The west mothered him during the shaping of his boyhood ambitions and ideals. While boys of his own age in the East were playing football, baseball and their various school games, he was forced through environment to play the more primitive games of the American Indian.

This just about answers the question, "Did Bill Hart learn about the west from experience?"

The first picture Bill made was "The Bargain." The overnight success and fame the star and the picture achieved is best illustrated by the fact that the picture is still packing them in today.

"Singer Jim McKee" is the title of his latest Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Strand theatre Thursday. It is an unusual story of the little known west of the mountain retreats. Phyllis Haver appears as leading woman. Clifford Smith was the director, the story being an original by the star himself.

Carson-Newman College, Tennessee, has one basketball player of exceptionally high standing—seven feet two in his stocking feet.

Announcement is made of the wedding Feb. 26 at St. Thomas' church, Jersey City, N. J., of William T. Neilan, formerly of this city, now a resident of Jersey City, where he is employed by the American Railway Express company, and Miss Eleanor Brennan, also a resident of Jersey City.

Charles I. Libby, 81, of Noank, died yesterday at Home Memorial hospital, following four weeks' illness with kidney trouble and heart disease. He was for many years employed as blacksmith at the Robert Palmer shipyard.

Eugene McMeran, cashier at the Firemen's Lunch room, has been granted a pension of $34 per month by the government bureau of pensions.

Sergeant Charles Hammond of the New London police force will be given an opportunity to defend himself of the charge of drinking while on duty the latter part of this week, if the plans of City Manager William A. Holt are carried out. That official stated today that he would notify the board who will hear the charges to convene for the purpose that the board was created, that of hearing charges preferred against a police officer.

Captain Charles A. Pinney today assigned Patrolman William Babcock to duty as a street sergeant in place of Sergeant Hammond. Babcock is yearly assigned to duty as a motorcycle officer and Captain Pinney, anticipating that Sergeant Hammond may be severely disciplined has ordered Patrolman George Labous to familiarize himself with the operation of a motorcycle that he may be competent to perform that branch of duty next month when the motorcycle officers will be assigned to duty. Patrolman Babcock and Labous are among the youngest members of the force, neither having been an officer over three years.

Peter Powers was arrested late this afternoon when he became stranded at the corner of Main and John streets. Complaint was made to the police because of the man's intoxicated condition and Sergeant Frank Howard and Acting Sergeant William Babcock took Powers into custody.

An automobile truck operated by Ernest Fargo of 9 Cutler street was damaged late this afternoon when an unidentified pleasure car crashed against it, at the corner of Main and Williams streets. Fargo reported the accident at the police station, but was unable to reveal the extent of the damage nor the driver of the colliding car. He stated that he would endeavor to determine the owner tomorrow and make it known when he reports the extent of the damage the truck sustained. Fargo operated his car to the side of the curb while he attended to some business at a nearby store. While he absented himself the pleasure car, a Ford sedan, and headed in a southerly direction, crashed against the side of the truck. Before Fargo could come from the store, the driver of the Ford thanked his car free from the truck and disappeared through Main street.

Ernest Lawne, alias Charles Patten, 30, of Providence, R. I., and who was arrested in New London over two months ago, charged with violation of the Mann act, was sentenced by Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the United States district court at New Haven yesterday afternoon, to two years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga. In imposing sentence Judge Thomas scathingly denounced Lawne, referring to him as a dastardly creature and refusing to show the prisoner leniency. Lawne was taken into custody here Jan. 9th, last, by Sergeant Charles Hammond. Lawne, who had been married about two months, caused Evaline Foster, 17 also of Providence, to leave her home, where Lawne had been a lodger and accompany him to New London. They secured accommodations in a Pearl street lodging house and there posed as man and wife, claiming to be performers at the Capitol theatre. After the couple had been here two or three days, Lawne is alleged to have caused the girl to entertain sailors in the room of the couple and then take for his own use, the money she obtained. Sergeant Hammond observed Lawne in his solicitation of the bluejackets and investigating determined the full facts of Lawne's acts. Before departing for New London with the girl, Lawne is alleged to have stolen a fur overcoat, a suit case and borrowed money from relatives of the Foster girl. Lawne's wife came to New London a short time after his arrest and after hearing the facts of her husband's acts declared that she would institute proceedings for a divorce.

There must of necessity be a lot of work done on the streets of this city. While the winter was not a severe one the streets show the effect of the frost on them and the wear of automobile and truck wheels has been considerable. The city has done some patching with tarred gravel, but that sort of work will not do when spring gets here. Nearly all the lateral streets show wear, for there are great gullies worn in them by automobiles. Montauk avenue highway will need relaying soon and the city council might as well be considering the proposition to put down asphalt, as it is the principal drive in New London. A section of that highway of a couple of miles in length might be laid each year until the task was accomplished. Ocean avenue is in the same predicament, though that highway has been treated to macadam since there was anything more than patching done on Montauk avenue. Howard street is to be re-paved and the gas company is making connections with all the properties and even the vacant lots so that once the paving is laid it will not be torn up soon. Heavy teaming can be diverted from Montauk and Ocean avenues to Pequot avenue, where the highway is better adapted to it, and thus the avenues where nearly all the pleasure driving is done may be preserved. The Hamilton street bridge has been rebuilt, and it was in need of that treatment, so that now that street is in better shape than it has ever been. Sidewalks have been laid on the north side, nearly its entire length. There is need of sidewalks on lower Bank street. They would have been laid long ago but for the element of politics that entered into the work. Property owners do not care to lay out money for sidewalks until they are compelled to, so it was that way on lower Bank street. The tar and concrete have worn off the walks there in great degree and now the walks are in wretchedly poor condition.

The contest over the junior high school has not yet got a good start, but that it will before the week is ended is likely. A committee of the promoters of the school was to have reported what they had discovered in a tour of the schools of the city Tuesday, but that was not done and the report will come later. The opponents of the scheme to erect a building that will cost half a million and to maintain which a very large sum will be necessary each year, has not yet divulged what they are doing but it is a certain thing that they have not been idle since the erection of a school building was proposed.

All New London and Groton are hoping that the Groton Iron Works which are to be sold at auction during the next two or three days will be bought by someone or some corporation which will re-establish the business for which the works were constructed—namely the building of ships. Charles W. Morse and his sons had control of the property during the time the government was having ships built there. If the same management should obtain control of the works now it would be to the liking of New London and Groton people. But it takes money to acquire such an establishment as this modern shipbuilding yard is and that does not seem to be in sight. Today an effort was made to sell the property, but the best bid made for the plant and the land was $208,500. The property will sell for more than that, it is believed, in parcels, and that is what the sellers will strive for. The bid of $208,500 was made by Morris Shapiro of Baltimore, but the property was not knocked down to the bidder at that price. An effort will be made to get a better bid. The sale was attended by many out of town people, for nobody here was prepared to bid in such an establishment at a price that would warrant the sale of it. The roadway about the iron works was lined with automobiles during the hours the sale was supposed to be in progress. All bidders were required to deposit a certified check for $300 to show their good faith in the bidding. Tomorrow the bidding will go on and then some results that are definite may be arrived at.

SECRET OF KEEPING YOUNG

Why is it that some women look older at thirty-five than others do at fifty? Why is it that so many women are always run-down, weak, pale, nervous, irritable and unhappy? Health, vitality and freedom from pain and disease alone can prevent the signs of age from fastening themselves upon women. All over this country women are awakening to the fact that the ills, aches and pains of women may be relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the result is renewed life, energy and the glow of health. In fact, the secret of keeping young is to ward off all internal ailments that cause premature old age, which is easily accomplished by this remarkable root and herb remedy.

RETIRED NOANK MARINER DIES AT AGE OF 85

Capt. Daniel W. Chester, one of Noank's oldest residents and an aged mariner, died at his home Tuesday morning of old age. He was a native of the town, being born on Jan. 14, 1839, the son of Charles and Betsy Chester.

As a boy he went fishing with Capt. Albert W. Morgan and later built a coasting schooner at the Palmer shipyard, which he called the William C. B. He was in the coasting business for about six years and then took command of a full rigged ship, the Dauntless, in which he made several trips around the world. His last trip on the west coast of Africa at a place known as East London. This practically terminated his seafaring career.

He engaged in the coal business in Noank and continued the business until about six years ago when he gave it up on account of ill health.

He leaves one daughter, Miss Juliette Chester, and one son, Postmaster Claude M. Chester. Ther are also three grandchildren, Dorothea, Josephine and Kenneth Chester, of Nahant, Mass.

He was one of the earliest members of the Noank Baptist church and was one of its deacons. The Jibboom club of New London was the only organization with which he was affiliated fraternally.

Captain Chester was held in high esteem in the village and was known for his sterling Christian character.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

New York, March 18.—Reactionary price tendencies prevailed throughout the greater part of today's stock market as bear traders pressed their advantage although a brisk recovery was under way at the close. Pessimistic speculative sentiment was engendered by the adoption of the soldier bonus bill by the house by an overwhelming vote, lack of effective buying support by powerful financial interests, extension of the oil and Daugherty inquiries by the summoning of additional cabinet officers as witnesses and the reduction in sugar and other commodity prices.

Operators on the long side provided only limited support for their favorites despite a further rally in the French franc to above five cents which was influenced by the French senate's adoption of the Poincare fiscal program and the lowest renewal rate for call money since January 5, 1923, while selling pressure was said to have originated largely with professional traders, some closing out of weakened marginal accounts was reported as a result of margin calls sent out last night.

Selling pressure was most effective in the motor, steel, rubber and tobacco shares. More than two score issues including Studebaker at 96 3-4, Chandler at 54, Willys Overland Preferred at 78 1-2, Crucible Steel at 58 1-2, Gulf State Steel at 77 1-8, Stewart Warner at 79 1-4, Tobacco Products at 55 1-4 and American Sumatra Tobacco preferred at 45 1-4, the last named closing at the bottom for a net loss of nearly eight points but most of the others making substantial recovery from their low prices of the day.

Rail shares continued to offer stubborn resistance to pressure the relative steadiness of this group being attributed to reports of large current earnings and the diminishing prospects for adverse railroad legislation. Norfolk & Western closed 2 points higher at 121 3-4 and Chesapeake & Ohio and Erie First preferred improved fractionally on accumulation attributed to banking interests.

General Electric was one of the individual features, jumping more than 8 points to 295 7-8, a new high price since 1902. U. S. Steel Common fluctuated within a range of 1 point, closing at 101 1-8 for a net gain of 9-8. Selling of Tobacco Products followed the publication of a poor 1923 earnings report, but a part of the loss was recovered after the president of the company had issued a reassuring statement regarding the company's outlook. Establishment of a new high for the year by Interborough Rapid Transit voting trust certificates at 24 1-8 reflected the resumption of Manhattan dividend rental payments. Establishment of a new 1924 low by U. S. Rubber common at 31 apparently was based on unconfirmed rumors questioning the safety of the preferred dividend, but the stock rallied nearly a point at the close.

Call money opened at 3 3-4 per cent and then dropped to 3 1-2. The time money market continued easy, a few 60-day loans being reported at 4 1-2 per cent. The Commercial Paper rates were unchanged; prime names commanding 4 3-4 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates moved irregularly higher. Demand sterling, which has been heavy for several days, climbed nearly a cent to around $4.29.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 18.—Continuation of easy money rates today counteracted effects of the passage of the bonus bill on the bond market, and prices generally were marked up in an active trading session.

With time funds relaxing in line with a drop in the call rate to 3 1-2 per cent., there were indications of a transfer of speculative interest from stocks to bonds. Attractive industrial, public utility and low priced railroad securities were in demand at higher prices, and high grade railroad issues held fairly steady around previous levels.

Trading was featured by active buying of Interborough and other local traction obligations, reflecting growing confidence in the earning power of the properties following resumption of Manhattan rental payments. Norfolk & Western Convertible 6s again led the rail group in activity, advancing more than 2 points to the high level of 121 1-4 established last week. Heaviness developed in a number of copper and rubber issues on unfavorable trade reports, although the Kelly Springfield 6s recovered 2 points of their recent loss.

The rise in the French franc to above 5 cents was accompanied by strength in the government's bonds, but a reaction later set in which was extended to Austrian and other issues.

Offering tomorrow of $14,000,000 Southern California Edison refunding 6 per cent bonds is expected to mark the resumption of new financing on a larger scale. The bonds, which mature in 1949, will be sold at 95 to yield about 6.08 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 18.—Influenced by favorable crop conditions and by downturns in New York stock and cotton quotations, the wheat market underwent a decline today to last week's lowest level. Closing prices were unsettled at 1-4@3-8 to 1c down with May 1.05 5-8 to 1.06 5-8@3-4 and July 1.06 3-4. Corn lost 1-8 to 5-8@3-4c and oats 1-8 to 1-4c. In the provision market the finish varied from 3c decline to 5c gain.

Selling from houses with eastern connections put pressure on the wheat market throughout the greater part of the day. Part of this selling was ascribed to reports that snowfalls over a wide area had made the outlook for winter wheat nearly ideal, especially in the southwest. This prospect tended to deprive the market of any aggressive buying support, but bottom figures of the day came only after the weakness of stocks and cotton at New York had begun to attract more than usual notice here. However, wheat scored a little recovery in the final half hour, pit traders correctly anticipating that the government report after the close would show a decided reduction in the probable acreage of spring wheat this season.

Speculative selling as well as sympathy with wheat weakness had a depressing effect on the corn market. Slowness of eastern shipping demand was also a handicap for friends of higher prices. Orders to purchase on declines helped though to rally the market at the last. Oats were eased by forecasts of better weather for seeding.

Provisions averaged a little higher in response to an upturn in hog values.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 18.—Heavy selling of Dubilier Radio, which broke 4 1-2 and then rallied a point, featured today's reactionary curb market. Selling pressure also continued against other active issues, but they offered stronger resistance, losses being held to a point or so while a few, such as Standard Oils of Indiana and Kentucky, actually showed small gains on the day.

Strong buying support was provided for most of the so-called Standard Oil issues, Vacuum, one of the most active, closing unchanged at 61. Prairie Oil and Gas rallied 2 1-2 points from its low, closing at 235, off 1-2.

In the industrial section, motors lost ground in sympathy with the reaction in that group on the "big board," but they made good recovery towards the close. Ward Baking dropping 1 1-4 points to 15 1-2 while Glen Alden Coal, Haseltine Radio and Cuba company yielded fractionally.

Confused movements took place in the mining group, several of the so-called penny shares showing slight gains.

NORTH STONINGTON

The annual spelling and speaking contest of the grade schools of North Stonington, will be held this year early in April. At the same time it is planned to hold the first mid-year athletic contest. This will include two competitions for the boys and two for the girls.

The boys' contests will be in speed on the chinning bar; the girls in bean bag throwing and balancing bar.

One of the grade school activities this year has been the issuing of a school journal each month. This issue is limited to one copy, but this is circulated in the homes and gives parents and friends an interesting idea of what the pupils are accomplishing. The issues contain notes on local and school news, papers on geography, civics, history, and anecdotes and short stories prepared by the pupils. Drawings, maps, and cutwork illustrate the text and lend interest to the paper.

The schools have again been invited to enter the Connecticut Humane society's poster contest. It is being urged that every school in the town will participate. Last year several local contestants won favorable notice.

The state supervisor's report for the fall term stated that the attendance for that period was 91 per cent, a most creditable and encouraging record. The school making the highest record was Clark's Falls; the Center grammar stood second and Miner third.

On the other hand there was a deplorable number of cases of tardiness, only one school, Hewitts, having a clean record. Pendleton Hill had but two cases, Clark's Falls 4, the Center grammar 5, and Laurel Glen 9. In the other schools the record leaves much to be desired. This is not altogether the fault of the children, but a condition which might be greatly improved if parents would co-operate with the teachers by starting the children for school on time and insisting that they go directly and without loitering by the way.

The exact figures for the twelve town schools for the term show a registration of 214 pupils; attendance 190; per cent of attendance 91; cases of tardiness 293; visitors to the schools 63.

The morning service at the Congregational church Sunday was in observance of the settlement of the present pastor, Rev. C. D. Fisher.

Funeral services for Gadford W. Apes were conducted in the Congregational church Thursday afternoon by Rev. C. D. Fisher. Burial was in the Old Plain cemetery. "Gad," as he was familiarly called by everybody had long been a familiar figure on the village streets. He was courteous and obliging and had the good will of all.

H. Clinton Eccleston, who had seemed to be gaining from the illness with which he was stricken two weeks ago suffered a relapse Monday experiencing a second shock.

Elmer E. Maine is to move from the north end of the village to the house on the west street formerly occupied by Grover C. Brown.

The community prayer meeting is to be held this (Wednesday) evening at the residence of Rev. Lucian Drury.

Rev. Stanley Ross Fisher arrived at his home in Wellesley, Mass., last week after a six weeks' vacation in London. His return voyage was a stormy passage, but made safely.

Mrs. A. B. Maine of Norwich called on friends in the village Saturday.

TRAFFIC OFFICER TELLS INTIMATE DETAILS

Officer Hinkle Says It's Easy to Smile When One's Health Is Good — Gives Tanlac Credit for Recovery

Few cities can boast of a more wide-awake and efficient traffic officer than Clarence D. Hinkle, 4845 Fleming St., Philadelphia, Pa., who has been a member of the Philadelphia Police Department for ten years and who handles the traffic at Fourth and Market Streets, one of the city's busiest corners.

"It is no easy thing," said Officer Hinkle, recently, "to serve the public with a smile when you are suffering the pangs of indigestion as I have done during the past year. Not only that, my appetite was lagging, I had frequent spells of nervousness and couldn't sleep right, and it kept me on my P's and Q's to look after my duties around the traffic zone.

"But since I have taken Tanlac my stomach and nerves are strong and normal and I eat, sleep and feel so good that my work is a genuine pleasure."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

TAFTVILLE

The death of Mrs. Josephine Trudeau Reeves, wife of John Reeves occurred Monday afternoon at her home on Providence street, after a short illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Reeves was born in St. Cesaire, Canada, 78 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trudeau. When a young woman she was united in marriage with John Reeves, and for many years has been a valued member of the community. She is survived by her husband, three children, Alexander E. Reeves of Portland, Maine, Mrs. Hugh Kinder of Norwich, and Miss Corinne Reeves who resides at home. Mrs. Reeves was the type of woman who held the friendship of all with whom she came in contact. She was a devoted member of the Sacred Heart church, and her loss will be keenly felt among her wide circle of acquaintances.

A Workers Conference has been called for Thursday evening at the Taftville Congregational church.

Mrs. Robert Healey of North Adams, Mass., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Holland of 75 Norwich avenue, for a few weeks.

William Mulholland has completed the repairs on the house which Wilfred Bibeau recently purchased on North Main street. Mr. Bibeau has moved from his former home on Hunters avenue to his new house.

WHAT THE MILLINERS SHOW IN HANDSOME SPRING HATS

This season's hats are unusally pretty and becoming.

That fact was demonstrated Tuesday, during the formal openings, when there was keen interest in the models representing the advance lines of the season's styles.

Likewise there are many novelties in material, trimming, shapes and ornaments.

New tints which bid for favor are certain to be liked. Citron is one of these, almond is another. Combinations are liked—navy blue and crabapple, almond and tangerine, etc.

Ribbon hats developed in wide belting ribbon, are in high favor, also the sectional crown models, still well liked.

Lace is going to be much used. A black hair hat, shown Tuesday, was trimmed with black shadow lace and was exceedingly elegant. A long rhinestone ornament completed the trimming.

A smart Milan hat had for trimming modish burnt peacock.

Tan and sand shades are good and Kelly green is the tint of many handsome designs. Tangerine continues a popular tint.

Flowers, braiding, butterfly bows, touches of metallic cloth, natty sports models, there is something in stock to meet every need.

See these smart hats, offered today by The Bulletin's advertisers.

HARTFORD REVENUE OFFICE BURIED WITH MAIL

The rush at the internal revenue office at Hartford is by no means over. Monday several late comers appeared to pay their income taxes. Although they were turned away in spite of their hard luck story, they interfered with the staff who were busy tackling some eight sacks of mail which came in at the last minute. Major Appleton of the revenue department has congratulated the staff of officials and clerks for the efficiency they have shown during the busy period of the past few days and nights. Some thirty thousand people presented themselves Saturday.

On last Saturday alone $2,761,367.17 was deposited by the department. The total amount deposited for the month of March, including last Saturday, was $5,469,971.01. The eight sacks of mail which have just come into the office exceed the mail received on any day last week and will add thousands to the total revenue.

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL RADIO FASHION TALK

The Porteous & Mitchell company, through Paul A. Brown, manager of their garment department, will broadcast a fashion talk entitled "New Frocks for the Business Woman" from WGY radio station, Schenectady, N. Y., at 2 p. m., Friday.

Truck Hit Coupe

A small coupe driven by Theodore Kundig, who rooms at the Y. M. C. A. had its running board broken and a dent put in the door when it was hit in Washington square about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning by a truck driven by Lewis W. Bromley of 89 Machanic street.

Right To Operate Suspended

The police department has been notified by the state motor vehicle department that the right to operate has been suspended in the cases of Walter Dixon of 157 Hickory street and of Charles West of 330 West Thames street.

SON RECEIVES COMPENSATION FOR DEATH OF WATCHMAN SHUGRUE

In the workman's compensation claim over the death of Michael F. Shugrue, watchman at the Norwich mill of the American Woolen Co., Commissioner J. J. Donohue has approved a stipulation between the parties and made the finding that payments shall be made to Frank J. Shugrue, son of the deceased, who is a student at a Baltimore dental college.

It is found that the late Michael F. Shugrue, whose death occurred Jan. 27, 1924, after he had been found unconscious and badly injured at the mill on Dec. 29, 1923, had contributed regularly to his son's support and expenses at college and this son is the only dependent. Two other sons, who are both over 21 years old, have relinquished all claim to compensation.

The insurer for the Woolen company is to pay forthwith to the dependent son $871 on account of the death and $53.60 for disability compensation previous to the death, besides assuming the payment of $100 toward funeral and medical expenses.

The following compensation agreements have been approved by the commissioner:

Merritt-Chapman & Scott corporation, New London, employer, and George A. Damon, New London, employe, contusion of right foot and leg, at rate of $11.87.

American Woolen Co., Yantic mill, employer, and Arthur Rogers, employe, denudation of area of left arm and forearm, 52 weeks at $10.03 for 25 per cent. loss of use of left arm.

TO STATE HOSPITAL FOR OBSERVATION PERIOD

Morris Warren, 20, who lives on Maple street, and was arrested Monday afternoon by Officer Smith near the spring house in Mohegan park, was in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of indecent exposure and was sent by Judge A. F. Libby to the Norwich State hospital for 30 days for observation. The young man was before the court in August, 1921, on a similar charge to that made against him Tuesday.

Two men were each fined $5 and costs for intoxication and went to jail to work out $15.75. Another paid a fine of $5 and costs, $14.50 in all, for intoxication, and $15.50 was paid by a man when he was fined $5 and costs for breach of peace.

Charles Pallocha was fined $15 and costs for operating an automobile without a driver's license. He paid $25.50. It was stated to the court that Pallocha had been presented on a similar charge some time ago but was discharged that time on the ground that he did not know the Connecticut laws, having come here from New Jersey. In that state, the motor vehicle operator gets only one card which covers both the registration and operator's license, and Pallocha claimed he believed he had complied with the law when he got his Connecticut registration numbers. His summons to court followed a collision early Tuesday morning at the Laurel Hill bridge with a machine driven by William P. Riordan of 16 Laurel Hill avenue in which the Riordan machine had a rear wheel taken off and the Pallocha machine had a steering rod broken.

TAFTVILLE PASTOR SPEAKS ON PROFIT AND LOSS

At the Norwich Belt company factory, Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis of Taftville, spoke to the men at noon Tuesday, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and on the idea of profit and loss.

"What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Mr. Crowdis said we are likely to associate this question with men who make money or secure material success. The men who in the light of this prosperity forget the higher things.

The possibility of this condemnation coming into our more common experience is easily overlooked—but the big things of the spirit call us all—the workman as well as the Master, and ours is a responsibility that our Lord shows us as individual and personal no matter what our station may be.

Honest religion and service we all need and even while busy with the present we can also build into the higher and the permanent the things that remain when we are forced from the stage. An honest and sensible grasp of life includes the deeper and lasting truths and as we see and accept the best we know the meaning of this wonderful teaching of Jesus as he shows where true value and permanent reality may be found.

COAL BARGE AGROUND COMING INTO HARBOR

A coal barge carrying 1,000 tons of anthracite for the John A. Morgan Co. ran aground in the west channel of the Thames river near the Richmond Radiator Co. plant Tuesday afternoon about 3.30 o'clock, but was hauled off by the tug that brought it up the river.

The prevailing westerly wind for a week has made unusually low water in the river all that time so that it has been a risky matter to attempt to bring boats up the stream from New London. The Morgan Co. has just unloaded three boats and has a yard brimming over with coal at the present time.

WILL CHARGE JURY IN TRIAL OF NOTE CASE

Judge C. L. Avery will charge the jury in the superior court at New London this (Wednesday) morning in the trial of the suit of the Springfield Coach Works against Mrs. Mary J. Rogers of New London, endorser on a note for $1,250 which was given Dec. 17, 1921, by Foster & Co., to the plaintiff company.

Attorney P. H. Hankey, counsel for the plaintiff, moved to have a verdict directed for the plaintiff Tuesday in court but this was denied by Judge Avery and evidence for the defense was introduced by Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, counsel for the defendant. Both sides rested and the arguments for both sides were made before court adjourned for the day.

SUES SHETUCKET CO. FOR $8,750 COMMISSION

On a claim for a commission of $8,750 for selling the Shetucket mill property to the Atlantic Carton corporation, George W. Carroll of this city, real estate broker of this city, has brought suit against the Shetucket Co., returnable before the superior court in April.

It is Mr. Carroll's claim that prior to Feb. 4, 1924, the Shetucket Co. employed him to find a customer for the mill property and that he produced the Atlantic Carton Co. as a prospective purchaser. On Feb. 4, 1924, the defendant company and the Atlantic Carton corporation entered into a contract whereby the defendant agreed to sell and the Atlantic Carton Co. agreed to buy the mill property for $175,000. Mr. Carroll claims that the defendant agreed to pay him 5 per cent. of the sale price as a commission but has not done so. Attachments have been made in the suit on five tracts of land in Greeneville, one on Prospect street and the others on Central avenue, North Main, Second and Third streets, with the buildings standing on them.

STAFFORD SPRINGS TO GO WITHOUT CITY DELIVERY

Stafford Springs will have to be satisfied with village delivery, according to a letter from Congressmon Freeman to Louis Chafee, Stafford postmaster. The latter stated that the funds appropriated for extending the service have been exhausted, and no funds will be available till voted by the present Congress. A petition requesting city delivery for Stafford has been circulated throughout the town and has been signed by many of the people, as village delivery means only one delivery of the mail in the town each day and no parcel post.

ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT OF FRATERNITY ALUMNI

Robert E. Johnson of this city was elected vice president of the alumni association of Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity located at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, at the alumni meeting following the fourteenth annual banquet of the chapter held last Saturday at Hartford. Mr. Johnson, who graduated from Connecticut Agricultural College in June 1923, received his M. A. degree after a year's post graduate work at Iowa State College. At present he is located at Storrs where he is in charge of all the work in dairy testing conducted by the Experiment Station.

WOMAN SUES MAN FOR ALLEGED BEATING

A suit filed here Tuesday at the office of the clerk of the superior court was that of Nettie Brown, of Norwich a minor, against H. Norman Percy of Norwich for $500 damages for an alleged assault upon her by Percy on West Main street March 6, 1924. It is claimed that Percy struck he several times upon the head and body with his hand and fist, inflicting great pain and nervous shock. The suit is brought through Oliver Brown, guardian ad litem for the plaintiff and a savings bank account has been attached.

POETRY

How All Things Change

I.

The flower that smiles today
Tomorrow dies;
All that we wish to stay
Tempts and then flies.
What is this world's delight?
Lightning that mocks the night
Brief even as bright.

II.

Virtue, how frail it is!
Friendship how rare!
Love, how it sells poor bliss
For proud despair!
But we, though soon they fall,
Survive their joy and all
Which ours we call.

III.

Whilst skies are blue and bright,
Whilst flowers are gay,
Whilst eyes that change ere night
Make glad the day;
Whilst yet the calm hours creep,
Dream thou—and from thy sleep
Then wake to weep.

—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

The Leggards

Scorners of earth, you that have one foot shod
With skyward wings, but are not flying yet,
You that observe no goal or station set
Between your groping and the towers of God
For which you languish, may it not be odd
And avaricious of you to forget
Your toll of an accumulating debt
For duty leagues that you are still to plod?

But many have paid, you say, and paid again;
And having had worse than death are still alive.
Only to pay seven fold, and seven times seven.
They are many; and for cause not always plain,
They are the laggards among them who strive
On earth to raise the golden dust of heaven.

—Edwin Arlington in Yale Review

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Student—I've been fired from better places than this.

Exit Committee—Yes, but never any quicker.—Dartmouth Jack-O'-Lantern.

Porter—Dis am only a quarter, sah.

Mr. Klose—That's all right; when I tip a man, I never do it by "halves."—Boston Transcript.

Mother—And how did you like the circus, Willie?

Willie (sighing)—Well, ma, all I can say is I'm afraid it's practically plumb ruined Sunday School for me.—American Legion Weekly.

He—There she goes in her new car I always envy Lily.

She—Well, I suppose she was called that because, though she doesn't toil much, she certainly does a lot of spinning.—Pennsylvania Register.

Billy: Something happened to me yesterday that will never happen to me again if I live to be a hundred.

George: What was it?

Billy: I was fourteen years old.—Boys' Life.

Hubby—I see that Stoneham, who died the other day, left his wife one-half million. How would you like to be his widow?

Wifey—Now, you know I would rather be yours, dear.—Western Christian Advocate.

"I suppose, Henry," said the old gentleman to his new son-in-law, "that you are aware the check for $50,000 I put among your wedding presents was merely for effect."

"Oh, yes, sir," responded the cheerful Henry. "And the effect was excellent. The bank cashed it this morning without a word."

"Please read me the poem you are reading, mother!" begged a little boy, sweetly.

"But I'm afraid it's too old for you, dear," his mother answered, "I'm afraid you wouldn't be able to understand it."

"Oh, yes, I would," was the calm answer, "so long as you didn't try to explain." — Washington Star.

OIL PROBE NARROWS DOWN TO GOSSIP AND RUMORS

Tiffin Gilmore, Deputy Secretary of State of Ohio, Questioned About Events at the Chicago Convention, Finally Admitted That He Had No First Hand Information—That the Atmosphere Was Surcharged With Gossip—James G. Darden's Testimony Refuted Charges of Collusion.

Washington, March 19.—After lifting the lid of another box of rumors, those having to do with "oil deals" at the Chicago republican convention in 1920, the oil committee turned back today to the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair and the efforts of independents to enforce "claims" there.

The gossip about the Chicago convention was detailed to the senate investigators by Tiffin Gilmore, deputy secretary of state of Ohio, and a supporter of Major General Leonard Wood in the 1920 campaign. He stated frankly that he had no first hand information about the "gossip" with which he asserted the atmosphere at Chicago was "surcharged."

James G. Daren, friend of President Harding a man of varied experience in the world of business and politics, told of vain efforts of himself and associates to establih "right" in the Wyoming Reserve and of conversations, on the subject with President Harding, Secretary Fall and Attorney General Daugherty.

During a long and vigorous cross examination by Senator Walsh of Montana, committee "prosecutor," Darden quoted President Harding as having said "Fall is kind of T. N. T." on the subject of clearing the reserve. Also he flatly denied a statement contained in a letter from Fall to Mr. Harding that Attorney General Daugherty had sent Darden to the interior secretary about the lease.

Describing efforts he had made to obtain a lease in the Salt Creek field, adjoining Teapot Dome, before the interior department in 1920 during the democratic administration, Darden said to Mr. Taylor, who was contesting his claim, came to Washington "with Mr. Wilson," a brother of President Wilson," as his attorney. Secretary Payne recognized his claim in that contest, he added.

In his brief stay on the witness stand, Gilmore told of rumors current at the Chicago convention that oil interests were ready to throw their support to a candidate for a consideration; that an offer had been made to General Wood by the late Jake Hamon, then republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, to support him in his return for his appointment as secretary of the interior; and that General Wood had refused to entertain it and declared that his fight would "be out in the open, on the convention floor."

The only specific statement obtained from Gilmore was that after the convention he had a conversation with Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, O., about some oil lands in the course of which Thompson was quoted by Gilmore as saying "we" needed the latter "now more than ever." Gilmore could not identify the oil land which was t hesubject of the conversation.

A subpoena immediately was issued for Thompson, who was a republican candidate for governor of Ohio in 1923, and now is campaign manager in that state for President Coolidge. He probably will be heard Saturday.

Meantime Senator Walsh plans to have a conference with Leonard Wood, Jr., here tomorrow about his published statement that he had heard Hamon make an offer to his father at upon the information obtained by Chicago. Just how far the committee Senator Walsh at that conference and the testimony of Thompson.

SHARON MAN HELD FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Sharon, March 19.—An autopsy performed this afternoon on the body of Mrs. Joseph Spoth, who died at the Sharon hospital early today as a result of a blow over the head with an iron pipe alleged to have been wielded by her husband following a quarrel in the Spoth home at Pine Villa Park on the Housatonic river here last Monday night, disclosed a lacerated brain as the cause of death, according to Coroner Samuel A. Herman, who with doctors conducted the autopsy.

Coroner Herman will hold an inquest into the death at the town hall in Canaan tomorrow afternoon. A number of witnesses have been summoned.

Spoth, who was arrested by state police after the assault, is being held in Litchfield county jail charged with assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Spoth, who had been separated from her husband and who was living in New York, had returned home recently. A son and married daughter, who live at the villa, told police, they say, that Spoth claimed his wife had been tantalising him.

When state police called by the son following the assault attempted to arrest Spoth, he tried to shoot himself, police say, but was restrained after a struggle for his automatic revolver.

Several years ago Mrs. Spoth sued her husband for divorce alleging cruelty and the case is still pending in the county superior court.

LAST "STICK" OF TYPE SET BY PRESIDENT HARDING

Washington, March 19.—The last "stick" of type set by President Harding was turned over to Frank B. Noyes, president of The Associated Press, today by W. F. Thompson, publisher of the Fairbanks, Alaska, News-Miner.

The type was set by the late President during his visit last July to Fairbanks, where he spent an hour in the composing room of the News-Miner, the farthest north daily paper. Mr. Thompson, in addition to turning over the type to Mr. Noyes, arranged to have it formally presented to The Associated Press at the forthcoming annual meeting in New York by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the publisher member of the Harding cabinet.

BRYAN NOT A CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Omaha, Nebr., March 19.—William Jennings Bryan who announced here today that he was not a candidate for the presidency but was anxious to see a younger men take leadership of the democratic party, added that only in "the very remote contingency that the party cannot find any one else to draft" would he consider entering the presidential race. In that event he said he would consider whether it was his duty.

OBITUARY

John J. Shea.

Ansonia, March 19.—Sergeant John J. Shea, who retired from the United States army a couple of years ago after a service of 30 years, died at his home on Wilter street, this city, early today. He saw service in Cuba and the Philippines and served as a recruiting officer in Virginia during the World war. He was a member of the Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion. A widow and four brothers survive, one brother, Daniel, being a member of the Ansonia police force.

Marion H. Watrous.

East Haddam, March 19.—Marion H. Watrous, town clerk since 1884 and who had missed but one town meeting in forty years, died at his home today following a stroke of apoplexy.

Mr. Watrous was a native of Deep River but had lived here since 1863. He was born in 1848. In 1872 he engaged in the mercantile business and had been in one location for fifty years. He was a justice of the peace for 36 years. Two daughters survive, Mrs. Arthur T. Stewart of New York, and Mrs. E. B. Lowe of Wethersfield.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

American sailors were ordered to Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, where disorders prevail incident to the revolution.

The senate oil committee subpoenaed Harry F. Sinclair, Carmi Thompson of Ohio, and C. D. Washburn, Sinclair's former secretary.

The Daugherty committee held only a brief session, devoted largely to charges that lotteries had not been properly prosecuted.

The senate finance committee rejected a house amendment to the revenue bill on stock profits taxes, retaining the treasury provision.

Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, introduced a new bonus bill in the senate providing life insurance policies payable only at death.

The senate interstate commerce committee reported the Gooding bill proposing drastic amendment of the long and short haul provisions of the interstate commerce act.

SUGGESTING MEASURES TO ELIMINATE LOBBYISTS

Washington, March 19. — Measures for coping with what he described as the "evil machinations" of lobbyists in Washington, including their compulsory resignation with a government agency, were suggested in an address here today by Huston Thompson, member of the federal trade commission.

Speaking before the local society of the sons of the American Revolution, Commissioner Thompson proposed as an effective measure for eliminating the lobbyist the creation of a government bureau of information. In addition to acting as a guide to the public in all matters of administrative activities, such a bureau, he suggested, might issue a current government bulletin, as was done during the war, which besides supplying a record of departmental activities, could be used for the immediate publication of all government contracts.

Thus, he said, the business world would find itself depending less on the lobbyist to keep in touch with government activities as they relate to its interests.

ABATEMENT NOTICES FOR PITTSBURGH SALOON MEN

Pittsburgh, March 19.—The second step in Governor Pinchot's campaign to "dry up" Pittsburgh was taken today when the proprietors of every saloon and cafe in the city, approximately six hundred in number, were served with abatement notices, ordering them to stop the sale of intoxicating liquor and to remove bar fixtures, screens or painted fronts and saloon signs from their establishments. The first step was taken yesterday in a city-wide raid by state police during which 22 saloons were visited and the proprietors and bartenders arrested upon charges of violating the state prohibition law. The third step, according to William F. Hoffman, in charge of the campaign for the state police will be the application to the courts for "padlock" injunctions against those who refuse to comply with the abatement notices.

LIQUOR THROWN OVERBOARD FROM STEAMER OLYMPIC

New York, March 19.—Forty quarts of whiskey and a quantity of beer and ale in excess of the amounts allowed by the United States for medicinal purposes were thrown overboard from the White Star liner Olympic today as the ship neared port to prevent libel action against the vessel as in the case of the British steamer Ordona last week.

The quarters of the crew also were carefully searched and when the ship docked every seaman going ashore was searched to prevent smuggling of either narcotics or liquor.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

To Reduce Membership.

Paris, March 19.—The chamber of deputies today adopted a bill fixing at 584 the number of members of the chamber to be chosen in the coming elections for the next session of parliament. The present chamber has a membership of 626.

MULCAHY RESIGNS FROM IRISH FREE STATE CABINET

Dublin, March 19.—(By The A. P.)—Richard Mulcahy is no longer minister of defense of the Irish Free State. He resigned from the cabinet today of his own volition, although it had been decided by the executive council to advise President Cosgrave to ask for Mulcahy's resignation.

Prior to this, Kevin O'Higgins, minister of home affairs, made the announcement that the executive council disapproved of the raid made by Free State troops on a house in Parnell square where Colonel Joseph Dolan and various other officers were holding a meeting. The troops were seeking Major General Tobin and Colonel Dalton, leaders in the army mutiny, but failed to find them.

Minister O'Higgins explained that this military action cut across an arrangement already made by agreement with Joseph McGrath, minister of industry, commerce and labor, who himself recently resigned because of "muddling" in connection with the national army trouble and later withdrew his resignation.

This action was taken by Mulcahy and members of the army council, said Mr. O'Higgins, without consultation either with the executive council or with General O'Duffy, who had been given supreme authority over every man in uniform. The executive, therefore, decided to call for the resignations of General MacMahon, chief of staff; General O'Sullivan, adjutant general, and General O'Murthille, quartermaster general.

It was decided also to advise the president to ask for Mulcahy's resignation as defense minister, but the ministery personally chose to resign, and a substitute for him will be appointed tomorrow.

Richard Mulcahy was considered one of the strong men in the Irish Free State. He is former commander in chief of the Irish national army and a former chief of staff of the Irish republican army.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT HALTS INTERNAL LOANS

Paris, March 19—The anxiety aroused by reports that funds were no longer forthcoming for reconstruction of the devastated region, moved one of the deputies to ask the government in the chamber today how it intended to continue payments. During the course of the discussion it was stated that the government had recently refused to authorize a certain department to issue a loan of 150,000,000 francs, although many similar loans had been raised previously.

M. Reibel, minister of liberated regions, assured the house there was no cause for uneasiness, but said that the treasury crisis due to the offensive against the franc had prevented the last loan made through the Credit National bank for reconstruction from giving the expected results. It had yielded only 1,500,000,000 francs. The time had not come for another credit national loan, for when the situation cleared one would be issued, with corresponding resources to meet the interest.

DECLARED "LEGALLY DEAD" ON PETITION OF WIFE

Newark, N. J., March 19—Isaac C. Crane, 77 years old of Belleville, who has been declared "legally dead" on petition of his wife, Mrs. Margaret Crane, who said she had not seen him for more than 20 years, today appeared before surrogate Harold Isherwood and obtained an order directed Mrs. Crane to show cause why the origina lorder should not be vacated. Surrogate Isherwood's order is returnable next Wednesday.

Although Crane has lived for the last twenty years within a few miles of his wife, they never met and the aged man did not know he had been declared legally dead, until several weeks ago when a friend told him of reading it in a newspaper. Crane said he left home after an altercation with his wife in which she locked him out.

NOT ALLOWED TO ATTEND FUNERAL OF HER MOTHER

Ossining, N. Y., March 19—The request of Mrs. Anna Buzzi, only woman inmate of the death house at Sing Sing, to attend the funeral of her mother in New York, was denied today by prison officials who said the laws prevented. Mrs. Buzzi has been sentenced to die for the murder of Frederick Schneider, a wealthy Bronx contractor.

Son Of Abraham Lincoln

A new portrait study of Robert Todd Lincoln, only surviving son of the great emancipator, who, at the age of 80, still makes his home in an old and exclusive residential section of Washington. Mr. Lincoln served as Secretary of War under Presidents Garfield and Arthur and was U. S. Minister to Great Britain from 1889 to 1893. He served as president of the Pullman Company from the death of George M. Pullman until 1911, when he resigned and became chairman of the board of directors.

Honduran Rebels Occupy the Capital

Defeated Forces Are in Wild Retreat, Burning Property, Looting and Committing Outrages.

San Salvador, March 19.—(By the A. P.)—Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, and Comayagua, 75 miles to the northeast, have been occupied by the revolutionary forces of General Tiburcio Carias and General Gregorio Ferrera, according to advices received here today.

The towns were occupied after fierce battles which began last Friday. With their fall the last bulwarks of General Juan Agio Arias and General Francisco Bueso, who assumed dictatorial powers in Honduras on the death recently of former President Rafael Lopez Gutierres, have been taken over by the rebels.

The rebel generals, Diaz, Zelaya and Nolasco are pursuing the dictatorial forces, who are reported to be in wild retreat, burning or looting property and committing other outrages.

U. S. COURT OF CLAIMS COMPLIMENTS PACKERS

Washington, March 19.—In its opinion, made public today, awarding judgment of $1,077,000 to Swift and company, Chicago packers, against the government, the United States court of claims took occasion to compliment the packing companies for their war times conduct, and to censor by implication the position taken by government representatives.

The packing company sought to obtain approximately the amount awarded. In payment for costs and expenses incurred in supplying bacon to the army after the armistice, which the war department refused to accept and ordered sold on the open market. The government presented a counter-claim amounting to more than $1,500,000, charging that Swift and company had overcharged it in previous meat sales.

BOYS HAD SCHEME FOR ROBBING MAIL BOXES

Jersey City, N. J., March 19.—Carmine Connetti, fourteen years old, Brooklyn, N. Y., boy, who had failed to appear in juvenile court there yesterday on charges of robbing the mails, was picked up here today on the first stage of what was to have been a trip to Salt Lake City. The boy, arrested on suspicion, was turned over to the postal authorities.

According to the police Connetti admitted that he and his younger brother had worked out a systematic scheme for robbing mail boxes. He carried a chisel and several small checks when arrested.

DESERTING FARMS AND FLOCKING TO CITIES

Chicago, March 19—Since last year, another million people left the farms for the cities, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation reported today, adding that the population has increased during the same time about 3,400,000, which means there are 2,400,000 more persons to feed and a million less producers to do the feeding.

"This condition," the report says, "warrants industrial and commercial leaders doing something definite and concrete to help the farmer get on his feet."

OFFICIALS MAY STOP AND SEARCH AUTOMOBILES

New Haven, March 19.—Federal or police officials may stop and search automobiles without a search warrant if convinced that the law is being violated, according to a decision by Federal Judge E. S. Thomas in the U. S. district court here today.

Declaring that he appreciates the difficulty with which prohibition enforcement agents are confronted by necessity of getting a search warrant for automobiles, Judge Thomas says, "I intend to lay down no set rule that search warrants are necessary in every case."

HONDURAN STEAMER WAS HELD BY REBELS

Mobile, Ala., March 19.—After being held by rebels for several days in Tela, with 1,500 soldier on the ship, the Honduran steamer Ellis, operated by the United Fruit company, arrived in Mobile today. She was seized in Tela when the rebels captured the city and the soldiers placed on her to prevent her escape. Later the vessel sailed to Puerto Castilla, landed the soldiers, and the guard and departed at night to Barrios.

FRENCH AVIATOR REACHED HEIGHT OF ABOUT 12,336 FEET

Paris, March 19.—An official examination of the barographs used in the recent hydroairplane altitude flight of the French aviator, Laporte, in which he carried a load of 250 kilograms (525.5 pounds) shows that he reached a height of 3,760 meters (about 12,336 feet). He thus beat the record made at June by Lieutenant E. B. Brix, U. S. N., who with the same load of 3,307 meters (10,850 feet.)

SOVIET ENVOY IN PEKING ORDERED OUT OF CHINA

London, March 19—The Chinese government has ordered the Soviet envoy in Peking, L. M. Karakhan, out of China, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Peking.

This action was taken, the despatch adds, because M. Karakhan's notes to the Chinese foreign office were insulting, one of them amounting to an ultimatum, giving China three days to recognize the soviet government.

The correspondent says the situation is tense.

McADOO LEADS UNDERWOOD IN GEORGIA PRIMARIES

Atlanta, Ga., March 19.—William Gibbs McAdoo was leading Senator Oscar W. Underwood by a wide margin in the Georgia democratic presidential preference primary, judging by early returns from all sections tonight.

Early reports indicated that McAdoo carried 31 counties with a state party convention vote of 76, to four counties carried by Underwood with a vote of 12.

An investigation is being conducted into the administration of the district office of the Veterans' bureau at San Francisco, in charge of Major Louis T. Grant.

Partisan Fight on Bonus in the Senate

Democrats are in Favor of a Full Cash Payment Option—Smoot Bill Would Cost $5,007,422,442.

Washington, March 19.—As lines formed in the senate today for the fight the soldier bonus bill reported from the house, sentiment indicated the measure would displace the tax reduction bill for immediate consideration in the finance committee.

The paid-up insurance bill passed by the house met with general favor among republicans but democrats were apparently ready to carry on the fight of their group in the house for a full cash payment option. Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, declared in favor of such a proposal.

Although agreed generally on a straight out insurance bill with an option for cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 as provided in the house measure, republicans were split over the form of the insurance provision.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee introduced a bill providing for insurance policies payable only at death and announced he would not support provision for twenty-year endowment policies carrying loan privileges.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, a republican member of the committee, however, has introduced a bill carrying an insurance clause similar to that approved by the house.

The bonus bill probably will be referred to the finance committee tomorrow. Chairman Smoot said today that a motion to have it displace the revenue bill now before the committee would be in order. Although no formal movement to bring about such action has been initiated several committee members expressed the belief today that the bonus bill would be given priority.

Mr. Smoot himself said the committee "did not know exactly" how much revenue was going to be needed before taking final action on the revenue bill and therefore it might be well to dispose first of the bonus bill.

The cost of the bill introduced by Mr. Smoot was estimated at $5,007,422,442 of which $16,000,000 would be used in immediate payments to those entitled to $50 or less. Mr. Smoot explained that the cost calculation was as nearly accurate as possible, being based on the American experience tables of mortality. The total cost would be spread over 66 years, this being the presumptive period before the death of all veterans insured. The total cost of the house bill was estimated at $2,119,000,000.

The cost of the insurance under the Smoot bill would be about $42,474,669 in the first year. It was estimated the figure gradually increasing each year to a maximum of $147,585,360 in 23 years, after which it should sharply recede. The cost was estimated on the basis that 4,068,199 veterans would be eligible for the bonus.

As in the house bill adjusted compensation on the basis of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for over seas service, exclusive of the first sixty days and with maximums of $500 and $625 respectively, would be allowed.

Twenty-five per cent of the total of adjusted compensation would be added and the insurance given would be the amount this total credit would buy at 4.12 per cent interest compounded annually. As the house bill allowed only four per cent interest the Smoot bill would allow slightly larger amounts.

The face value of the policy would be about 3.015 times the amount of adjusted compensation and credit due. Mr. Smoot said whereas the value of policies voted by the house would be about 2.517 times the amount of such credit.

Mr. Smoot emphasized that his chief objection to the house measure was its loan feature.

"In a few years," he said, "we would see those policies in the hands of the loan sharks, whereas, under this new provision the government would be able to adequate take care of dependents of those men who fought for it."

WILBUR SWORN IN AS SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

San Francisco, March 19. — Chief Justice Curtis D. Wilbur of the state supreme court was sworn in today as secretary of the navy, the ceremony taking place in the court room of the tribunal in the new state building here.

Secretary Wilbur made an address in which he said:

"The place in which statements concerning the future of the navy should be made in Washington, and the time is after consultation with the president and those now in charge of the navy department.

"I can say that I intend to devote myself as diligently and faithfully to the tasks assigned to me in the future as I have done in the past."

APPOINTMENTS OF REVENUE DEPUTIES MADE ON MERIT

Commissioner David Blair so Informs Special Senate Committee Appointed to Investigate the Bureau—Mr. Blair Maintains the Bureau Has Been Operated "Economically, Effeciently, Fairly and Honestly"—Declares It is Unreasonable to Assume That Among Over 20,000 Employes There Would Not Be Some Instances of Fraud, Collusion or Other Illegal Practices.

Washington, March 19—Publicity for contested income tax cases as a means of preventing charges of graft in tax settlements in the internal revenue bureau came in for general discussion today before the special senate committee appointed to investigate the bureau. Commissioner David Blair and his deputy commissioners participated in the round-table discussion which followed a suggestion by Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, to this effect.

The only other witness called today was J. Frank Drake, of Pittsburgh, who explained that he had acted as confidential man for Secretary Mellon in examining into qualifications of men who were to be appointed to the bureau. The name of Elmer Dover, former assistant secretary under Mr. Mellon in the treasury department was injected into proceedings by Senator King, democrat, Utah. Colonel Drake said he had nothing to do with that appointment.

Mr. Blair, questioned later as to the advisability of making the 4,000 deputy collectors of his bureau subject to civil service rules, withheld judgment, although admitting that political pressure had been heavy on him at times. Replying to Senator King, he said that he had made his appointments on merit or strictly on recommendation of the collectors, in the case of deputies, except in a few cases in Washington where he had yielded to Mr. Dover's desires.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, instigator of the investigation, did not pursue the question of graft charges against the bureau today, indicating that witnesses summoned from other cities, who will be heard tomorrow, might deal with that phase of the inuiry. Mr. Drake said he had no knowledge on the subject and in a voluminous report submitted by Commissioner Blair, it was asserted that the bureau had been operated "economically, efficiently, fairly and honestly."

Senator King asked at one point of the custom of former bureau employes of coming back to practice in tax matters before the bureau and on the strength of supposed influence within the bureau did not amount to a "scandal." Mr. Blair would not concede the point, but submitted a list of 27,000 names of those admitted to practice, also a list of those disbarred for various reasons. In connection with former employes his report said:

"Most of this criticism is unjustified because there is nothing in law or regulations to prevent a former employe from practicing before the department merely because he has been connected with the government service."

Experience showed that such persons had frequently been "helpful to the government" the report said, while instances where these individuals had made improper use of knowledge of particular tax cases gained in the bureau were "rare."

"It is unreasonable to assume," Mr. Blair said, "in a service of over 20,000 employes there would not be some instances of fraud, collusion or other illegal practices in spite of the most careful selection of personnel."

DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION TAME AFFAIR YESTERDAY

Washington, March 19.—In comparison with its usual whirlwind sessions, the Daugherty investigating committee had a prosy time today. Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, was absent with a cold, and Paul Howland, chief of counsel for the attorney-general, improved the opportunity to bring out some testimony favorable to him.

Tex Rickard, the prize fight promoter, is summoned as tomorrow's witness to tell what he knows about the alleged "deal" whereby the Carpentier-Dempsey fight films were shown in 1922 with guarantees of no prosecutions. Senator Wheeler is expected back and the investigation probably will return to high gear.

Mr. Howland didn't care to cross-examine William A. Orr, former secretary of Governor Whitman, who has been testifying about the fight film "deal" and also "whiskey" deals and the committee let Orr go subject to recall.

Today's witnesses were Maco Stewart, a Galveston, Texas lawyer, who contends the department of justice time had been remiss in prosecuting alleged lottery schemes, and Thomas D. Dawkins, a Texas post office inspector, called in connection with previous testimony by Captain Baldwin of the Texas rangers.

During today's lull the committee examined a sheaf of telegrams subpoenaed from Texas. Among them were said to be messages sent and received by former Secretary Fall, Edward L. Doheny, H. F. Sinclair, and Gus T. Jones, a federal officer formerly attached to the Fall committee which investigated Mexican conditions a few years ago. William J. Burns, chief of the department of justice bureau of investigation, aided in decoding them.

COOLIDGE OUT IN FRONT IN NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARY

Fargo, N. D., March 19—President Coolidge tonight was holding his lead in returns from the republican presidential contest in Tuesday's North Dakota primary but Robert M. LaFollette was threatening the second place position of Senator Hiram Johnson.

While the president held his lead of more than 14000 votes when 1162 of the states 1455 precincts had reported, Senator LaFollette had gained to within 300 votes of the California senator, the count standing:

Coolidge 35,660.
Johnson 21,526.
LaFollette 21,238.

VESTRY HAS DESIDED TO DEFY BISHOP MANNING

New York, March 19—The vestry of the Episcopal church of St. Marks-in-the-Bouwerie decided tonight after a three hours' meeting to defy Bishop William T. Manning and uphold their rector, Rev. Dr. William Normand Guthrie in the holding of eurythmic dances, the so-called pagan ritual, which he has introduced into church festivities.

The vestry also voted, it was understood, to notify Bishop Manning of its action and to announce next Sunday that the "Dance of the Annunciation" will be given in the church soon.

PROGRESS ON REPORT OF REPARATION EXPERTS

Paris, March 19—(By the A. P.)—About two thirds of the report of the reparation experts has now been drafted, it was said at reparation headquarters tonight the text so far as drawn up will be distributed tomorrow to the members of both the first and second committees.

The second committee under the chairmanship of Reginald McKenna has almost finished its task, having held two sessions today in the course of which a final estimate was virtually agreed upon as to the amount of German money that leaked out of the country.

Dr. Hjalmar Schact, president of the Reichsbank again conferred with the subcommittee on finance this morning concerning points remaining to be fixed in connection with the proposed new German issue bank.

Though there remain only a few points to be cleared up the experts are finding the work of preparing the report far greater than was anticipated hence they have decided to go ahead considering that part of the proposed text already on paper while continuing to work on the few questions that remain to be decided.

THERE ARE NO ARMENIAN REFUGEES IN TURKEY

Geneva, March 19—Ismet Pasha, Turkish premier and foreign minister, has informed the league of nations officially that there are no longer any Armenian refugees in Turkey; hence this country is not interested in the projected league conference for the arrangement of an identity certificate system for the Armenians as a people without a country.

At the same time Ismet transmitted a copy of an address made recently by the president of the national assembly, saying that Turkey applied for admission to the league after application of the Lausanne treaty.

Fifty republican electors assembled in a town caucus here Wednesday and elected delegates to the republican state convention and congressional district convention, which will be held in Hartford April 2 and 3 as well as electing a town committee for the ensuing two year. The caucus was called to order at 8.15 by Ex-Mayor Charles A. Gates, chairman of the Windham Town committee. The session was a most harmonious one; there were several women in attendance. Walter R. King was elected moderator and William S. Congdon, clerk. The election of the delegates was unanimous in each case. Raymond F. Jutes was the first choice, his name being presented by F. Louis Hall. Joseph M. Berard's name was presented by A. Linn Weatherhead and approval followed. The third delegate is William F. Maine, his name was presented to the caucus by Nelson A. Daniel. A. Linn Weatherhead was chosen as the fourth and final delegate. Raymond A. Parker made the nomination. According to a resolution introduced by Ex-Mayor Gates which was unanimously adopted the chair appointed a nominating committee of eight, two from each district, for the purpose of naming a town committee for the ensuing two years. A recess was held, following which the nominating committee brought in its report which was accepted. Charles A. Gates was re-elected general chairman of the committee, Mrs. Annie S. Dawson is vice chairman. The membership of the committee comprises both men and women. The town committee was authorized to fill any vacancies to the delegation to the convention and to make any corrections or additions in its own membership if it seemed necessary. Adjournment was taken at 8.35 o'clock.

The annual Old Folks' Concert, one of the leading yearly events of its kind in this city was staged before a capacity audience Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Methodist church. The concert was the fourteenth annual affair and in the opinion of those present outclassed its predecessors in every way. Colonial period costumes were worn by the artists, the colors appearing in a splendid array on the stage.

The concert was under the auspices of the X L choir of the church and under the direction of Edwin F. Cross, the baton swinger for the affair for the past ten years. Music was by Osterhoudt's orchestra.

An added attraction was the double quartet of the Baltic Methodist church, consisting of members of the Men's club. They were Joshua Heap, A. Bailey, Albert Hilton, Percy Colline, Otto Forenel, Samuel Stafford, Wilfred Houghton and William Ridgeway. New soloists included Dr. E. H. Kingsbury and Randall Stewart. The Imperial quartet also was a feature of the evening.

Charles B. Jordan of this city was one of the big hits of the evening he appearing in several selections rendered in a fine tenor voice.

The march of the Old Folks' Troupe started at 8 o'clock and led from the vestry to the platform. The troupe was led by Te Deminic, Parson A. Stanley Muirhead, arrayed in the spiritual robes of a Scotch clergyman in the days of old. Director Edwin Cross and Miss Charles M. Beebe were next in line.

United States Immigration Inspector William M. Clark of Providence, R. I., came to this city at noon Wednesday and placed Arsene Arvisais of No. 32 Quercus avenue under arrest on a charge of violation of the immigration laws. Arvisais was given a hearing by Inspector Clark for not having passed in his examination at Montreal, Canada, on May 17th, 1923, in regard to his qualifications to come to the United States. On May 20 he came to this city with his family. When examined Arvisais could neither read or write. The accused admitted the charge but said that he wanted to live in this country. He was placed under a bond of $500 and was released pending action on a report that Inspector Clark will send to Washington which will be acted upon by the department of labor.

Arvisais is at the head of a family of six children and formerly lived in Louisville, P. Q., Canada. He said that he wanted to come to this country and failing to pass the required examination he secured an automobile two weeks later and came over the border at night in a section that was not being patrolled by custom officers.

According to the immigration inspector the Arvisais family was progressive, having a large weekly income, including the earnings of the head of the family and those of his children. When Arvisais was told that he would have to furnish a bond, preferably a Liberty Loan bond, he brought along his bank book and bought a $500 coupon which was taken over by the inspector.
